Wants Single Telegraphic System In U.S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20 (AP)—A proposal of Western Union Telegraph Company that the United States establish a single telegraph system both for domestic and international operations was made public Wednesday.

W. P. Marshall, president of the company, said in a letter to Senator Ernest McFarland (Dem. Ariz.) that Western Union is prepared on the enactment of necessary legislation and other steps to:

1. Purchase the telegraph business of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and other telephone systems.

2. Offer to buy the international telegraph facilities of the American Cable and Radio Corporation, the RCA Communications, Incorporated, and any other international telegraph carrier operating in the United States.

3. Develop with the national defence establishment an integrated system of domestic communications.

Marshall's letter was made public by McFarland, chairman of a Senate interstate commerce subcommittee which has been making a lengthy study of communications problems.

In outlining his proposals, Marshall said the time long since has passed when competing companies within the three fields of rapid communication—telegraph, voice and air mail—"have any economic desirability."

He said Western Union, operating at a loss, is "at a critical point in its history" and can not continue to spend "vast sums in technological improvement of its art" under present competitive handicaps.

Constable Dies

TORONTO, Oct. 20 (CP) — Constable John Gaw, 46, placed on the police department's sick list last year after he was severely injured when beaten up by four men, died Wednesday. His attackers were later arrested and given prison and reformatory sentences ranging up to two years.

Can Increase Niagara Power

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20 (AP)—The Federal Power Commission said Wednesday United States generation of hydro-electric power at Niagara Falls could be increased to 11,600,000,000 kilowatt-hours.

American diversion of water now provides 3,700,000,000 kilowatt-hours.

The commission's estimate of the possible increased yield obtainable from the giant cataract was contained in a report prepared by the FPC's bureau of power.

"Present facilities at Niagara Falls (in the United States);" the report said, "do not develop fully the existing diversions of water and, as a result, there is a continuing waste of a great and magnificent natural resource."

Including temporary additional diversions, water now used at the Falls for power purposes approximates 32,500 cubic feet a second by the United States and 54,000 cubic feet a second by Canada.

A substantial amount of the power now generated by Canada is however, transmitted to the United States.

The United States and Canada both recognize, the report said, that there is a need for "remedial" power works to "insure the best use of the (water) diversions for power purposes and to protect the scenic beauty of the falls."

Made No Income Did Not Return Tax Forms; Fined

The fact that a company is not earning taxable income does not exempt the officials from their obligation to make income tax returns when required by the authorities to do so, Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, declared ... in police court today. That was his reply to Harvey Strub, vice president of Canadian Aircraft and Auto Company Limited, when Mr. Strub pleaded not guilty on behalf of the company to a charge of failing to make an income tax return.

The company was not operating and there was no staff to deal with such matters, Mr. Strub said. It was merely an oversight that no reply had been sent to the tax office's demand. He said the company was not making a taxable income.

Explaining that he could do nothing else but find the company guilty, the magistrate imposed the minimum fine of $25 and $2.50 costs.

Peterborough Workingmen's Building and Savings Society was also fined $25 with $2.50 costs for a similar offence, to which James Dunn, defence counsel, pleaded guilty on behalf of the society.

When there was no response to a similar charge read by the magistrate against Warminster Dairy Co. Ltd., the summons was deemed not served and ordered to be served personally.

Truck Hits Car

Fog early today is believed to have been a contributory cause of at least one accident.

The car of Harry Fitzgerald of Smith Twp. received about $100 damage when struck in the rear by a truck driven by Mel Wood of Keene. Fitzgerald had just pulled out of a driveway, a mile east of city, to Highway 7 to go in a westerly direction when the collision occurred with the westbound truck.

Superficial damage was caused to the truck.

Provincial Constable G. E. Henderson investigated.

Ordered To Stay Away From Sister's Home

Pleading guilty today in city police court to assaulting his sister, Mrs. Etta Martin, 263 Townsend St., Peter Nicholson was placed on suspended sentence. Terms of the one-year bond were that Mr. Nicholson is to stay away from his sister's home.

Obituary

MRS. ALICE STALKER

Mrs. Alice Stalker, 75, of RR 4, Peterborough, died on Wednesday in hospital following a short illness. She was born in Dunsford, Ont., daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James McCallum, and before coming to this district 37 years ago, lived in Huntsville. Her husband, William Stalker, died in 1927 and a son, Alfred, also predeceased her in 1934.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. S. W. Widdis (Daisy) of Detroit and Mrs. L. Whittington (Viola) of RR 3, Peterborough. There are four sons, Roy of Houston, Texas; Garnet of Brantford; John and Gordon, both of RR 4, Peterborough. There are also two sisters, Mrs. Robert Steele of Dunsford and Mrs. C. M. Moncur of this city, and three brothers, Joseph McCallum of Lindsay, Archie and Sam north of Bobcaygeon. Mrs. Stalker was a member of St. John's Anglican Church.

Funeral service will be held at the Comstock Funeral Home on Friday at 3:30 p.m. The Rev. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson will officiate and burial will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

Hugh Henry Clancy Buried In St. Peter's

Funeral of the late Hugh Henry (Harry) Clancy, 66, of 229 Princess St., was held from his residence to the Sacred Heart church on Wednesday morning. The Right Rev. Msgr. J. J. O'Brien said Requiem Mass and pallbearers were Thomas Fitzgerald, Lloyd May, Cletus Sullivan, Frank Heffernan, William Fitzgerad and George Carey. Graveside service was conducted by the Rev. G. F. Sullivan and burial was at St. Peter's cemetery.

Mr. Clancy died on Monday at his home following a lengthy illness. He was born in Otonabee township, son of the late William Clancy and Elizabeth Reid, and had lived in this city for the past 40 years. Before his illness he was employed by the Outboard Marine Company.

Gale Warnings Remain Flying

HALIFAX, Oct. 20—(CP) — Gale warnings remained up in most Maritime marine areas today as an erratic Atlantic hurricane shifted course once again and headed westward.

The weather office said this would cause winds to increase to gale force in the Bay of Funday, where the warnings were lowered Wednesday as the hurricane moved north-northeast past Sable Island, 100 miles due east of here.

Gusts as high as 60 miles an hour near the storm centre were expected and winds of 45 miles an hour were likely in some shore areas.

The storm itself was becoming less intense but the gales were beginning to cover a larger area. Halifax got a heavy dose of rain Wednesday but winds were moderate.

No ships were reported in distress and most small craft had taken shelter.

Was Rundown; Suffered Stomach Gas; Indigestion

Had Bloated Feeling, Sour Stomach, Acidity After His Meals. Back Ached, Very Nervous, Tells How Syntona Helped Him.

MR. WILLIAM ADDISON

Many local men and women who were formerly rundown and suffered with stomach disorders, constipation, backache, nervousness and rheumatic aches and pains say they never had anything to help them the way Syntona did. Such is the experience of Mr. William Addison, 149 Britannia Avenue, Hamilton, Ontario, who said in a recent report:

"I was rundown extremely tired all the time and sick to my stomach after every meal. Even the lightest foods soured in my stomach, gave me acid risings, cramps and heartburn. My back ached badly and rheumatic pains set in my limbs. Joints and muscles. Many days I ached all over. I was very nervous, couldn't get my proper sleep at night and I was subject to throbbing headaches.

"I had often seen Syntona advertised, but only recently made up my mind to try it. Now I am sorry I didn't get it before.

"Since I've been taking this medicine, my food is digesting well for the first time in months. Have no gas, indigestion or sour acid risings. The aches and pains are practically all gone away and my nerves are calmed down so I get restful sleep at night. As a result I have far more energy and can do my work without tiring as I did before."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. Find out how it can help you, too.—(Advt.)

Denied Drinking Court Convicts

Oscar Spinks and Robert McCutcheon, Havelock, arrested in the village Wednesday evening by Chief Constable B. Bell, each pleaded not guilty in city police court today to liquor offences.

McCutcheon asked for an adjournment and was remanded until Wednesday with bail set at $200, after denying that he had been drunk. Spinks, who was charged with drinking while on the interdicted list, was convicted and fined $10 with $2.50 costs or 10 days in jail.

The constable said he found both men drunk in a car at Havelock and produced one full and one empty wine bottle, which he said had been in the car.

Spinks said he was not drunk and "never had a drink at all." Mr. and Mrs. W. Martin, Peterborough, and Mr. McCutcheon all gave evidence of Spink's sobriety when he left the city for Havelock.

The magistrate ruled that he could not neglect the evidence of the constanble and found Spinks guilty. Constable Bell said that Spinks had told him "if you're a man you'll give me a break." This was denied by Spinks.

Hold Funeral Service For Harvey Starr

Funeral service for the late Harvey Starr, 52, of 661 Water St., was held on Wednesday at the Belleghem Funeral Home. The Rev. Archdeacon C. W. Balfour of St. John's Anglican church officiated and honorary pallbearers were Berney McCurrie, J. Cavanaugh, J. Cranfield, F. Crough, W. Donohue, and E. Stoneburg, all members of the Cosmopolitan Club. Active pallbears were Thomas Monk, Leo and Joseph Guerin, Melville Killingbeck, Roland Brown and William Stanbury. Burial was at Little Lake cemetery.

Mr. Starr died suddenly at his residence on Monday. He was born at Burk's Falls, Ont., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Starr. His wife was the former Amy Fox.

A member of the Cosmopolitan Club and St. John's Anglican church, he had lived in Peterborough for the past 22 years, where he had been employed as stationary engineer at the Martin Hewitt Company. He was also a veteran of the First World War with four years' service. Before coming to Peterborough Mr. Starr lived in Timmins.

Young Violinists To Give Concert

Two prominent young violinists who caused a sensation when they played in Toronto earlier this year, will play to an audience of children in the Public Library auditorium Saturday afternoon. The youngsters are Andrea and Florence Hansen, aged 10 and 14, who won the highest marks ever awarded by Adjudicator G. D. Atkinson in the under 16 class at Brantford music festival this year, for their performance of Bach's Double Violin Concerto.

Saturday's recital is sponsored by the Peterborough branch of the Ontario Musin Teachers' Association. The program includes works by Bach, Tartini, Corelli, and Bruch.

Since Andrea was three and Florence six, the sisters have studied music, carrying out a stiff schedule which starts at 6:30 am. every day for more than an hour's practice before school and continuing in the evening after school. They are now studying at the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto.

60 Librarians Discuss Child's Use Of Library

Children's librarians from all parts of Ontario are meeting in Peterborough today for the autumn meeting of the Ontario Library Association (children's librarians section). Some 60 librarians whose work is devoted to encouraging interest in books among the youngsters throughout the province, are guests of the city's Public Library staff.

They were welcomed Wednesday by William L. Graff chief librarian, and the day's program, which include discussion recitation of stories, a visit to the branch library at Park Street S., and lunch at the South Beach Hotel, Clear Lake, has been planned by Miss Lilian Wesley, the children's librarian in Peterborough Chairman of the meeting is Miss Winifred Davis of Toronto. After a business meeting in the morning children's stories were told by Mrs R. H. Perry of St. Catharines, Miss Alice Kane, Toronto, and Miss Janet Murray, York Township.

A panel discussion on the value of school visits to the library was the main feature session. Miss Sheila Egoff, Toronto, was chairman, and members of the panel were Miss Sara Kingston, Ottawa, Miss Janet Clarkson, Hamilton, Miss Blanche Flumerfelt, York Township Schools, Miss Irene Boes, Oshawa, Miss Helen Armstrong, Toronto, Miss Reata Vansickle, St. Catharines

Churchill Claims United States Not Ambitious

BRISTOL, Oct. 19 (Reuters)—Winston Churchill said today that no power has shown itself "more devoid of selfish ambition than the United States."

The former Prime Minister, acting as Chancellor of Bristol University was conferring an honorary doctorate of laws degree on Lewis Douglas, United States Ambassador in Britain and former principal and vice-chancellor of McGill University, of Montreal.

"Of all the countries that have risen to world eminence and worldpower none had shown itself more devoid of selfish ambition or animated by a more whole-hearted resolve to serve the great forces of mankind, than the United States," Churchill said.

Turning to the international situation Churchill said: "We must not despair. But we must be ready to give all we can to maintain the honor of our country."

Union Stops Work At GM Till Monday

3,500 UAW Members At Mass Meeting Held In Oshawa Rink

OSHAWA, Oct. 21 — (CP) — Local 222 of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) today called a work stoppage at General Motors plant and summoned its more than 3,500 members to a mass meeting this afternoon.

The union blamed "the refusal of top management to meet . . . the union committee" and said it was the first time in its history such a meeting was refused.

The stoppage began at noon EDT and the men were to remain away from work until Monday morning.

In a statement, the union said that on Oct. 18 it had submitted to two top company officials—W. A. Wecker, president and general manager, and J. B. Highfield, general manager of manufacturing—a letter asking for a conference to discuss four major issues. The statement did not say what the issues were and the union declined to make them public until after this afternoon's mass meeting at the Oshawa Rink.

Refuse To Meet Committee

The union said that Mr. Wecker and Mr. Highfield declined to meet the union bargaining committee personally but wanted the conference to be held with junior management officials. The work stoppage will cut off production this afternoon and Saturday morning. The plant closes at noon Saturday and resumes operations Monday morning. It works a single day shift.

Second Escape On Prison Farm

SUDBURY, Oct. 21 (CP) — Adolphus Thompson, imprisoned at the Burwash Industrial Farm since he was recaptured by two employees of the North Bay Daily Nugget following a break from North Bay district jail, in August escaped two days ago while on a working gang at the prison farm.

Gerald Wright, superintendent of the farm, said district police departments had been informed of Thompson's escape and that the usual search of the surrounding area is being made.

Indian Boy Gets $10,000 Damages

BRAMPTON, Oct. 21—(CP)—Clark Charles Elliot, 13, an Indian boy permanently crippled in a traffic accident, Thursday was awarded $10,000 damages in the Ontario Supreme Court. He had originally asked for $110,000.

Dr. A. J. Henderson, of Brampton, testified Elliot's back was broken and that he would never walk again. Witnesses told Mr. Justice Dalton Wells the boy was riding a bicycle during a severe rainstorm of Oct. 13 last year when he was struck by a truck driven by 19-year-old Norman Leslie, of Streetsville.

Leslie, who had filed a countersuit, was awarded $150.

The jury returned a verdict of 50 per cent negligence on both sides.

Can't Pay $500 Bail Mrs. Pitre Stays in Jail

QUEBEC, Oct. 21—(CP)—Mrs. Arthur Pitre, key witness in the Sept. 9 bomb-crash of a commercial airliner at Sault Au Cochon, remained in jail today, unable to post a $500 bond in exchange for her freedom.

Thursday she appeared at her preliminary hearing on a charge of attempted suicide. Judge Alphonse Caron set the $500 bail bond and ordered the woman to appear for voluntary statement Oct. 26.

Mr. and Mrs. Jean Marie Ruest testified Thursday that Mrs. Pitre told them that she had been visited Sept. 19 by Guay, who advised her to disappear or commit suicide and leave a note saying she was responsible for the crash of the airliner.

Offer To Reopen Peace Talks

HONG KONG, Oct. 21—(Reuters)—A usually reliable Chinese source reported tonight that Nationalist representatives have left Hong Kong with a Communist offer to reopen peace negotiations in the Chinese Civil War. The source said that Gen. Hwang Chi Han left by plane two days ago for Kweilin, capital of Kwangsi province, 325 miles northwest of Hong Kong. Gen. Kwang was reported to be carrying the Communist terms for peace to Gen. Pai Chung-hsi, Nationalist commander of a 200,000-man Army with headquarters at Kweilin.

Gen. Hwang formerly was Gen. Pai's personal representative in Hankow. But when the peace negotiations broke down a year ago at Peiping, Hwang joined the Communists.

Dr. K. C. Chiu, secretary-general of the Nationalist presidential office, also was reported to have flown from Hong Kong with a letter from Gen. Hwang containing the same Communist terms for peace.

Government troops fighting for the fate of southwest China have halted a Communist drive towards Kweilin the defence ministry said today at Chungking.

At the same time, Nationalist sources said they had detected a movement of 100,000 Reds in preparation for an invasion of Szechwan, home province of this new refugee capital.

Communist and Nationalist artillery cracked at each other in the battle for Chu Shan island, government air and naval blockade base 100 miles south of Red held Shanghai. The Reds have seized neighboring islands in the Chu Shan group.

The defence ministry said the Communist surge into Kwangsi province from Hunan—into the heart of southwest China—had been blunted on the outskirts of Lingling. This wartime United States air base is 110 miles northeast of Kweilin and 235 miles northwest of fallen Canton.

Lose $900,000 On Butter Parliament Hears Details

OTTAWA, Oct. 21—(CP)—Detailed story of the 15,000,000-pound butter deal last winter in which the government took a loss of almost $900,000 Thursday was tabled in the Commons. The statement, prepared by Trade Minister Howe in reply to Gordon Isnor (L. Halifax), showed that the government paid an average of 74 cents a pound for the butter, purchased from Australia, Denmark and New Zealand, to meet a Canadian shortage.

The government spent $11,511,491 for 15,680,000 pounds, distributing the shipments among creameries and packers in the Maritimes, Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia.

Denmark Loss

Adding its balance sheet, the government found it took the biggest loss on shipments from Denmark which provided the bulk of the butter. Here the loss on 11,200,000 pounds costing $8,351,343, was $729,000.

Most of Australian and New Zealand butter was under contract for shipment to the United Kingdom, but under a clause in the agreement which allowed shipment to dollar areas to build dollar reserves, these two countries split a 4,480,000 pound Canadian order.

The government paid each of them approximately $1,580,000. A government loss of $74,478 was the result of the Australian deal and a loss of $56,457 on the New Zealand deal.

Why the government sustained the loss was not disclosed in the statement. However, it appeared to result from a refusal of Canadian butter dealers to pay the high 74 cent a pound price, even though there was a big demand and a scarcity of butter in the country.

UE Officials Meet In Toronto

Top union officials from the six CGE plants covered under the Company's master contract with the UE-CIO are meeting in Toronto today to discuss the next Union move.

Peterborough, Davenport and Cobourg have all held strike votes and it is not expected there will be any concerted Union move until the other three have voted.

Ian McRae, works manager of the Peterborough plant, told the Examiner at noon that "all's quiet" on the labor front.

Union leaders are more vocal, however. A leaflet distributed to the employees takes issue with the charge that girls in the Induction Motor Winding department are taking home excessively high pay cheques.

You Can't Win With The Army, U.S. Vet Finds $2,300 Merry-go-Round Makes Officer Dizzy

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21—(AP)—When he won a commission in France in 1944, Albert Miller raised his sent-home allotment to $170 a month. The United States Army got it mixed up and made it $270. When Miller was discharged he was told: "You owe us $2,300. Please remit." Miller said.

Then, early last year the Army wrote again: "You owe us $2,300. Please remit." After many letters the Army admitted its mistake.

Miller carefully put the letter away for a possible contingency. It came a day or two ago, a letter which said, in effect: "You owe us $2,300. Please remit."

Find Hospital Jammed With Injured

Ambulances, Taxis Take Patients Six Miles To Hospital

ORILLIA, Oct. 21 — (CP) — Some 30 persons were reported injured today, when a Gray Coach Lines bus collided with an automobile on No. 11 highway at Leigh's Hill, six miles south of here.

One report said at least 15 were admitted to Memorial Hospital here.

A Gray Coach Lines official in Toronto said the bus was in charge of driver Hugh McLenachan of Toronto but was being driven by H. E. Morris, 28, of Toronto, who is in training.

Gray Coach is a subsidiary of the Toronto Transportation Commission.

Morris is one of the injured. Others reported injured:

Bruce Sharp, Toronto; B. P. L. Lemieux, (556 Laurier Ave.), North Bay; H. McLanahan, Mount Forest, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Merrill, Toronto; Mrs. Al. Mooney, (63 Audrey Ave.) Guelph; Mr and Mrs. G. A. Smith, Orillia; Robert Kerr, 70, Detroit; Miss Verie Murray, Barrie, and a Mrs. Dunbar.

Sharpe, Kerr and Mrs. Dunbar are most seriously injured, hospital attendants said.

Collide Head On

TTC authorities said that the bus, bound for North Bay, collided head on with the car, the driver of which was reported to be Bruce Sharp, traveller for a Toronto electrical company.

The impact spun the bus around, overturned it and sent it skidding into a ditch.

Some of the passengers were removed through the smashed windows of the bus. Passers-by said they feared a fire might break out. Traffic was stalled for two miles south of the accident scene.

The injured were sped to hospital in ambulances and taxis.

Have Fractured Limbs

Attendants said they were unable immediately to learn the names of all the injured or to determine the extent of their injuries. Several, however, were reported to have suffered fractured arms and legs.

Rain had made the highway slippery and visibility was poor at the time, witnesses said.

Two children were apparently the only persons to escape injury.

"The bus landed right in our driveway," said Mrs. Harvey Huddle. "I heard the crash, looked out and then called for police and ambulances. By the time I got out to the bus itself most of the injured were out. People were pulling them out of the emergency door and out through windows.

"They brought about half a dozen of the injured into our houses and we made them as

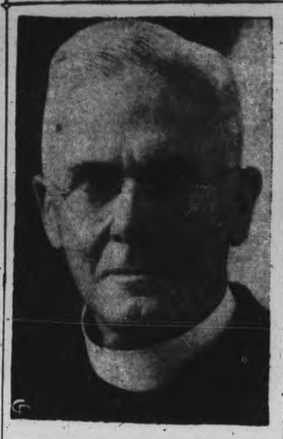
Ex-Moderator Rev. Tuttle Dies

TORONTO, Oct. 21—(CP) — Very Rev. Aubrey Tuttle, 75, former moderator of the United Church of Canada, died Thursday night at Victoria, church officials said today.

Born at Pugwash, N.S., he entered the ministry in 1897 as a student missionary in the old Methodist church. A former principal of St. Stephen's College at Edmonton, he was moderator of the United Church from 1940 to 1942. A year later, in 1943, Dr. Tuttle retired.

He was a graduate of Mount Allison University, Sackville, N.B., and served several churches in Western Canada before being appointed principal of Alberta College South. That college was amalgamated with Robertson Presbyterian College at the time of union as St. Stephen's College. He became principal and professor of Christian theology and philosophy.



Dr. Tuftle was elected moderator at the ninth General Council of the Church, replacing the Rt. Rev. John W. Woodside, of Ottawa.

Prov. Constable Dies Fighting With Patient

EXETER, Oct. 21 (CP)—Provoncial Constable Jack Ferguson 55, died late Thursday in his police cruiser at nearby Grand Bend after a struggle with a mental patient whom he was escorting to Goderich.

Coroner J. G. Dunlop said he believed death was caused by a heart attack. A post mortem will be conducted Friday.

Constable Ferguson went to Grand Bend to make the arrest after residents reported the mental patient was "running about the streets brandishing a pipe wrench."

DIES IN VICTORIA — The Very Rev. Aubrey Tuttle, former Moderator of the United Church from 1940 to 1942, died Thursday night. He was in his 76th year.

Mental Hospital Workers List Complaints

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 21 (CP)—Ontario hospital officials were due today to receive an employees' list of complaints and requested reforms, all arising from the fatal beating a week ago of a 63-year-old attendant by a mental patient who had not been regarded as violent.

One complaint at a mass meeting Thursday was that nurses and attendants no longer receive tea or coffee on duty, which was declared necessary to ease the strain of their jobs.

The 12-point program of reforms and better working conditions includes larger staff better pay, $5,000 insurance coverage and an adequate alarm system.

Speakers protested that while Yelf was alone in charge of a ward of 83 patients he was not getting "top pay", according to regulations. The average yearly pay of $1,500 for attendants, plus a cost of living bonus of $15 monthly came in for criticism.

Patient Said Dangerous

The meeting also drafted a separate protest about another patient in Yelf's ward who was claimed to have been involved in two near fatalities and to be "potentially homicidal." He should be secluded, but instead he occupies a single room with door and "is free to roam."

In answer to that, Dr. Archie McCausland, assistant superintendent, commented later that the patient is 90 years old and while "unstable" is not regarded by officials as a menace. He admitted there had been complaints about him.

At Toronto, Health Minister Kelley of Ontario asked today for a full report on the death of Yelf.

Mr. Kelley said he was puzzled by the incident. He was asking the hospital superintendent to explain why special precautions were not taken in view of the fact the elderly patient had previously threatened to "get" Yelf.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK — The United States Government today recommended 10 years imprisonment for each of the 11 convicted Communist leaders. The recommendation to Judge Harold Medina was made by U.S. Attorney John F. X. McGohey. He made no recommendation for a fine. The law provides for a $10,000 fine.

Three Minor Tax Cuts Added To Budget Drop Fuel Oil Sales Tax

Reduce Tax On Cider 50 - 25 Cents Gallon To Assist Apple Industry; 1949-50 Forecast Revenues Increased

OTTAWA, Oct. 21—(CP)—Three small tax reductions were added Thursday night by Finance Minister Abbott to his revised, tax-slashing, pre-election budget of March 22. Reintroducing in the Commons the 1949-50 budget, not passed when parliament was dissolved April 30 for the general election in June, Mr. Abbott announced:

1. Immediate elimination of the eight-per-cent sales tax on all fuel oils used for heating or lighting purposes;

2. Holders of both common and preferred stock will be able to charge up to 10 per cent of their dividends against personal income tax. In the earlier budget this concession was given only to common stock holders. The change will be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1949.

5. A reduction immediately of from 50 to 25 cents a gallon in the tax on cider and other wines containing less than seven per cent of proof spirits.

The reduction will represent a saving of about $5,000,000 for tax payers in the current fiscal year, ending March 31. The saving won't amount to more than $11,000,000 in a full year—a drop in the bucket compared with the more than $300,000,000 that Mr. Abbott presented to the country in miscellaneous tax cuts in his original budget.

Those reductions, in effect since March and in some cases retroactive to the first of the year, affected practically every Canadian home, particularly personal income-tax payers.

The only ones who will benefit to any noticeable extent from the three new changes are users of fuel oil for heating and lighting. Removal of the sales tax on fuel oil might mean a cent a gallon reduction if it is passed on to the consumer.

Make Up For Devaluation

But Mr. Abbott indicated that all the cut will do for many householders is to make up for an increase just put into effect by oil companies as a consequence of dollar devaluation.

(Price of fuel oil used in heating and lighting will be reduced immediately, an oil industry spokesman said Thursday night at Toronto. The spokesman said he was unable to give details of price cuts but they would prob-

List Budget Highlights

By The Canadian Press

Finance Minister Abbott reintroduces March 22, 1949-50 budget with three minor additional tax reductions.

Eight-per-cent sales tax removed immediately on all fuel oils used for heating or lighting purposes.

Tax on cider and other wines containing less than seven-per-cent of proof spirits reduced immediately from 50 to 25 cents a gallon.

Personal income tax credit of 10 per cent on common dividends extended to include all classes of shares, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1949.

New tax changes to reduce government revenue by $5,000,000 in the current fiscal year and $11,000,000 in a full year.

All 1949-50 tax reductions expected to cut government revenue by $340,000,000 this current year and $387,000,000 in full year.

Government's final 1948-49 revenues totalled $2,771,000,000 and expenditures $2,176,000,000.

Surplus of $595,000,000 for 1948-49 is $20,000,000 greater than predicted last March.

Revised estimate fixes 1949-50 revenues at $2,550,000,000 and expenditures at $2,460,000,000.

Surplus for 1949-50 expected to be "fairly close" to the March estimate of $87,000,000.

No change made in March personal income tax reductions.

150 Men Repair Lines After Sleet Storms

WINNIPEG, Oct. 21 (CP)—At least 150 men today were repairing southwestern Manitoba power and communication lines, severed and snarled by two sleet and rain storms within 24 hours.

Power has been off in La Riviere, Kaleida and Darlingford in the Manitou area since hydro lines and poles snapped under heavy load of ice Wednesday. Hydro officials said their men may not be able to restore power by today.

Weathermen at Winnipeg predicted today that the sleet, mixed with intermittent, freezing rain, would continue to pelt southwestern Manitoba and parts of the Red River valley. Meanwhile, the first snowfall of the season hit Winnipeg early today.

Report Move To Oust Frost

TORONTO, Oct. 21—(CP)—A Toronto paper says in a newspage story today that there is a movement among Progressive Conservative members of the Ontario Legislature to oust Premier Frost as provincial leader.

The story said existence of the movement was revealed privately by "at least six" members of the legislature.

Mr. Frost was elected provincial leader at a convention last April and subsequently took over as Premier. He succeeded Agriculture Minister Kennedy who took over temporarily last fall when George Drew resigned to assume the National leadership.

Biggest CIO Holdout Against Taft-Hartley Act UEW Files Officers' Non-Communist Oaths

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—(AP)—The left-wing United Electrical Workers, biggest C.I.O. holdout against the United States Taft-Hartley Labor Act rules, gave in today and filed non-Communist oaths from its officers. The affidavits are required by the Labor Law before a union can have access to National Labor Relations Board machinery for such things as collective bargaining elections. They must state that the union officers are not Communists and are not sympathetic to Communism.

The U.E.W.-C.I.O. has been described in hearings of the House of Representative Un-American Activities committee as a hot-bed of communist activity.

Officers who submitted the anti-Red oaths included President Albert J. Fitzgerald, Secretary-Treasurer Julius Emspak, and Director of Organization James J. Matles. The 10 Vice-Presidents also signed.

French Premier Wants Unfreezing Of Wages

PARIS, Oct. 21 (AP)—France's new Premier Rene Mayer favors an unfreezing of wages and a quick return to collective bargaining in industry.

Mayer outlined his domestic policies a short time before the National Assembly approved him for the premiership Thursday night by a vote of 341 to 183. Mayer is a member of the radical Socialist party, which despite its name favors a conservative policy.

Mayer won confirmation with 31 ballots to spare. He had to receive a minimum count of 310 or bow out of the picture. Now he faces the task or organizing a cabinet to handle France's complex wage and price problems growing out of the recent devaluation of the franc.

Father, Son Take Plowing Match Prizes

Report 1,200 Attend Millbrook Match, Juniors Place Well

MILLBROOK, Oct. 21 — The Hootons, father and son, of Ida, Cavan township, gathered up the senior prizes, cash and plate, at the Durham - Northumberland plowing match Thursday on the farm of Leonard Henderson, three miles west of here.

William Hooton, the veteran teamsman for more years and more provincial and county matches than he can remember, won the open class with horses in sod; the Trent Valley Cup for the best land with horses; and the Esso Trophy. That achievement signified the championship with teams.

John Hooton won the open class for tractors and two-furrow plows in sod; The John Labatt Cup for the best plowed land in the match; the Dominion Stores cash prize for the best land plowed with tractors and also the Esso prize for tractors.

The junior champions were Roy Seeney of Ida with horses, and Alan Thompson of Millbrook with tractor.

The match brought out twenty-five contestants, eight using teams and seventeen driving tractors. The only girl was Lorraine Henderson, daughter of the owner of the match farm.

1,200 Attended

Mr. Henderson, who put in a busy afternoon broadcasting the events, estimated the crowd at 1,200. William Clark of Gormley, director of Ontario Plowmen's Association and its International Plowing Match, was judge. Another director present was L. H. Winslow of Millbrook. Weather was mild with sunshine most of the afternoon, and the soil was conducive to match quality furrows.

John Rickard, Newcastle, secretary of the United Counties Plowmen's Association, said the match was in every respect the best in years.

Sharing interest with the plowmen, were the junior farmers in the new type of tractor competition stressing skill, economy and safety. The machines were operated as at Norwood Fair over a course designed to test the ability of the young drivers, and also their sense of caution against accidents. Twenty-five or more of the elders of the junior

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Oct. 21—(CP)—Prices of oats and barley were moving narrowly in initial trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Routine overnight shipper buying interest was in evidence but trading was dull.

A few orders for rye kept prices moderately firm.

Prices:

Oats: Oct. ⅛ higher 81⅝; Dec. unch 79⅜-⅝-B; May unch 79½.

Barley: Oct. not open; Dec. not open; May unch to ⅛ higher 1.38⅝-¾B.

Rye: Oct. not open; Dec. ⅜-⅛ lower 1.54-1.54¼B; May ⅛ lower to unch 1.58-1.58¼B.

Flax: Oct. not open; Dec. unch 3.70½; may not open.

Inspections: Wheat this year 635; last year 876; cars of contract 546; oats 206-266; barley 169-280; flax 28-168; rye 44-43; other grains 2-8; total 1084-1631.

HOG PRICES

TORONTO, Oct. 21—(CP) — Hog prices were quoted at $29.50 to truckers at Stratford today.

At Hull, Quebec, dressed Grade A hogs brought $28.75 delivered.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Oct. 21 (CP)—Produce prices quoted on the spot market today follow: Churning cream, No. 1, 60 cents fob, 64 delivered.

Butter prints were unquoted.

The egg market was quiet this morning and demand was light. Country shippers quoted graded eggs, cases free: grade A large 60; A medium 48; A pullet 39; grade B 47; grade C 35. Wholesale to retail: grade A large 65; A medium 53; A pullet 43; grade B 52; grade C 40.

The butter solid market was quiet but steady. First grades were unchanged at 58¾. Second grades were quoted at 56-57.

TORONTO FRUIT

TORONTO, Oct. 21—(CP) — Wholesale fruit and vegetable prices were unchanged here today with the following exceptions: Canadian lettuce, 3 doz., case, $1.50-$2.

CHEESE BOARD

OTTAWA, Oct. 21 (CP) — Boarded, 1,085 boxes white. All sold at 30 cents.

Meat Packers Threaten Strike

TORONTO, Oct. 21—A strike at the John Duff and Sons meat packing plant in Hamilton was threatened Thursday by the United Packinghouse Workers of America, CIO-CCL, unless the company accepts the recommendations of a conciliation board.

The union said the firm had offered a five-cents-an-hour increased, but had refused to make it retroactive to March 1, as recommended by the board. The company had also refused to accept a recommendation to pay all employees for stautory holidays and to reduce the probationary period for union security from six to three months, the union added.

Company spokesmen declined to comment on the union statement. The UPWA recently signed contracts with the major packinghouse companies in Canada for wage increases ranging from six to nine cents an hour, bringing the basic labor rate to $1.03 in Toronto and 99 cents in Kitchener and Hamilton. The union said this compared with 74 cents in the Duff plant.

Says Ottawa Group's Play Well Praised

TORONTO, Oct. 21 — (CP) — Robertson Davies, editor of the Peterborough Examiner, said Thursday night that the Ottawa Drama League's performances at last summer's Edinburgh Festival were "well attended and well-praised."

Addressing Central Ontario Drama League members at a meeting of the Toronto Arts and Letters Club, Mr. Davies told of seeing the Ottawa Group present his play, "Eros at Breakfast," at the festival.

He said the reception of the Canadian Group's entry was "quite as favourable as could be expected for a one-act play presented in the midst of the great show of international talent."

Oakville Blood Depot For Western Ontario

A new Red Cross blood sub depot recently opened in Hamilton will not service any part of Ontario east of Oakville the Board of Governors of Civic Hospital was told Thursday by J. M. Hornal, hospital superintendent.

A letter from Red Cross headquarters read by Mr. Hornal stated that it would probably be "some time" before there was any extended organization of sub depots in this part of the province.

Summary for Saturday. Mild, occasional showers.

St. Laurent Doesn't See War In Next 5 Years

OTTAWA, Oct. 21 — (CP). — Prime Minister St. Laurent said Thursday he does not foresee war for at least five years.

He was speaking in the Commons during discussion of a Liberal sub-amendment to its resolution asking power for Canada to amend the constitution.

Howard Green (PC-Vancouver-Quadra) asked a question leading to the Prime Minister's remarks.

"As I understand it," Mr. Green said, "this amendment would mean that the present government which has over two-thirds of the members of the House, could if it so wished, extend the life of Parliament beyond five years."

Mr. St. Laurent replied that the question was probably for clarification.

"But a hypothesis like that would not arise except in the case of war, real or apprehended. I can give the honorable member the assurance that for the duration of this Parliament there is no thought at the present time that there need be any care about war, real or apprehended."

The scene was "terrible," Mrs. Huddle said.

"The front of the bus was all smashed in and there were a lot of people crawling out of the door covered with blood; it was really terrible."

Orillia has two ambulances, both made several trips between the crash scene and the hospital.

Hospital Jammed

The Memorial Hospital was jammed. For a time the injured were in the corridors. Several doctors were summoned to give emergency treatment.

The accident occurred as the bus went downhill and one theory was that it skidded on the wet pavement in an effort to avoid the car. Reports from the scene said that apparently both the driver and his spare grabbed the wheel of the bus in an effort to bring it under control before the impact.

Request Board Settle Dispute

MONTREAL, Oct. 21—(CP)—Spokesmen for more than 100,000 rail workers announced that they have requested a conciliation board to deal with their wage-hour dispute with Canadian railroads.

Frank H. Hall, chairman of the negotiating committee representing 15 international brotherhoods in the wage-hour talks, made public a letter to Labor Minister Mitchell requesting the conciliation board.

Mr. Hall's letter was made public two days after spokesmen for the 30,000-member Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (CCL) stated publicly that they want a board set up without delay.

Both union groups are seeking for their non-operating members the 40-hour week in place of the present 48 hours with a 10-cents-an-hour increase while the international unions are seeking six cents.

Drop Fuel Oil ably equal the tax, which was collected on the wholesale price of the oil).

Elimination of the sales tax is expected to cut government revenue by $10,000,000 in a full year. Something less than $1,000,000 will be the amount saved to holders of preferred stock. Mr. Abbott said the tax change on cider and wines would result in little loss of revenue.

Debate on the budget will be started in the Commons today by Hon. Earl Rowe, Progressive Conservative member for the Ontario constituency of Dufferin-Simcoe and the party's chief financial critic. In adjourning the debate after Mr. Abbott completed his statement, Mr. Rowe said he was disappointed to see the government presenting the old plans of last spring to meet changed economic conditions.

Mr. Abbott, after a review of domestic and international economic conditions, said in his 7,000-word speech that conditions have not altered sufficiently since last March "to warrant any significant changes in our tax proposals."

Eliminate Discrimination

Removal of the tax on fuel oils would eliminate some element of discrimination. There now is no tax on coal, coke, wood, gas or electricity. It could serve as well to enlarge the market for oil producers in Wester Canada.

"The removal of this tax on fuel oils will reduce costs of production and remove the element of discrimination in those industries, particularly certain sections of the pulp and paper, and steel industries, where fuel oil rather than coal is the principal fuel used, Mr. Abbott said.

In recent months there has been a growing demand, particularly from British Columbia suppliers, for removal of the tax. The contention was that fuel oils were being kept at a disadvantage on the market in relation to other fuels such as coal and coke for which there was no tax.

The change in the provision on preferred dividends was made as a result of representations to the Finance Department after the original budget was read. The change would remove many technical difficulties and anomalies which would have arisen in attempting to administer the original proposal.

Aid Apple Industry

Reduction of the tax on cider and wine might help the apple industry to market an additional quantity of fruit.

Only small quanities of cider now are produced in Canada but it is understood apple growers have told the government that more apples may be diverted to cider production if taxes are lowered.

There are, however, provincial taxes on alcoholic beverages which will not be affected.

Non-alcoholic apple juices are not affected by the reduction. Neither is cider with an alcoholic content of from seven to 40 per cent proof spirits which will continue to be taxed at 50 cents a gallon, the tax paid on all wines.

Mr. Abbott reviewed the tax reductions announced in the original budget, which included higher income-tax exemptions and lower rates, retroactive to Jan. 1.

Basic income-tax exemptions were boosted from $750 to $1,000 for single persons and $1,500 to $2,000 for married. Exemptions were raised from $100 to $150 for each dependent child under 16 and $300 to $400 for other dependents

To Get Refunds

Mr. Abbott said that as a result of the reductions many taxpayers were entitled to refunds. The cheques will be mailed as soon as the budget is approved by parliament. They will be sent to employers for distribution to employees.

Ranking next to income tax in omportance, were excise and "nuisance" tax reductions on soft drinks, candy, jewelry, cosmetics, smokers' supplies, train tickets and some other services. The cuts amounted to about $100,000,000 a year.

The main change for business then was in the corporation income tax. The former flat rate of 30 per cent was reduced to 10 per cent of the first $10,000 of profits. It was increased from 30 to 33 per cent on profits in excess of $10,000.

Bringing members up-to-date on the country's economic and financial position, he revised certain statements and estimates of revenues and expenditures.

The 1948-49 final revenues turned out to be $2,771,000,000, or $3,000,000 more than was estimated in March. Expenditures were $2,176,000,000, or $17,000,000 less than was estimated. The surplus for the year—the third in succession—was $595,000,000, or $20,000,000 greater than the earlier estimate.

Revenues Up

For 1949-50, he had forecast revenues, after tax changes of $2,477,500,000. Some revenue sources had yielded more than anticipated and he now estimated revenues at $2,550,000,000.

Expenditures had been estimated at $2,390,000,000, but now he would boost that figure to $2,460,000,000.

On making provision for the three additional tax changes, he estimated that the 1949-50 surplus will be "very close" to the $87,000,000 figure forecast last March

Such a surplus would bring to $1,730,000,000 the amount the government has applied against the national debt in the last four fiscal years.

Mr. Abbott dealt with questions of trade, employment and production. They had remained high and he expected they would continue that way for at least the balance of the current fiscal year.

"Our total exports, which is one of the basic supports of our economy, were higher during the most recent 12 months' period than in any other peacetime year in our history," said Mr. Abbott.

"Nevertheless, some declines in our overseas export markets have already occurred and some further declines can hardly be avoided.

He indicated that Canada is banking heavily on United States prosperity.

"Any change in economic conditions in the United States will directly affect the level of our exports to that country," he said. "Any sharp downturn in American economic activity and in American willingness to import cannot but have sharp and embarrassing repercussions all over the world."

To help the sterling countries buy more from Canada, this country had to buy more goods overseas. This may cause greater competition in Canada's domestic markets and "some adjustments" may be necessary.

Seamen End Strike 6 Months Old

Blames Persecution By Government For Walkout Failure

MONTREAL, Oct. 21 (CP). — The Canadian Seamen's Union has called off its 6½-months-old strike against the East Coast shipowners because of "continued persecution by the government."

The announcement, issued on Thursday night by CSU national headquarters, also asked dockers' affiliates of the World Maritime Federation in foreign ports to end the boycott against Canadian ships.

In a prepared statement, the allegedly Communist-led union criticizes the government as a "strike-breaker" for using police to break up picket lines and for refusing to pay unemployment insurance to seamen "in an effort to starve them into submission."

More than 80 ships were affected by the walkout, called March 31 with Shipping Federation of Canada signed with the rival Seafarers' International Union, AFL.

Arouses No Interest

The CSU action in calling off the strike aroused no interest in official government quarters.

One official noted that the strike had been a dead issue for weeks since the SIU moved in on ships formerly under CSU contract.

Percy R. Bengough, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, said cancellation of the strike would have no effect on the union's expulsion from the TLC.

The Seamen's Union, suspended last summer, withdrew from the 450,000-member Congress shortly before its complete expulsion

The CSU statement claimed the strike—marked by violence and scores of arrests both in Canada and foreign ports— would have been won if the TLC had continued its support" of the striking seamen and the rights and independence of Canadian unions."

"Although we are compelled to call off the strike," the statement declared, "the union will continue its struggle to win back the wages and working conditions that were taken from Canadian seamen and which constituted the main issue in the strike."

Transport Crash Delays Train 2 Hours

OSHAWA, Oct. 21—(CP) — Westbound Canadian Pacific Railway passenger trains were held up more than two hours today until a tractor-trailer transport was cleared from a west-side crossing.

Gerald Sullivan, of Toronto, escaped with minor facial injuries when the truck went out of control, crashed into a railway embankment and came to rest on the tracks. He told police the vehicle hit a hole in the road.

Buses were dispatched from Toronto to handle passengers from a Montreal-to-Chicago flyer and an Ottawa-to-Toronto train, delayed while twisted tracks were repaired.

Saves Seven Lions

MASON CITY, Ill., Oct. 21 — (AP)—Despite a sprained arm, a young caretaker led five lions and two cubs to safety Thursday at flames which attacked a private zoo leaped around their cages. David (Tex) Perry, 24, his arm in a sling, opened a chute leading to the outside arena and freed four lions. Then he raced back to another cage, pulled out a gentle lioness, Betty, and rushed back to save her two cubs.

New G.E. Development

CLEVELAND, Oct. 21 (AP) — General Electric Compahy announced yesterday development of a small photographic flashtube capable of use for thousands of pictures at speeds at 1-5,000th of a second. The U-shaped tube is smaller and 20 per cent brighter than the older spinal-shaped tube. Lighter in weight, it is designed for use with portable power units.

Actress Has Son

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 21 (AP) — Actress Dorothy Lamour Thursday night became the mother of a second son. A seven-pound, 2½ ounce baby was born to the wife of William Ross Thomson Howard III, an advertising executive. The couple has another son, aged 3½.

Move To Guard Parliament's Life In Event Of War

OTTAWA, Oct. 21 — (CP) — Right of Parliament to extend its life beyond the normal five years in the event of war was advocated Thursday by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

The proposal was placed before the Commons during discussion of a government resolution asking the United Kingdom Parliament to give Canada the right to amend the constitution on federal matters.

It was the one provision with which the government accepted a CCF amendment. Sponsored by Stanley Knowles (CCF, Winnipeg North Centre), the amendment would withhold from Parliament the right to amend the constitution in respect to the clause which sets out that an election must be called at least once every five years and that a session of Parliament must be held once a year.

Mr. St. Laurent said the government approves of the amendment with the provision contained in a sub-amendment. That was to retain the right to extend the life of Parliament in cases of war or insurrection. This would be done, however, only with a two-thirds majority approval of the members.

The CCF and Liberals were on common ground on the question. The Progressive Conservatives were opposed.

Opposes Measure

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said he would oppose the measure because he and his party disagree with the procedure being followed by the government in amending the constitution.

The Social Credit group also has expressed disapproval of the government resolution on the same grounds.

Stanwood School Entrant Wins Public Speaking

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 21 — (ENS)—Joyce Rowe of Stanwood school was winner in the Seymour Township public speaking contest sponsored by the Northumberland County Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association. It was held Thursday night in the Campbellford High school auditorium.

Patsy Wallace of Burnbrae school was second; Ronald Parr of Masson's school was third; and Doreen Bright of Connelley's school won fourth place.

Joyce will compete in the county finals at Campbellford on Nov. 4.

Judges were Rev. Gordon J. A. Whitehorne, Mrs. W. Scott, Mrs. Bruce Grills, Mrs. Jim Thompson and Miss Kathleen Ferris.

Chairman A. B. Billen called the winning contestants to the platform where Joyce Rowe rereceived the Ratepayers' Cup; Patsy Wallace, the Seymour Cup; Ronald Parr, the Seymour West Women's Institute Cup; and Doreen Bright the Seymour East Women's Institute Cup.

William Stollery, Harold Milne, Mrs. Gordon McCulloch and Mrs. W. A. Hume made the presentation.

A musical program was arranged by Albert Hazell, music supervisor of Seymour Township schools.

Millie and Pearl Craighead, of Burnbrae school, played a pano duet; Stanwood school choir sang with Joye Rowe taking the solo part. "The Birdie Chorus" was rendered by the English Line school; Union school choir sang "Broncho Boy" and Burnbrae school choir gave two numbers with Margaret Spencer taking the solo parts; Helen Archer of Union school rendered a vocal number.

County School Pupils Given Immunization

COBOURG, Oct. 21 (ENS) — The staff of the Northumberland and Durham Counties Health Unit have been concentrating on immunization since the schools reopened. During the summer months when the Unit was shortstaffed because of vacations, the staff on duty have been doing some immunization among preschool age children.

With the resumption of school, the immunization program has been stepped up and has included children of pre-school age right down to those in the infant category. However, said Dr. MacCharles, senior medical officer of health, the day of school children immunization is becoming a thing of the past.

"We are pretty well caught up on our immunization of school children. What they are getting now are re-inforcing doses. The trend now is to immunize children of infant age and that means under 12 months and therefore much of our work now and to come will be in connection with that age group," Dr. MacCharles said.

Westwood Venue For Next Rally

HASTINGS, Oct. 21 (ENS) — The Evening Auxiliary of Trinity United Church met at the home of Mrs. F. Crate for the monthly meeting on Wednesday evening. The president, Mrs. J. M. Baker was chairman.

The meeting opened with the worship under the leadership of Mrs. W. Dodd, assisted by Mrs. E. Hess Miss M. Huycke, and Mrs. R. Glass. A chapter of Study Book was given. Mrs. R. Burnham gave her report as delegate to the sectional rally at Norwood.

Mrs. Breckenridge extended an invitation that the next sectional rally be held at Westwood.

Mrs. W. Dodd read a piece on stewardship. The secretary, Mrs. Alton Thompson read the minutes and correspondence from Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe, president of the WMS, thanking the Auxiliary for the dishes which had been given to the church.

An invitation to meet with St. Andrew's WMS on October 27 was accepted.

On Oct. 28 the members will attend St. George's Church to hear Miss Kelsey, returned missionary from China.

Mrs. W. Peck had new cards on hand for sale. The treasurer reported she had sent $12. to the Presbyterial treasurer.

Nominating committee: Mrs. G. Thompson, Mrs. W. Dodd, Mrs. C. Lockhart.

Program committee: Mrs. L. Humphries, Mrs. C. Lockhart, Mrs. A. Orr, and Mrs. C. Oliver.

Mrs. C Lockhart's invitation to hold the Nov. 9 meeting at her home was accepted.

An open meeting will be held in the Sunday school hall on Nov. 16th to hear Miss Milligan of the Children's Aid Society of Hamilton.

The president asked that the blocks for Afghan be brought to the next meeting.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. C. Baker, Mrs. G. Thompson, and Mrs. L. W. Humphries.

October Violets

MARMORA, Oct. 21 (ENS) —Violets in the spring was always the saying until this year when most unusual weather conditions have shown that almost anything can happen. This week Earl O'Connor picked violets in the woods. Arthur Eggleton has green beans and bean plants in blossom in his garden and in the garden of the Misses Sullivan, Spirea has been in full bloom this month.

Cobourg Mayor Seeks Help In Rochester

COBOURG, Oct. 21—(ENS)—Mayor Joe Smith returned from Rochester last night where he conferred with officials of the Rochester Chamber of Commerce on the car ferry situation. At the council meeting here this week, Mayor Smith, in reporting on a recent conference with CNR officials, said that R. C. Vaughan, outgoing head of the CNR, had told the conference that the car ferries would be taken out of service by the end of the present year.

However, in view of the fact that Rochester is interested in the car ferries because the ships ply between Cobourg and that city, Mayor Smith went to see the chamber of commerce in Rochester.

"I haven't a great deal to report," the Mayor told the Examiner last night. "I can only say that the Rochester Chamber of Commerce definitely does not like the idea of the car ferries being taken off the run. The members are also surprised at the report which was given to the CNR in regard to the operation of the line and the deficits. The Rochester Chamber of Commerce is going to continue its efforts to retain the car ferries along the lines available to them. Beyond that there is little more to add. You can depend on it, however, that we will not relinquish our efforts until every means at our disposal has been exhausted."

Banquet Planned For Beekeepers

ROSENEATH, Oct. 21, (ENS)— Planning the banquet for the Beekeepers' Association, to be held in the dining hall on the Agricultural Grounds Nov. 9, was the main item of business for W.A. members at the October meeting on Thursday. The following committees were appointed for the banquet:

Refreshments, Mrs. Earl Waldie, Mrs. Charles Sandercock, Mrs. Isabel Brown, Mrs. Ford Derry, Mrs. Isaac Skuce, Mrs. Fred Norcis and Mrs. Harold Taylor.

Table committee—Mrs. Bart Thackeray, Mrs. Wilbert Blodgett, Mrs. Arthur Braithwaite, Mrs. Frank Adams, Mrs. Clarke Sandercock, Mrs. James Thompson, Mrs. Harold George and Mrs. Ivan Thackeray.

The meeting was held in the township hall, with Mesdames Neil Sherwin and Ivan Thackeray as joint hostesses. The president, Mrs. Ford Derry, presided. Mrs. Bart Thackeray was pianist and Mrs. Isaac Skuce secretary.

Correspondence read included several acknowledgements from recipients of good cheer and sympathy cards.

Mrs. Fred Norris, treasurer, reported a balance on Oct. 19 of $236.73.

Mrs. Arthur Braithwaite handed in the sum of $30.35 and Mrs. Clarke Sandercock $2.30. Both amounts were realized from sales of sewing. The collection amounted to $3.35, making a total of $272.73.

Sent 29 Cards

Mrs. Arthur Braithwaite, good cheer convener, reported 29 cards sent out during the last three months.

Mrs. Bart Thackeray, convener of the sewing committee, displayed completed articles of sewing and distributed material for sewing.

Mrs. Charles Sandercock was appointed to purchase cups, plates and silverware for the W.A. cupboard.

Mrs. A. Nill was in charge of the devotional period.

The program was as follows: A piano solo by Miss Joan McMillan, reading, Mrs. Chas. Sandercock; piano solo, Mrs. Bart Thackeray; reading, Mrs. Earl Waldie. Miss Helen Sandercock sang. Mrs. A. Nill and Mrs. Bart Thackeray were the winners in a name contest arranged by Mrs. Charles Sandercock. Mrs. Eliza Sandercock won the birthday prize.

Cement Scandal

Peterborough is not alone in suffering acutely from the shortage of cement, and the situation across the country should be investigated. This week the superintendent of a large contracting firm engaged in extensive government house-building in the city reported that the firm has had difficulty all year in getting cement, even though it has had a priority call on the available supplies. "If you had asked me last week about the local situation, I'd have told you that it was deplorable. It happened that local dealers each got a car or so of cement this week. I think it is imported from England."

• • •

That is a wry situation, Peterborough builders having both to put up with a shortage of cement, and to depend on imports from England (and the United States and Belgium as well, so it is reported); this in a district which has millions of potential barrels in the rock at its back door, and a huge disused modern cement factory ten miles away. The factory was closed fifteen years ago, dismantled, used for storing wheat during the war, and now is derelict—an empty building and a splendid high smokestack.

• • •

Admittedly the demand for cement is unprecedented. Not only are thousands of houses, schools and commercial establishments being built, but great public utilities projects require millions of barrels. Nevertheless, the demand has been enormous for four years, and four years ago the cement manufacturers could have and should have foreseen the continuing need. It could be said, in explanation, that the industry being a near-monopoly (thanks to the combine created after the Great War by the sharp manipulations of Lord Beaverbrook), the manufacturers did not need to fear much competition, and could sit tight on their rocks.

• • •

The cement industry has had ample time to expand its production and improve its methods. Yet prices of cement have mounted and production has not increased as the Canadian public have a right to expect.

• • •

According to the latest Canada Year Book, the fact is that in the whole of Canada there are only eight cement establishments. The fact is, according to the same official source, that in 1946, the first full post-war year when demand for cement was reaching a peak, less cement was produced in Canada than in 1929 (11,560,000 barrels as compared with 12,284,000). We have not the official figures for last year, but expect that production has increased to some extent. It is bitterly apparent that it has not increased enough. It is scandalous that a country as profusely provided with the basic materials for cement should have to import the manufactured product. Canada should be exporting not importing cement.

• • •

There might be some economic reason for importing cement if it could be brought in at cheaper prices than it could be produced in Canada. The fact is, as reported by the superintendent of the construction firm building houses in Peterborough, that American cement costs $1.55 a bag, Canadian cement 90 cents. As a result, buyers of houses in which American cement has had to be used have to pay $125 more than if Canadian cement had been available.

• • •

It is high time that the industry was asked to explain its continuing failure to deal with the public need, and if necessary a searching investigation should be made of it.

Trench Bosh Against Yugoslavia

We do not view with alarm the digging of trenches along the fringes of countries bordering Tito's Yugoslavia. In the first place, the reports of the digging may be so grossly exaggerated that all that is really happening is that some Czech peasant is plowing a fall furrow. In the second place, a trench is no longer warlike. It is playing with warlike gestures, in the same way that Canadian soldiers in training in 1939 and 1940 were busy at make-believe stuff when they dug practice trenches and learned about parapets and parapluies or parados or whatever the word was. We doubt very much that one proper trench was dug for use in the late European war after 1940. There were "slit-trenches"—which the Americans for reasons of their own called "foxholes"—but these were hastily-dug one- or two-man affairs, temporary refugees from snipers and shells.

The titillating news from Yugoslavia and Flushing Meadows is that the Kremlin is in a first-rate huff with Tito because he refuses to be a nailed-down jack-in-the-box, and that Tito is bouncing up on a westward tilt. The question for the West is: will Yugoslavia continue to spring toward Western might and right so consistently as to adorn the Security Council seat, and American dollar patronage? That is the way Yugoslavia is now learning. It is because of this anti-Eastern bias that the henchmen of the Kremlin are making threatening gestures along Yugoslav borders.

Lawyers And Farmers Hog The House

Public interest is being stirred up in the annual meeting of the Ontario Conservative Party next month by reports of party friction. There may be little except publicity baiting in the reports but we find ourself interested in the charges and counter-charges that Toronto lawyers are dominating policy and slighting the farming representatives who are said to be the backbone of the party. The two factions—if they are factions—mutually exclude, it seems to us, other folk. It is a common exclusion across the country, for our parliaments both provincial and federal run to lawyers and farmers. These two classes of citizens are the most numerous in legislative halls.

Whether this is to be condemned we cannot say, but it seems to us highly unrepresentative that minority groups like farmers and the legal profession should occupy the most seats. If Parliament were exactly representative of professions, callings and crafts, there should be more grocers, factory-workers, bank managers, industrialists, baby-sitters and cigar-counter men in Parliament, and fewer lawyers and farmers. The two latter groups wield a legislative influence far beyond their due as class representatives.

October Bloom

This month we have been getting the sun and warmth which was expected in September but did not come. Hazy mornings before the lazy old sun stirs his stumps the unbelieving wayfarer putting on his top-coat wonders if it is going to rain, freeze or snow before noon. He does not have faith that golden light is hidden behind the haze. By noon he is again in his shirt-sleeves, again schoolboys are outdoors at physical training in shorts, and another inch has been added to the dahlias, another spot of crimson to the salvia, another lease of life to tenderer plants which survived the first early bites of frost, but should long since have been indoors or interred.

Our hearts are warmed to thankfulness by such kindly days. The drums of autumn colour have marched by, there is no pomp of glory left, and we know that the melancholy days are at hand, the bier of the year waiting. Yet a little while the gentleness of heaven and the wistfulness of earth stay with us; our thankful hearts are grateful. What better tribute can we bring than the season's most graceful bounty, the profuse chrysanthemums?

NOTE AND COMMENT

The early bird gets the worm. The later riser may, if he chooses, breakfast on a nice plump bird.

Members of a remote African tribe are reported to laugh when they feel depressed. What a studio audience for a radio show!

A winner in an Ontario ploughing match revealed that he had not previously touched a plough in twelve years. Which just shows that practice is no substitute for talent.

A Detroit tax collector was recently fined $100 for putting a slug in a parking meter. If somebody has to be soaked for a minor display of human weakness it might just as well be a tax collector.

Scientists say that weather control will soon be a reality. Then the already troubled world will have to decide among the sun-bathers, who want brilliant sun, the fishermen who want cloudy weather, and the farmers who want rain: not to speak of the fliers who want calm and the balloonists who want wind, and such oppressed minorities as picnickers, bird watchers, and ladies who want to wash their hair in rainwater.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column, particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

ALPHA: Can you tell me how to spot edible toadstools and mushrooms from poisonous ones?

ANSWER: It is lamentable that so many people in this district do not know the difference, and as a result many hundreds of pounds of luscious, nutritious and delicate mushrooms and related fungi go to waste. This year the wild crop was particularly plentiful, and pounds could be gathered easily and freely, yet people were still paying sixty or eighty cents or more for cultivated ones in shops.

Unfortunately I am one of the many who cannot tell a poisonous fungus from an edible one. Here are some rules put out by the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

1. Avoid fungi when in the button or unexpanded stage; also those in which the flesh has begun to decay, even if only slightly, and those that contain larvae or worm holes.
2. Avoid all fungi in which the cap is thin and very brittle, and in which the gills are nearly all of equal length, especially if the cap is bright coloured.
3. Avoid all fungi which have stalks of swollen base surrounded by a sac-like or scaly envelope, especially if the gills are white.
4. Avoid fungi having a milky juice, unless the milk is reddish.
5. Avoid all tube-bearing fungi in which the flesh changes colour when cut or broken, or where the mouths of the tubes are reddish, and in the case of other tube-bearing fungi experiment with caution. (In other words, eat only in the presence of an alerted doctor.)
6. Avoid all mushrooms which have a bitter or unpleasant taste or unpleasant odour. (That seems to be a good sensible simple rule.)
7. Avoid all mushrooms which are distinctly acrid or biting.
8. In case of doubt discard the plant.

Having got to the end of this laborious catalogue, how can you have anything but doubt? If anybody can supply fewer but equally safe and comprehensive rules, I should be glad to have them. Actually, mushroom-lovers and pickers say it is all quite easy. I suppose the best way is to go mushroom-scrounging with somebody who knows tit from tat, by experience.

QUESTION: Most Peterborough schools have maps advertising Neilson's chocolate bars. If the Coca-Cola company distributed such maps (instead of book-covers) would the Board of Education allow them to adorn the schoolroom?

ANSWER: A pretty question which the Board would have to answer, I not being party to the Board's mind. An irrelevancy occurs to me: some Peterborough homes advertise, on Monday washing lines in their back yards, the Y.M.C.A. and the C.P.R.

DEAR ALPHA: The name "bridge" attached to the popular card game is usually supposed to have come from "Biritch, or Russian Whist", which was the name by which it was first known in England There is apparently no such Russian word as "Biritch"; the nearest thing is "Ierlasch", the name of Russian type of short whist, without a trump suit. As you say, the game apparently came from Greece, and appears to be about a century old.

According to one famous story, "bridge" was introduced to London club life in the autumn of 1894 by Lord Brougham, at the Portland Club. It was certainly known in England before that date, however, for my grandfather learned the game there and he came to Canada in 1892.

RESPONSE: My thanks, and I presume those of the reader who last week asked the question about the derivation of the card-game's name.

SIR: Did Yehudi Menhuin, the famous violinist, play in Peterborough in the year 1941 or 42?

ANSWER: No. Menhuin has never played in Peterborough. Perhaps you are thinking of Zimbalist, who gave a concert in the first season of Community Concerts, on January 24th, 1938. No other violinist of world fame has played in the city in recent years.

INFORMATION about the "Black Bridge" (Inverlea): a veteran reader has kindly volunteered the following: This was a Railway Bridge which crossed the Otonabee River about midway between the Smith Street Bridge (as it was then called) on the north and the now submerged "Goose Island" on the south.

Part of the embankment remains on the east side of the river and the piers which supported it may still be seen when the water is low. It was built of squared timbers strongly fastened together with stout iron rods and large bolts.

The entire superstructure was treated with a coating of tar; hence the name.

✧ ✧ ✧

SIR: When was the Duke of Connaught Governor-General of Canada?

ANSWER: Field Marshal, His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, K.G., was Governor-General of Canada from 1911 to 1916 inclusive.

For your information, the Governors-General of Canada since Confederation have been: Viscount Monck, appointed 1867; Lord Lisgar (Sir John Young), 1868; Earl of Dufferin, 1872; Marquis of Lorne, 1878; Marquis of Lansdowne, 1883; Lord Stanley of Preston, 1888; Earl of Aberdeen, 1893; Earl of Minto, 1898; Earl Grey, 1904; Duke of Connaught, 1911; Duke of Devonshire, 1916; Lord Byng of Vimy, 1921; Viscount Willingdon, 1926; Earl of Bessborough, 1931; Baron Tweedsmuir of Elsfield, 1935; Earl of Athlone, 1940; Viscount Alexander, 1945.

Prince Arthur, Duke of Connaught, who was Governor-General before and during the Great War, lived to a great age, dying only mid-way through this recent war. He was the only prince of royal blood to have been our Governor-General, and was at the time of his death a remarkable link with the past. He was the youngest son of Queen Victoria, and was named Arthur after the Duke of Wellington, victor over Napoleon and hero of Waterloo (1815). The Duke was his godfather, and was present at his christening.

FOR THE RECORD: The business section of the city is definitely moving south. For ten years there has been gambling (property and hypothetical) on whether it would move west along Charlotte or south along George. It was a neck-and-neck race until last year, and business spread substantially both ways, but now George street has out-nosed Charlotte: two big new cinemas and refurbished shops between Charlotte and King; two big store blocks on the west, between King and Sherbrooke; a large new food store on the north-east of Sherbrooke and George, another going up between Sherbrooke and Dalhousie on the west side, and rumours flying of big prices and property changes in the two blocks south of King. King and Sherbrooke have both been paved this autumn, and Sherbrooke is destined to become a through street.

ANY DECOYS THIS YEAR?

Letters To The Editor

WHAT'S YOUR BEEF?

Sir: The assertion made by Another Bystander in Wednesday's edition will not frighten those he claims he will not vote for again. How is he going to get around it if he has to vote for four and not more than five or have his ballot counted in the listing of spoiled ballots?

He could posibly not vote for all he voted for before, but is he one of those who seems to like to see the same line-up because he is used to looking at it, and some others would disfigure the sight he is so used too, as the same listing of successful names? So many say what they will do or not do at an election and they forget all about it. Another Bystander will no doubt, if he is sincere, have to vote for some of those he objects too but he could, if others will run as candidates, vote for one or two others.

What we could do very well with is a Beefer Alderman, one who will hold a meeting for beefing citizens. In this way we would get some where. I will hand him three or four beefs at the first meeting.

I will ask that the Daylight Saving bylaw be published dating back to the very first and step by step to the Dark Saving affair as it is today, and not forgetting what appeared in the Examiner a short time ago that Peterborough could not do as Toronto, and extend the time, owing to a local bylaw.

I will ask for the publication of all that took place at the time the bus company got their franchise and what has transpired ever since. We citizens could not change twenty-five cents into thirty cents so as to have the extra five cents to pay for cars we had bought, or intended to buy.

I would ask the beefers to bring pressure to bear on the Mayor and Council to give the citizens the privilege of voting on the election of our aldermen under the Ward System.

I would like to know if we have citizens who would favour a listener to beefers in our council who will treat the beefs in a wholehearted and vigorous manner.

I am one in favour of the beefer so bring on the beefer candidates. Step up gentlemen.

Yours truly,
MAURICE E. KETCHESON.

RINGING THE BELL ON RATES

Sir: In your issue of Tuesday October 18th you carried an editorial commenting upon the application of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada to the Board of Transport Commissioners for permission to increase its rates.

In that editorial you came to the conclusion that an increase was justified as there had been no change in rates since 1927. Is it not a fact that when the Bell Telephone Company converted its operations in Peterborough from manual telephones to dial telephones, or when the additional exchange was added, that an increase in rates was sought, approved and put into effect?

Some substantial publicity has been given to the company's claim that operating costs have risen 153% in the past nine years and that the revenue from operations has increased only 125%. In your opinion, do such figures, baldly quoted, prove that the company is not making a fair return on its invested capital which, surely is all any public company operating with monopoly privileges can expect to do?

Elsewhere in the same issue, you carry a report on the activities of the City Council wherein you refer to the opportunity given to the Council to file a notice of objection with the Board of Transport within twenty days. Do you know whether this objection is purely a formal notice or whether it must be accompanied by a brief setting out the reasons for the objections taken? If a brief is required, do you think that, by deferring the matter until the next meeting of the council, the aldermen have left themselves sufficient time to study the matter and prepare a brief on this important subject?

Yours faithfully,
TELEPHONE SUBSCRIBER.

(Ed. Note: (a) No general rate increase has been authorized by the Board of Transport since 1927. Higher rates allowed for dial telephones affected Peterborough in 1939, when the city, newly-equipped with dial telephones, went from Group 6 to Group 5 of the authorized regional schedules. The increase was 50 cents a month on business phones, 25 cents a month on residential. (b) The Council is asked to file only a notice of objection within twenty days. Details of the objection —a brief—may be presented later, at a time fixed by the Board for hearings.)

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And the king talked with Gehazi the servant of the man of God, saying, Tell me, I pray thee, all the great things that Elisha hath done. And it came to pass, as he was telling the king how he had restored a dead body to life, that, behold, the woman, whose son he had restored to life, cried to the king for her house and for her land. And Gehazi said, My lord, O king, this is the woman, and this is her son, whom Elisha restored to life. (II Kings 8: 4, 5.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Sing unto the Lord: for he hath done excellent things: this is known in all the earth. (Isa. 12: 5.)

✧ ✧ ✧

He will swallow up death in victory; and the Lord God will wipe away tears from off all faces; and the rebuke of his people shall he take away from off all the earth: for the Lord hath spoken it. And it shall be said in that day, Lo, this is our God: we have waited for him, and he will save us: this is the Lord; we have waited for him, we will be glad and rejoice in his salvation. (Isa. 25: 8, 9.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And it shall come to pass, that whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be delivered: for in mount Zion and in Jerusalem shall be deliverance, as the Lord hath said, and in the remnant whom the Lord shall call. (Joel 2: 32.)

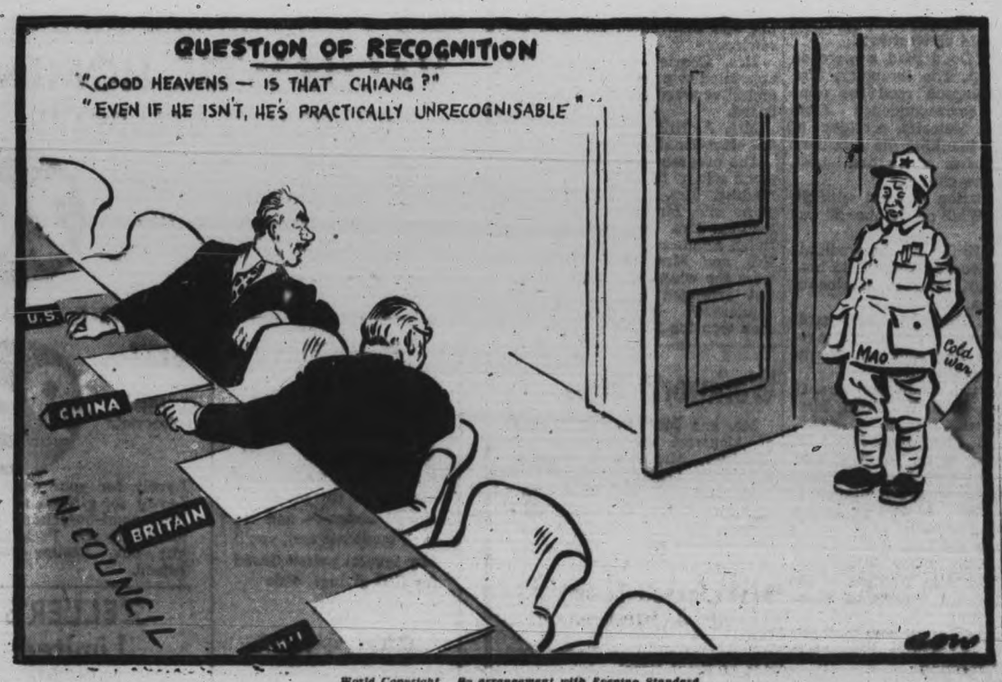
Multitudes, multitudes in the valley of decision: for the day of the Lord is near in the valley of decision. (Joel 3: 14.)



'Of All Strange Words—'

"The Star", says the Toronto Star, "agrees with its evening contemporary...." The point of agreement doesn't matter—the amazing thing, the almost incredible thing, is that on any point the Star and the Telegram should hold, or at least express, similar opinions. It isn't in character. The Star and the Tely are as far apart as black and white in their way of looking at things, and it is assumed in Toronto as a matter of course that they will be on opposite sides of any issue which arises—and each valiantly tossing bricks at the other.

But now, says the Star, it finds something in the Telegram of which it approves, and perhaps this example of sweet reasonableness will not go unnoted in other quarters. It would hardly be more surprising if Moscow were to give UN its atomic secrets.

Peterborough Welcomes the Third Field Park Company

(ROYAL CANADIAN ENGINEERS)

On Their First Annnal Reunion

Saturday, October 22nd, 1949

The 3rd Fd Pk Coy, Royal Canadian Engineers were recruited in Peterborough, August 8, 1940. This Unit comprised at that time Sappers from the Peterborough District although in the war years to follow it took men on strength from all parts of the Dominion. Capt Walker was Officer Commanding this Unit and remained O.C. until some time later when the Unit moved to Camp Debert, Nova Scotia in Oct. 1940.

This famous Engineers Coy, remained in Debert, Nova Scotia, until the Unit strength was complete and on 23rd August 1941 it sailed for England where it took on the various duties of an Engineer Unit including the building of a Bailey Bridge and Pontoon for His Majesty the King. This Coy now comprised a part of the 3rd Cdn Division – the Division that was to lead the Cdn Assault on France, June 6, 1944.

The 3rd Fd Pk Coy, men and equipment worked hand in hand with other Units of the Cdn Army and took part in such famous battles as Normandy, Gruchy, Caen, Falaise, Boulogne, Calais, The Schelde, Ghent, Nijmegen, Reischwald Forest, Cleve, The Rhine, Emmerich, Ems River and finally to Aurich where on May 5, 1945, the fighting on the Cdn Front was officially ended in complete victory for the Allies.

Tomorrow, Saturday, October 22nd, these men and their wives will meet here in Peterborough to renew old acquaintances and to relive those days gone by. The City of Peterborough welcomes the 3rd Fd Pk Coy and hopes the Engineers will have a grand and glorious reunion.

Grove Triumphs For Title In School Loop

Grove Public School junior soccer team won the championship Thursday afternoon from May's eleven 1-0 after two overtime periods before a good crowd of fans.

May's forwards were more aggressive to confine Grove inside their own territory, particularly their half-back line of Burns, Shaw and McGrath, frustrating many attacks led by Linsey who was dangerous around goal. The second half saw both elevens concentrating on combination which brought out superb tactics by the full backs. May's School dominated the situation at this point and found Hotson and Hunter unbeatable.

First overtime period resulted in no scoring with both custodians making spectacular saves. Just before the final whistle in the second overtime, Grove kept up a steady pressure on May's territory. A throw-in by Duncan was gathered up by Linsey who shot for goal. Clark blocked the ball but Hargreaves banged the rebound into the goal to win the championship.

May's School—K. Orgill, goal; D. Clark and W. Griffin, goal; R Burns, R. Shaw, and E. McGrath, half backs; J. McFadden, G. Greenies, F. Chambo, M. McFadden and K. Dunstan forwards; subs: R. Marshall, G. McFadden and W. Tully.

Grove—R. Wood, goal; J. Hotson and B. Hunuter, full backs; G. Duncan, J. Bailey and F Davey, half backs; B. Copping, W. Simmons, R. Linsey, W. Hargreaves and W. Little forwards; subs: J. Copping, R. Gardner, R. Sanders and G. Keene.

Remember When—

The executive of Ottawa Rough-riders, Big Four rugby team, sent a formal protest to the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union nine years ago over alleged rough play when Tony Golab was injured in a game with Argonauts the previous Saturday. Golab was on the injured list for the remainder of the season.

Football Takes Sports Stage Over Weekend

By The Canadian Press

Senior football presents an eight-game program this weekend and post-season playoff hopes ride on six of them.

In the East's Big Four League, Toronto Argonauts and Montreal Alouettes will wage their battle for the second and last playoff position on separate fronts tomorrow. Argos play in Toronto against Ottawa Rough Riders, who are assured of no worse than a tie for first place, while Alouettes meet the Wildcats in Hamilton.

Unless the winless Wildcats can upset the Als—and Coach Frank Gnup says they can—a loss would be just about fatal for Argos. They would then need to beat Ottawa and Montreal in their two remaining games just to tie Alouettes for second place.

Can't Afford Mistakes

Lew Hayman's Alouettes are in no position to make mistakes either, even though their remaining schedule looks easier with two games against Wildcats besides the Argos Meeting. The Als beat Wildcats handily in their first two meetings but the prospect of going two successive Big Four seasons without a victory has the Gnuppers gnashing their teeth.

Windsor Rockets also are backed to the wall in the Ontario Union. Two points behind the second-place Sarnia Imperials, Rockets must upset the league-leading Hamilton Tigers at Windsor. If they don't—and if Imps do the expected by beating Toronto Balmy Beach at Sarnia—Windsor's playoff chances will be little better than mathematical.

However, a Windsor victory or a Sarnia loss would leave the playoff post dependent on the two dates the teams have with each other—Oct. 26 at Sarnia and Nov. 5 at Windsor.

Sweeps Marked By Men In City League

Three sweeps were registered in the Men's City Five-Pin League as Shockey's, Tem and De Laval blanked Bond Clothes, Esquires and McGillis. The balance of the matches were won 4 point to 2. Shockey's took high pinnage with 3570 and Fashion Craft high single game with 1335.

Highlight of the evening was Jack Ferguson's high triple of 883 and his single game of 386. Jack started his second game with nine strikes but missed in the tenth frame. Jack Murray rolled 843, Bill Martin 827 and Alex Miller 816.

Good single games were rolled by Alex Miller 352, George Robertson 330, Bill Martin 326, Tic Caccavella 324, Jack Mackness 322, Clarence Downer 305, Doug Abraham 302 and Eric Martin 300.

Shockey's and Tem are tied for first place with 22 points. The results:

Two Goalies Star

By The Associated Press

Two goalies performed in star roles Thursday night in the United States Hockey League.

St. Paul lost its first game of the season and Kansas City picked up its first victory as the Mohawks won at St. Paul, 4-3.

Jim Henry, Kansas City goalie, sparkled in that game, giving the Saints a goal early in the first period, then holding them scoreless until midway through the third. But that time Kansas City had a 4-1 lead. Henry had 40 stops for the night.

Gordon Fashoway led the winners knocking in a goal in the first 15 seconds, getting an assist on another later in that period, and scoring again in the third period.

Minneapolis scored a 4-0 shutout at Tulsa with goalie Harry McQueston leading an airtight defence.

Very Confusing?

Al Simmons and Earle Brucker were dismissed as coaches by Philadelphia Athletics because they did not measure up to their job, a club official said Thursday night.

Connie Mack, Jr., treasurer of the Athletics, said that his famous father, owner-manager Connie Mack, knew beforehand that the board of directors was going to vote Simmons and Brucker out of jobs and "was in complete agreement."

"The confusion was caused by the fact that dad just hated to part with his two old friends," Connie Jr., said in a radio interview.

"But he knew it was for the best interest for the ball club and went along," the younger Mack added.

"After all, and let there be no mistake about this, dad still is running this ball club. Many people don't believe that a man of 86 is capable of leading a big league club. But Connie Mack is and does."

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC PERDUE, Sports Editor.

So you like those little tales we drop into the Show Window from time to time? No, we don't steal 'em—just write them up when we get time. Here's one that occurred a year ago. Yeah, end of last October, in fact. Sun had retired in pink pajamas as crisp evening breezes swept warm air pockets away to the west. Moon had climbed well above Armour Hill, the color and shape the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce revels in for tourist pamphlets. Few lights filtered out on the street, Hydro restrictions having set in. Nor were there many abroad just then on Rogers St. in the block below Hazlitt.

* * * * * * *

An umpire, whom we shall call Eddie, was preparing to leave his hosts. Waving aside advice to cut across the London St. foot bridge or else call a cab, he decided he'd stroll down through Ashburnham and cross the Hunter St. span. Air would do him good. But recently, Eddie had broken training as the season ended. A hard season. The wolves had howled mercilessly all through the lengthy playoffs. Epithets and names which bounced lightly off his broad shoulders in July were jabbing the epidermis a bit painfully as September bowed out. 'Twas a tough season and tonight he broke training.

* * * * * * *

Even Umps Are Human

Not to any great extent, one hastens to add, nor for any protracted period. Just a brief fall to relax tightened nerves. Only a few belts, followed by a dime cigar. He knew he shouldn't and he'd be sorry tomorrow—but umpires are human, too. So, he bade farewell and strolled a trifle unsteadily down the darkened street. The gloom and his eyes (none the best, of course) conspired to conceal a horrible image aprpoaching out of Stanley Ave. A hollow groan jerked his glance to the side and Eddie gaped and gasped as a white-shrouded thing floated toward him. It was a horrible sight.

* * * * * * *

Well, sir—and you, madam—Eddie threw one stricken glance away and there erupting from Clifton St. opposite his numbed nibs a doubly fiendish sight hove into view. It was the chief of fallen angels glowing evilly from head horns to spiked tail—and on his arm a babbling and ghoulish witch so black she made the night seem gray. Their baleful eyes bored into Eddie's frozen figure and they moved slowly toward him. Now Eddie had his share of umpirical troubles in the past—he had been more than once the centre of a boiling mob of diamond fanatics—but he now knew this was it. He was either sent for because of baseballic crimes, or he had the D.T.s. And neither was good.

* * * * * * *

Came Time To Depart

Nature rarely tempts one beyond one's endurance, and Eddie's feet suddenly came unstuck. Just as he saw a head-dressed Indian walking hand-in-hand with a huge ape hailing from down Douro St. way. Eddie was nearly surrounded, so he whirled and dashed madly back toward his hosts' house. En route, he passed a runty Santa Claus who gaped openly as groans floated back from the flying figure. Eddie burst through the door and gasped out broken explanations to the surprised folks inside. He finally calmed down a bit and said wearily: "Call me a cab, please. And don't ever offer me anything more potent than weak tea again. I've had it."

* * * * * * *

Well, to shorten a painful tale—anyway, things are quiet today along the local sports' front—Umpire Eddie's cab came, or so he thought. At a knock, he hurried to the door and flung it open. A short guy with no head and a tall bunny with protruding teeth met his startled gaze. Simultaneously and loudly they yelled: "Boo!" As mentioned before, it had been a hard season and those umping nerves were still jumping. Nature simply slipped a little and tempted Eddie beyond endurance. He fainted away. Oh, they revived him alright and got him away in a cab shortly, but they never told him what happened. In fact, we doubt to this day if he ever realized that he had been abroad on Hallowe'en.

Barbershop Quartets Return To Cobourg?

COBOURG, Oct. 21 (ENS) — The day of the barbershop quartet, immortalized in the shows of the gay nineties, is coming back again, at least in Cobourg. The SPEBSQSA, which stretched out means "The Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in North America," will hold an organization meeting here on October 25 with Fred Trestrail of Toronto as speaker. As a result of the meeting it is hoped to have a Cobourg branch of the SPEB, etc. Judging from some of the singing that goes on at the local service clubs, the singing will at least be enthusiastic.

Boxing Council Plans Club In Ashburnham Hall

Preparations are under way by the Administrative Boxing Council for the starting of a boxing club in the Ashburnham Hall. Already the Council has bought a heavy bag, two fast bags, four sets of gloves for training, skipping ropes, and punching bag mitts. The ring will be situated on the stage with the back wall well padded.

Jack Dane, recreational director, said that although the ring was not quite deep enough it was wider than the standard ring. Although unable to say when the club will begin operations there, Mr. Dane said that the club will use the hall at least three nights a week, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Mondays and Wednesdays, would be training nights while Friday nights would be used for boxing shows. The shows would act as an incentive for the boys to join the club, he added.

Opposes Umpires Under Chandler

NEW YORK, Oct. 21—(AP)—President Ford Frick, of the National League, said today he would be "unalterably opposed" to placing the umpiring of the two major baseball leagues under the authority of Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler.

There have been seemingly inspired reports since the World Series that the baseball commissioner means to introduce such a measure at the winter meetings here in December.

D. Hendren High

Eagles blanked Bobolinks 4-0, Easy Aces won 3-1 over Rookies, and Wrens split even with Majorettes in the Kawartha Girls' Bowling League. Eagles had high three of 2605 and Easy Aces best single of 941. Doris Hendren, of Wrens, was best in individual scores with a 699 cross and neat 315 single.

Atkins Beats Toar Morgan With Two Falls In A Row

Like Sam McGee of Tennessee, Toar Morgan of the same state spent quite a spell up Alaska way. And better for him had he stayed there. Because McGee was only burned alive almost, but what happened to Toar at the Brock Arena last night shouldn't happen to Stalin. Fred Atkins, Australian heavy champ, nearly ruined Morgan as a matman in the main bout. And in two straight falls. A goodly crowd saw a lively grapple program with the main go ending fast.

Morgan, weighing 228, wasn't too good a match for Atkins, bumping the beam at 250. It is true that Toar was faster and a slick man at applying holds.—and he also had an edge in boxing having worn the gloves at one time—but Atkins was just too tough. The well-built and short-tempered Aussie had the pull on weights and he also played it plenty rough and ruthless. He took the first fall in 18½ minutes when Referee Bert Maxwell halted proceedings. Morgan suffered a strained and bruised shoulder when thrown hard twice into the turnbuckles after being thrown twice out of the ring by the aggressive Australian, and Toar couldn't continue.

He Insisted

The referee tried to dissuade Morgan from going back for the second round, but Toar insisted. He attempted to keep Fred off by boxing, but the big Aussie got in under a jab and went to work again on that painful left arm and shoulder. A punishing hammerlock had Morgan writhing in pain and again Maxwell stopped the bout, Atkins promptly adding a kick to his fallen foe as the crowd booed. It lasted just three minutes and Atkins was a handy, if unpopular, winner. He strode belligerently through a hostile crowd with three policemen flanking him.

Frank Taylor, 230, won the semi-final in 24 minutes over rough 238-pound Dan O'Connor when he took four body slams and then crossed the irisher up with a quick reverse leglock for the fall. O'Connor apparently had him slowed up by pulling the old hidden rope trick—a cord concealed in his trunks—for rasping and choking purposes. However, Taylor came back strong to earn the popular win. He had Dan in plenty of trouble earlier with a stiff armlock to offset illegal tactics employed at every opportunity by big Daniel, who went all the way out in a vain attempt to gain the decision. The crowd was happy at the finish.

A Hot Bout

The prelim was a sizzler with both Tiger Tasker, weighing 226, and Antone Leone, three pounds less, being counted out at the 26-minute mark. They were out of the ring and battling among the spectators as the count beat them. They tussled afterward and on the way upstairs later, Tasker threw a chair at Antone, It broke out again in the dressing room, with Atkins stepping in to halt the rough-and-tumble. Tasker used dirty tactics throughout in a hot scrap and Antone took a beating but got the cheers. Late in the go, Leone got in there to hold his own but it ended in wild disorder.

Say Canadiens Surprise Team Of NHL Season

By JACK MITCHELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Take a look around the National Hockey League after one week's play and see how little different everything looks.

Montreal Canadiens, with three victories in three starts, are the big surprise. The remainder of the old order seems barely changed from what it was when the six teams left off league warfare last season to begin the Stanley Cup jousting.

Detroit Red Wings, last season's league champions, are in second place with two wins and a loss. One point behind, Boston Bruins, who finished second to Detroit, are tied for third with Toronto Maple Leafs, who went on to win the Stanley Cup after squeezing into fourth place.

And Chicago Black Hawks and New York Rangers, the two teams that finished out of last season's playoffs, again share doormat duties. Each has only a tie in three starts.

Sharing surprise honors with Canadiens showing so far is an apparent fall-off in attendance. The drop is notably in the United States centres of Boston and Detroit and it may merely mean hockey is starting too soon after the world series and too much on top of football.

Smaller Crowd

Whatever the reason, Detroit's Olympia had its smallest crowd in nine years Wednesday night when the Wings whipped Rangers 6-1. Paid attendance was 9,507, some 3,000 fewer than a sell-out.

There was plenty of elbow-room, too, at Boston when Coach Buck Boucher's Bruins swamped Chicago 7-4. Only 10,626 paid their way into the Garden, which can accommodate 13,900.

Neither Rangers nor Hawks have inaugurated their home season yet so there's no indication if the trend extends to New York and Chicago.

Despite their triumphs, Canadiens haven't been able to jam the Montreal Forum to its 12,100 capacity. A total of 10,811 watched them beat Chicago and 10,573 saw them beat Rangers.

Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens, with an official capacity of 14,500, drew 13,427 to see the Leafs tie Chicago and 13,645 to watch them beaten by Canadiens.

Barons Drop St. Louis 5-1 In 4th Victory

By The Canadian Press

Cleveland Barons today are not only firmly established atop the Western Division of the American Hockey League but they are also the sole remaining undefeated team in the loop.

The Barons cacked up their fourth straight victory of the young season Thursday night by blasting St. Louis Flyers, last year's Western Division champions, by a 5-1 score at Cleveland.

Meanwhile, in the Eastern Division, New Haven Ramblers moved back into a first place tie with Buffalo Bisons by edging the Bisons 3-2 at New Haven.

In the only other game of the evening, the newly-formed Cincinnati Mohawks captured their first victory in five starts by outscoring Indianapolis Capitals 6-5. It marked the Caps first loss of the season.

Johnny Holota paced the Barons to victory with a brace of goals while Steve Kraftcheck, Steve Wochy and Fred Thurrier fired one apiece. Eddie Olson scored the lone St. Louis goal late in the second period.

At New Haven the teams traded goals in the first period with the Bisons drawing first blood on Gordie Davidson's long shot. Fern Perrault knotted the count shortly before the end of the session.

Phil Gordon shot New Haven into a 2-1 lead early in the second stanza and the Ramblers held to their advantage until 9:54 of the final period when Tommy Cooper evened the count. Steve Hrymnak scored the winner.

Little Taxpayer Finds Few Changes In Budget

By JOHN LEBLANC

OTTAWA, Oct. 21 (CP)—Going Santa Claus one better, Mr. Abbott came around twice this year.

But so far as the little taxpayer was concerned, he could as well have called off Thursday night's second budget visit.

For the finance minister unloaded his pack of gifts for Canadians last March, and in this reintroduction of his 1949-50 budget there was nothing to cause the man-in-the-street to throw his hat in the air.

Spread across the country, the minor tax cuts will run to something under $1 a head per year for each Canadian.

In all, they won't amount to more than $11,000,000 a year.

Among individuals, the only ones who will benefit to any noticeable extent from Thursday night's budget are users of fuel oil for heating and lighting, and holders of preferred stock in Canadian companies.

8% Tax Off

The budget slices off the eight-per-cent sales tax on fuel oil of this kind. That might mean around a cent a gallon if it is passed to the customer.

But, as it works out, about all the cut will do for many householders is to make up for an increase just put into effect by oil companies as a consequence of dollar devaluation.

The oil tax reduction is expected to amount to $10,000,000 altogether — including what is saved by users of industrial oil.

Something less than $1,000,000 will be the amount saved to holders of preference stock, who will be able to charge up 10 per cent of their dividends against their personal tax bill. In the earlier budget, this concession had been given only to common stock holders.

Aim of that move was to stimulate investment in the share capital of Canadian companies.

The third—and last—tax reduction is, by Mr. Abbott's admission, "very small." It cuts the excise tax on apple cider and other weak wines from 50 to 25 cents a gallon. It's aimed at benefitting the apple industry, rather than the consumer.

Canada To Seek Tariff Cuts

OTTAWA, Oct. 21 (CP) — Canada will seek more agreements for reciprocal tariff reductions next year, Finance Minister Abbott said Thursday night in his budget speech.

One big tariff cut will come into effect at the first of the year when the reductions negotiated at the recent annecy trade conference become operative.

In addition, plans are being made for another set of multilateral negotiations next year when Canada will seek tariff cuts on trade with the United States and other signatories of the Geneva Tariff Agreements, involving 22 countries.

Mr. Abbott recalled that in his original 1949-50 budget speech in March he had said the government planned to seek a new trade agreement with the U. S., similar to previous pacts. The U. S. Congress now had renewed the reciprocal trade pacts and the President had given "most encouraging" leadership in "the task of removing barriers to world trade."

Abbott Reveals Three Tax Cuts

OTTAWA, Oct. 21 — (CP) — Here, in brief, are the additional tax cuts announced Thursday night by Finance Minister Abbott:

1. The eight-per-cent sales tax is removed from fuel oils used for heating or lighting. This is expected to knock $10,000,000 from the Canadian tax bill.

2. Personal income taxes are reduced by 10 per cent of the amount each taxpayer receives in dividends from preferred stock. This is expected to lower income-tax revenue by $1,000,000.

3. Excise taxes on cider with an alcoholic content of less than seven per cent of proof spirits are cut from 50 cents to 25 cents a gallon. This is expected to make very little difference in government revenues.

Buys Cartage Interest

TORONTO, Oct. 21 (CP)—Hanson Haulage Ltd., largest independent road haulage firm in Britain before nationalization of the transport industry, has obtained a substantial interest in Crawford Cartage Ltd., of Hamilton, it was announced Thursday by Planning Minister Griesinger of Ontario. Permission to make the transaction was granted by the British treasury.

TWO OF A KIND—Two Barbara Ann Scotts got together when the skating Barbara Ann met Vancouver's Barbara Ann, 14-year-old high school pupil. They sipped a milkshake together as skater Scott gave encouragement and advice to would-be skater Scott. The latter plans to take to the ice for lessons this winter.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Has football's golden boy — Tony Golab—played his last game?

"Very probably," the 31-year-old star said at Ottawa Thursday in an interview. But the Ottawa Rough Rider plunging powerhorse, with a sore arm and his left leg swathed in a hip-length cast, wants to play just one more.

On six all-star teams and seven Big Four all-star selections since he joined Riders in 1939, he'd like to play on what he figures will be the winning team in the 1949 Grey Cup final.

He's sure that game will be Ottawa against Calgary Stampeders, as last year, and that Ottawa will come out on top. It would be his first turn on a winning Grey Cup team, although he played for Riders in 1941 when they got the cup by default after the west failed to enter a contender. Last year Calgary won 12-7.

But Tony's injuries, collected in a game with Montreal Alouettes Oct. 8, may keep him out for the rest of the year. And he decided this summer would be his last season in football.

Whether he'll be able to play that last game depends on what is under the cast. Neither Tony nor the doctors will know for sure until the cast comes off — probably in a week or so.

Visiting grid delegates to the Red Feather football game at Toronto tonight and tomorrow are in for a busy week-end.

Besides playing football, the delegates, from the Ontario cities of Sarnia, Windsor, Ottawa, Sudbury, Peterborough and Hamilton will be entertained at a banquet tonight; attend a special movie Saturday morning; be received at a civic reception at the city hall; attend a civic banquet in the afternoon; be guests of Toronto Argonauts at the Ottawa-Argonaut game and dine at the Royal Yacht Club before the final pair of games Saturday night.

Then they can go home.

Ambidextrous Davis Cupper Lorne Main, Vancouver, will not participate in Canada's two-man tennis team at the Invitational Pan-American Tournament in Mexico next week.

The youthful star said at Vancouver Thursday he is unable to take time off from the University of California to attend the meet.

The other half of Canada's invited team—Montreal's Canadian champion Henri Rochon—is uncertain whether he will make the trip south.

Cecil Champion, 43-year-old Winchester harness-racing driver holds the title of leading reinsman at the Saratoga raceway's fall meeting. Raceway statistics released Thursday showed champion captured 10 firsts, nine seconds and seven thirds while reining 44 mounts. His average was .394.

Name Ross, Bain To Hall Of Fame

KINGSTON, Oct. 21 (CP) — Two new members have been elected to the International Hockey Hall of Fame, it was announced today.

They are Art Ross, vice-president and general manager of the National Hockey League's Boston Bruins and Donald Bain, recognized as one of the greatest amateur players of his day.

James B. Garvin, president of the Hall of Fame, made the announcement and said the elections first since February, 1947, now bring the total elected to 18.

Sixty-four-year-old Ross, a native of Westmount, Que., played for 29 years, 17 of them as professional, and was outstanding as player, referee, coach and manager in the NHL.

Bain, 75-year-old resident of Winnipeg, made his achievements before the dawning of the professional game and therefore never played profession hockey. He played with the Winnipeg Victorias, Stanley Cup winners in 1895-96 and 1900-01 seasons.

No More Securities Offered Till April 1

OTTAWA, Oct. 21 (CP) — Apart from the current issue of Canada Savings Bonds, the government will not make any general public offering of securities before next March 31, Finance Minister Abbott announced Thursday night in his budget speech.

He said that during the current fiscal year the government had a "notable" record of financing.

Late in August, it had had a "strikingly successful" quotation in the United States, getting a price of 100.25 on a $100,000,000 issue of 2¾-per-cent bonds.

In the domestic market, the government had arranged for redemption or refinancing of a heavy volume of security issues which either had matured or been called for payment to take advantage of lower interest rates.

In all, these domestic transactions involved $982,400,000. Of that amount, $682,400,000 had been financed from cash surplus and the sale of government-held securities.

Wine Tax Concession Said Of Little Benefit

TORONTO, Oct. 21 — (CP) — Wine merchants say the tax concession granted to wines in the revised federal budget will be of little benefit to them.

The tax on cider and other wines containing less than seven per cent of proof spirits was reduced from 50 to 25 cents a gallon.

Frank Torno, president of Danforth Wines Ltd., said Thursday night that the average sweet wine contains from 14 to 18 per cent proof spirits. Dry wines contain about 11 per cent and they cannot be sold unless they contain at least seven per cent.

"I don't know of any wine sold in Canada which contains less than seven per cent proof spirits," said Mr. Torno.

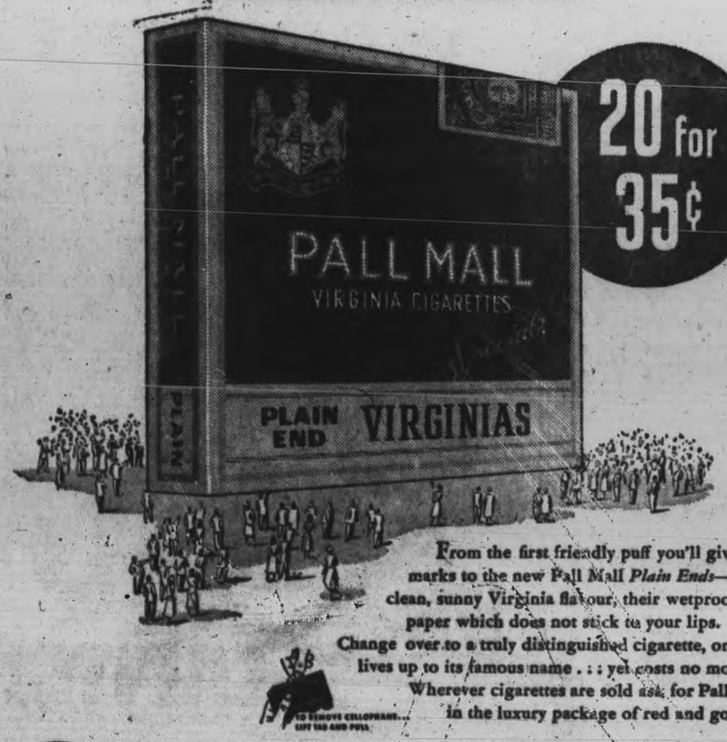
Rap German Officials

DUSSELDORF, Germany, Oct. 21 (AP)—British occupation officials Thursday sharply told German officials in the Ruhr not to interfere with the dismantling of German industry. Britain ordered district president Kurt Baurichter to cancel fines and "stop work" directives he had issued against four firms which, under British orders, had been dismantling industrial plants.

Postpone Proposal

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (CP) — The United Nations Assembly on Thursday decided to postpone drafting of a convention on freedom of information until its next session. At the same time the Assembly directed the Human Rights Commission to include "adequate provisions on freedom of information" in the covenant of human rights which it is drawing up.

Won't Discuss Vote



OTTAWA, Oct. 21 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent declined Thursday in the Commons to disclose how Canada voted in the election of a new member to the Security Council of the United Nations. Yugoslavia got the seat with 39 votes compared to 19 for Czechoslovakia. A total of 31 votes was necessary to assure election. It has been the unbroken practice of the government not to disclose Canada's stand on secret ballots.

Rescue Firewatcher

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Oct. 21—(CP)—A Saskatchewan government rescue plane landed here Thursday with a para-rescue team and a 61-year-old provincial government firewatcher who had been stranded in muskeg country 100 miles north. The two smoke jumpers, George Horn and Jeep McKay jumped to held firewatcher Olie Wickers, stranded when a small lake froze over and prevented a pontoon-equipped plane from landing.

10,300 Plates Arrive For Next Year

Licence plates totalling 10,300 for 1950 have arrived at the Chamber of Commerce office. The 206 boxes, 50 plates to a box, weigh close to five tons, James Dorris, secretary of the Chamber said Thursday.

The plates have white letters on a black background and will not go on sale until January, Mr. Dorris said.

About 1,500 licence plates for trucks and trailers have yet to arrive, he added. In 1948 the Chamber of Commerce issued 1640 plates for trucks and 980 for trailers. This was an increase of 10 percent over 1947's figures and he expected the same increase in 1950 over the 1949 figures.

Mr. Dorris said that he expects the 10,300 car licence plates will not be sufficient to fill the Peterborough area demand and that at least 11,000 will be required. The figures for 1948 show that the Chamber issued 9,480 licence plates to owners in the Peterborough area.

Mr. Dorris said that in 1948 the Chamber issued over 16,000 driver's permits which was 7,000 more than plates for cars in the area. In the same year, he added, 2,720 beginner's licences were filed at the Chamber of Commerce office.

To Head Highlanders

CORNWALL, Oct. 21 (CP) — Major A. M. Irvine, of Cornwall has been appointed to succeed Lt.-Col. D. R. Dick as commanding officer of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders reserve battalion it was announced Thursday. Col. Dick will retire Oct. 31.

KASHMIR OBSERVERS—One of the five areas of the world where the United Nations keep a continuous observation is Kashmir, a state bordering on both India and Pakistan with an area of 82,000 square miles and a poplation of four million. A UN-invoked "cease-fire" order brought peace to the region until plebiscite can be held to decide whether Kashmir will become part of either India or Pakistan. To maintain peace, UN observers, picked from member nations including Canada, patrol the area. This UN photo (left) shows Lt.-Col. Harry Angle of Kelowna, BC, (right) discussing with Lt.-Col. Subma Chand, an Indian commander, a reported unauthorized advance by opposing troops. Having crossed the front line of the India troops, Lt.-Col. Angle and Lt. Willkie (right) meet the Pakistan force holding the sector against the Indian soldiers. Lt. Willkie is carrying a UN flag for identification by the observers. They check the positions of the unit and hear a counter complaint the Indians are reinforcing their side of the "cease-fire" line.

Woman Aged 75 Makes Trip To England Via Airplane

It's not many people who think of taking jaunts across the Atlantic by themselves when they reach the ago of 75 but that is what Mrs. Ellen Long, 367 Bethune St. did this summer. She made the 3000 miles trip to England by air to visit her brother and sister and take another look at the old family home in Berkshire.

It's just like stepping into a car—a good car—Mrs. Long says as she describes the flight. Although her first time in the air, she was not at all concerned and her main thrill was the speed with which she arrived at her former home.

Third Visit Home

This was the third visit to England for Mrs. Long since she left with her husband the late. Roland Long and family 40 years ago. The last visit was in 1926 and the time before was in 1919.

Mrs. Long was appalled by the bomb damage she saw in Leytonstone, a suburb of London. But they are doing their best to brighten it up, she says and everywhere new coats of paint are going on.

The rations are poor she says—only a tiny piece of butter and small quantity of cooking fats and perhaps two rashers of bacon. But the people look so healthy she says. They're fat and have lovely complexions and the babies look so well.

With little regard for her 75 years, Mrs. Long joined a party of Cubs and Boy Scouts when they spent a day at the sea. "I took off my shoes and stockings and paddled in the sea" she said with delight, when recalling her exciting holiday.

"I would love to go back again next year, she said. Her parents, whom she saw last when she went over to join their 60th wedding anniversary celebration, are no longer living, but she has a brother and sister with whom she stayed this summer.

Buckhorn Institute Plans Activities

The October meeting of the Buckhorn W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. R. Montgomery.

The roll call was a shrub I would like to plant in my garden.

The Oratorical Contest for this section is to be held in Buckhorn on October 26.

On October 25 a demonstration and supper is being sponsored by the branch. Alex Kay is to give a talk on "Birds" on November 1.

Mrs. Shearer read from the handbook "The duties of Conveners of Standing Committees". Mrs. Pearson gave a very interesting talk on "Introductions."

Mrs. Dunsford, convener for agriculture, took charge of the meeting. A paper was read by Mrs. Mason "Not all insects are destructive." Mrs. R. Armstrong gave "Hints on Agricultural Plants."

A paper on petunias was read by Mrs. Reeves several poems. "There will always be a Garden", "The Maple Leaves are Turning" "This I Remember Best" and "Thanksgiving" were read.

The meeting closed with the Institute Creed after which the committee served refreshments.

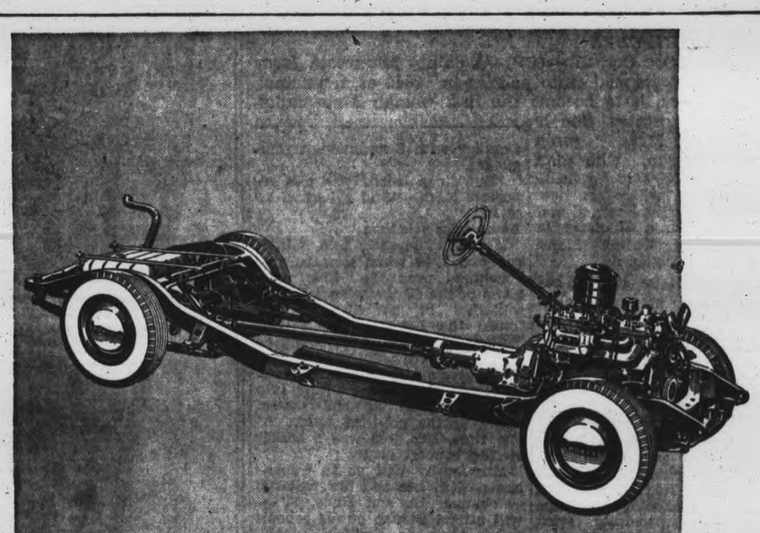
The Smooth Dodge Ride starts with the Dodge CHASSIS... a part of Dodge Dependability

DRIVE A NEW DODGE and one of the first things you'll notice is its riding smoothness. It's something more than the result of luxurious upholstery and "knee-level" seating comfort — it starts with the chassis.



On the right are described some of the outstanding chassis features which cushion road bumps . . . absorb shock and sway . . . eliminate vibration — to help bring you this smooth Dodge ride. In addition, the Dodge chassis has the ruggedness which assures you long, troublefree life — famous as Dodge Dependability.

That's just part of the extra value which makes your Dodge dollar a bigger dollar.

Take a look at what Dodge gives you in beauty, roominess and performance. There's extra head and leg room, front and back . . . flashing performance of the powerful Dodge engine . . . extra smoothness of Fluid Drive on Custom models . . . and many other outstanding comfort, safety and performance features.

Let your Dodge dealer tell you why you'll drive more smoothly with Dodge . . . and how your dollars will go farther.

CHECK THESE "EXTRA" FEATURES WHICH ARE STANDARD EQUIPMENT ON THE NEW DODGE
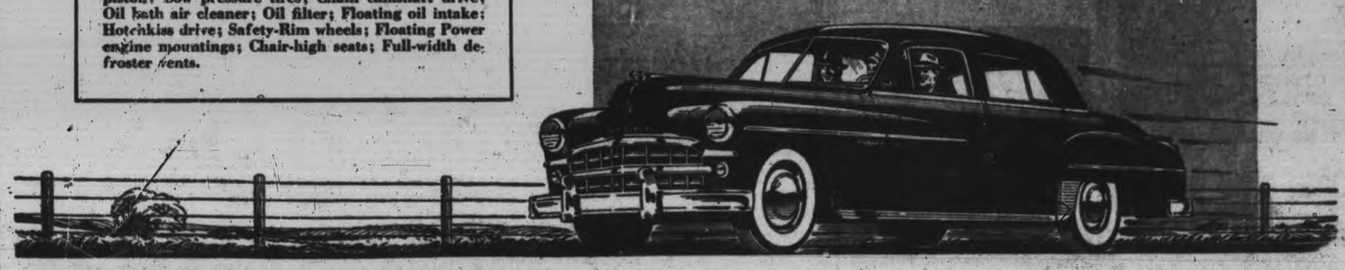
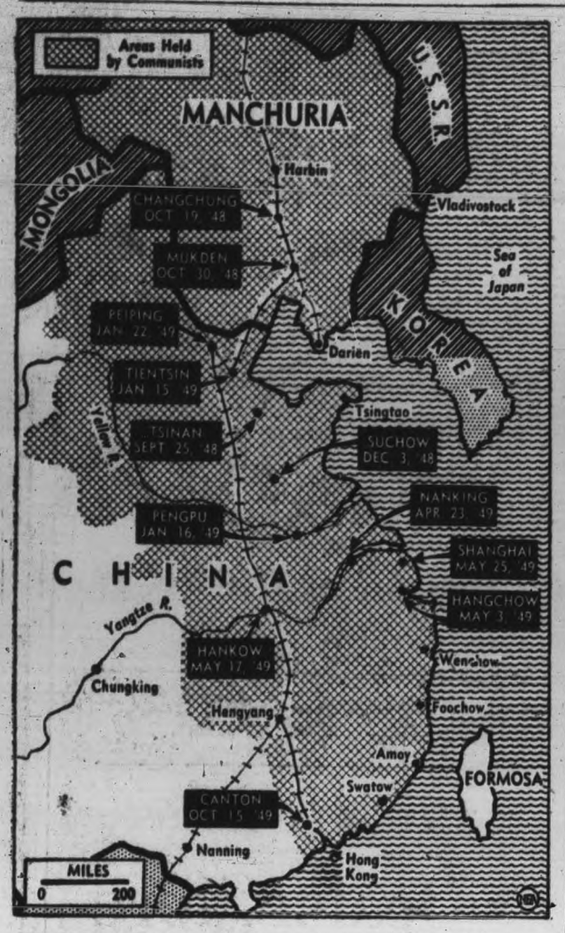
Automatic electric choke; Automatic ignition key starting; Aluminum alloy pistons; Four rings per piston; Low pressure tires; Chain camshaft drive; Oil bath air cleaner; Oil filter; Floating oil intake; Hotchkiss drive; Safety-Rim wheels; Floating Power engine mountings; Chair-high seats; Full-width de froster vents.



RUBBER INSULATION is a substantial contributor to the famous Dodge Floating Ride. There are soft, thick rubber cushions at all points of contact between the body and chassis. In addition, rubber limit bumpers on the springs eliminate hard metal-to-metal spring contact even under the most severe road conditions.

SHOCK ABSORBERS of "sea-leg" type are mounted on the rear axle to counteract side-sway. Dodge airplane-type double-action shock absorbers, front and rear, "rub out" road irregularities. Shock absorbers on the new Dodge have been raised 5 inches as added protection against flying stones and dirt.



INDEPENDENT FRONT WHEEL SUSPENSION allows each front wheel literally to "step over" obstructions without transmitting the jar to the body. These independent coil springs are of tough Amola steel.

FRAME CONSTRUCTION is box-type of double-channel, welded steel to give great stability, safety and long life. Front and rear bumpers are attached to the frame, the front bumper having a reinforcement plate for greater strength.

BALANCED WEIGHT DISTRIBUTION is an important factor in the smooth Dodge ride. The Dodge engine is located over the front axle and the rear seat is ahead of the rear wheels. The result is a car which holds the road and handles safely and easily. All passengers are cradled between the front and rear wheels where the ride is smoothest.

Trying To Reach Non Churchgoers

ROSENEATH, Oct 21 (ENS)—Evangelism was the theme of a panel discussion led by Mrs Douglas Coyle at the October meeting of the WMS of Roseneath United Church on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Earl Waldie. The second vice-president, Mrs. Albert Halstead presiding.

Different forms of evangelism were discussed as a means of reaching the non-church attendant. The conclusion of this discussion resulted in three methods: education evangelism, preaching mission evangelism and visitation evangelism. Mrs. Fred Lewis and Mrs. T. S. Coyle assisted Mrs. Douglas Coyle in leading the discussion.

Scripture readings were given by Mrs. A. Nill, Mrs. Ford Derry and Mrs. J. N. Lovelace.

The date of the thankoffering service and the guest speaker were left with the executive.

Mrs. Fred Lewis and Mrs. Delbert Brisbin were appointed a nominating committee to bring in a slate of officers for the annual meeting.

Plans were made for the November meeting with Mrs. A. Nill in charge of the program and Mrs. Fred Lewis in charge of the study book.

Letters of thanks were read from recipients of good cheer and sympathy cards.

Mrs. Delbert Brisbin was in charge of the program and discussion "what part can we as WMS members play in the advance of the church?" Readings were given by Mrs. A. Nill, Mrs Andrew Brown and Mrs. D. Coyle. Lunch was served by the hostess.

Farm Wife In Minnesota 1st US Woman Ambasssador

By GEORGE KITCHEN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 —(CP)—A dainty Minnesota farm wife, who first stepped into politics in 1944 as a precinct door-bell ringer, is to become the first woman Ambassador of the United States. She is 40-year-old Mrs. Engenia Moore Anderson, who soon will trade the 500-acre Mississippi Valley farm, where she now lives with her artist husband and two children, for a Chancery in Copenhagen as United States Ambassador to Denmark.

The United States already has sent two women abroad as ministers, but Mrs. Anderson, whose appointment was announced by President Truman last week, is the first woman diplomat with rank of Ambassador.

Shops For Grammar

Her call to the Diplomatic Service came over an old-fashioned rural wall telephone at the Anderson farm in Red Wing, Minn., south of Minneapolis, and she accepted. She promptly went shopping for a Danish grammar book.

The Minnesota region in which the Andersons live is peopled with Americans of Scandinavian descent, but Mrs. Anderson, though she speaks some German, is unfamiliar with Scandinavian languages.

"But I can learn," she told reporters later. "And I'll learn all of it."

Against Isolationism

Her first venture into politics came in 1944 when she became concerned over the isolationist stand of the Congressional Representative in her district. She joined the League of Women Voters, attended a precinct caucus and from there went up and up.

An accomplished pianist, Mrs. Anderson pushed her music into the background as she moved ahead in the political field. At one time, her goal was a career on the concert stage.

Her family will go to Copenhagen with her and her children —Johanna, 14, and Hans, 11 — will attend Danish public schools rather than an English school. She wants them to learn the Danish language.

Mrs. Anderson herself is of Scottish and English descent; her husband is of Scandinavian ancestry.

ANGELA CALOMIRIS: After seven years, "a free soul again.

FBI's Undercover Girl Waged Seven-Year War

By FREDERICK WOLTMAN
NEA Special Correspondent

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Early one February morning in 1942, a couple of strangers rang the doorbell of Angela Calomiris' apartment in Greenwich Village. They identified themselves as FBI agents.

Up to that point in life the photoghapher and art student knew nothing about Communism. But the FBI men, as she put it today, "seemed to know a heck of a lot about me.

"Several hours later I was aghast, and a little bit honored, when they said they had a war job for me, to serve as a plant in the Communist party. They made it clear there would be no recognition or compensation.

"And if I landed in jail, it would be, 'Too bad, kid. We don't know you.' "

Editor's note: Angela Calomiris gave seven years of her life to help her country as an undercover agent in the Communist party. Her only reward: the knowledge that 11 Communist leaders were convicted of conspiring to teach violent overthrow of the U. S. government. Here is the dramatic story of the cause and effect of her mission, told as she tries to pick up the pieces of her disrupted life. This is the first of two dispatches by a Pulitzer Prize reporter.

By April Angela had a party card, and seven years afterward, last April 27, to the amazement of her friends and the comrades alike, she turned up as the FBI's star undercover girl at the Communist conspiracy trial. Her six day of sensational testimony helped materially to convict the defendants.

That sizable chunk out of her 33 years of life has cost Angela Calomiris plenty. In fact, it left her broke.

Closed Her Studio

A month before testifying, she closed her studio and discontinued all photographic assignments from such clients as top national magazines, U. S. Steel and advertising agencies. She borrowed money from friends and sold her 1942 Pontiac.

Today, more than five months after appearing for the government, she's still looking for a job.

There have been a few minor annoyances, too, which Angela, a witty, intelligent girl, slight of build, weighing 100 pounds, takes lightly. One neighbor called her a "dirty rat." Another slammed a gate in her face.

Most of the neighbors and all the tradepeople have been friendly. One building superintendent warned: Angie, be careful, a lot of party people live on this street."

And a family across the street watches her apartment through binoculars.

The real war nerves, she says, began last October. That's when the FBI asked her to testify against the Communist bosses.

"Between running around like mad on party business and chasing down to the U.S. Court House, it kept me on edge.

"I always faced the danger of being spotted going into the Court House by some comrade. I met that by wearing dark glasses and borrowing strange clothes."

Once a comrade asked Angela to help the party investigate prospective jurors in the case.

Then, three days before she took the stand, a Communist official whom she'd never met told her the party wanted her to work as a courier, since the movement probably would be going underground. She calls it "an espionage drop."

Wanted As Witness

From a counter-espionage standpoint, such an assignment would have been invaluable. But the government decided she'd be too useful as a witness.

The night before she took the stand, Angela attended her last class at the party's Jefferson School. There she heard the standard Communist epithet, "stoolpigeon," flung at Herbert A. Philbrick, the FBI's crack undercover man who had already given his testimony.

That didn't faze her then. Nor does the party's calumny bother her now. But her first night after testifying, Angela says she tossed sleeplessly in the hotel room supplied by the government. After that, she was assigned a 24-hour policewoman bodyguard.

Rid of both the Communist party and her FBI work, Angela's grateful that nobody has called her a Mata Hari.

She's finished with free-lancing photography for the present. "I'm reticent about opening doors and not knowing who's on the other side," she explains.

"I'd like to bury myself in a staff job with a national magazine or an industrial corporation and start over on a businesslike basis now that I'm a free soul again.

"I'm proud of what I did and I don't feel I've made a sacrifice," she says, "although my career has been hurt. But, now that I'm trying to make up for those seven years, I'm in trouble."

Angela never did find out why the FBI sought her out that February morning seven years ago. She suspects the contact may have been established through another FBI plant who, she states with satisfaction, "is still operating in the Communist party in an important post."

Tomorrow: Double life takes a toll.

Conflict Of Boer And Briton White And Black Continues The Old Division

(This is the second of two articles on the Boer War and its aftermath by Rt. Hon. L. S. Amery, and reprinted from The London Times. Mr. Amery was chief war correspondent for The Times in South Africa in 1899-1900, and an associate of another noted correspondent, Winston Churchill.)

Looking back over a century and a half we can see the South African War as the central point in a long and still continuing conflict between two different conceptions of racial relations neither of them wholly right or wholly wrong. The conflict began, and is destined to end, as one between two views of the relation between the white race in South Africa and the older native population.

It developed into a conflict between two views as to which of the two white races should impose its social and political outlook upon the sub-continent. It was this latter conflict which directly led to war 50 years ago and still excites keen electoral controversy. But the older issue goes deeper and will settle the ultimate fate of South Africa.

Abolition of Slavery

There is no single act in our history of which we have better reason to be proud than the abolition of slavery throughout the British Empire; no aspect of our rule over primitive peoples has set a finer example to the world than our assertion of the principle of trusteeship first preached by Burke in relation to India. But high principles can be marred in their application.

In South Africa the slave-owning Dutch farmers suffered grievously by the unfair terms of the compensation which actually reached them. The rough Boer frontiersmen certainly needed the restraining hand of government in their dealings with natives. But influenced by over-zealous missionaries the British government of the day was prepared to believe that in every conflict the black man must be in the right and the white man in the wrong.

The climax came in 1835 with the unprovoked and ruinous invasion of Eastern Cape Colony by a vast horde of Amaxosa Kaffirs. In refusing all redress to the colonists Lord Glenelg, then colonial secretary, justified the invasion as an "experiment which they had every right to hazard."

Great Trek Unequalled

This was the last blow to the long suffering colonists. Sooner than endure any longer a rule which oppressed without protecting they would create a new home for themselves in the almost uninhabited lands of the interior. Never since the exodus of the children of Israel from Egypt has there been a more remarkable emigration than the Great Trek.

The "vootrekkers" carried with them into their new homes a bitter hatred of the British government and a profound suspicion of that civilization which in their eyes consisted chiefly of the glorification of naked and bloodthirsty savages at the expense of men of white race.

With the establishment of the Boer republics that particular cause of conflict died down. The British government confined Boer expansion by giving its protection to the Basutos and Bechuanas. For the rest it left the Boers to govern the natives in their own way.

In the British colonies common sense prevailed. The natives were governed, on the whole, with firmness but with moderation, while a limited franchise gave a measure of expression to Rhodes' ideal of "equal rights for every civilized man."

Reminder of Differences

The very fact, however, of the existence of the Boer republics and of the circumstances of their origin was the inevitable source of a new antagonism. From the first there were those among the republicans who dreamed of an ultimate Afrikaner dominion of all South Africa. From the first, too, the British government felt compelled to intervene intermittently, as the "imperial factor," in the affairs of the republics.

The annexation of the Transvaal by Shepstone with a score or so of policemen in 1877 created a stir throughout Afrikanerdom which was kindled into fierce exultation by Gladstone's fatal error in not asserting British power and resolution before restoring self-government to the Transvaal.

In Cape Colony that mood seemed for a while conciliated by Rhodes' colonial imperialism, until he let his own handiwork be destroyed by the folly of the Jameson Raid.

In the Transvaal the situation of Kruger and his followers to deny all political rights to the new, mainly British, "Outlander" population brought in by the opening up of the Witwatersrand gold field, while using the revenue drawn from it for military preparations frankly directed against the British position in South Africa.

Invitation to Showdown

The real danger in the situation lay, not in particular causes of quarrel, but in the fact that in what is essentially one country, in every part of which the two white races lived intermingled in varying proportions, two contradictory principles should be asserted. In the British Colonies there was no political distinction between British and Afrikaner and a welcome to all newcomers who wished to make their homes in the country to share in its citizenship.

The principle in the Transvaal was that a handful of Afrikaners scattered over a country as large as France were the only persons entitled to citizenship and that others, and in particular Englishmen, belonged to an inferior category of white man.

One or other of these two principles had to prevail. It was on this issue that Chamberlain and Milner took their stand Let the Transvaal once give to the Outlanders the option at the end of five years of abandoning their British citizenship and becoming citizens of the republic then, whether many or few of them availed themselves of the option, the character and temper of the Transvaal would be changed. For Kruger that meant the end both of his personal rule and of his wider ambitions. Sooner than accept that he declared war.

Defined Britain's War Aims

When war came Chamberlain made it clear from the first that the only result of victory would be the early establishment of self-government in which Boers and British would enjoy those equal rights for which we had asked as the condition of true peace in South Africa. There was no question of defeat involving economic dispossession. Every one of our beaten foemen was set up again in his own farm, helped to rebuild and restock it and rationed for a year or more until he was once again self-supporting.

Within five years of his surrender at Vareeniging, thanks to Campbell - Bannerman's wise haste in fulfilling Chamberlain's pledge, General Botha was prime minister of the Transvaal. Another three years and he was prime minister of a United South Africa.

In the First World War Botha and Smuts both took the field against the Germans and against domestic rebellion. At the discussion of the terms of peace at Paris Botha, urging the wisdom of magnanimity to a beaten enemy, could turn to his old friend Milner and remind him that he was speaking on the surrender at Vereeniging.

The part played since then by Botha's successor, Smut — once most daring of guerilla leaders, now the honored veteran statesman of the Commonwealth — is too well known to need recounting here. South Africa and the Commonwealth were fortunate in having leaders of the Afrikaner nation who knew how to answer statesmanship with statesmanship, magnanimity with magnanimity.

Country Still Divided

The real issue before South Africa now is the one that first divided it. The issue of the relation of the white race to the native, Indian and colored population. The coming conflict is no longer one with the British government, but one internal to South Africa. The native population has, in these last 50 years, not only increased greatly in numbers and economic well-being, but has made enormous strides in education and political consciousness. All the same, anything like wholesale enfranchisement would mean the end of European civilization in South Africa and an early relapse into barbarism.

But this result is bound to follow sooner or later, and with even more disastrous consequences for all concerned, if all that is done is to screw down the safety valve and refuse outlet for the explosive forces which are pilling up.

Two things would seem necessary for South Africa in this predicament. One is to gain time by giving gradually some measure of hope and actual satisfaction to the claims and aspirations of the non-European populations. That was the policy advocated by that broadminded Afrikaner statesman, Jan Hofmeyr, whose premature death was such a loss for his country.

SERENADE TO MOM—Mrs. Clara Sulkowski, at left, a tuberculosis patient at a Cleveland, O., hospital, listens to a popular song presented by her children, Betty Lou, 5; Richard, 14, and Arthur, 7. Her husband, Steve, holds the music. The troubadours have been regular week-end visitors to the hospital since their mother entered it almost a year ago. Their serenades not only cheered Mrs. Sulkowski, but became a special event for other patients in the tuberculosis pavilion. Soon Mrs. Sulkowski will be well enough to leave. The remaining patients will miss their Sulkowski serenades.

Water Pumpage Declines 200,000 Gallons

The first decrease since before the war in the monthly pumpage at the waterworks occurred in September. Total for the month was 132,953,000 gallons as compared with 139,167,000 a year ago. The drop was 200,000 gallons.

"We can't account for this change except that there was more rain and the weather was cooler," Ross L. Dobbin, manager, reported to the Utilities Commission Wednesday.

Electric power peak for September was 26,800 h.p. as against 25,000 h.p. in September last year.

"This is an increase of 1,800 h.p. and the kilowatt hours delivered from the several stations are up 10%. It should be remembered that power restrictions were imposed early in September 1948, which would account for much of the apparent increase this year.

New circuits were installed for the housing development north of McKellar St., west of Monaghan Road. Rebuilding progressed on Monaghan Road, from McKellar to Cameron Sts. Many poles were removed in the centre of the city on account of paving. There were 147 new three-wire services constructed and 13 two-wire, mostly to new dwellings.

4,676 Water Heaters

New street lighting units were installed on Water St., and others on streets of the new housing developments. Fifty-seven flat rate water heaters were connected, making a total of 4,676 in the city."

September was the busiest month in the waterworks record. There were laid 1,700 feet of 8-inch main on McKellar, Weller, and Park Hill Road; also 4,200 ft. of 6-inch main on Hazeldean, Gordon, Snelgrove, Swanston, Caddy, McFarlane, Ludgate, Watts and Welsh Streets.

"This clears up thesupplying of water for Parkdale and Highland Heights subdivisions and for the housing development on McKellar St. west of Monaghan Road.

Foundation piers were poured for the elevated tank at Civic Hospital, and foundations were completed for the booster pumping station on Weller St.

September work included: 99 water services laid in connection with the new mains just completed, and also in other parts of the city; five services were relaid and three repaired. Six new fire hydrants were set and one moved.

September rainfall was 2.92 inches as against 0.25 inches a year ago. Similarly, the average air temperature was 55.2 degrees as compared with 61.8 degrees in 1948."

Opens New School

NAPANEE, Oct. 21 (CP) — Premier Frost officially opened the new Prince Charles School here Thursday night. The new school was built at a cost of $306,000. Addressing a capacity audience in the school's auditorium, the Premier said citizens of Napanee could feel justly proud of their "magnificent contribution to the educational life of the community."

TURNING THE PAGES OF "CANADA UNLIMITED"

The sharp crack of axes pierced the frosty air . . . rollicking songs of shantymen rang through the Maritime woods . . . this was the lumber industry in the 1600's. Log cabins and ships were built from Canadian timber from the beginning of our history.

By 1700, export trade in ship-building materials was carried on with the West Indies. After 1760, sailing vessels braved the stormy Atlantic to carry New Brunswick timber to England for the ships of the British Navy. Canada took the lead in forest industry.

Lumbering opened up vast new areas along the St. Lawrence and the Ottawa valley. In 1803, Canada's first pulp mill was erected at Argenteuil, Quebec. There followed a rapidly expanding demand for pulpwood and newsprint. By 1900, Canada was supplying a major portion of the world's needs.

Today Canadian production of newsprint is greater than the combined output of the next five leading countries. 4,800,000 tons were produced in 1947. Research has led to the development of other wood products, such as cellulose, rayon and plastics. This rapid growth points to a wide future for Canadians. Yes, there's room to grow—in Canada Unlimited.

HERE ARE THE FACTS AT C.G.E.

Does the Company honour its word and its Agreement ?

Last Friday and again on Monday of this week the community was disturbed to hear of the strikes which took place at our plant. Because of the nature of the misleading charges now being made, I believe you—the citizens of Peterborough—would like to have the full facts made available to you.

I shall attempt to cover the facts by answering some of the questions you may have in mind.

Q.—What is the dispute about?

A.—A number of girls in the Induction Motor Winding Department filed a grievance that the piece work prices had been changed on certain jobs without there being any change in methods and that they could not make their "day rate" on the new job let alone higher incentive earnings.

Q.—What did the Arbitration Board Award say?

A.—The Arbitration Board wrote two reports, a majority one written by the Chairman and the Union nominee and a minority one written by the Company's nominee on the Board. We here are only concerned with the majority report. This award ruled:

(1) That the disputed piecework prices were "standard" prices—

(2) That the Agreement between the Company and the Union provides that the Company may change "standard" prices when there are changes made in methods of manufacture.

(3) That in this case both the Union and the Company agree that there were changes in methods of manufacture.

All this adds up that the Company was entitled in this case to change the prices.

But, after establishing the above points, the award went on to say nevertheless that the Company should put back the old prices which were in effect before the prices were changed.

Q.—Why did the Company want the award clarified?

A.—In order to remove this contradiction in the award.

Q.—Why has the Company still refused to put the award into effect now that the award has been clarified?

A.—Because the award as now clarified is inconsistent with the Agreement.

Q.—In what way is it inconsistent with the Agreement?

A.—Because the agreement provides that the Company can change piecework prices when there is a change in methods of manufacture, such as there were in this case.

Q.—Isn't the Arbitration Award "final and binding" upon the Company and the Union anyway?

A.—No. The Agreement between the Company and the Union provides that:

> "The Arbitration Board shall not be authorized to make any decision inconsistent with the provisions of this Agreement—nor to alter — modify — add to or amend any part of this Agreement."

The Company, therefore, believes that the majority of the Arbitration Board have not adhered to the regulations placed on them by the Agreement. To implement this Award would be to apply an award that contravenes the Agreement between the Company and the Union and would set aside sections of the Agreement, and deprive the Company of certain rights which have been agreed to by the Union.

The Company has always in the past implemented the award of Arbitration Boards and continues to stand committed to do so when that award does not contravene the Agreement between the Company and the Union.

Q.—Has the Company "reneged" on its word?

A.—The Company has not.

Q.—Well, then, what undertaking did the Company give at the meetings on Thursday and Sunday in regard to a "clarification" of the award?

A.—(1) On Thursday night the Company told the Union that if the Union interpretation of the Award was what the majority members of the Board meant, then the Award would be altering and modifying the Agreement—and this would be contrary to the Agreement.

(2) At Sunday's meeting the Union wanted a signed statement from the Company to the effect that any clarification given by the Chairman would be applied.

The Company again stressed that any Award or clarification of an Award had to be consistent with the terms of the Agreement between the Company and the Union. The Company was prepared to sign a statement to the effect that it would apply any clarification which gave an interpretation of the Award that was consistent with the Agreement. The Union would not agree to this and so no statement was signed or other undertaking given.

Q.—How many girls are now working on the jobs in dispute?

A.—Eleven.

Q.—What are the girls earning on the jobs now?

A.—The earnings of these girls on the new disputed piecework prices are from $1.13 to $1.59 per hour.

Q.—What would the earnings on these jobs be if the Award, which the Company say breaks the Agreement, was applied?

A.—I have made the following statement in this regard: "If we put the old prices back and the girls continued to work as they have been doing, they would earn on some operations over $3.00 per hour. They would be 2 to 2½ times as high as the rates provided by the Agreement for highly skilled mechanics with years of experience." I have further checked into the matter and find that on some operations the earnings would actually be over $4.00 per hour.

Q.—Is there any orderly way to settle this dispute?

A.—The Company believes there is. It is for this reason that the Company filed a grievance with the Union, that in its opinion the Award contravened and was inconsistent with the terms of the Agreement. It is hoped that through the processing of this grievance, a proper and a just settlement will be made.

In conclusion, I would like to repeat to you, our neighbours of the community, what I have already said to our employees:

> "I regret that this difference of opinion has developed to such proportions, but I believe that when the Agreement specifically provides that the Company has the right to change standard piecework prices when methods are changed, that we cannot permit an Arbitration Board to take this right away from us when such a Board is bound by the Agreement.
> "I believe you will understand that when we take such a position on principle, believing it to be right, that we cannot move from this position because of employee 'pressure' however sincere that pressure is.
>
> "I hope we can carry on our job together of producing needed goods without further interruption, and that we will be able to resolve this difference from hereon in accordance with the methods provided for in the Agreement."

The above is an outline of the problem between the Union and the Company. I will be on the air tonight over Station CHEX at 6:15, when I will discuss the matter further.

Trading Brisk During Week For Livestock

TORONTO, Oct. 21 — (CP). — Trading was brisk on the Toronto Livestock Market this week and prices were 50 cents to $1 higher on choice weighty steers and choice yearlings, while other grades of killers were steady, the Dominion Marketing Service reported today.

The cattle run of 8,597 head was added to 900 carried over from last week. Included in the fresh offerings were 1,500 Western cattle Improved quality was evident over last week with these offerings making the gain. With the exception of heifers all good quality cattle met good demand. Choice weighty steers sold mostly at $22.50, but a few loads brought up to $23 and $23.50.

Good to medium steers sold from $20.50 to $22.25. Good light steers sold at $19-$20.50 with good heifers at $18.50-$19. Plain light steers and heifers were $16-$18, with boners as low as $13. Good butcher cows sold from $14-$15, with canners and cutters mostly $9.50-$11.50. Good export bulls were $16-$17 and plain light bulls ranged downward to $13. Best fed yearlings were $24-$25. Western yearlings sold from $18-$20.

Store cattle were active at steady prices. Good stockers and feeders sold at $18.50-$20. Common to medium sold from $14-$18.

Calf receipts totalled 2,596 head. Good to choice vealers sold steady at $26-$28. Plain to medium lights and heavies were $16-$24 a hundredweight. Thin grassers for slaughter brought mostly $13-$15.50. Heavy calves were slow and hard to sell.

There were 3,171 hogs offered. Prices were steady at $29.50 for Grade-A and $29.10 for B1. Sows were $19 dressed.

Sheep and lamb receipts totalled 3,857 head. Lambs gained 50 cents a hundredweight to close at $23 for good ewes and wethers and $22 for bucks. Cull lambs sold from $15-$17 a hundredweight. Good light sheep ranged from $10-$11.50 with an odd top at $12. Cull sheep sold downward to $6. A few yearling sheep sold from $14-$17.

Move To Guard

The Senate adopted the address in reply to the speech from the throne. Senator T. A. Crerar (L—Manitoba) closed the extended debate in an address in which he said Canada must remain strong to do her part in stemming Russian aggression.

In the constitution debate Mr. Drew reiterated his party's opposition to the government proposal to ask for power of amending the constitution.

He again urged the government to delay action on the resolution until after consulting the provinces on the whole field of constitutional amendment.

Mr. Drew said the fact that the government found it necessary to include clauses such as the one safeguarding the need for elections every five years was a reflection of the unsound basis on which the government is proceeding with the whole matter.

John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) said if the government continues with its "piecemeal" approach to the problem of constitutional amendment it will destroy unity in Canada.

Walter Harris (L—Grey Bruce), parliamentary assistant to Prime Minister St. Laurent, said the Progressive Conservatives are using the same argument they used on previous occasions when the government sought to do something for the people.

They favored the principle of what was proposed, but they objected to the method being followed.

Referring to Mr. Knowles' amendment, he said he was convinced that neither this parliament nor any successive parliament would lightly attempt to interfere with the rights of the people to a session once a year and an election at least every five years.

But he could see no logical objection to having the rights expressed along with others being entrenched in the constitution by the proposal now before the Commons.

Third Field Park Co. RCE Returns To Recruiting Base For Reunion This Week-End

The workhorses of a modern army—the engineers—will have their innings Saturday when at least 75 former members of the 3rd Canadian Field Park Co., RCE., hold their first annual re-union in Peterborough. Recruited in this city and having an original strength of 168 men, all from Peterborough district, the Sappers had their share of extensive training in both Canada and the United Kingdom and then fought their way to the heart of Germany right from D-Day to VE-Day. Veterans of such battles as Gruchy, Caen, Falaise, Boulogne, Calais, the Schelde, Ghent, Nijmegen, Reischwald and Hochwald Forests, Cleve, Emmerich and Udem, the 3rd Field Park Co. earned a name for itself as a crack Sapper unit in the 3rd Division.

Because of the nature of their work they caught the headlines fewer times than their fighting compatriots in more spectacular branches of the Canadian Army. And while civilians are often at a loss to know just what the Sappers did to pave the way for victory, Army men recall their feats with gratitude.

The sticky task of sweeping the Normandy beaches of German mines, barbed wire entanglements, tank traps and other obstacles fell to the 3rd Field Park Co. and their brother engineers. Before the infantryman risked his foot on that hostile shore D-Day the Sappers had done their bit under heavy fire.

So on Saturday the Peterborough sappers, and others from Newfoundland to B.C. that later joined the unit, will exchange good cheer and for a few hours re-live those dangerous days.

And it won't be a stag affair, either. Wives and friends are expected; and local officers are catering for a total of 150 to sit down to the banquet that night at the Kawartha Club.

M.P. Invited

Invitations have been extended to Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., the Hon. Harold R. Scott, Harold Yelland, president of Branch 52 of the Canadian Legion, Mayor Max Swanston and other civic dignitaries. It is also hoped to

H. J. Parnell Sr. Retires From Citizens' Band

Family representation of three generations of the Parnell musicians in Peterborough Citizen's Band has been reduced to two by the retirement of H. J. Parnell, Sr., who recently received a parting gift from the membership. He is now on the reserve list.

Thirty-seven years ago, Mr. Parnell began his musical career in this city in the Temple Band under the leadership of Capt. W. H. Peryer. During the first World War he was a member of the 59th Battalion Band and went overseas with this unit in 1916. He served four and a half years under Capt. Peryer, and after the war he returned to the Temple Band.

At the outbreak of the second World War, Mr. Peryer enlisted in the reserve army, in the Prince of Wales Rangers Band, and later transferred to Peterborough Citizens Band at the time of its reorganization. He has been a faithful member since then.

The presentation was made by J. Kokesh, band manager, on behalf of the members. Mr. Parnell's son, H. J. Parnell, is a member and trustee of the band and his grandson, W. H. Parnell, is assistant bandmaster.

The band has been proud of the distinction of having three generations of one family in its active membership at one time.

Suzanne Weaver Top County Pupil

Routine business of the County Council was interrupted Thursday afternoon to present two Lakefield girls with prizes for having the highest High School entrance marks in the county.

It was the second year that the winners of the county cash awards have come to the Council Chamber for the presentation.

Top pupil in 1949 entrance exams was 13-year-old Suzanne Weaver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Weaver of Lakefield. Only indication of her marks revealed by Inspector K. O. Birkin was that they were more than 90 per cent.

Closely following her was Jeanette Staples, 12, also of Lakefield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Staples. Jeanette with more than 88 per cent, appears to be following the footsteps of her father, who is a master at Grove School.

Reeve Melville Johnston of North Monaghan, chairman of the educational committee presented the two girls, on behalf of the County, with cheques for first and second prizes, $15 and $10 respectively.

He complimented them on their achievement and paid tribute to Everett Sloan, principal of Lakefield Public School. Mr. Sloan, he stated, took more than the required interest in looking after the educational development of the boys and girls in his charge.

The girls were accompanied by their parents and before leaving also received a brief speech of congratulation from Warden William Darling of Dummer.

Canadian-Owned Company Brazil's Largest Utility

The role of electricity in the modern development of Brazil was outlined to members of Peterborough branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada at a meeting Thursday night by F. T. Simpson, Assistant Mechanical Engineer of Brazilian Traction Light and Power Co. Ltd. Mr. Simpson's address was supplemented by a series of projection slides and a moving picture. He was assisted by A. E. Wilson, Electrical Engineer of the company which is largely a Canadian corporation.

Since the company's first plant was completed in 1900 hydro power has been the means of an increasing industrial development in the country.

Great Public Utility

Not only does the company develop 65 per cent of Brazil's electric power, it operates three quarters of the phones in the country, runs the gas plants which supply most of the larger cities' cooking fuel and operates a tramway system in Rio de Janiero and Sao Paulo, the country's two largest cities.

In recent years the two leading cities, each with a population of roughly 2,000,000, have seen tremendous growth and large building programs. Much of the building has been 10 to 20 storey reinforced concrete apartment houses of the most modern architectural design.

In Sao Paulo, the manufacturing centre of the republic, the building has been principally industrial.

Living in Brazil which has a 47,000,000 population, was comparatively cheap before 1940, but since then it has skyrocketed until between 300 and 350 per cent of the 1940 level. The level of wages has lagged so that they are about 300 per cent of the pre-inflation period. The result has been, Mr. Simpson said, that the standard of living has fallen

Expansion Program

The power company is in the midst of a $75,000,000 plant expansion program. The money was borrowed for 20 years from the International Bank. The program is concerned with a complete expansion, including new plants, equipment, dams and extensive

Civic Hospital Visit Proposed

If the public were to visit the new Peterborough Civic Hospital many would be greatly surprised to see the progress already made with the building, Ian F. McRae told the board of governors Thursday. His proposal that a Saturday or Sunday afternoon be set aside as 'visiting day' at the new building, in order that the public could see what had been accomplished, was enthusiastically received by the board and the tentative date set is Sunday, Oct. 30.

After consulting with the contractors, the board will probably invite the public to visit the hospital during that afternoon.

Mrs. E. Breckenridge remarked that a great many people had not visited the hospital so far because they had felt they would be in the way of the builders. "And so they would be if they went during the week while work is in progress", Mr. McRae said. He felt, however, that not many people realized how much progress had been made and he thought that an open invitation on a specified day would be appreciated by Peterborough residents.

Hospital Bylaws Being Studied

Until the Ontario Department of Health has fully considered what measures will be taken to standardize the policies of hospitals throughout the province, it will neither approve, nor disapprove of Peterborough Civic Hospital's proposed new by-laws which the board of governors had originally intended to bring into effect at the beginning of this month. This was the essence of a letter from the Hon. Harold Scott read to the board of governors in the city council chamber Thursday.

The proposed bylaw, which has caused controversy in Peterborough and aroused interest in other parts of the province, determines operating room privileges of doctors and surgeons at Civic Hospital.

The impression that the bylaw had been hoisted by the Cabinet was quite wrong, J. R. Marshall, chairman of the board said at the meeting of governors. As Mr. Scott's letter pointed out, it was being held in abeyance by the Department of Health.

Burleigh Falls Man Faces Three Charges

Three three-months jail sentences, to run concurrently, were handed out to Donald Turner, of Burleigh Falls, when he was found guilty of three charges connected with his having two deer, by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in Police Court Friday morning.

He had the option of paying $450 in fines plus costs, but he just smiled when the total amount was announced.

Turner was charged under the Game and Fisheries Act with having two deer in the closed season; taking two deer on the Peterborough Crown Game Preserve; and taking two female deer.

Game Warden Robert H. Trotter testified that on October 17, he had been told of shooting in the game preserve near Haultain. He said he searched along Eel's Creek, the western boundary of the game preserve, but found nothing.

The next day he was told about more shooting and went into the preserve about three miles and found Turner trailing a doe. He testified Turner told him he had found the deer a short distance back in the bush. He also said there was a doe fawn about a mile farther in.

Both the deer had been shot. The two men trailed the deer out of the preserve. Officer Trotter said when they reached the Eel's Creek boundary, Trotter found a horse tied to a tree, harnessed and equipped with a whiffletree. The common method of taking deer out of the bush is by horse harnessed with a whiffletree.

Game Warden Trotter added that Turner had no rifle with him. He said he thought the deer had been shot the day before and were in good condition

Defendant's Story

Turner said he had been skidding posts along Eel's Creek with the horse. He said the night before he had been talking to several friends about picking cranberries. Early in the afternoon he "took a notion" to go into the preserve to look for cranberries and to see how some beavers were getting along with a dam they had just started to build.

He started for Bullrush Lake, where there was a cranberry bog, but he could not get to it. As he was walking away he found a doe fawn strung up in a tree. He carried it a short distance and left it lying over a log.

He went back to the marsh, by a ridge between two swales. There he saw a big doe hanging from a tree. He carried it a short distance on his shoulder and stopped to rest.

It was then Game Warden Trotter came up to him. He said he did not own a rifle and had not had one in his possession for more than a month. He said he told Mr. Trotter he was taking the deer some distance out and was going to report it as he had reported a deer he found last spring.

He said it would have been impossible for him to get the deer out of the preserve that afternoon by himself.

"I know it looks very much like I am guilty, but I'm not," he declared. He said his chief reason for carrying the deer away was so the man who shot them could not find them.

Magistrate Philp said it was not impossible that Turner had found two deer, but the probability was very small. Two other details helped him to reach his verdict, the magistrate said. The accused had been carrying rather than dragging the deer and there was the coincidence of the horse harnessed at the creek with a whiffletree.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw in asking for a maximum penalty, said Turner had been found guilty of stealing a parka from Officer Trotter's car last spring.

Mr. Bradshaw said there was a great deal of poaching throughout the area and he wanted a severe penalty to serve as a warning to others. The maximum on each charge is $200.

Turner also pleaded guilty to two traffic charges of driving without a license and driving a car without adequate brakes on highway 28 in Burleigh Township Oct. 8. He was fined $10 and costs on each or 10 days in jail. The two 10-day terms were to run concurrently, but not concurrently with Games and Fisheries Act sentence.

Three Amendments Offered To Hospital Bylaws By Advisory Committee

The medical and surgical advisory committee of Civic Hospital has asked the board of governors to include in the proposed new bylaws a clause offering members of the Service of General Practice opportunities to train in a specialty. The recommendations from the committee suggests the following provision: "members of the service of general practice whose application is approved by the medical and surgical advisory committee may be attached to a specialist service for training on written expression of an obligation to attempt to obtain certification in one of the specialties associated with the service providing that he has demonstrated that it is possible to qualify for registration for examination with the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada. Such members shall have the privileges of the service of general practice.

J. M. Hornal, hospital superintendent, explained that the recommendation would enable a new man to have the same privileges as present members of the staff who are not fully qualified but may do major surgery with the assistance of a fully qualified members of the staff.

The committee also asked the board to include in the new bylaws a clause allowing members of the medical staff appointed for the first time subsequent to the coming into force of the bylaws to perform major surgical operations with the assistance of a practitioner with full privileges after a probation period of three months provided they have had at least two years internship and are recommended by the service of surgery and are acceptable to the medical and surgical advisory committee.

The recommendations also include a clause in the controversial question of operating room privileges, describing in greater detail than the board's proposed bylaw, the definition of practitioners with full operating room privileges.

The board took no action on these recommendations because it decided to consider them with any other amendments that might be incorporated for its consideration by the Department of Health. It was felt that the time to give such matters the board's full attention was when all amendments had been submitted.

Polio Victim Seriously Ill

A Peterborough boy who was rushed to Riverdale Isolation Hospital in Toronto two days ago with symptoms of poliomyelitis remains in a serious condition today.

Seven-year-old Gary Bugg, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bugg of Water St., was taken to Toronto by ambulance Wednesday in a 70 mile an hour ambulance ride. He was in a coma at the time and was closely attended by Nurse Marian Parkin, who checked on his pulse and breathing and made sure his partially paralyzed throat was not clogged with mucous.

First symptoms of his illness, which may be bulbar polio, was a week ago Thursday when his father noticed Gary's speech.

"We tried to give him a glass of water to clear his throat but he just couldn't take it," Mr. Bugg related. And Gary was taken to hospital Sunday.

Traffic on the highways and streets pulled over, and in many instances stopped, as the ambulance driven by Norman Nisbett, Jr., preceded by a provincial police cruiser, whipped around the sharp turns and raced to Toronto.

Hospital authorities had been informed Gary was coming but did not realize the emergency nature of the case until they heard the sirens approaching.

BEAVER AT WORK

Evidence that a beaver is working on the east bank of the Indian River a mile north of Lang, was seen this week when a poplar sapling was found cut in two by a resident of that village. The unmistakable large chips were strewn about the freshly cut tree.

CLUB BEGINS

The Fun and Friendship Club of the YMCA holds its initial meeting of the season tonight at 7 p.m. for boys between 9 and 12 years. Don Duncan, Boys' Work secretary, said Thursday that two movies, one on tumbling and the other on swimming, will be shown along with the usual cartoon. The club will meet every Friday night featuring movies, stunts and skits.

ALTERING GARDENS

Alterations are in progress at the Brock St. Summer Gardens. The girders are being concealed by a roll type ceiling of rose cloth and 16 new non-glare lights have been hung where the ring is installed when the dance hall is used for boxing or wrestling. Jim Laidlaw, manager of the place, expects more extensive alterations will be put into effect next summer.

Different Electrical Standards Handicap To British Firms

By MICHAEL O'MARA

HELSBY, Cheshire, England, Oct. 21 —(CP)—The prime difficulty which bars many types of British-manufactured electrical equipment from the Canadian market is the difference between British and Canadian "standards" or routine specifications, business men in this area say. The Canadian Standards Association sets the criteria by which provincial inspectors decide whether imported equipment is permissible in Canadian homes and factories.

Canadian specifications, electrical executives told a touring group of Canadian reporters, more closely resembled the standard products of the United States than those of England. Since conformity was essential —in order, for example, that parts might safely be interchanged—Britain frequently lost out.

There was no objection as such to CSA standards — but among some factory leaders in this area there was a definite feeling that the CSA sometimes interpreted its own rules far too strictly, in order to keep British goods off the Canadian market.

Meantime several British electrical spokesmen are travelling or will soon travel to Canada to discuss the standards problem with Canadian importers and Government men as well as with the CSA.

For the most part they appear confident that Britain can increase her sales in Canada of such items as coaxial cables, capacitors, supertension cables and switchgear of various types.

If the demand for such goods were sufficient, it would be possible in some plants to "turn over in half an hour" to the production of articles conforming to the CSA specifications.

This has already been done successfully for some orders. A notable example is the installation in Brantford — one-time home of Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone — of British-manufactured dial equipment in the local Bell Telephone Exchange Building.

EQUINE OLDSTER—Grace, 40-year-old mare, takes honors as the youngest-looking old horse in Kingsville, 25 miles southwest of Windsor, Ont. At least so claims George Pearce, her 80-year-old owner, who drives Grace to North Ridge and back, a distance of 12 miles, in half a day. The horse has been owned by Pearce for 37 years.

Small Markets New Goal For Dominion

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Canada is going out after the small markets, to make up for slices of trade she is losing with older and bigger customers. And apparently is picking up a surprising amount of business.

G. R. Heasman, director, Trade Commissioner Service, Department of Trade and Commerce, had something to say about the Thursday in an address in Montreal to the Canadian Exporters' Association.

Giving examples, Mr. Heasman said that two small trade commission posts opened up since the war are at Leopoldville in the Belgian Congo; and in Guatemala.

"You would be surprised," he added, "at the variety of small orders now coming out of these countries.

"In Qori the trade commissioner in the Belgian Congo established 32 new agencies or buying connections for Canadian exporters. I feel that what we have accomplished in the sale of flour alone has justified this new office.

Currency Change Helps

"Meanwhile, we had advice this week that, as a result of the change in currency values, increased interest is being shown in aluminum, groceries, horsemeat, spaghetti, dairy products, and so forth."

As for Guatemala, where the new office covers the whole of Central America, are:

"Pre-war, our total trade was less than $1,000,000 for Central America. Last year, it was $24,000,000. . . .

"The opening of new offices since the war in San Paulo, Brazil, and Karachi, Pakistan, has been equally successful. San Paulo is becoming more impoctant than Rio De Janeiro as a trading centre.

"The ofice in Karachi has already been instrumental in bringing to Canada some excellent inquiries for capital equipment running into millions."

Offices have also been opened in Turkey and Switzerland, which may be of particular assistance to the flour trade.

Next month posts will be opened in Manila and Madrid, which will mean there will then be a total of 45 trade commissioner offices, manned by 95 trade commissioners, in 38 countries.

Fix Refugee Ship

CORK, Republic of Ireland, Oct. 21 (Reuters)—The refugee ship Victory, which arrived here earlier this month from Sweden overloaded with 380 Baltic refugees bound for Canada, was reloated Thursday after repairs in drydock. The ship, a former landing craft for 50 troops, may not be allowed to take more than 150 passengers on the transatlantic crossing. The decision will depend on Irish authorities. The Canadian government, in addition has said that Hugo Ennist, captain of the Victory, will be liable to penalties if he enters a Canadian port overloaded.

Try Weaving Again After Centuries

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

WORSTEAD, Norfolk, England, Oct. 21 (CP)—The village from which worsted cloth got its name has started weaving again after a lapse of many centuries.

A modern, 42-inch-wide handloom has been installed in the village school. Here children descended from the medieval weavers, who brought wealth and fame to worstead will learn the intricacies of the craft.

When the first shuttle flies across the loom a broken thread of history will be retied.

Worstead today is an all-but-forgotten cluster of houses (population 700) round a magnificient 14th-century church. The church and two of the old weavers' cottages are all that remain of its spectacular past.

Village schoolmaster Henry Wright hit on the idea of reintroducing worsted weaving.

Start On Hand-Looms

"Two months ago I took a course at the London School of Weaving," he said. "The pedal part came easily, as I'm also the church organist, but the rest is intricate. I shall start the children on hand-looms.

"The big loom is being presented by the International Wool Secretariat, and the first length of cloth is earmarked for the United States. . . "

Outside the school weaving is also returning to the village as a commercial proposition. An old cottage has been bought by a Yorkshire weaver who will shortly bring his looms south to the original home of his craft.

"Worsted cloth is today in the van of our dollar export trade," a Board of Trade official said. "It would be a fine thing for the trade if Worstead got going again."

Only Need Few Bombs

TORONTO, Oct. 21 (CP)—Six "properly directed" long-range atom rocket bombs could effectively wipe out the city of Toronto, Maj.-Gen. Churchill Mann told the executive of the Toronto and York National Defence Committee Thursday. Gen. Mann, retired general staff officer, made the statement when he presented a "master plan" of civil defence to the committee.

Call Off Displays

LONDON, Oct. 21 (CP) — Wholesale meat suppliers here Thursday asked Canada and New Zealand to call off scheduled displays of food produce because of recurring labor troubles at London's Smithfield Market. Canada's display of bacon, cheese and shell eggs had been scheduled to open Nov. 1. Market officials said that to put displays on as scheduled would divert labor badly needed to catch up with arrears in meat deliveries.

Refit 22 Warships

LONDON, Oct. 21 (Reuters) — Twenty-two warships of the Royal Navy reserve fleet are to be refitted, the Admiralty announced today. Three of them are destroyers of the Onslow class which were completed in 1942.

25 Freighters Wait Orders Load Wheat

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 21 (CP) —Twenty-five freighters Thursday were awaiting orders in lakehead harbors to load wheat for shipment to eastern Canadian and United States ports. The number was reported unusual for this time of year.

Fifteen other freighters were loading other types of grain and were expected to clear Thursday night.

The hold-up was due to two factors:

1. The unusually low stocks of wheat in lakehead elevators and,
2. The fact that more freighters are available for grain hauling because of the steel strike in the United States.

Gift of $50,000

TORONTO, Oct. 21 (CP)—An anonymous gift of $50,000 to set up a graduate medical fellowship in honor of the late Dr. Helen L. Vanderveer, was announced on Thursday by the University of Toronto. During her life, Dr. Vanderveer anonymously donated $100,000 for fellowships and her will, probated last year, provides another $50,000 for this purpose.

Douglas' Wife Campaigns Again For Senate

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 21 (AP)—Helen Gahagan Douglas will probably have to campaign for the United States Senate without the help of her actor-husband, Melvyn Douglas.

He is reading play scripts and plans to return to broadway after "Carriage Entrance." He starred last season in the moderately successful "Two Blind Mice."

"However, if I'm not tied up with a play, I'll be glad to do what I can," he said. "Of course, I don't think she needs much help. She has been doing all right by herself."

Douglas plans to continue to make one or two pictures a year with plays in between. And what's the matter with staying here all the time?

"California makes you soft," he remarked. "You get lazy in all this sunshine."

Friday Fudge

Wendell Corey, on the other hand, prefers the sunshine— or maybe it's his contract. At any rate, he passed up chances to appear in the New Garson Kanin play, "The Rat Race," and in the Chicago Company of "Detective Story." Having done five pictures this year, he's now in "No Sad Songs." next: "The Furies." a western with Barbara Stanwyck and Walter Huston.

Paul Douglas appears set to play Canada's famed Mack Sennett with Betty Hutton as Mabel Normand. Douglas fits the comedy king to a "T."

Jean Parker offer these words of experience: "I quit Hollywood five years ago to get out of the rut of "B" pictures. I went to the stage and learned how to act. If I had it to do over, I'd start on the stage. It's the only way to learn acting."

This shows you just can't figure the movie business. Screen plays, Inc., made two films: "Champion," a tough, sexy drama aimed at the box-office, and "Home of the Brave," a talky, womanless treatise on the negro problem. So? Both are hits, but "Home" is expected to make up to $600,000 more profit than "Champ."

OLDEST WOMAN? — Probably the oldest woman in Canada is Mrs. Isabella Sharrow of North Bay who this week celebrated her 110th birthday. Mrs. Sharrow has been in hospital for more than two years under treatment for a hip injury. Nurse Colleen McMahon gives the frail woman a helping hand as she poses for this birthday photo.

WMS Members Visit Shut-ins

NORWOOD, Oct 21 (ENS) — Nine calls to the sick and shut-ins and 11 hospital visits were made by members of the W.M.S. of the United Church during the past month, Mrs. J. Long, community secretary, reported last week. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Bert Scott.

Mrs. M. A. Carter, supply secretary, asked that goods for overseas be brought to the Church for packing.

Miss M. Buck, Missionary Monthly secretary requested that members try to bring subscription money to the next meeting.

A donation of $10 was unanimously voted to the Evening Auxiliary in apprecation of assistance at the Rally dinner.

Mrs. S. A. Brethen, temperance secretary, gave a reading.

Mrs. Ralph Cuthbertson and her group took charge of the program.

Mrs. M. W. Bailey read the Scripture, Mrs. Bert Scott gave a reading on trees.

A duet was sung by Mrs. Rork S. Ferguson and Mrs. Wesley Chamberlain, with Mrs. J. H. Caskey at the piano.

Mrs. A. A. McRoberts gave a talk on the opening chapter of the Study Book.

Mrs. Ed. Scott, the president, was in charge of the first part of the meeting.

OTTAWA, Oct. 21 — (CP) — Veterans Minister Gregg said Thursday names and regimental numbers were left off Canada's medals for the second world war because it would have taken another two years to put them all on. The medals now are being distributed. C. W. Hodgson (PC, Victoria, Ontario) raised the question in the Commons.

General Electric Breaks Faith With Peterboro

General Electric has always claimed publicly that it acts in the best interests of our community.

But General Electric is now violating this claim by refusing to live up to the award of an Arbitration Board set up under the labor laws of Ontario and in accordance with our Contract with the Company.

Since February of this year our Union has been asking General Electric to implement an Arbitration Award that gave back pay lost by 28 girls when the Company cut their standard piecework rates in November, 1947, and to pay them the rates in effect before the price cut took place.

General Electric at first stated to the Union that it would abide by the award but that it would require some time to calculate the amounts involved. Later General Electric refused to implement the award!

Why?

Because General Electric said it interpreted the award in favour of itself and not the girls!

Since then the Board has clarified its award in terms that no one can misinterpret. The clarification states:

> "Re Motor Winding Arbitration Award of the majority of the Board reads as follows: 'We must find in favour of the Union and direct that all work done since the change of rates out of which this Grievance originated shall be paid for at the former rate.' This means that the standard rates previously in effect shall be re-established as of November, 1947, and paid for on that basis."

WE HAVE PROTESTED G.E.'s BAD FAITH

Last week's protest demonstration took place inside the plant against General Electric's bad faith in violating our Union Contract and refusing to live up to the Arbitration Award.

On Tuesday our Committee was instructed to meet the Company again to ask them on the basis of the above clarification to implement the award.

General Electric again refused. This time on the grounds that the award violates our Union Contract.

General Electric's refusal to implement this award has been consistent since February of this year.

But for each refusal General Electric gives a different reason.

PROVOCATION

We can only conclude that General Electric is attempting to provoke a strike on this particular issue in order to distract our Union and the public from negotiations for a new contract which are now under way—and which the Company has prolonged for almost six months by their arrogant refusal to bargain in good faith.

We can only arrive at this conclusion when we read the following words put out in a letter to General Electric employees before the clarification by the Board:

> "The Company has not refused to abide by an arbitration award. It has stated that the award appears contradictory and would like to have it clarified so that it can be properly put into effect."

AFTER clarification General Electric STILL refuses to abide by the award, as it said it would in the above words, and now states in another letter to its workers:

> "We are not thinking of locking the plant gates to force our point of view on this matter . . . ."

General Electric hopes by its arrogant attitude, and this statement in its latest letter to its employees, to provoke strike action on this particular issue.

G.E. Must Act In Good Faith

We refuse to be provoked on this isue — but we also refuse to allow the Company to arrogantly violate the principles of genuine collective bargaining on this issue or in negotiations.

We refuse to be provoked on this issue—and we call on our Community to protest General Electric's breach of faith and to demand the Company live up to the award of the Arbitration Board, and bargain in good faith in CURRENT negotiations.

Ask Association To Meet Sabotage Threat

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 21—(AP)—A modern civilian organization to meet any possibility of Communist sabotage in the event of war was proposed today by C. B. Lister, of Washington, executive of the National Rifle Association.

Lister helped draft the first manual on home guard organization in the second world war. He asked his board of directors to help establish a new internal security force of civilians in their states "while there is time."

"Russia could cripple this nation in 12 hours without ever using an atom bomb," Lister declared in an interview elaborating on his plan.

"A lot of talk—and very little action—on civilian defence plans, centring mostly on disaster relief, has betrayed the average American into a sense of security.

"But the Communists could attack without warning. They could do it through their cells scattered over the United States.

Steel Could Work Sabotage

"Even if the FBI has spotted every cell and every Communist, they could effectively sabotage our power and communication systems, our water supply and transportation net, and our vital industrial plants. They could do it before wholesale arrests could be made."

Lister said, "that protection—much as the military thinker may hate to admit it—can be provided by civilians without cost. Those civilians want to protect their homes, their jobs and their way of life. All they need is a little direction."

His plan provides simply for matching each Communist cell with a cell—or two cells—of civilians.

These would be organized in every U.S. community and every strategic industrial plant. They would be voluntary. Their assignments would be to guard familiar objects; the highway bridge at the edge of town; the dam backing up the reservoir that provides water for their farmlands; the local power station; the big transformer at the factory; the telephone switchboards.

FLYING ARTILLERY—Members of Canada's first airborne artillery unit—B. Battery of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery—are learning how to load one of their 75-millimetre howitzers into a dummy glider at the Canadian Joint Air Training Centre at Rivers, Man. It's part of the battery's training to fit it for its role in the Canadian Army's proposed airborne brigade. Shown here are, left to right: L/Cpl. R. G. McDonald of Brandon, Bdr. W. J. Maynes of Toronto, Bdr. Hounsome of Wyebridge, Ont., Gnr. W. P. Price of Saint John and Gnr. P. Hiebert of Swift Current.

Gets $465 On Sweeps

MALTON, Oct. 21—(CP)—H. J. Rudolph, a Second World War veteran who for five years has been living with his family at Malton Emergency housing unit, will get $465 as the holder of an Irish sweepstakes ticket. Rudolph said the money would go towards building a house.

Adults Register For Handcrafts

Registration for the pottery, leathercraft, weaving and art metalwork classes, sponsored by the Recreation Commission, began last night at the Public Library and carries on today and Saturday. The classes in the various handcrafts are expected to begin early in November.

Under the direction of four instructors the leathercraft classes will be conducted at Central School as in other years. Jack Dane, recreation director, explained that the nights for the classes will depend upon the desires of those entering the class.

J. K. Riedel will instruct the classes in the pottery handcraft at Central School. The nights that have been sugested for the pottery classes are Tuesday and Thursday with the possibility of a class being held on Wednesday afternoons.

Six instructors will alternate at the metalcraft classes to be held at the Normal School. As in the case of the leathercraft classes the nights for classes will depend upon the desires of those entering the class.

Miss Marjorie Brydon will instruct classes in weaving at the Dixon House on Wednesdays and Fridays.

A display of the handcraft work of last year is at the Public Library.

Marquess Plans To Do The Talking

NEW YORK, Oct .21 —(AP)—The Marquess of Milford Haven apparently is going to do the talking for his family when he gets married in November. At least his fiancee, Mrs. Romaine Simpson, hardly peeped when they arrived here Thursday.

The slender, dark - haired American divorcee and blonde David Mountbatten, second cousin of the King, were shy when the Queen Elizabeth docked—and breakfastless.

Questions about their romance and wedding plans mostly were brushed aside by Milford Haven who was best man for Prince Philip when the latter married Princess Elizabeth.

Mrs. Simpson was not present when Milford Haven talked to reporters and showed up reluctantly for photographers with her fiance. Later, she did consent to show her engagement ring — a huge ruby set in a circlet of diamonds—to reporters.

Mrs. Simpson has a 19-months-old daughter by her previous marriage.

Treated To Surprise

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y., Oct. 21 (CP)—Community Chest workers were having a dinner in a hotel here Wednesday night when they discovered Charles Laughton, the British-born motion picture star, in the dining room. They asked him to join them. Laughton arose and announced that if everyone present would donate a dollar to the Chest drive immediately, he would recite Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, complete with gestures. They did. He did.

Greeks Standing By

LONDON, Oct. 21—(AP)—The rebel Greek Communist "government" Thursday night said its guerrilla forces remained ready to take up arms again despite their recent cease-fire announcement in the Greek Civil War. A statement, distributed here by a Russian News Agency, said the Communist guerrilla army "has not laid down its arms, but is holding them at the ready."

Seek To Arouse Interest In Citizenship

OTTAWA, Oct. 21 (Special). — Canada's first coast-to-coast drive to arouse widespread interest in and support for the work of the Canadian Citizenship Council, a national voluntary organization which co-odinates the efforts of hundreds of agencies concerned with the problems of citizenship, was declared officially open this week by the Council's national co-chairmen, General D. C. Crerar, CH, CB, DSO, and Andre Taschereau, LL.D, KC, in a press and radio statement.

General Crerar said that in the Peterborough area, Harold L. Garner had undertaken to act as one of the 27 Regional Chairmen for the Council's campaign.

"The total objective of the campaign is $50,000, from all Canada," General Crerar said. "We have divided the country into 26 regions, each with a proportionate objective.

No Appeal For Funds

No public appeal for funds will be made this year. Our Regional Chairmen will personally approach a select list of firms and individuals who, by virtue of their status in their own communities, might be expected to take the lead in fostering the ideals of Canadian citizenship, its rights and obligations."

He explained that this unique campaign procedure was adopted in view of the comparatively modest objectives of the individual regions, but pointed out that all contributions can be put to good use.

"The Council combats subversion in a positive way," said Mr. Garner.

"It works through its member agencies to co-ordinate and direct their collective efforts and so to inculcate the idea of true democracy and to emphasize to all Canadians the value of good citizenship."

The Council has the full co-operation of the Canadian Clubs, educational authorities, Chambers of Commerce, veterans' organizations, service clubs, churches, labor, welfare and other important national bodies, he said.

Work Among D.P.'s

"Since war's end, one of the major tasks of the Council has been its work among Canada's 400,000 new immigrants — 70,000 of whom are displaced persons," Mr. Garner explained. "A great deal of time has been given to promoting a fuller understanding of our democratic way of life among older Canadians.

"The need for the Council's activities is urgent. More than than 250,000 young Canadians come of age every year. Strong influences are constantly trying to capture the allegiance of our people.

"A firm step toward counteracting these influences was the passing of the Canadian Citizenship Act, which became law on New Year's Day, 1947. But citizenship is nothing if it only begets indifference. It is not merely a legal status, but a responsibility and an honor, as well.

"In fact, as we stress in our campaign literature, 'True Democracy and Good Citizenship Go Hand in Hand'."

Canada Aids Jews

TORONTO, Oct. 21 (CP)—Canada has done more than any other country, with the exception of Israel, to evacuate Jewish displaced persons from Europe, says a report by Saul Hayes, national executive director of the Canadian Jewish Congress. The report will be presented to the eighth plenary session of the Congress when it opens its four-day meeting here Saturday.

Hurricane Dies Out

HALIFAX, Oct. 21 — (CP) — A perambulating hurricane finally tuckered itself out Thursday off Nova Scotia. What was left of it dragged away to the east. The Weather Bureau said the storm had "weakened considerably" and gales in the Sable Island area, 100 miles east of Halifax, were down to 35 miles an hour. Winds were diminishing in all other coastal regions of the Maritimes.

TROPICAL FISH

Among other fish to be shown at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto this year are Astranodus Asculatus, largest of the species known as the "tropicals," which weigh around two pounds.

County to Finance Causeway Through 5-Year Debenture

The issuance of five-year debentures to cover the County of Peterborough's share of financing the Chemong Causeway was approved Thursday at a one-day sitting of the County Council. Exact amount is not yet known, pending a more complete account of legal fees for the project, but it is believed it will be approximately $35,000. Terms offered by the Bank of Commerce were two-and-three-quarters per cent interest, at par.

As Council members felt this rate of interest was as low as they were likely to get even though tenders were offered, they decided not to advertise for other purchasers. The verbal approval of the Municipal Board was obtained.

Robert B. Arnold, manager of the Bank of Commerce, who explained the offer, also stated the Bank would prefer an advertisement so Council members could be convinced they had received the lowest likely offer. But it was felt this was not necessary.

An expenditure by-law making the excess cost over the estimated cost of the Chemong Causeway eligible for the 80 per cent Department of Highways subsidy was passed. This by-law (not one to borrow money) was for $17,677.74 and was brought in to take advantage of the subsidy for roads, bridges and culverts under the Highways Improvement Act.

80 Per Cent Subsidy

Total construction cost of the Causeway was $255,058.36. Together with legal fees and interest charges the County's share was approximately $35,000. The Department's subsidy was 80 per cent, or $202,046.69.

Another by-law turned over a small parcel of land, formerly the property of Douro, to Archie Windsor. It is the old right-of-way of a jog in the River Road, about three-quarters of a mile south of Nassau and amounts to .17 acres. Douro authorities had forgotten they owned the unused property until it was resurveyed recently and they were informed of the fact.

Forest Reserve Question

Two matters affecting the County Forest Area came up for discussion.

Warden William Darling of Dummer stated the caretaker's house situated in the county property had no furnace, and heat would be needed during the winter months. One member of the Council suggested purchase of an oil furnace, another thought a second-hand one would do, and a third it would be a waste of money to get a furnace that would not burn wood.

Finally it was decided to turn the matter over to the Reforestation Committee with power to act.

John McColl, president of the reforestation committee reported that work on the four and a half mile telephone line being built by the County to connect the caretaker's residence in the Forest Area was almost completed.

He said he hoped the job would be finished some time Friday night. Poles have been used to string the wires on instead of trees as had been suggested at one time. Total cost, he estimated, would be between $1,250 and $1,300.

The Bell Telephone Co. would commence work on their half-mile stretch in about a week, he told Council.

Holes, usually four feet deep, in at least a dozen instances had to be blasted through the solid rock, said Mr. McColl. He added that professional linemen had complimented workers on the efficiency of their job.

Advance Noted

After some discussion Council passed a $500 advance to the Peterborough County Federation of Agriculture so that body could meet its commitments. There is a fifth of a mill levy on the County's equalized assessment for the Federation grant, but Council had budgeted to pay that amount later in the year.

Richard Stewart, Deputy Reeve of Otonabee, pointed out that the local Federation had to meet heavy expenditures this year. There was a grant of $250 for the Peterborough Grassland Day; $100 for the Black and White Day; $600 to the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, and the financing of a Junior Farmers' trip to Washington which would come to $60.

The total fifth of a mill grant amounts to $2,247.

Armed Gangs Terrorize Burma

By DOUGLAS LACKERSTEEN

RANGOON, Oct. 21— (AP) — Daylight raids by armed gangs have brought a new terror to Rangoon, capital of Burma, where violence has increased since the dawn of independence.

Flying bullets heighten the terror when gangsters shoot it out with police on the streets and public highways. uniformed gangs using fast moving jeeps show a persistent contempt for the law and those trying to enforce it.

Police records show no one is safe whether government official, military personnel or ordinary civilian. The gangs strike with the intensity of a jungle beast, swiftly, silently and precisely, then disappear into the forest of Thatched dwellings which ring the city.

Officially, the gangsters are described as bandits. But it is also admitted officially that they may be communists, or army deserter rebels racing into the city to replenish by plunder their stocks of arms and stores needed to continue their anti-government campaign.

Police officials say the raiders sometimes work with the timing, speed and efficiency of trained commando units.

They recall a raid at the Northern suburb of Amayut, five miles from the city, when a gang of 200 surrounded the town and ransacked houses in the area.

to invite the Trail Rangers, the boys to bring cake, and the girls sandwiches, apples, popcorn and candy. It was suggested that a carload of girls from Cavan should be invited to come to Millbook for the meetings. Words and pictures were shown on the screen by the Rev. T. G. Husser as the girls sang hymns.

The newly formed Trail Rangers' group is busy fitting up a club room in the parsonage.

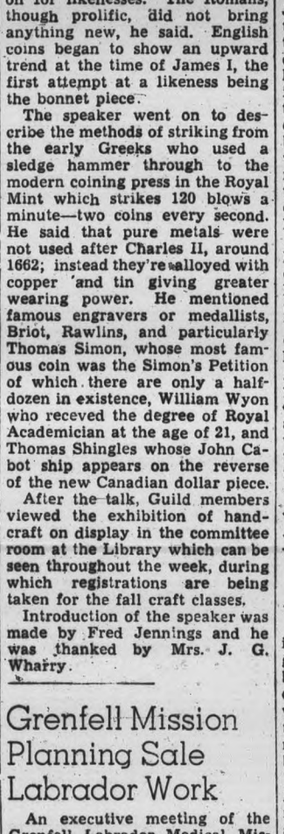
Story of Coins Interests Handcraft Guild

A meeting of Peterborough Handcraft Guild was held Wednesday at the Public Library with the highlight of the evening a talk by Mr. Stan Hayman on Numismatics. This is the study of coins and medals in their relation to history, archaeology, and their likeness to famous people.

Mr. Hayman told a receptive audience that the first coins were made in 700 BC by the Lydians. The Greek period gave a standard that has never been surpassed for beauty of design and striking, and as there were few sculptors in that time, the coins are depended on for likenesses. The Romans, though prolific, did not bring anything new, he said. English coins began to show an upward trend at the time of James I, the first attempt at a likeness being the bonnet piece.

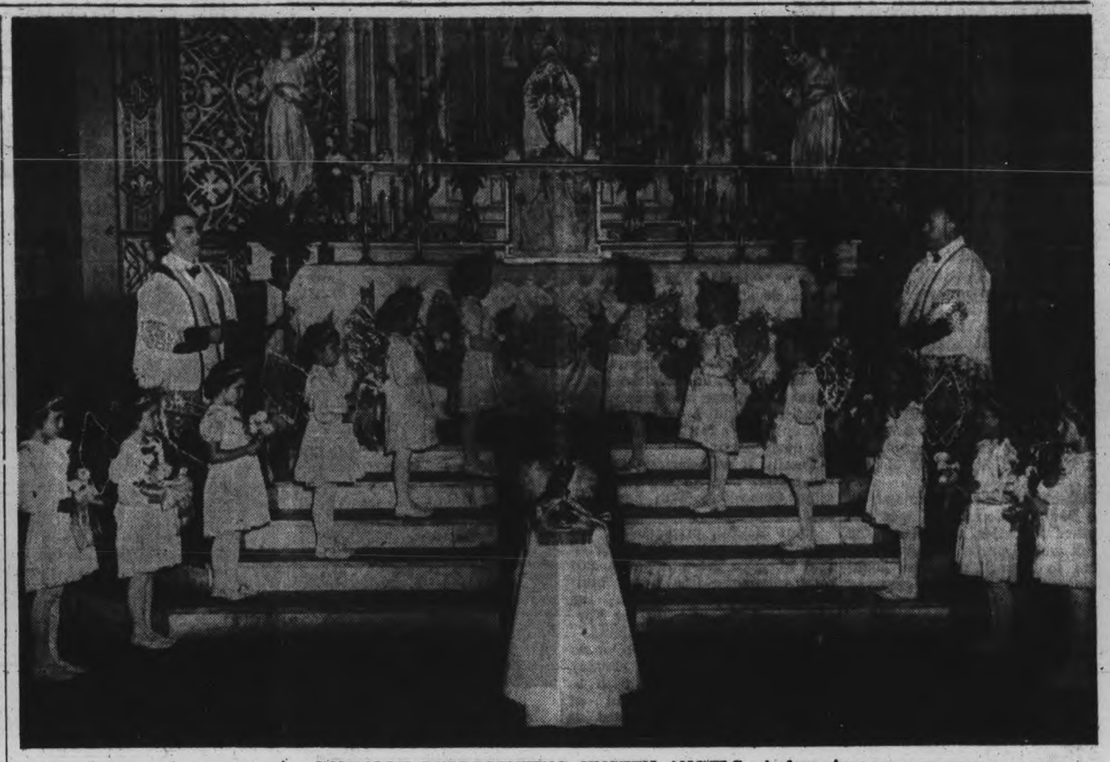
The speaker went on to describe the methods of striking from the early Greeks who used a sledge hammer through to the modern coining press in the Royal Mint which strikes 120 blows a minute—two coins every second. He said that pure metals were not used after Charles II, around 1662; instead they're alloyed with copper and tin giving greater wearing power. He mentioned famous engravers or medallists, Briot, Rawlins, and particularly Thomas Simon, whose most famous coin was the Simon's Petition of which there are only a half-dozen in existence, William Wyon who receved the degree of Royal Academician at the age of 21, and Thomas Shingles whose John Cabot ship appears on the reverse of the new Canadian dollar piece.

After the talk, Guild members viewed the exhibition of handcraft on display in the committee room at the Library which can be seen throughout the week, during which registrations are being taken for the fall craft classes.



Introduction of the speaker was made by Fred Jennings and he was thanked by Mrs. J. G. Wharry.

Grenfell Mission Planning Sale Labrador Work



An executive meeting of the Grenfell Labrador Medical Mission was held Wednesday. President Mrs. Gordon Rutherford made reference to the great loss sustained by the society in the death, last May, of Honorary President Mrs. W. R. Morris, who for many years had fostered and guided the work in this city. Sympathy of members was extended to Miss Morris, also to Treasurer Mrs. F. M. Somerville in the recent death of her husband. This is also a loss to the socitty, which could always count on Mr. Somerville's kindly interest and practical help.

The bale committee reported 17 cartons of new and used clothing sent to Harrington Harbour in June. Some discussion ensued on this subject, and it was agreed that it seems not generally understood that thin dresses, thin high-heeled shoes, hats and similar articles are not suitable for this work. Only warm clothing, clean and in good condition, can be sent. In the spring, notice of when and where such donations may be left will be given through the press. Any information desired in the meantime will be gladly supplied by any member.

Arrangements were made to hold a tea and sale of handicrafts on December 1st, at the home of Miss Morris. Miss Linden Hall reported that this year beautiful work, done by the Grenfell workers in Labrador and Newfoundland, will be obtainable in much greater variety than has been possible for some years It is hoped that carved articles in ivory and wood will be available, as well as the knitted articles, and the hooked rugs for which this industry is famous.

UNPRESSED PLEATS in soft green wool skirt boasts deep revere pockets on either side and new circle waistband.

Three-week Renewal Held At St. Peter's Cathedral

This is a week of renewal for married women at St. Peter's Cathedral in Peterborough and follows last week's renewal for singlewomen. The men begin their week next Sunday and the renewal will conclude on the Feast of Christ The King on October 30 when more than 3,000 are expected to attend morning and evening devotions.

The daylight hours have been used for three separate three-day renewals to 750 children in St. Mary's, St. Peter's and the recently opened St. Anne's schools.

Seventy boys comprising altar servers and chancel choir, will present the living Rosary Saturday. Each boy, with a lighted candle representing a bead of the Rosary, will lead the people in praying the Rosary.

The renewed is conducted by the Redemptorist Fathers — Rev. Father F. Dales, Western Ave., Peterborough; Rev. Father A. McLellan, Brockville, and Rev. Father J. Dever, Ottawa.

Those instrumental in making these arrangements were Rev. Father K. Malane, rector of the cathedral in the absence of Rev. P. Butler; the cathedral staff, the Sisters of St. Joseph's and lay teachers.

Mrs. Robert Pearse Wins Mixmaster At Cooking School

Final night of the IODE Cooking School on Thursday was biggest of the three. All but a few back seats in the Collegiate Auditorium were filled with women whose anticipation was great until the biggest prize of all— a mixmaster—was won by Mrs. Robert Pearse, 594 Harvey St.

Fifteen special prizes have been given to lucky ticket holders each night and 30 more have received shopping bags full of groceries.

The teacher took her large class back to the old days when women made their own bread and turned out tempting loaves as well as several kinds of buns all looking very delicious. For a main meal dish she prepared a meat turnover. Her final display of culinary skill was a ribbon cake, the strips in pale pink, pale green and cream.

Master of ceremonies George Bouck offered himself as a "taster" and seemed to find the finished products highly palatable.

The school was held under joint sponsorship of 57th Regiment Chapter and Peter Robinson Chapter of the IODE. Miss Mary Green, regent of the latter, welcomed attendants Thursday. Members of both chapters assisted as ushers and ticket sellers.

SACRED HEART SCHOOL

A meeting of Sacred Heart Home and School Association and graduation exercises were held Wednesday evening in the club house which was beautifully decorated. Mrs. M. Murray, president, extended a welcome to members, parents and friends.

The Rev. Gerard Sullivan opened the meeting with prayer and introduced the speaker, the Rev. J. Houlihan, of the teaching staff at St. Peters high school.

Father Houlihan complimented the Home and School for sponsoring this graduation. "Graduation from elementary school should not be belittled," he said. The speaker gave much helpful information and advice to both parents and pupils stressing the importance of higher education for girls as well as boys "It is said when you educate a boy you educate an individual; when you educate a girl, you educate a family," he quoted.

Mr. J. Cairns thanked the speaker.

Monsignor J. J. O'Brien, assisted by little Nancy Flint and Allen Dittman, presented each graduate with a diploma and a special gift from the Home and School Association.

Prizes donated by Monsignor J. J. O'Brien for Christan Doctrine were won by Patricia Kane, Dorothy Schell, Shirley Rogers, John Longo, Garry Kearns.

The valedictory address was given by Gordon Whatman winner of the award for highest standing. Second prize winner, Joseph Masterson, gave a vote of thanks on behalf of the graduating class. These prizes were donated by the Catholic Women's League.

A prize donated by a friend for the most outstanding pupil, was awarded Shirley Rogers.

Mr. Hayden, Separate school inspector, spoke very briefly and encouraged the students to continue their good work at High school.

Gifts were presented by the graduates to their teacher, Sister M. Dorothy and from Home and School to Sister M. Adele The door prize, donated by P. J. Jones, was won by Miss M. Collins.

Dainty lunch was served by Mrs. R. White and her assistants. Mrs. J. Conlin and Mrs. A. Doris presided at the tea table which was covered with a dainty lace cloth, centered with tall white tapers and silver basket of baby 'mums.

The graduates were: Donald Bailey, Mary Berardi, Lionel Bloom, Harry Clark, Clair Conlin, Mickey Conlin, Coletta Crough, Paul Doris, Garry Holmes, Patricia Kane, Garry Kearns, John Longo, Frances Mahoney, Joseph Masterson, Joyce Meagher, Kenneth Moher, Joseph O'Brien, Dorothy O'Dette, Bernard Quesnel, Teresa Richard, Shirley Rogers, Marguerite Roscoe, Dorothy Schell, Gordon Whatman, Laverne Armitage.

New CGIT Group Chooses Officers

MILLBROOK, Oct. 21 (ENS).—The newly formed CGIT group met Wednesday at the parsonage. Jessie Lunn was elected president, Margaret Guthrie vice-president, recording secretary Marie Claire Husser, roll call secretary Marlyn Husser, press reporter Lena Marie Lowery, treasurer Margaret MacKay, social committee Frances Dawson, Frances Hanley, Mrs. E. Fallis, usher Alice Hawkins, offering Sheila Sloan.

It was decided to hold a Hallowe'en party in the Sunday School Rooms on Wednesday and to invite the Trail Rangers, the boys to bring cake, and the girls sandwiches, apples, popcorn and candy. It was suggested that a carload of girls from Cavan should be invited to come to Millbook for the meetings. Words and pictures were shown on the screen by the Rev. T. G. Husser as the girls sang hymns.

The newly formed Trail Rangers' group is busy fitting up a club room in the parsonage.

DOROTHY DIX

Wife's Lack of Affection Drives Mate to Other Women

DEAR MISS DIX—People often ask why middle-aged men, who have apparently been devoted husbands, suddenly take to philandering. It is because they are so heart hungry. Now I am married to a fine woman. She is attractive a good housekeeper, a good cook and a good mother, but in the twenty years we have lived together not three times has she expressed any affection for me or showed in any way that she was particularly interested in me. We never quarrel, yet sometimes when we are sitting together I feel that I am the lonesomest man in all the world, and that I would give everything I have if she would only give me a kiss and tell me that she feels glad that she married me. I have never gone philandering, but I am beginning to see how it could be done.

Dorothy Dix

J. S. J.

ANSWER — I commend this letter to the prayerful consideration of those women whose husbands have roamed away from their own firesides and who can't understand why a man isn't satisfied with a wife who keeps his house clean and neat and his socks darned and feeds him upon pies such as his mother never knew how to bake.

They are so self-righteous, these neglected wives, when they recite the litany of their virtues. They have literally slaved for their husbands. They have pinched every penny to save his money They have scrubbed and washed and ironed to keep their husbands comfortable. No man better taken care of, no children better reared than theirs. What more could any man ask of a woman than they have given?

No Love

They do not know that they have given their husbands everything except the thing that they want most of all, and that is some outward expression of the love that their wives really feel for them, and that takes itself out in work and worry instead of words. It always seems to me that one of the greatest mistakes that women make is in assuming that heart-hunger is an exclusively feminine complaint. Men suffer from it just as much as women do. The only difference is that women howl to Heaven over their gnawing pains, while men only too often assuage theirs by nibbling at forbidden fruit.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have been married ten years and my husband and I are very much in love with each other but there is one thing that we can't agree on and that we fight over continually. I like the window shades to be down at least halfway, and he wants them up nearly to the top. When he enters the room he immediately raises the shades and then the argument starts. What would you advise me to do?

ANSWER—Can't you see yourself how ridiculously unreasonable you are and how foolish to quarrel over a little thing like the height of a window shade, especially when the difficulty is so easy to settle? Why not let your husband run the shades up while he is at home and when he is gone let them down as low as you please?

It seems incredible that any woman would be so foolhardy as to run the risk of alienating her husband's affection for her by quarrelling with him over the height of the window shades. Perhaps you do not realize the danger you run, for in the height of an argument you say bitter and hard things that deal wounds that never heal, and some day, if you don't quit, your husband is going to leave you and your window shades in peace and go off to his club or to some woman who will let him monkey with the blinds all he likes.

And consider this: Your husband makes the money that supports the house and pays for the window shades. Don't you think that that gives him some right in the matter that even a wife should respect?

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a happily married man, aged 51. I am very emotional. Is this unmanly in one of my sex? When I read anything that is fine or touching or see a sentimental scene on the stage, my throat constricts and tears spring to my eyes. It is very embarrassing. What would you suggest to overcome this fault or state of mind?

RICHARD.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER — Emotionalism is only to be condemned when it becomes hysterical and sweeps one beyond the bounds of reason. The kind of emotionalism you describe is only the expression of a deep and understanding nature. You are what they used to call in old-fashioned novels "a man of sentiment," and I like the phrase and the man who can be touched to tears by what is fine and noble in literature or art or drama.

Local Council Approves Expense

Mrs. A. W. Nelson, convener for the Local Council of Women, presided for the regular meeting Thursday afternoon in the YWCA Green Room. President Mrs. W. Addyman was absent to attend a sub-executive meeting of Provincial Council of Women in Toronto and all vice-presidents of Council were unable to be present. Twelve members were at the meeting.

A display of paintings by American women, which opened at the Public Library this week, was brought here by the Local Council. The meeting approved payment of advertising expense. It also authorized payment of shipping charges on a parcel of clothing for England, and of the president's expenses to Toronto. A wreath is to be purchased and placed on the cenotaph by the president on November 11.

It was reported the president attended a meeting of the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews in Toronto on October 12. She has been invited to occupy a seat on the platform in Massey Hall for a mass meeting on November 3 when three prominent women speakers will discuss the liquor situation. It is expected that studied resolutions to be presented to the government will result from this meeting. Tickets can be obtained by contacting Mrs. Addyman. A bus will be chartered for the trip if advisable.

Delegates to the annual meeting of Provincial Council of Women in Toronto, November 24 to 26 will be appointed at next meeting. Two nominations to the executive were sent forward.

A partial report on the fall tea held last week was read by treasurer Mrs. W. T. Fanjoy, showing a satisfactory balance.

Reading of a news letter on various Council activities concluded the meeting.

Fashion Flashes For Fall

ELEGANT ENSEMBLES for daytime wear are cited by the important specialty shops. Black wool is used for a handsome princess coat of black woollen detailed with slope-shoulder yoke and fastened from the tiny turn-down collar with nine buttons. It is lined with the dress fabric which is changeable silk taffeta in red squares on black, in a jacquard weave.

✧ ✧ ✧

TWO FURS are better than one, say many designers, and work out models to prove their contention. A handsome coat has a ranch mink bodice on a fitted tunic of black Russian broadtail. Slashed pockets at the hips, and curved shoulder pockets offer individual detail.

✧ ✧ ✧

LOUD APPLAUSE at one show for the model wearing a jaunty jacket and a pert beret of bright red moleskin. With it an umbrella with a cover of the fur for an extra touch of whimsy!

✧ ✧ ✧

ON EVERYTHING for sports or casual wear, it's ribbing. A purple heather jersey dress has deep violet knit ribbing to form a shoulder yoke — also at the waist and edging the sleeves. Brown ribbing for a camel colored tweed coat frock, and white ribbing for a navy wool blouse.

✧ ✧ ✧

ATTENTION is centred on pockets this fall. A nice suit of pewter gray pin-wale corduroy is made up of a slim skirt and a back-belted boxy jacket with silver buttons. High up towards the shoulder line are big, side-entry patch pockets.

✧ ✧ ✧

BORROWED from yesteryear is the wrappy coat as well as the cloche and the beaded sheath for evening wear. Straight, slim and ankle-length is an evening frock of mauve pin crepe with an all-over scroll pattern of chalk white beads. Curved sweetheart neckline and narrow self straps with large roses at one shoulder.

✧ ✧ ✧

SOME FOLKS must admire shimmering fashions for at a recent showing there was a great deal of applause for a theatre suit made entirely of copper colored sequins, the skirt slim, the jacket fitted with a slight flare.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE GLEAM of satin is still eye-compelling when it comes to a wedding dress. Palest blush pink is used for a beauty in supple silk satin with a shirred band of the material covering on the bodice and up to the shoulders below a deep nylon net yoke. Curved shirred bands of the fabric are used on the full skirt dipping to a rounded V in back.

✧ ✧ ✧

A CAME-BACK is being staged by the muff. Several of the big houses in Paris showed models ensembled with muffs, with pillow muffs—in flat furs such as beaver or sealskin — competing with round and melon muffs in black fox, ermine, shirred silver fox and mink.

✧ ✧ ✧

A GOOD BUY is the tweed suit that is right for the country or for general wear in town or for travelling. One such suit is composed of a green tweed jacket with collar and lapel facing and cuffs in red and dusty green plaid to match the pleated skirt. With it a green wool jersey blouse.

Food Rules Are Changed To Meet Dietary Standard

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Oct. 21 —(C)—Canada's food rules have been changed to meet the requirements of a new dietary standard developed by the Canadian Council on Nutrition.

The standard is the result of two years' study by the Council, which serves in an advisory capacity to the health and welfare department. It replaces previous standards, the last one of which was adopted by the Council in 1945.

Canadian Nutrition Notes — a monthly publication by the health and welfare departments nutrition division—contains the new food rules.

No extreme changes have been made in the rules which were first adopted in 1944. However, milk figures have been clarified by introducing a category for younger children.

Children up to 12 years should get at least one pint of milk daily; adolescents, at least 1½ pints; adults at least one-half pint.

The department bulletin notes that while the old minimum level of 1½ pints daily for older children is retained in the new rules, no maximum is given, as previous, because instances have been reported of adolescents being limited in their milk intake as a result of the earlier statement.

For the same reason the old minimum of one-half pint daily for adults has been used without the limiting effect of a top figure of one pint. The bulletin says surveys have shown that 30 per cent of Canadians in the adolescent and adult groups do not get the required minimum amounts.

To abide by Canada's food rules, it is necessary to eat daily, one serving of whole grain cereal and at least four slices of bread (with butter or fortified margarine).

To keep in tip-top health one must also include in the daily diet:

Fruit—one serving citrus fruit or tomatoes or their juices; one serving of other fruit.

Vegetables—at least one serving of potatoes; at least two servings of other vegetables, preferably leafy, green or yellow and frequently raw.

Meat and Fish—one serving of meat, fish, poultry or meat alternate such as dried beans, eggs or cheese. Liver should be used frequently and both eggs and cheese at least three times a week.

Vitamin D—at least 400 international units daily for all growing persons and expectant and nursing mothers. Iodized salt is also recommended.

The nutrition division of the health and welfare department says that cooking vegetables in the pressure cooker has a "slight advantage over other methods of cooking as far as the retention of nutrients is concerned.

However, pressure cooking has been found less desirable for cabbage, broccoli, and cauliflower. It also has been found impractical for cooking some frozen vegetables such as frozen peas, which can be cooked in the usual way in less time than it takes to bring pressure up in the pressure cooker.

Magistrate Speaks At St. Paul's On Family Court

An intensely interesting address on "Family Court" was given by Magistrate W. R. Philp at the regular meeting of Friendly Group of St. Paul's Ladies' Aid held in the Guild Room Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. T. G. Tully presided and the devotional period was in charge of Mrs. A. Powers. Assistant secretary, Mrs. N. Henry, read the minutes and the contribution basket report by Mrs. W. A. Cochrane, in absence of Mrs. H. Ball who is ill. Mrs. Wm. McBride gave the treasurer's report, showing a creditable bank balance

Mrs. A. R. Bennett sang two delightful solos, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. L. McNeill.

The Rev. C. G. Boyd introduced the guest speaker. A vote of thanks to the guests was voiced by Mrs. N. Henry. Mrs. A. A. McIntyre was pianist for singing of hymns.

Ladies whose birthdays are observed in October are to be congratulated on the splendid program prepared. They were Mrs. W. A. Cochrane, Mrs. N. Henry and Mrs. A. Powers, who also served refreshments. The color scheme of orange and black for tea room decorations was carried out in flowers and tapers. Mrs. A. Strong poured tea.

6—In Memoriams

DAVIS—In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, J. R. Davis, who passed away one year ago, October 21, 1948.
Those whom we love go out of sight,
but never out of mind;
They are cherished in the hearts of those they leave behind.
Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days;
Sincere and true in heart and mind—
Beautiful memories he left behind.
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by son Garnet and daughter-in-law Grace, two grandsons, Bonnie and Bobbie.

7—Cards of Thanks

I wish to express my sincere thanks to attending doctors and nurses of Civic Hospital and to my relatives, friends and neighbours for their many kindnesses, cards, flowers and fruit sent to me during my recent illness—Bruce Dunford, Lakefield.

Mrs. H. Starr and family wish to thank Archdeacons C. W. Balfour, and W. P. Robertson, also friends, neighbours and members of Cosmopolitan Club and those who called or sent flowers and cards during their recent sad bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Collins and family, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Rose and family wish to express their sincere thanks and appreciation to their many relatives, friends and neighbours for their kind expressions of sympathy and for their beautiful floral offerings. Charges Captain Drunk At Fire Won't Testify

TORONTO, Oct. 21 (CP)—The Noronic disaster inquiry was told today that a survivor who alleged the ship's master was drunk had declined an offer to testify before the Federal Government-appointed commission.

J. W. Pickup, commission counsel, said C. R. Willson of Cleveland had been asked to give evidence here but declined.

It was at an earlier inquiry in Cleveland that Mr. Willson charged Capt. William Taylor was drunk. Other survivors said the captain was sober.

The counsel for Canada Steamship Lines, owners of the Noronic, said after Mr. Willson made his charge that instructions had been given to start suit for $250,000 against the person making the charge.

Capt. Taylor in his evidence two weeks ago denied he was intoxicated and said he had taken only one small drink ashore.

Mr. Pickup's reference to the Cleveland survivor's charge was made after the inquiry had heard the evidence today of assistant purser H. C. Hellmantel, the 78th witness.

Commission counsel said that apart from a few questions he wished to ask the ship's chief engineer, the Crown's evidence was complete.

However at the suggestion of Frank Wilkinson, CSL counsel, the inquiry agreed to question two other members of the crew.

They were Lionel Fournier, an oiler, and Robert Morrison, the boatswain.

Think Bevin To Cut Defence

LONDON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Four United States Senators said today Foreign Secretary Bevin had given them the impression that Britain will make large cuts in military appropriations in an effort to ease her economic problems.

"We are vitally concerned, of course, because of Britain's role in over-all plans for defence of Western Europe." Senator Allen J. Ellender (Dem. La.) told a press conference.

Ellender is chairman of a U.S congressional committee investigating European defence and the accomplishment of American aid abroad. Committee members talked with Bevin Thursday.

Ellender's colleagues, Senators Homer Ferguson (Rep. Mich.), William E. Jenner (Rep. Ind.), and Theodore Francis Green (Dem. R.I.), said they also received the impression there will be substantial cuts in Britain's defence expenditures.

The cabinet met today to give final approval to an emergency program of economics necessitated by Britain's financial crisis Prime Minister Attlee is expected to announce details in the House of Commons Monday.

Princess Lays House Cornerstone

EXETER, Devonshire, England, Oct. 21—(CP)—Princess Elizabeth today laid the cornerstone of "Toronto House", a war-victims home subscribed for by citizens of Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa and Quebec in conjuction with other cities of the Commonwealth.

The ceremony was performed on the site where seven years ago bombs rained down.

Dana Wilgress, Canadian High Commissioner to Britain, journeyed from London to attend the ceremony. Wilgress and Maj.-Gen. W. G. Michelmore, Exeter's mayor, accompanied the Princess on her tour of the city.

The collective name of Toronto was chosen for this group of 14 modern dwellings in recognition of a £75,0000 ($232,500) gift raised by the Toronto Telegram as a contribution to the Lord Mayor of London's Fund for relief of air-raid distress.

The fund contributed £15,000 toward the cost of Toronto house.

400 Villagers Visit Anniversary Bazaar

MARMORA, Oct. 21 (ENS) — To conclude 75th anniversary celebrations of St. Paul's Anglican Church the Ladies' Guild held a bazaar and chicken supper in the town hall on Thursday attracting well over 400.

Staffing the fancy goods booth were Mesdames L. C. Boyd, C. R. Whittemore, R. Frost and Miss M. Savage.

The parcel post office stall was operated by Mrs. Roy Smith assisted by Misses Virginia Robertson and Margaret Ann Smith.

have a special guest, Brigadier D. H. Storms of Toronto, former C.O. of the 3rd Division Engineers. Captain Max Morrison, C.R.E. adjutant, and Captain Neil Mustard, of Toronto, former adjutant of the Company, will also be present.

Two other guests will be wartime padres, the Rev. Walter Gilling, of Peterborough, Hasty-Pees padre, and the Rev. W. C. McCarney, of Keene, 3rd Field Park Company.

Registration will take place at Babe's Place, a restaurant at 426 Water St. The proprietor, Babe Fontaine, is one of the committee of five in charge of the arrangements.

Malcolm D. MacPherson is the president, Jack Davies, treasurer, and the other four members of the working committee are Harry Blewett, Jack Johnston, Pete Vitarelli and Les Pryde. All are Peterborough district men who served in the unit.

After registration Saturday afternoon the ex-Sappers will head for the Kawartha Club for the 7.30 p.m. banquet. A minute's silence will be observed in memory of Fallen Comrades and there will be a reading of the names.

A social evening is planned afterwards with the main entertainment being a dance.

Last May there was a smaller re-union of this unit and that time an executive was set up to arrange for a larger annual get-together this fall. At that time President MacPherson expressed the hope that this larger re-union, bringing ex-Sappers from scattered points throughout the country, would become an annual affair.

PUBLIC RELATIONS HEAD William H. Dumsday 40-year-old newspaper man has been chosen director of public relations of the defence department. Dumsday who scored a world scoop on the birth of the quintuplets, recently was Ontario editor at The Canadian Press head office in Toronto. During the Second World War he served as a public relations officer for the R.C.A.F. in the Indian, Ceylon, Burma theatre. (This photo is copyright Milne Studios, Toronto.)

Andy Lytle Takes Sun Job

TORONTO Oct. 21 — (CP) — Andy Lytle will leave his post as sports editor of the Toronto Star at the end of October to take up a similar post with the Vancouver Sun.

This was announced today on the Star sport page along with the news that Milt Dunnell, Lytle's assistant for the last year, moved up into the sports editor's chair.

Lytle left the Sun 16 years ago to join the Star. He has been sports editor for eight years. He was born in 1887 in Norman, one of the three northwestern Ontario communities which later amalgamated to form the town of Kenora. He entered newspaper work in 1914 in New Westminster, B.C., and joined the Sun staff in 1921.

Dunnell, 43, was born at St. Mary's, near the southwestern Ontario city of Stratford. He was sports editor of the Stratford Beacon-Herald before he joined the Star staff seven years ago.

pumping systems. A good portion of this has come and will be manufactured in Peterborough.

Brazil has an unusual water supply problem. Along the coast the land rises sharply more than 2,000 feet to a fairly level plateau. The result is that all rivers more than a few miles inland, flow, not toward the ocean but toward the centre of the republic and thence by many river systems north and finally out to the Atlantic.

Consequently the water from these low level rivers must be pumped to the top of the land rim along the coast and then allowed to flow down giant conduits and through the generators for power for the cities and towns.

With no coal and no known oil supplies in the country, Brazil's future is, like Canada's tightly bound up in its hydro development.

W. H. Dumsday P.R. Head Of Defence Dept.

OTTAWA, Oct. 21 (CP)—William H. Dumsday, 40-year-old newspaper man who scored a world scoop on the birth of the Dionne quintuplets, has been appointed director of public relations for the National Defence Department, it was announced today.

Mr. Dumsday, now Ontario news editor in The Canadian Press Toronto bureau, starts his new job Nov. 1.

As a reporter for the North Bay Nugget, he was the first newspaperman to reach the tiny cottage at Callander, where the five famous Dionne sisters were born in 1934.

He joined CP the following year and has worked in various bureaux across the country and in New York since then.

During the Second World War he was a flight lieutenant in RCAF public relations in the India-Ceylon-Burma theatre and flew operationally with RCAF crews for stories on the Far-East exploits of Canadian fliers.

He began his newspaper career with the Moose Jaw, Sask., Times-Herald, his hometown daily. He worked with the Regina Leader-Post and the Winnipeg Free Press before coming east to North Bay.

Mr. Dumsday is the immediate past president of the Toronto Men's Press Club.

He now will head the public relations staffs of the army, navy and air force although each service will retain their present individual staffs.

THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER COMMISSION OF ONTARIO

ALTERATIONS AND ADDITIONS TO NEW OFFICES CANNINGTON, ONTARIO

Sealed tenders, in triplicate, addressed to the undersigned and clearly marked "Tender for Alterations and Additions to New Offices, Cannington, Ontario" will be received up to 12:00 o'clock noon on November 2nd, 1949, for a General Contract.

The building is of concrete block construction, single storey, and measures approximately 90 ft. by 45 ft. The basement is unfinished.

All trades (including mechanical) will be required for the work in connection with the above alterations.

Plans, specifications, etc., may be obtained on and after, Monday, October 24th, 1949 between 10:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m.—on week days excepting Saturday, at the office of The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, Cannington, Ontario, on payment of $5.00 per set. This deposit will be refunded when the drawings and specifications are returned in good condition.

Each tender must be accompanied by a Bid Bond, issued by a Bonding Company recognized as such by the Province of Ontario, in the amount of fifteen percent (15%) of the tender price. The Bid Bonds of any, or all, of the tenderers will be retained until a contract shall have been executed, after which the bonds of the unsuccessful tenderers will be returned. The successful tenderer will be required to provide a Performance Bond for one hundred percent (100%) of the contract price. Copies of Bid and Performance bond forms which are acceptable to the Commission are included in the documents exhibited for tender. Instructions as to the procedure to be followed concerning the posting of Performance Bonds may be found in the tender documents.

The lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

ROBERT H. SAUNDERS, Esq., C.B.E., K.C., Chairman and Members of The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, 620 University Avenue, Toronto, Ontario.

By-Elections Held Monday For 8 Seats

23 Candidates Run For Vacancies, Little Interest Shown

OTTAWA, Oct. 22 (CP)—By-elections will be held Monday to fill eight common vacancies caused by six government appointments and two deaths.

Five of the by-elections, first called since the June 27 general election, will be in Quebec—Montreal Mercier, Montreal Laurier, Montreal Jacques-Cartier, Gatineau and Kamouraska.

The others will be in Toronto Greenwood, in the New Brunswick constituency of Restigouche-Madawaska and in the British Columbia constituency of New Westminster.

There are 23 candidates for the eight seats. Voters go to the polls between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. local standard time.

Because the by-elections follow so closely the general election, only limited interest has been shown. The Progressive Conservative party, official opposition in the Commons, decided to contest only three of the seats. The C.C.F. party placed only two candidates in the running.

Liberals On Toes

The Liberals have candidates in all seats and in some of the Quebec constituencies they are opposed by Liberal Independents as well as Independents.

Present standing of the Commons:

Liberals, 186; Progressive Conservatives, 40; C.C.F., 13; Social Credit, 10; Independent, four; Independent Liberal, one; vacant, eight; total, 262.

All the Quebec vacancies resulted from government appointments following the election.

Joseph Jean, former solicitor general and Liberal representative of Montreal Mercier from 1935, was appointed to the Quebec Superior Court.

SUNNY SOUTHERN ALBERTA — A mantle of snow covered Calgary during the week as the first snowstorm of winter swept across the Canadian prairies. The storm brought three inches of the white stuff to Calgary but in the Lethbridge area of Southern Alberta, the fall was as much as 20 inches. Six-foot drifts blocked many rural roads.

1950 Buying Must Be Cut Britain Says

Government Officials Fly To London To Try And Up Trade

OTTAWA, Oct. 22 — (CP). — The United Kingdom has told Canada that she will reduce spending in this country next year by approximately $100,000,000, informed sources have disclosed.

The cut-back, the sources said, stems from Britain's dollar difficulties and a financial crisis. As a result, Britain is expected to slice spending in Canada to about $600,000,000—lowest since 1940.

Exports to the UK in 1948 totalled approximately $700,000,000. This year they likely will be slightly lower.

Receipt of the information by the government is believed to have sparked a trip overseas by Max Mackenzie, Deputy Minister of Trade, and J. T. Taggart, Deputy Minister of Agriculture.

They will leave by air today for discusions in London with various British industries concerned with Canadian industrial and food supplies.

Talks likely will centre on how to distribute the reduced amount of dollars among various Canadian industries without undue hardship to anyone.

To Give Argument

Mr. Taggart is expected to argue and give reasons why Britain should not reduce agricultural imports such as bacon, cheese, eggs, salmon and small fruits.

Mr. Mackenzie, on the other hand, is expected to plump for continued importation of such things as newsprint, pit props and pulpwood.

Dollar value of Anglo-Canadian food contracts in 1949 probably will total in excess of $370,000,000. Lumber, newsprint, and other wood pulp products totalled $37,000,000 in the first six months this year.

The sources said these commodities were the leading and most important items Canada shipped to the UK.

It is understood, however, that the UK has indicated she intends to cut purchases in bacon, eggs and newsprint.

Without the stabilizing influences of a large UK bacon contract, the Canadian price market may deteriorate, leaving the farmers with lower incomes and the Federal Government with new headaches, the sources said. The same may be said of eggs.

Newsprint organizations have not much worry since one of the biggest markets is in the United States. However, they have a large stake in the British market and probably would be unhappy to see Scandinavian countries replace Canada as a big supplier of newsprint needs.

PONDERS JUDGMENT—Mr. Justice H. A. Winter, of the Newfoundland Supreme Court, who is now deliberating on a judgment in the Smallwood-Browne case in which W. J. Browne, Progressive Conservative M.P., alleges Premier Joseph Smallwood intimidated the voters of Ferryland during the June federal election campaign. Mr. Justice Winter will rule on Premier Smallwood's right to trial by jury.

Indict Amtorg Officials As Unregistered Agents New Tension With Reds

5 Russians Arrested, Held On $15,000 Bail Pending Hearing Wednesday; US Charges Commercial Firm In Espionage

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22—(AP)—Indictment of Russia's famed Amtorg Trading Corporation and its top officers as unregistered foreign agents appears certain to set off new tensions between the United States and the Soviet Union. The indictment was returned by a Federal Grand Jury here and announced by Attorney-General Howard McGrath Friday It charged the corporation and six officers with failure to register as agents of a foreign power in accordance with U.S. law. The maximum penalty is a $10,000 fine and five years imprisonment.

Washington officials promptly began speculating on Soviet reprisals. The Russian Embassy was reported to have lodged a formal protest with the State Department.

Shortly after McGrath made his announcement, five of the Russians were arrested in New York and taken before a U.S. commissioner, who held them under $15,000 bail each pending a hearing Wednesday on removal to Washington.

The sixth Amtorg official — a vice-president of the company—is in Russia.

Act As Agents

McGrath said in his announcement that since Oct. 1, 1946, Amtorg had collected "information for and reported information to "Russia and had otherwise acted at the orders of the Russian government.

In the last three years, he asserted, Amtorg was told repeatedly to register under the foreign agents registration act.

While its functions are supposed to be purely commercial, there have been repeated charges in Congress that Amtorg acted as an espionage agency for Moscow.

McGrath's statement made no mention of that. Nor did it disclose why the government had decided to obtain the indictment against the trading corporation at this time.

Crippled Guard Kills Two In Jail Break

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 22 (AP)—A crippled watchman's gunfire early today killed two men awaiting trial for murder here as five prisoners broke out of the county jail.

Slain were Edward Corcoran, 33, awaiting trial for the murder of his wife in July, 1948, and Edward McEwen, held for trial on a charge of murdering a Phoenix citrus grower, Charles T. Shoop, last May 12.

They were shot by Tom Stowe, night watchman at the Maricopa county courthouse.

Stowe said he was reading in the courthouse record room when he heard breaking glass upstairs.

"I started up, then three of them jumped me. One had a gun and hit me on the head.

"I shot one. Then I looked and saw one of them on the steps. I shot him.

Tear-gas from sheriff's deputies brought the surrender of two others. They were identified as John Bridges, held on a robbery charge, and Dinzel McDonald, awaiting charge on a forgery charge. One prisoner, believed to be Jack L. Tatum, held on theft charges, escaped.

Canada Self-Sufficient In Cement In '50—Howe

OTTAWA, Oct. 22—(CP)—Trade Minister Howe said Friday Canada will be self-sufficient in cement production by next year. He was replying to a question asked in the Commons by G. K. Fraser (PC—Peterborough West). Mr. Fraser asked if Mr. Howe was aware of the "great scarcity of cement which is impeding the building of houses" in Canada.

"In Peterborough alone the building of houses, especially the construction of the foundation—even Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation houses—has been held up owing to the fact that we have had just a trickle of cement in this year. I wonder if the Minister could do something, anything to help the situation.

Mr. Howe said he is aware that production of cement in Canada is not adequate for requirements this year. The Hydro-Electric plants being built were taking more than 2,000,000 barrels of cement.

"That is a type of construction that is not being built ordinarily in this large volume, and the result has been a shortage. I believe the cement company (Canada Cement Company of Montreal) imported about 1,000,000 barrels in an attempt to meet the situation. I am informed that the situation is correcting itself rapidly and that next year Canadian production will take care of Canadian requirements."

Four In Family Die In Flames

HARTLAND, N.B., Oct. 22 — (CP)—Mrs. Oland Everett and her three small children were burned to death early today when fire destroyed their home in this northwestern New Brunswick village.

Mr. Everett, who rescued two other children from the flaming building, was taken to hospital at nearby Woodstock suffering from burns.

It was the second fire with multiple death toll in New Brunswick this week.

William Proctor, six, and Anita Proctor, 14, were burned to death Wednesday when fire destroyed their home at Cody's N.B. Mrs. William Proctor, their mother, and two other children, Wilma, 12, and Eugene, 13, survived although all suffered burns and shock.

Noronic Inquiry Findings Released Nov. 7

TORONTO, Oct. 22—(CP)—Findings in the Federal inquiry into the Noronic disaster will be handed down Nov. 7.

The Commissioner, Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock, adjourned the inquiry until that date after hearing testimony from 84 witnesses concerning the Sept. 17 cruise ship fire. In the fire, 105 persons were killed and 14 left missing.

The closing phase of the inquiry was argument by Frank Wilkinson, counsel for Canada Steamship Lines, who said the fire aboard the C.S.L. ship was "one of those tragic events for which no explanation can be given."

He said the company met its responsibility to the passengers when it supplies a seaworthy ship, proper equipment and an experienced master and crew. The company also supplied detail safety regulations and called for frequent reports on whether the crew was complying with these regulations.

406 Survivors

Mr. Wilkinson that of the 524 passengers on board, 406 survived. He contended that this indicated there was "no inadequacy of alarm and no inadequacy of exits," He added:

"If the passengers had gone to the promenade deck as directed in instructions in their cabins, most of them would have been saved. It is quite clear from evidence before the court that passengers or crew who reached the promenade deck on the port side, or on the starboard side forward, were saved."

From evidence given, it appeared that the stairways leading from deck to deck offered good, free access, he said.

Mr. Wilkinson said he was puzzled over the fact that so many passengers apparently slept through the noise of trampling feet and shouting in the corridors outside their cabins.

GM Employees Will Return To Work Monday

OSHAWA, Oc. 22 — (CP) — Some 4,000 workers who walked off their jobs at the General Motors plant here Friday will return to work Monday morning.

The men, members of of Local 22, United Auto Workers (CIO) cheered the recommendation, made at a mass meeting Friday night, after the temporary walkout which resulted from the alleged "refusal of top management" to meet with a union committee to discuss four issues.

W. A. Wecker, president and general manager of the company, however, issued a statement saying: "There is in our contract with the union, a procedure for processing grievances which the union is trying to by-pass. The company has never refused, and has not refused in this case, to deal with grievances through the usual personnel authorized by the company and this personnel includes senior plant executives who have full authority."

General Motors negotiating chairman Malcolm Smith, speaking to the mass meeting Friday, said that the union wanted more pay for older production-line employees when the company's production rate exceeded 40 units an hour. He said that that production recently was increased to 40 cars an hour.

Other issues revealed by the union included a demand that a man be rated 120 per cent efficient after seven weeks' service, while the company wanted a 12-14 week period; that junior help nearing the age of 20 be advanced in the plant to adult work and that an employee, recently pensioned off with $30 a month after 26 years' service, be reinstated with pay retroactive to his retirement.

Child Brighter Than Teachers

DERBY, England, Oct. 22 (Reuters)—A psychologist called in by teachers because an 11-year-old schoolboy was "difficult," discovered the child to be a genius with a brain in a million.

W. J. Wheeler told a conference today that he examined the boy and found he had an intelligence quotient with 170, compared with the average adults' IQ of 100.

"I had to tell the teachers their difficult child had a brain far superior to their own," he said. "He was fretful and tiresome because he worked out the answers before they could."

Wheeler would not disclose the boy's name, but said he was at a grammar school and was being watched."

"I have found a genius and no one knows what to do with him" he said.

Guarded By Police

DUDLEY, Worcestershire, England, Oct. 22 (Reuters)—Capt. Roy Farran, threatened with death by the Stern Gang in Palestine two years ago, will be guarded by police when he arrives here next week from Southern Rhodesia. Capt. Farran is being considered as a Conservative candidate in the 1950 general election. His younger brother, Rex, was killed in May, 1948, by a parcel bomb intended for Capt. Farran and delivered to their home near Wolverhampton.

Cut Train Travel

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22—(CP) The Interstate Commerce Commission Friday ordered a 25-percent cut in the operation of coal-burning passenger locomotives on all railroads that have 25 or less days supply of coal on hand. The order is effective at midnight Tuesday, Oct. 25, and will continue in effect for two months.

Czechs Jail Embassy Clerk

PRAGUE, Oct. 22 (AP) — Czechoslovakia Friday jailed a United States embassy clerk and demanded the immediate recall of Embassy Attache Isaac Patch on charges that they were running a spy ring directed against the security of this Communist-led country.

Patch told newspapermen the charges were absolutely baseless. Other officials described them as entirely without foundation. The arrested American is Samuel Meryn, a clerk in the office of the embassy's military attache.

The Czechoslovak foreign ministry said in a sharply worded note it had indisputable proof of the charges, based on confessions of arrested Czech members of the alleged ring.

Five Cattle Rustlers Jailed At Lethbridge

LETHBRIDGE, Oct. 22 (CP) — Five young cattle rustlers drew prison terms ranging from 12 months to four years after they had pleaded guilty in district court here Friday to a total of 22 charges involving the theft of 49 head of cattle from Southern Alberta farmers and ranchers.

Sentences were as follows, each carrying hard labor and sentences to run concurrently:

John Sawchuk of Lethbridge, four years in Prince Albert Penitentiary on each of eight charges.

Richard Boyle of Sudbury, Ont., three years on each of six charges.

Joseph Orosz of Lethbridge, two years on each of four charges.

John Orich of Brocket, 18 months in Lethbridge Jail on each of four charges.

Kenneth Solek, of Lethbridge, 12 months in Lethbridge Jail on each of four charges.

FIND THREE DEAD IN HOUSE

BERKELEY, Calif., Oct. 22 — (AP)—Two women were found bludgeoned to death and their brother shot and killed in their residence here today. Police broke in at the insistence of neighbors who became worried after papers and milk piled up on the porch for 11 days.

Duplessis Regrets St. Laurent Attitude

QUEBEC, Oct. 22 (CP)—Premier Duplessis said he regretted the attitude taken by Prime Minister St. Laurent "on a problem so vital" as the government motion seeking transfer from London to Ottawa of power to amend Canada's constitution in federal matters.

The provincial premier made his opinion known Friday at a press conference when he released text of a third letter to the Canadian prime minister.

The premier wrote in a reply to a letter from Mr. St. Laurent that he and his colleagues "were surprised at the particularly unfortunate tone of your letter, on a problem so vital."

10 Remanded In Theft Case

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 22—(CP)—Pleading guilty to charges involving the theft of merchandise stolen from the York Trading Company here, nine men and one woman were remanded in custody for sentencing Tuesday when they appeared in court Friday.

Pleading guilty to theft charges were Elvin Robinson, Kenneth Robinson, Elmer Dafoe, Reginald Adams, Reginald Bulpitt, Garth Andrews, and Wilbur Sherry, all former employees of York Trading Company. Pleading guilty to charges of receiving stolen property were Frank Brough, Thomasburg grocer, and Mrs. Lena Sharpe.

Harry Sharpe also appeared on a charge of receiving and had his case enlarged until Tuesday, while Arthur Kleinsteuber, Sulphide grocer, was scheduled to appear later today on a receiving charge.

100 Junior Farmers See Girl Win Prize

PICTON, Oct. 22—(CP)—More than 100 junior farmers gathered at nearby Bloomfield to see Betty Dempsey receive the award for the greatest contribution in club leadership, a $50 cheque to be used on a trip to the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago. The prize was donated by Prince Edward County Federation of Agriculture.

Livestock showmanship trophy went to Clifford Foster, of East Lake, as well as the trophy for highest standing in Picton Calf Club.

The CNE shield for highest contestant in the judging competition was awarded to Lawrence Foster, of East Lake, runner-up since Tommy May, the top man, had won the trophy before. Prince Edward Agricultural Society trophy went to Lyn Cunningham, highest in the Hillier and Ameliasburg Calf Club. Prizes won by junior farmers at Picton Fair were also distributed at the banquet.

If Britain Cuts Army Draft Threat To Peace—Churchill

LONDON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Winston Churchill said Friday night that an economy-inspired end to Britain's peacetime military draft would cut chances of maintaining world peace and would "strike a deadly blow" at United States-British defence co-operation.

Speaking at a reunion of 7,000 "desert rat" veterans of the Battle of El Alamein where Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Nazi troops first tasted major defeat, Churchill said:

"It is my conviction that to make such a change at this time would reduce our chances of maintaining what we all desire—the peace of the world."

An end to peacetime conscription has been suggested recently to the Labor Government as one way to cut government expenses and help Britain through her current economic crisis.

The wartime Prime Minister said he had told Prime Minister Attlee the Conservatives would support the government fully in maintaining conscription.

As Churchill spoke, Attlee and key cabinet ministers were completing cuts in government spending which, it is estimated, will save £200,000,000 to £300,000,000 ($820,000,000 to $980,000,000) annually.

The program, to be announced in parliament today, is reported to include reductions in government building of schools, hospitals and other public structures, and probably some cuts in defence appropriations.

11 People Injured In 2 Car Accidents

SUDBURY, Oct. 22 (CP) — Eleven persons were injured and removed to hospital after two traffic accidents today on Highway 11 near here. Four remained in hospital and seven others, from North Bay, returned home after treatment of superficial cuts and bruises.

Four were injured in a collision between automobiles driven by Percy Coombs of Sudbury and Elmer Tuuri of nearby Creighton. Coombs suffered head cuts, Mrs. Coombs leg injuries, Tuuri chest injuries and possible fractured ribs, and Amy Wulff of Copper Cliffe a fractured right arm.

The seven North Bay youths were hurt when the truck in which they were going home from a football game was involved in another collision. They are Steve Lavery, Walter Kannegiesser, Bobby Rowe, Bill White, Johnny Smith, Sonny Reynolds and Jack Blair.

Great Financial Bubble Burst 20 Yrs. Ago

Fall of October, 1929, Brought Disaster Crashing Across Canada - U.S.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22 —(CP)— During the summer of 1929 the United States and Canada were riding the crest of a wave of prosperity.

In October the bubble broke. People looked back on those exciting and comfortable times and realized how fantastic and unreal the whole thing had been.

But no one looking through their rose-colored glasses at the bright light of prosperity could foresee the dark era of depression that was ushered in after the stock market hit rock bottom on "black Tuesday," Oct. 29.

During the summer stocks were high. Everybody read the financial pages and was talking the market.

Everyone with a little loose cash was hustling to get in on a good thing and turn a fast buck. On margin — sometimes only 10 per cent down—you couldn't lose.

As the summer waned the boom began to slacken. But there was no drastic break and it didn't seem to bother the investors, especially the little man working on margin.

The break started in September. At first it wasn't even alarming. It wasn't panic selling, just some people getting rid of their stock. But they weren't the small investors—the truck drivers and widows, the grocery clerks, bartenders and stenographers.

They were engulfed shortly afterward when the bottom fell out of the market.

Noticed Soon

The decline that led to the crash of Oct. 28-29 started in Montreal Oct. 14 and appeared within the next few days on the Toronto exchange.

On the Toronto Exchange, a list of 16 key companies lost values at the rate of $1,000,000 a minute October 28, and dipped $300,000,000 in market value during the day. When investors lined up at brokerage houses early October 29 with cheques to cover margin commitments, brokers demanded more money.

Heavy losers included International Nickel, which dropped $10 a share, and Brazilian Traction, down $11. Goodyear Tire declined $30 and CPR fell $15.

On the New York Stock Exchange the panic started October 24. The market collapsed. But that was only the beginning and there was still hope that something could be salvaged.

The bankers came to the rescue putting in a strong bid for steel that afternoon. People breathed easier. The market rallied.

But the rally was short-lived.

Five days later came Black Tuesday when a record-breaking 16,140,000 shares of stock changed hands. Men and women picked up telephones to hear their once-suave brokers, now curt and hoarse, demand "More margin, more margin."

And of course there was no more margin. Most had already drained their meagre savings

Bexhill Council Gives Roads Canadian Name

BEXHILL, Oct. 22—(CP)—To perpetuate the wartime link between Bexhill and Canadian troops billeted here during the war, Bexhill Council has named new roads after them:

The names chosen are: Canadian Way, St. Lawrence Rd., Edmonton Rd. and Calgary Rd.

The idea was originated by Major Charles Pyecroft, who will probably officiate at the naming ceremony.

100 Teachers At Convention In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 22 — (ENS)—"I remember sitting, in the rectory in Fredericton listening to my father and Bliss Carman discuss Burns, Thackeray and other old English masters," said Lloyd Roberts, poet and journalist, speaking at the annual convention of the Northumberland Teachers' Institute in St. John's United Church Friday. There were more than 100 teachers present.

Mr. Roberts is the son of the late Sir Charles G. D. Roberts, author of many famous animal stories. He lives on a farm north of Grafton and is devoting his full time to poetry and prose.

"Poets are born, not made," continued Mr. Roberts. "Liking poetry better than mathematics played havoc with my school life. I broke away from school when I was 18," he added.

"If writers wanted to eat in those days," he said, "they had to go to the United States. There you could sell your wares for cash. An artist was not recognized in Canada."

Went To New York

He told about his father moving to New York City and renting a dingy, dusty suite at the end of a long hall. At the other end of the hall, he said, lived Bliss Carman. He stated that Carman could produce his best poetry amidst unfavorable surroundings.

"We lived on a petty cash basis," he said. "If we didn't have money some one else did. Others were willing to buy you a meal if you were hungry."

He said that he got a job as office boy with the McClure Magazine at $5 a month. "I thought I was rich," he asserted, "because I could lend Bliss $2 and father $1 now and again."

"Bliss Carman was at all times," Mr. Roberts said, "a professional poet. Standing six-foot-three with a great mop of hair, he was very popular with the fair sex. He had a dry sense of humor and was not noted for church-going. He wrote remarkable lyrics," he added.

"I sold several poems," he said, "at 50 cents a line, but it took more perspiration than inspiration to make a living."

Mr. Roberts punctuated his lecture by reading several of his early and late poems. "Out in the Marsh" and "Deep Dark River" are his two favorite nature compositions.

"You had freedom," said Inspector A. A. Martin, addressing the teachers, 'to choose your vocation and with that choice there was attached considerable responsibility. A few people," he stated, "choose a vocation that called for high salaries and exploitation. Yours is a vocation of service," he added.

"You also have freedom to choose your school," he declared. "When you have chosen your school adopt it as your own and make it better. Learn better methods of teaching and above all know your children."

In Different Category

He said that it was a real effort for some teachers to speak to people. "Remember," he cautioned, "teachers are in a different category than other people in the community. Being friendly is one of the best ways to gain the co-operation of the parents," he advised.

Rev. D. M. Smith of St. John's United Church was in charge of the opening exercises. Mrs. F. G. DeCarroll sang with Mrs. George Nicholls at the piano. The guest speaker was introduced by Miss M. Osborne and thanked by A .A. Martin. Dinner was served by the ladies of St. John's Young Adults' Club. Mrs. Luella Young, Grafton, presided.

Adjourn Hearings

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (CP) —The congressional hearings on the disagreement between branches of the United States and armed forces over unification policies have adjourned until Jan. 3, when Congress returns for its next session. In the meantime, the committee will study and evaluate the testimony and reach an agreement on the best course to follow."

Much cooler air moved rapidly into Ontario today ending the current unseasonable mild spell. An intense disturbance that developed over Northern Ontario was instrumental in speeding into the province the cool air that has been over the prairies for the past few days. The storm has increased winds over most of the province to gale force. Storm warnings are displayed at all Great Lakes ports.

Another cold air mass over Northwestern Canada is moving into the Prairies today and will spread into Northern Ontario on Sunday accompanied by some rain and snow. The weather over Southern Ontario will be sunny and cool on Sunday.

Forecasts:

Lake Erie, Southern Lake Huron, Lake Ontario, Niagara and Haliburton regions: Cloudy with occasional sunny intervals today, clearing this evening. Mostly clear Sunday. Much cooler. Winds west 25. Low tonight and high Sunday at St. Thomas, St. Catharines 35, 50, Trenton 35, 45; Killaloe 30, 40.

Summary for Sunday: Sunny and cool.

Stock Markets Climb During Week

By The Canadian Press

Stock markets continued climbing this week but had to absorb considerable selling on the way.

New inroads were made into the high point of the year and brokers reported increasing public participation.

Observers say that professional selling has increased but the small investor has returned to absorb selling and continue the market climb.

The traditional fall decline has failed to appear and generally prices have risen since August.

Price movements were comparatively narrow during the five days and although the Associated Press 60-stock average showed a decline of .2 on the week many issues were strong.

Canadian markets made their own way over the five days. In Toronto, industrials Friday broke through to the highest point on the exchange's index since August 1943. Market leaders led the upturn as the group gained 1.78 from the previous Friday.

News of the week from an investment standpoint was the Thursday night budget announcement extending the 10-per-cent personal income tax credit on common stock dividends to include all classes of shares. Preferred stocks reacted to this news Friday and climbed strongly.

Base metals were stronger despite weakness in the metal market for a gain of .85. Strong demand for three days lifted western oils .79 and golds inched forward for a gain of .5.

Average volume for the five days was 1,001,000 shares, compared with a four-day average of 1,240,250 shares the previous week.

Funeral Service Held For Mrs. Alice Stalker

Archdeacon W. P. Robertson, of St. John's Anglican Church, conducted the funeral services of the late Mrs. Alice Stalker, from the funeral home of A. Comstock and Sons, on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Stalker, the former Alice McCallum, was born in Burnsford, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James McCallum. On Wednesday, following a lingering illness, she passed away in Peterborough Hospital. For the past 37 years, she has been a member of this community and previous to that lived in Huntsville. She was a member of St. John's Anglican Church.

Pallbearers were Robert Fowler, John Brown, Melville Stewart, Clayton Sanderson, George Cobley and Elmer Tighe.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. S. W. Widdes (Daisy) of Detroit, Michigan, Mrs. L. Whittington (Viola), of R.R. 3, Peterborough; four sons, Garnet of Brantford, Roy of Houston, Texas, John and Gordon, of R.R. 4, Peterborough; two sisters, Mrs. Robert Steele, of Dunsford, and Mrs. C. M. Moncur, of Peterborough; three brothers, Joseph McCallum, of Lindsay, Archie and Sam McCallum, of Bobcaygeon. Her husband, the late William Stalker, predeceased her in 1927 and one son, Alfred, predeceased her in 1934.

Interment was in Little Lake Cemetery.

Seek To Plug Criminal Code Loopholes

OTTAWA, Oct. 22—(CP)—The Federal Government is asking the provinces to help find ways of plugging loopholes in the Criminal Code through which some publishers evade penalties for turning out obscene literature.

Justice Minister Garson disclosed this intention in the Commons Friday night during a speech in which he said the government is willing to include crime comics in the provisions of the Criminal Code.

Mr. Garson spoke as the Commons gave second reading — approval in principle — to an opposition member's bill that would make publishers, sellers and distributors of crime comics liable to prosecution.

The bill, sponsored by E. D. Fulton (PC, Kamloops), will remain before a committee of the whole House until the provinces indicate what type of amendment to the Criminal Code would be most suitable to clamp down on obscene literature, and dime crime comic books.

Maximub Penalty

The section, under which crimecomics could be included, provides a maximum penalty of two years for anyone convicted of wilfully publishing, distributing or selling obscene literature.

One difficulty in enforcing this law was in proving that a person distributed or sold the literature knowingly or wilfully.

Comic books occupied the Commons during the hour regularly provided on Fridays for private members' legislation.

Department of Veterans Affairs estimates for 1948-49 of $242,119,299 were considered by the Commons in committee of the whole House.

In the comic book bill discussion Mr. Fulton, sponsor of the measure, agreed to have it remain in the committee stage until the provinces make their suggestions on how to tighten the Criminal Code. He accepted Mr. Garson's suggestion on the understanding, however, that the bill will be reported from the committee before the current session prorogues —probably early December.

Mr. Garson said he believed the stumbling block under Section 207 of the Criminal Code is in the words "who knowingly and without lawful justification and excuse" prints, sells or distributes literature considered to be obscene.

Some Protection

In a country with Canada's views on liberties and freedoms he felt it was unufair that a bookseller handling thousands of books he could never hope to read should be convicted because he sold a book that, without his knowledge was obscene.

This section has been particularly worded to protect honest book sellers. However, it also protected the dishonest distributors as well. All a dishonest book seller had to do was to tell the court he was not aware there was anything obscene in a book he had sold.

Mr. Garson indicated that one of the chief problems in tightening the Criminal Code is to make it strong enough to convict these dishonest book sellers without being unfair to the honest distributors.

The Attorneys-General of Ontario and British Columbia had said convictions were hard to obtain because it had to be proven that the literature was handled "knowingly and without lawful justification or excuse."

Garson Ideas

However, Mr. Garson did not believe the words should be eliminated until:

"1. The publishers at the source of this objectionable reading matter shall have been prosecuted, and it shall have been demonstrated in such prosecution that it is impossible to convict the publishers under the law as it now stands, as amended by adding crime comics to material banned by Section 207.

"2. That the law officers of the provinces give us assurance . . . that Section 207 cannot be enforced effectively without the elimination of those words. . ."

Rescue 35 Sailors

FISHGUARD, Wales, Oct. 22—(AP)—Thirty-five sailors trapped aboard a sinking British freighter were rescued Friday night by two small merchant ships. The freighter, the 3,595 ton Cydonia, struck a drifting mine off the west coast of Britain. One sailor was killed by the blast, which tore a ragged hole in the vessel's side.

Cleared of Witchcraft

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Oct. 22 (AP)—The only witchcraft case in California's history wound up Friday night with the complete exoneration of Mrs. Lorena M. Blackwell, attendant at the Sonoma State Home for mentally ill. The state personnel board exonerated Mrs. Blackwell of charges she put "curses" on patients, and that she frightened them with remarks concerning witchcraft.

PROFITABLE ANIMALS

Wildlife in Canada brings in over $4,000,000 of revenues to the provinces in hunting, fishing, trapping and similar licences, each year.

Rev. W. E. Fuller Consecrated Bishop In West

The Very Rev. Wilfrid Eastland Fuller was consecrated bishop of Saskatoon at St. John's Cathedral on Tuesday. Metropolitan of the ecclesiastical province of Rupertsland the Most Rev. L. R. Sherman conducted the services.

Bishop Fuller was a former Peterborough boy, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Fuller. He received his primary and secondary education in the city and at the age of 15 went overseas with the 93rd Battalion. After overseas service he was demobilized in 1919 and entered the University of Toronto and graduated with honors in theology from Wycliffe College in 1925.

Some of his parishes and appointments were St. Luke's Church and Trinity Church, both of St. John, N. B., the historical parish of Norton, N. B., and in Campbellton. Following this he was appointed in succession to Christ's Church Cathedral, Fredericton, St. James Church, Armsdale, Halifax, and St. John's Cathedral, Saskatoon.

A member of the Board of Governors of CBC for seven years Bishop Fuller received his Doctor of Divinity degree from Wycliffe College in 1946 and he has also been chaplain of HMCS Unicorn, Saskatoon since 1943. His wife was the former Jean Donald Shand of St. John, N. B., and they have three sons and one daughter.

A brother, R. D. Fuller, lives in Norwood and works at the Outboard Marine Company and another brother, Frank, lives in Detroit. Mrs. P. J. Fuller of 518 Gilmour St., is an aunt.

Trade Policies Under Fire In Commons

OTTAWA, Oct. 22 — (CP) — Opposition financial spokesmen Friday opened fire on government trade policies as budget debate got under way in the Commons.

Two want - of - confidence motions—one from the Progressive Conservatives followed by another from the CCF—were introduced.

Hon. Earl Howe, Progressive Conservative financial critic and member for the Ontario constituency of Dufferin-Simcoe, led off debate on the budget reintroduced Thursday night by Finance Minister Abbott.

His non-confidence motion asked the House to express regret "that the government has failed to take effective measures to prevent the present decline in our trade with the sterling area."

It also expressed the opinion that "the government should consider advisability of inviting the nations of the Commonwealth to a conference in the immediate future for the purpose of working out arrangements to preserve and enlarge those traditional markets on which jobs and opportunities for Canadians very largely depend."

Fires Opening Volley

Ross Thatcher, CCF member for the Saskatchewan constituency of Moose Jaw—fired the opening volley of his party's attack on the budget.

He finished his speech with an amendment to Mr. Rowe's motion urging the government to consider immediate tariff reductions to encourage an increase in imports from the United Kingdom and other sterling countries.

Mr. Rowe charged that government policies are losing Canada's traditional markets. He urged that Commonwealth trade conference be called to cope with the deteriorating situation.

The Cabinet, he said, should give immediate attention to "our loss of traditional markets and our failure to facilitate purchases of UK exports in short supply in Canada." It should "inaugurate steps for the holding of an Empire trade conference at the earliest possible date."

As to the internal approach, he urged establishment of a separate ministry in the Cabinet to deal exclusively with the development of natural resources to help meet the "staggering" fixed costs of government.

Rev. Andrew S. Ross Dies In Montreal

MONTREAL, Oct. 22—(CP)—Rev. Andrew Smith Ross, 84, a United Church minister for 53 years, died in hospital here Friday after a brief illness. Born in Cobourg, Ont., he graduated from Toronto University prior to receiving his Doctor of Divinity degree here.

He served for a time on Manitoulin Island and Hamilton and Vars, Ont. After 31 years as pastor of Montreal West United Church, he retired to Kingston, Ont., in 1937, but two years later returned to the active ministry.

Besides his widow, his survivors include a daughter, Mrs. D. J. Matthews, of Guelph.

A PARTICULAR HONOR was paid the 3rd Field Park Coy., RCE, in the Fall of 1941 when HM King George came to inspect them as they trained near Aldershot. In company with Captain A. B. Dove of Montreal, CO of the unit, the King is shown walking across a box-girder bridge constructed by the local Sappers. Col. Whyte, OC of the 3rd Division Engineers, and the King's aides are following. When the Sappers came to the network of canals in the Scheldt estuary they found this aspect of training particularly useful. Today the unit is meeting in Peterborough to talk over wartime experiences.

Says Soviet Ahead With Atom

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22—(AP)—A Nobel-prize-winning scientist said Friday the Russians are moving faster than the United States in atomic development and soon may be ahead of the U.S. And Dr. Harold C. Urey, the scientist who was awarded the Nobel prize for discovering heavy hydrogen, had a ready-made reason: The U.S. is too concerned about military secrecy. "It is time that we take stock of this situation and recognize it for what it is," Dr. Urey declared, "and it is time that we stop witch-hunting about the 'secret' which obviously now does not exist."

He gave his views at a press conference. So did Lt.-Gen. Leslie R. Groves, wartime atomic research chief.

Dr. Urey said: "I would fire every security officer in every atomic plant and laboratory in the United States with the exception of Los Alamos." (Los Alamos was excepted, he said, because of its military detail value.)

"Childish," scoffed Gen. Groves.

The General said U. S. atomic secrecy since the Second World War was needed to give European countries "breathing time for recovery. We would have shortened the time for Russian discovery of the atom bomb by making our information available."

Difficult Position

Dr. Urey said "it has been difficult to take any courageous stand in regard to anything connected with atomic energy as long as committees of Congress of the United States continually impune the integrity and motives of scientific groups."

Two other scientists got into the act, writing in the bulletin of atomic scientists.

Dr. Frederick Seitz, professor of physics at the University of Illinois, said in a short time the Russians will have learned all that U. S. scientists know of the atom bomb.

Fell Into Canal Youth Rescued

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 22 — Resting flat on the canal wall with several boys sitting on his legs to prevent him from losing his balance, George White, Queen St., pulled 7-year-old George Stocker, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Stocker, River Rd., from the canal at about 4:15 p.m. Friday.

George was pulled to safety about 30 feet from the spot where he had fallen in. Through swimming and clinging to the safety chain, he managed to keep himself above water.

Attracted by several boys shouting for help, Mr. White found the youngster almost exhausted. The rescue was made shortly before the fire brigade reached the scene.

Mr. White said that he had to reach down almost five feet before he could grasp the boy by the clothes. He thought that ladders would be better safety devices than the chains now in use. After donning warm clothes George quickly recovered from the ordeal.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Oct. 22 (CP)—Indications of substantial export business in oats and barley to the United States were observed on the coarse grain futures market at the Winnipeg Grain Exchange Friday. This was suggested by fairly aggressive demand from houses of American connection in the market. Offerings, which were fairly liberal, were absorbed by this buying and some demand from Eastern shipper accounts. A few U.S. buying orders in rye were taken but some increase in selling was observed. The United Kingdom was allocated 800,000 bushels of wheat and Belgium took less than 100,000 bushels. The price of Class 2 wheat, for export to countries other than the United Kingdom, was unchanged at $2.36.

Falls, Fractures Hip

BETHANY, Oct. 22 —(ENS)— Miss Elizabeth Ward, who lives with her brother Hiram at his farm home, Lot 17, Con. 7, Manvers Twp., west of Bethany, had the misfortune to fall at her home on Wednesday evening. The fall resulted in a fractured hip.

Dr. G. M. Longfield attended the elderly lady, who is 89 years of age and she was taken by ambulance to Civic Hospital, Peterborough, where her condition is reported to be improving.

Fuel Oil Prices Reduced In City

Fuel oil prices dropped Saturday morning in Peterborough as a result of Imperial Oil Limited announcing in Toronto Friday price decreases on six heating and lighting oils. The drop is a result of the government's removal of sales tax on these products.

Furnace fuel oil is down nine-tenths of a cent to 17 cents; stove oil is down one cent to put the price at 19 and nine-tenths; kerosene is down 1.3 cents; lighting naphtha, one and one-half cents; incubator oil, 1.5 cents; heavy fuel oil for industrial use, nine-tenths; and bunker fuel oil, one-half a cent.

A company statement added "Adjustments will be made in cases where consumers are invoiced at former prices during the interval that instructions regarding reduced prices are transmitted to the hundreds of sales offices throughout the country.

"The new prices do not take into account adjustments that will be necessary to offset freight rates that became effective Oct. 11th."

Youth Found Dead On Wolfe Island

KINGSTON, Oct. 22—G. Mark Emmons, 17, was found dead in a trailer Friday at the home of his employer, J. D. Campbell of Wolfe Island. The trailer was owned by Mr. Campbell and was parked at the rear of the residence.

The youth had attended a show Thursday night and had complained to a friend that he had a headache and pains in the stomach. Dr. M. J. Morrison, coroner, was called and said an autopsy will be performed.

Deceased was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Emmons of Peterborough formerly of Wolfe Island.

Three Badly Hurt In Orillia Bush Smash-up

ORILLIA, Oct. 22 —(CP)— Three persons are in serious condition and 21 others are less seriously hurt as the result of a Gray Coach Lines bus collision with an automobile Friday about six miles south of this Lake Simcoe town. The bus overturned in a ditch.

The bus, travelling to Toronto during a drizzling rain, skidded while travelling down a hill, spun completely around and struck an automombile driven by Bruce Sharpe, Toronto salesman.

Sharpe is in serious condition with broken ribs, a collapsed lung and a mangled hand. He was alone in the car.

Harold Morris of Toronto, apprentice driver, was unable to straighten the bus out as the back began to skid and Hugh McLenachan, his instructor, went to his assistance. They were unable to control the bus.

On the other side of the road is a steep bank.

By the time ambulances and police arrived, most of the injured were out of the wrecked bus.

In Serious Condition

Two bus passengers in serious condition are Robert Kerr, 70, of Detroit, who suffered head injuries, including possibly a skull fracture, and Mrs. Dunbar, who also suffered head injuries.

Currency Curb Repeal Asked At Windup Meet

HALIFAX, Oct. 22.— (CP) — Repeal of currency regulations affecting Canadians holidaying in the United States was urged at the wind-up session of the Canadian Tourist Association here Thursday.

A resolution said the restrictions were unnecessary because "the differential in currency places a natural deterrent on U.S. travel." The $150 limit was "irritating" to Americans.

The group strongly protested the indiscriminate use of foreign flags—the Stars and Stripes in particular—as a dollar-lure for Canada's visitors. The resolution held that such flags should be flown only on the proper occasions and in the proper place.

Other resolutions asked:

1. "All possible haste" in construction of the Trans-Canada Highway.
2. More uniformity in the date for daylight saving time.
3. That the next federal census contain information on hotel and tourist accommodation.
4. Fish and game restrictions be strictly enforced.

Asks Canadians Encouraged In Newspaper Publication

OTTAWA, Oct. 22 — (CP) — George M. Murray (L, Cariboo), publisher of the weekly Alaska Highway News, said Friday night in the Commons he believes more can be done to encourage Canadians to take part in the publication of newspapers.

He spoke during a debate on a bill sponsored by E. D. Fulton (PC, Kamloops) and aimed at bringing crime comics under provisions of the Criminal Code. The discussion also brought for A. L. Smith (PC, Calgary West) and Justice Minister Garson comments on newspaper libel.

Mr. Murray said "this country is deluged with filth from the publishers of the United States and no effort is made to stop this material coming past the border."

"As a publisher may I say that I do not think we are competent to judge what is good or what is bad. That is something for public opinion. We get just what we ask for. You can take the Bible and hold it up as an example of a publication which contains within it articles and items which might be mentioned here tonight.

"I think if we would encourage our Canadian press, our Canadian writers and our Canadian artists . . . we could do much more to establish Canadian literature in Canada which in turn would encourage Canadian talent to take part in the publication of our papers."

Question Of Libel

Mr. Smith raised the question of newspaper libel. He said the distributor of a newspaper libel is subject to prosecution under the Criminal Code. Mr. Garson agreed.

Then, asked Mr. Smith, would it not be possible to make publishers and distributors of obscene literature and crime comics subject to similar prosecution.

A. C. Stewart (L, Yorkton) interjected that the publisher of a newspaper libel had protection.

"Has no protection except under the different provincial statutes which provide for apologies and a lot of nonsense of that kind," replied Mr. Smith. "He is liable to be prosecuted under the Criminal Code. No one has been hurt very much by that."

Not Pushing It

Mr. Smith said he was not advocating "one thing or another." However, Mr. Garson had stated the was some belief that prosecutions against handlers of obscene literature would be simplified if the Criminal Code did not require proof that theliterature had been handled "konwingly and without lawful justification or excuse." Elimination of those words had been urged by British Columbia and Ontario governemnts.

Mr. Smith asked:

"Is it not a fact that if these words were eliminated it would put these scurrilous magazines—if I may call them that — in exactly the same position as a newspaper which publishes a criminal libel?"

Mr. Garson replied:

"The analogy my honorable friend has drawn is hardly a true one. The point I was trying to make was that where you have the words, 'knowingly without lawful justification or excuse' as part of the definition of the offence I suggest that it is likely to be easier to make a case or to secure a conviction against a publisher . . . then against a bookseller."

Five Ad Men Get Special Awards

TORONTO, Oct. 22 (CP) — Five Canadian advertising men Friday night received awards for outstanding contributions to advertising at the 35th annual convention of the Association of Canadian Advertisers.

L. E. Phenner, president of the Canadian Cullucotton Products Company Ltd., received a gold medal, the ACA's highest award.

Silver medals were presented to W. S. Thompson, director of public relations for the Canadian National Railways Montreal; Fred Poirier, president, Poirier, Bessette, Montreal; Elton Johnson, vice-president, Locke Johnson and Company Ltd., Toronto and Fred H. Brigden, president, Brigden's Ltd., Toronto.

Recipients are selected by a jury of 12 men from various groups connected either directly or indirectly with advertising.

Dr. Bruce Hopkins TB Association Head

TORONTO, Oct. 22 (CP) — Dr. Bruce Hopkins of Kingston, is the new president of the Ontario Tuberculosis Association.

The 62-year-old doctor who has taken an active interest in the fight against tuberculosis for a number of years, was elected Thursday night at the Association's annual convention here. He replaces Col. Ibbotson Leonard of London, Ont., who retired after 2½ years' service.

Dr. Harry Lovering of Hamilton, became vice-president. Elected to the management committee were: Col. S. R. Wallace, Woodstock; E. C. McLeod, Toronto; C. W. West, Brampton; Gordon Trail, Pembroke and F. J. Kelly, Sault Ste. Marie.

Sentenced To Be Hanged

TORONTO, Oct. 22 — (CP) — Samuel Care, 58, was convicted Friday of murder in the razor-slaying last March 1 of Mamie McLennon, a fellow-worker at suburban Weston Sanatorium. He was sentenced to be hanged Jan. 24. An assize court jury which deliberated 75 minutes recommended mercy. Care's counsel, H. R. Rose, contended Care was insane when he attacked Mrs. McLennon and two other women at the hospital.

Would Aid Indians

OTTAWA, Oct. 22 — (CP) — Canada's Indians who fought in the last war and now live generally under "rather deplorable" conditions, should be given every encouragement under the Veterans Land Act, Col. Douglas Harkness (PC-Calgary East) said Friday night in the Commons. Col. Harkness said he understood that Indian veterans living on Reserves are restricted to three acres of land under the Veterans Land Act. This restriction should not be enforced, at least not to Indians living on reservations where land is held in common.

Killed In Car Upset

METCALFE, Oct. 22 (CP) — Doreen Crozier, 23, of Billings Bridge, Ont., was killed Friday night when the car in which she was riding overturned in a ditch three miles from here. Three youths in the car escaped uninjured. Police identified the driver of the auto as Lomer Lecuyer, also of Billings Bridge. Metcalfe is about 17 miles southeast of Ottawa.

Sullavan Gal Hard Actress To Interview

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 21 (AP)— Margaret Sullavan can be classified as a hit-and-run interview.

A movie interviewer soon learns to class his subjects. There is the sit-and-chaw type, who remains in one spot as long as you want to ask questions. There is the hot-and-heavy variety who pursues you until you can make a graceful exit. This one always wants to know: "Do you think you have enough for a story?"

With Maggie Sullavan it's more hit-and-run, or touch-and-go.

The actress with the muted fog horn voice is doing a film again after a six-year absence. She's playing in "No Sad Songs," her first since the wartime "Cry Havoc." After a wait while she changed her costume and makeup, she finally emerged from her dressing room. I began firing.

Hit and Run

"Hope your return will become a habit."

"That's very nice, but we'll wait and see."

She was charming, but she slowly retreated back to her dressing room door. Hit-and-run, you see. I fired some more ammunition.

"Can I be the 99,000th person to ask you how your voice got that way?"

It worked. She drew forward.

"Largely through misuse. My voice has never had much power, and I've always had to strain it to make myself heard when I play in big theatres."

Too Much Strain

"Does it hurt to do that?"

"Yes my throat gets tired. I've had other actresses tell me that they suffer to hear me on a stage because they know how much I'm straining my voice."

"Do you have any plays in mind?"

"No, nothing really exciting."

I could have gone on with a few more questions, but she was again retreating. The distance between us was getting greater, and I would have strained my voice, too, to make myself heard. So I waved goodbye and left.

Two Liberals At Ottawa Hear Teacher Talk In House

By MEL SUFRIN

OTTAWA, Oct. 22—(CP)—The setting was vastly different but the situation oddly similar when Roy Knight, C.C.F. member for Saskatoon City, spoke in the Commons this week. Mr. Knight is a teacher by profession and he was talking about education. For two of the other members in the staid Commons hamber it was an interesting reminder of scenes in little schoolhouses in northern Saskatchewan 20 and 30 years ago.

The members, newcomers to parliament, aren't C.C.F.'ers — they're Liberals. One is Frederick Larson, who represents the Saskatchewan constituency of Kindersley. The other is John Harrison, member for the Meadow Lake riding of the same province.

Pupils

Both can recall when Roy Knight discussed education in a different manner. That was when he was their teacher.

It's a long time ago but Mr. Knight recollects that John Harrison was a pupil for a few weeks in his first school—at Glenbush—north of North Battleford. That was in 1920.

"I taught Jack during a fill-in term before he went to Wilkie," the erstwhile teacher said.

Jack Harrison doesn't think he's in a position to say how good a teacher Roy Knight was. He just points to the fact that he jumped from Grade 5 to Grade 8 in one day after arriving at the school in Wilkie.

It wasn't until about eight years later that Frederick Larson become a pupil of Roy Knight. That was in a six-room schoolhouse at Eston.

Roy Knight taught Frederick Larson for two years before heading for Eastern Canada to finish studies for a degree at Queen's University.

Success

Mr. Knight, a member of the Commons since 1945, admits he is somewhat gratified that two of his former pupils have attained the goal of becoming members of parliament.

They're successful in business too—Frederick Larson as a farmer in the rich wheat-farming district near Madison, Sask., and Jack Harrison as a farm implement agent at Medstead.

However, as Mr. Knight told the Commons earlier this session, he refuses to take responsibility for the fact, as he put it, that they have gone astray politically.

Standardization Of Arms Works Both Ways

The shifting of Canadian military tactics and equipment from British to American types is good practical defence policy. The standardization on American patterns makes necessary two things: Canadian factories must have American arms blue-prints, and Canada must now import what she does not make herself from the United States and not from Britain. The blue-prints are being made available, as the production of the Canadair company of Montreal indicates. The company is filling a Canadian government order for a hundred F-86 ('Sabre') jet planes, which are American.

• • •

The second requisite is complicated by Canada's dollar shortage. The whole standardization plan will amount to little if Canada has no dollars to buy the American equipment for her forces which she does not manufacture herself. The standardization plan should work both ways: if Canada is prepared to buy arms from the United States, the United States should be willing to buy standard equipment made in Canada.

• • •

Prime Minister St. Laurent made this point in his address at the Renssalaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, N.Y. last week when he suggested that if Canada needs to buy more military material from the United States (as a result of the Canadian-American agreement to standardize much of their equipment), she is also in a position to furnish more. What the Prime Minister proposed was really an enlargement of co-operation between the two nations, and a way to implement the standardization agreement to the benefit of both. He did not ask for loans or a variant of lend-lease. He asked for reciprocal buying of defence equipment, whereby Canada could pay for arms she needs from the United States by money received from American purchases of Canadian-manufactured military materials. This would amount to an exchange, a two-way buying.

• • •

The United States is not ill-disposed to such an exchange, for it would help to relieve the pressure on her own industries, but there is a block in the way. Congress demands that the United States armed forces shall buy all their weapons inside the United States. Canada hopes that this demand will be modified, and that something like the Hyde Park agreement made during the war will result. It was by this agreement that Canada was able to supply the U.S. with arms, and at the same time to come out of the war as a creditor to the United States. Congress has approved a clause in the Military Aid Bill allowing arms for Europe to be bought in Canada. A further Congressional step which would allow the U.S. to buy arms for herself in Canada, seems not only logical but mutually advantageous to both countries.

Public Gain, Artist's Loss?

During the last decade painting has been brought increasingly to universities and communities like Peterborough through numerous travelling exhibitions. These are arranged by the National Gallery, other large galleries, and even smaller ones like the Hamilton Art Gallery which this year is sponsoring a limited tour of selected and praiseworthy paintings of contemporary Hamilton artists. Except for loan exhibitions made up from the permanent collections of the galleries, paintings on tour are usually lent by the painters. It is generally recognized that these exhibitions are a public benefit, but the painters themselves wonder if the public's gain is the artist's loss.

The point is argued, not particularly well, in the current issue of Canadian Art by four Canadian painters and two western Canadian administrators of regional art circuits. Miss Paraskeva Clark puts an artist's point of view most sharply. She says the artists are working in the service of the national culture and should expect to be rewarded for it as other professional workers are. The paintings exhibited in travelling shows take sweat, blood and tears to produce, yet the exhibiting bodies get them without charge, the artists receive no rental, hardly ever make a sale, and after a year or two their paintings come back to them "in their shabby frames, but keeping to themselves the bitter secrets of their long sojourns in dark cellars in which they have been stored between the holding of little-advertised exhibitions". What the artist gets out of such shows seems to be little more than "the uncertain glory of enlightening society".

The painters would be encouraged and benefit financially if they were paid rentals for their pictures and if one canvas were bought by each exhibiting body. Nova Scotia's Department of Education which has organized a travelling exhibit for adult educative purposes in each of the last three years pays a rental of five dollars for each picture accepted and buys two pictures a year. This practice could be beneficially extended, but is not practicable for many civic groups now accepting travelling exhibitions. Public Libraries and private art associations in the less populous centres have a difficult enough time raising the money to pay cartage.

Travelling exhibitions are public benefits, but they also benefit the painters. Alex. S. Mowat from the Maritimes writes: "I don't send pictures to exhibitions to sell them (though I naturally have no objections to a sale). I send them for the stimulus and encouragement I get out of the whole business". And he modestly adds: "It seems to me the situation in the Maritimes is good enough for people like myself who have nothing outstanding to say and do not say it outstandingly well".

Of all the arts in Canada, painting has received the widest public and private support, and the most free publicity. The rooms and galleries which take the travelling exhibitions are giving the painters free hire of a hall to advertise their wares as well as to "enlighten" society. Their names become known—it would be unfair to say sometimes beyond their deserts—and sales are made, if not from the travelling exhibits, then privately as a result of the publicity.

The arts in Canada have generally received inadequate recognition, and scant financial support. That painters have thus far come out on top of the heap is due as much to the propagandist capacities inherent in graphic arts—which have been exploited by vocal if not articulate enthusiasts—as to the distinction of some of their works. We are sometimes guilty of a nasty suspicion that painters magnify their lack of public and financial recognition as largely as they do their artistic talents.

Government Butter Losses

Last autumn a butter shortage threatened Canadian tables. This put Canadian dairymen in an awkward position. They were demonstrably unable to meet the demand, and at the same time were making every possible effort to prevent margarine from being legalized so as to fill the gap. The dairymen's lobby in Ottawa convinced the Government that rather than let the demand for margarine get out of hand, it should import butter. So the Government went into the butter-buying business. During the winter it bought fifteen million pounds from Australia, Denmark and New Zealand for resale to creameries and packers. To import butter from such distances costs money; further, Danish butter in particular is expensive. The result of the whole business was that the Government lost $900,000 on the deal. That is, the taxpayers lost it.

The shortage was to some extent alleviated, but the average wholesale price of the imported butter was 74 cents a pound, and creameries protested that consumers would not buy it at the high price it would have to retail, and so the Government had to sell it at a lower rate, and thereby lost money.

Canadians have paid the high price of $900,000 to give the dairymen protection from mounting demands for margarine. That is one conclusion to be reached from a complicated story.

Rebels Quit In Greece

The Greek rebels against the western-supported, right-wing government have announced the "end of operations". It is a victory for the Truman Doctrine of "containing" communism wherever it should break out, and must give satisfaction to Mr. Churchill who poured British troops into Greece long before the Truman Doctrine was voiced. Western food and money did more to oust the guerillas and shepherd the common Greek people into the royalist fold than did bullets and blood, though the expenditure of these was grievous, and has scarred the country.

It is significant, as the Christian Science Monitor points out, that the timing of the announcement seems to have been by a Kremlin clock—on the eve of the UN Conciliation Commission's report. That the Russians have had a hand in the decision to quit fighting is evident. It is another indication of Russian retrenchment.

The Marchbanks Correspondence

To Samuel Marchbanks, Esq.
Dear Marchbanks:

I am offering you $50, cash down, for your car. It is a good make, only two years old, has first-class tires and has plainly been well cared for. That is why I am offering you $50, instead of the $25 which is what a dealer would give you.

The fact is that Chanel, that skunk that has been hanging around Marchbanks Towers for years, has been living in the garage since you went away. It looks as though she had made a nest in the back seat, and last night she was badly frightened by my dog, Bowser, who happened to be snooping around.

Take it or leave it. $50. I say nothing of the shock to Bowser's nerves, as you are a neighbour and I want to treat you decently.

Yours fraternally,
DICK DANDIPRAT.

To Samuel Marchbanks, Esq.
Dear Mr. Marchbanks:

It occurs to me that now that you are in London, you might look up some relatives of mine, the Mawworms. I have never met them myself, but in 1856 a half-sister of my grandmother, a Miss Eulalia Hawser, married Edmund Mawworm, who was considered to be a great catch. Since my family came to Canada, in 1888, the Hawsers and the Mawworms have rather lost touch, and I am anxious to renew the connection. I have a pair of gentlemen's military brushes, upon the backs of which the Mawworm crest is engraved; unfortunately the bristles are quite worn away.

You will be able to find their address easily, I am sure, as they used to be very well-known people, and had a large house somewhere in London, or quite near. Do call on them and suggest that I would be most happy to write. I am sure they will be interested.

Yours expectantly,
MINERA HAWSER.

P.S.—All the Mawworms have dark hair and I believe one of them is titled. If you find them will you cable their address to me at once.—M.H.

To Amyas Pilgarlic, Esq.

Dear Pil: It is high time I came home. Dandiprat and his dog have sabotaged my car and that accursed old crone, Min Hawser, is hounding me to run down relatives of hers who have titles. I cannot write to them now, as I am on a train bound for Wales, and you are the only one who can read my train-writing.

Railway travel in this country has one great advantage over train journeys in Canada; I can get unlimited reading matter in every station. There is a book-and-paper stand on every platform, offering the most delightful train literature. At present I have "The Matrimonial Post", and "The Girl's Own Paper" with me. Have you read either? They are very rich feeding, let me tell you. Consider this, from the "Post": "Attractive, witty, physically opulent lady of modest means seeks correspondence with gentleman of refined but not inhibited mentality." Object, a mutual exploration of intellects, with a view to intimacy and possibly matrimony. Photograph offered and expected." Or how does this appeal to you: "Lady, 28, who has lost one leg seeks congenial gentleman friend with similar handicap. Friendship and possible matrimony". Or what do you say to this choice offer: "Gentleman, mature but well-preserved, amusing, presentable, experienced, seeks ditto lady with private means. Offers unlimited comradeship and fun". I can dream over the "Post" for hours, calling up the opulent ladies and comradely gentlemen before my mind's eye.

The "Girl's Own Paper" I read for its style. Here is a sample paragraph: " 'Crumbs, girls', cried Crackles Crompton, bursting into Dormitory Thirteen where her special chums Bubbles, Guggles and Foibles were washing their hair, preparatory to the great lacrosse match against their hated rival, St. Rawbones, the coming Saturday, 'have you heard the news?' 'Oh go and eat coke', cried Guggles, lifting her ruddy head, thick with foam, from the basin, and cramming another figbar into her mouth, 'your news is always about boys, since Foibles' brother Derek took you to the Natural Science Museum last hols.' 'Oh boys are rot', cried Crackles, a flush mounting from the top of her navy blue serge blouse toward her chestnut hair, 'boys are utter, puffling, footling rot, and you know it. There isn't a boy on earth I wouldn't give for a really spiffing hockey stick — except Daddy, of course' she said and her liquid brown eyes grew even more liquid as she thought of Major Crompton, who was in Africa subduing native tribes. 'Miss Checkrein's stop-watch has been stolen, and until it is found the whole school is confined to the grounds'."—This sort of thing is ideal reading for a train journey over a bumpy roadbed. —

You know, I really think that I shall have to have the law on Dandiprat.

Yours determinedly,
SAM.

To Mouseman, Mouseman & Forcemeat
Dear Sirs:

Will you, as my legal advisors, give your attention to the following matter: A neighbour of mine, one Richard Dandiprat, has caused his mangy old dog Bowser to chase a skunk into my car, which I have left in my garage during my absence. The skunk has, I gather, done its worst. I know that Dandiprat did this on purpose, and now he wants to buy the car at a ridiculous price. I want to put Dandiprat in court, and take his shirt. He is a low scoundrel, and I want to show him that I am privy to his base design. If you will begin legal proceedings I shall be home in a week or so, and then we will get after him.

I hope that the rheumatism of the senior Mr. Mouseman is much improved.

Yours faithfully,
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS.

To Haubergeon Hydra, Esq.
Dear Mr. Hydra:

I have now reached Wales, from which country some of my forebears emigrated to Canada. I became conscious that I was on un-English ground in Gobowen, a Welsh junctional point where the ticket-taker thanked me in the Welsh form—"ddiolch yn fawr". How pleasant, I thought, and how characteristic. And this made me wonder whether some distinctive form of thanks could not be devised and adopted in Canada. "Thank you" is excellent, but formal and English in effect. "Thanks a million" is excellent, but it has an American extravagance which is unbecoming in Canadian mouths. What would you think of "Thanks a hundred thousand"? It seems to me to strike the right Canadian note.

I direct this suggestion to you because, as Permanent Secretary to the Royal Commission on the Arts in Canada, you might be able to popularize it. If you can do so, you may take all the praise which such a happy thought will surely evoke.

Yours self-effacingly,
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS.

LET'S SING THE 'OLD HUNDREDTH'

Letter To The Editor

CURB THE COMICS

Sir: Your articles are always a mental stimulant, whether one finds oneself in agreements or disagreement with your arguments. A recent one entitled "Have a Bit o' Common" seems to call for a brief presentation of the other side of the question.

"We are not prepared," you say, "to believe that any child who has a good, decent home environment has ever been seduced to crime by a comic book." With this statement there can be little quarrel. Very few children with a good, decent home environment are seduced to crime by any evil influence. The only potential criminals in this class are those in whom a hereditary taint, possibly a long way back, seems to be ineradicable. Surely the people for whom restrictive legislation is designed are not the law-abiding but the recalcitrant ones. Discussion with the parents described above leads one to believe, however, that even in their case constant vigilance is necessary, for often children who are deprived of crime comics at home will sneak away to places where they are accessible.

A good deal is said today in favour of visual direction. In fact, so widely recognized is the power of things seen over that of things heard, that this type of instruction threatens to usurp more than its share of the modern curriculum. It is generally admitted, too, that the most formative years in the life of a child are the first seven. These are the years in which visual impressions predominate. Is it not vitally important that these be of the constructive rather than the destructive type?

The laissez-faire policy advocated in your editorial has its allure but also its danger. Was it not such a policy, on a much larger scale, that involved civilization in a colossal struggle that more and more, seems "like a phantasma, or a hideous dream"? We cannot bury our heads in the sand, like the ostrich, and refuse to believe that the present outbreak of delinquency is a normal condition. Is it inconsistent with "a bit o' common" to try to trace the outbreak to its sources, and to curb it at those sources? The physician does not confine his efforts to protecting his patients from germs; research workers are constantly combating the germs themselves.

It would be foolish, no doubt, to single out crime comics as the sole cause of juvenile delinquency. Too often we make the mistake of thinking that adult and adolescent reactions are synonymous. The more the novel, or the play that depresses, bores, or disgusts, the adult may be mistaken by the adolescent for the portrayal of a pattern of life condoned, or even lauded by present-day society.

The argument that repressive legislation is "pee-wee" in its effect would, if carried to its logical conclusion, result in the elimination of all efforts at coersion. Laws do not always eliminate evils but when adequately enforced, they at least act as a curb. Theft and murder, like juvenile crime, have always been in existence, but who would willingly see the abolition of the laws against these menaces to safety?

More power to the members of the House of Commons who are "in a tizzy" over the importation and sale of crime comics. The writer frankly admits a similar state of mind, which is apparently tantamount to confessing herself.

Gift Of Finance

(Windsor Star)

So often, when one reads of promotions in the world of finance, one finds the individual concerned either was born in Scotland or is of Scottish extraction. As for instance, Mr. James Muir, new president of the Royal Bank of Canada, born in Peebles, Scotland.

The Scots seem to have an ingrained gift at finance. It is not just that they are frugal and thrifty, though that is important. They have minds that enable them to master all the intricacies of an often complicated subject. It is not by fortuitous circumstances that Scots rise rapidly in the realm of finance and banking. They just naturally do well at it.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ: by whom also we have access by faith into this grace wherein we stand, and rejoice in hope of the glory of God....

For when we were yet without strength, in due time Christ died for the ungodly. For scarcely for a righteous man will one die: yet peradventure for a good man some would even dare to die.

But God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. Much more then, being now justified by his blood, we shall be saved from wrath through him.

For if, when we were enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more, being reconciled, we shall be saved by his life. And not only so, but we also joy in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom we have now received the atonement. (Rom. 5: 1, 2, 6-11.)

A BRITISH OPINION

Unconcealed joy registered by British pig breeders realising that they are among the few manufacturers who are not continually being told by the Government to export more goods.

London Express Service

This business of weather forecasting is all very well when it is reasonably correct but the Honkers have the dope, and they are on the wing right now. When you see their long noisy skeins wavering south it's time to call your fuel dealer, put on storm windows and shake the moths from long-handled underwear. One Ric Lake resident reports two large flocks passing over on Tuesday afternoon. A resort wner at Belmnt Lake tells of four flocks going southbound on the same day. Some fr•m the Rice Lake wedges came back at dusk to Max Perrin's buckwheat field, South Monaghan, and spent the night tearing up the crop. No hunters were notified, unfortunately. An Oshawa man bagged a 10-pound goose at Bannister's Pond, near Campbellcroft, on the evening of opening day; he counted ten overnighters before he opened his barrage.

A report from Dulverton, England, tells of a live trout being taken recently in the River Barle. It was not the largest or scrappiest but full grown inside a large pickle bottle; a safe existence, this, even for a fish.... While cutting my hair the other day barber Jock Smith produced a clipping from the Glasgow Sunday Post abou: a salmon that nearly drowned a poacher in some stream flowing into Loch Lomond; this no-good gillie saw the fish lying on the stream bed, slipped a wire noose over its tail, lost his balance and was dragged into the water. The incident nearly proved fatal to the poacher who had a struggle to untangle his hand from the snare, several feet below the surface.... A press dispatch from The Pas brags agout a monstrous ten-pound pickerel caught in Northern waters. It would be of passing interest in the Kawarthas since two pickerel more than 12 pounds each have been taken this season, one at Chandos Lake, another at Young's Point.

The Trent Forestry district set a record this year and one not to be proud of. According to a release from the Department of Lands and Forests, a total of 88 fires burned over 15,270 acres of bush. In the Kapuskasing district where woods operations are the very mainstay of the area's economy, pulp and paper making, 33 fires were fought and each was held down to one acre or less in extent. The Department appeals to al Autumn hunters to use every precaution, to cut down this appalling figure in the Trent.

Duck hunters had a real field day last Saturday. They were out in hundreds, aparently, at Rice Lake in greatest numbers. Don Sidey of Bewdley estimated well over 200 pushed off from the village and were so numerous that they were shooting into each others' flocks; it took a good shooter to bag six birds under these conditions and sport was spoiled for many. Larry Stark, Ralph Loucks, Clarence Hines and Alf Crow got their limits on Saturday at the Kemp Creek marsh on the Otonabee. Ralph Godfrey and party of six favoured Paudash Bay on the lake. An assortment of mallards, blacks, greenwing teal and a few marsh bluebills made up the general assortment. Returns were good from Taylor's Marsh, too. Mrs. Roger Young reports lots of shooting on the Crowe River marshes at Belmont Lake. A few ruddy ducks were seen on Pigeon Creek, two bagged, and reports from Bradley's Bay, below Campbellford, show several Scoters were shot.

"Duck, boys, it's a duck," warned restrauteur Babe Fontaine while birling across Toronto's Bloor Street Viaduct on Wednesday evening at dusk. It was, sure enough, a stray black whistling over the evening traffic at railing level. 'Maybe we should have stayed at home and gone shooting down at Rice Lake," said one of his pals. "I could have cooked up a swell duck dinner at the restaurant, too," mused Babe, enlarging on the idea. "At least it would have been a free meal," cracked the third friend. "You can't charge for wild game meals. I'll keep that in mind."

Dreary November seems to have taken a two-week slice out of golden October. Except for small clumps of foliage in sheltered valleys, the country is bare and emerald spring wheat fields, of which there are many, give the only spot of color. Fall fairs, harvest festivals and ploughing matches are over. The roar of tractors and clacking of mechanical corn pickers are the last harvest sounds across the land. Village and hamlet streets are enveloped each evening in blankets of leaf-burning smoke. There are busy comings and goings in the basements of parish halls where fowl suppers are in full swing Through open windows and doors the singing of "Bless This, Thy House" has full meaning.

Don't Cry, Baby, 'Tis A Well Babies' Clinic

By HAZEL PAULL

Peterborough has a thriving infant population, and there is ample proof of it in the thrice-weekly Well Baby Clinics. Every year some 4,000 babies visit the clinics, usually just to make sure that they are the well babies they thought they were, and sometimes for immunization.

For more than 10 years mothers have been keeping check of their children's health by regular attendance at the clinics, and so popular has the Department of Health's service become that the three clinics already functioning are not sufficient to meet the demand.

Since the beginning of this year Dr. R. A. Kelly, Medical Officer of Health, has been ready to open a fourth in a room lent for this purpose by the De Laval Company for babies in the south part of the city. As soon as he can obtain the necessary nursing staff he will take advantage of these facilities.

At present babies in the north of the city attend the clinic at Dixon House on Thursdays and the other two are held at All Saints' Church and the baby clinic at Water and Brock Streets on Tuesdays and Fridays respectively.

WOMAN

When Adam, waking, first his lids unfolds
In Eden's groves, beside him he beholds
Bone of his bone, flesh of his flesh, and knows
His earliest sleep has proved his last repose.

On these afternoons Dr. Kelly sees an average of 35 babies—all presumably well babies. It is not the function of the clinic to give medical treatment, but just to keep a check on weights and general health. Dr. Kelly, who is the attending physician, also immunizes and vaccinates the youngsters. If he finds symptoms of any ailments, he refers the mothers to the family doctor.

Every clinic is attended by at least two members of the Junior Welfare League, which has been associated with this work for a number of years. Members of the League receive the mothers and babies and weigh the youngsters. There are also Public Health nurses in attendance.

Not only does the clinic afford facilities for the babies' health, but it also gives mothers a chance to discuss their experiences in bringing up children, with others in similar circumstances.

Mother soon learns, for instance, that hers is not the only baby in the city with a fine pair of lungs. Sight of the immunization needle is no pleasure for the little ones, who know all too well that it is going to hurt, and there are times when a stranger unwittingly entering the church hall would wonder what all the pandemonium was about.

Every mother in the city is visited by Public Health nurses shortly after returning home from hospital. They receive help in bathing the infants and are offered advice on any problems arising in the new routine.

After the nurse has made several visits to the home, she suggests that the baby be taken to the clinic for regular check-up.

Cannot Change Milkmen: Views of Post-War England

By WILLIAM TINKER

(Ed. note: This is the second instalment of an article on Britain. The first appeared on this page last wek. The final one will follow next week. The writer and his wife have lately returned from a four-months' visit to England. Mr. Tinker is a well-known resident of Peterborough, a member of the Board of Health, and has for many years taken an active part in civic affairs. He was born in England.)

SHOPPING

Every few blocks in the cities, there is a shopping centre, with perhaps a drug store, grocer's, fruits and fish, butcher's, chips and fish, tobacconist and papers, etc. There are no groceterias; but each grocer, butcher, and dairy has its quota of registered customers, who, once registered, cannot change their store, without permission from the government, and as all foods are in short supply, the customer is more concerned with receiving his ration than he is in the price he pays for his food. Far better (he feels) to receive his rations, and perhaps pay a few pence more than he should, than have cheap prices in theory and not receive his ration. The main thing is to receive the food, price is very secondary.

There is therefore no incentive to reduce prices on the part of any supplier, and many foods—canned and bottled—have maximum price—which experience shows is usually the minimum also—marked thereon. Distribution of goods—especially food—is very expensive, and could be reduced considerably if free competition were allowed. I believe one third of the food shops could be closed, and no one suffer except the owners and employees. It seems strange to us that if one's grocer has no eggs or cheese one cannot go elsewhere and purchase the food, but such is the case. Once one is registered with a shop, the customer must purchase at that shop, and no other. And if the shop is short of any rationed food, the customer must go without. As the British say, "He's had it."

The same remarks apply to milk. When milk is scarce, as it was in September, families of adults with no children did not receive their ration of milk three days out of every seven. When the housewife went to the door to pick up her pint of the fluid, it was usually not there on three mornings. The milkman had passed on, to supply the milk to a family where there were children. He had not stopped to tell the housewife that there was no milk that morning. Why should he? They could not change their milk man anyway, and would have to be thankful for the milk he could supply them the following day—if he had any to spare.

The milk, much of which is not pasteurised, or from T.B. tested cows, is all handled under government supervision—National Milk Board—and is handled so often, and so much time is taken up, that it is often three days before it reaches the customer in large cities, and this delay, together with the lack of refrigerators, means that it is on the point of going sour in the summer when it gets to the table. In fact I must state, although I do so with regret, that we did not have good milk after leaving Canada.

BUS SERVICE

Bus service in cities was good, and all cities and towns have good, clean buses, and plenty of them. Some are double deckers and only one or two passengers are allowed to stand. The others must wait for the next bus, and if any British bus inspector were to see a Peterborough bus at noon or five o'clock crowded to the doors, he would think he was having a nightmare. (The only places where crowded buses reminded us of home was on the continent, where the passengers not only crowd the bus inside like sardines in a can, but also cling to the sides like flies on jam. In such cases I am sure the conductor never sees all his passengers, let alone collect the fares. But that is another story.) Fares vary in British cities. We found London bus fares the dearest, but in some Northern cities, it was remarkable how far one could travel for three cents.

PRIVACY

Every house in Britain, whether cottage or mansion, whose grounds have a circumference of either five yards or fifty miles, has a hedge, wall, or fence around it. Privacy is very much prized, and is perhaps the reason why strangers so very seldom speak to each other. People will travel hundreds of miles in the little railway carriages, or eat at the same table, without exchanging one word, not even "good morning." This silence seems strange and uncanny to a person from Canada, and takes a long time to get accustomed to.

HEALTH

The government medical scheme is now fairly well established at a cost much higher than anticipated. The question as to its success very often depends upon the social status of the person giving the opinion, and whether he or she is a supporter of the Socialist government. The middle and upper classes have not words foul enough for this scheme which supplies free of charge every imaginable medical and surgical aid from before birth to the grave for every person in the land, rich or poor, child or adult, resident or visitor.

The working classes, never having received these services in the past—being unable to pay for them—see in this scheme which even supplies false teeth, wigs, and artificial limbs free of charge, one of the most wonderful Acts of Parliament ever passed, and are loud in their praise of this and other social measures, and a great many of them see in the Socialist Government the answer to their prayers.

Whatever our politics, and whatever the mistakes of the present government, there is not the slightest doubt that the many social measures passed since the government came to power have taken from the working classes that dreadful spectre which haunted them for hundreds of years, that of want. And "freedom from want" is for the present at least now an established fact in Great Britain. It may be possible that the country is living beyond its means; in fact it looks very much like it, and whether to decide.

these social schemes can be maintained once Marshall Aid is finished is a matter for the future

HABITS

Everyone queues in Britain. For buses, trams, services in stores, post-offices, and what-have-you. It seems a very fair method. First come, first served, and we rather liked it. People do have a habit of queuing, perhaps unthinkingly, for one day in Edinburgh, after leaving my wife outside the post-office for a few minutes, I came out and found her at the head of a queue, which melted away when she left her favoured place at the head of the line, and came with me.

Canada and Candians were very well thought of in Britain, but general knowledge of the Dominion was very scant. The ordinary Briton gets Canada and the U.S.A. mixed. For example, we were told that the best Canadian magazine seen in England was the National Geographic Magazine (published in Washington). And a few days before we left, a lady asked us if there were any trees in Canada.

Sarnia Edges PCVS Seniors In Red Feather Tournament

Playing far from championship ball the Sarnia Collegiate footballers edged the PCVS seniors in the first game of the Red Feather Tournament of Champions Friday night in Maple Leaf Stadium in Toronto 2-1. In the early minutes of the game Sarnia took the lead with a single point being scored. The COSSA champions of 1948 tied the score in the second quarter with a rouge and in the dying moments of the game Sarnia booted to the deadline to earn the nod.

East York Goliaths and Close Tech of Hamilton battled to 48 minutes of scoreless football in the second game which was considered the game of the tournament, and it was. The giants from Hamilton batled tooth and nail with the northeast Toronto boutes matching the plunges and passing plays of the Toronto team with splendid booting and plunging.

Mario Pacendi, fivefoot 11 inches, weighing 230 pounds, kept the Hamilton boys in the game with his long punts. Joseph Kosokowski, with his clever zigzagging made several long runbacks on Lavery's kicks. Dyson-to-Harrison passes were the features of the East York team with the plunging of Surphliss and Brown outstanding.

Wins Watch

Roy Armstrong won the gold wrist watch which was awarded to the most valuable man on the PCVS team, the judges choosing him for his plunging during the game. Bob Smith, of Sarnia, was chosen for the WOSSA champion team as most valuable player during the game on his team and also awarded a watch. Ayrheart, of Sarnia and Northcott of PCVS played outstanding offensive football. Killingbeck, Grant, Knox, Lowes and Grainger turned in a good game on the line for the PCI'ers. Thomas and Harkins were the pick of the defensive players for the Sarnia squad.

Passing statistics showed that Sarnia had a definite edge in that department. Each team tried seven passes with Sarnia completing three while the PCI'ers completed two and having three interceptions, everyone being on important plays.

Northcott booted to Bob Smith at the Sarnia touch line and he ran back to the Sarnia 25 to start the game off. A Bob Smith-to-Harrris pass put the ball at the centre strip. Here Harris booted on the Sarnia third down. Northcott got the ball in the touch zone and bobbled. Sarnia tacklers downed him there for a point. At the midway point Northcott attempted a kick for three points from the Sarnia 25. Smith broke through the line and booted the ball before Northcott could. Soper recovered for Sarnia to stop that PCVS scoring threat. At the end of the quarter Wright's kick at the Sarnia 47 was blocked with Armstrong recovering and running to the Sarnia 9. Brown went to the 6-yard line on the last play.

Northcott attempted a snap pass over the touchline but Thomas intercepted in the second to bring it out to the Sarnia 10 to squeeze the Petes out of scoring column. Northcott again booted later to the quarter from the Sarnia 37 but Wright brought the ball out to the one-yard line. Near the end of the first half Northcott got a kick away from the Sarnia 31 to the deadline to tie the score 1-all.

PCVS came near a point in the third when Northcott booted from the Sarnia 35 to Perry who fumbled and recovered on the Sarnia one. Perry plunged and Smith passed with success and they put the ball out into the centre zone. In the fourth quarter Ward intercepted a blocked pass by Sarnia at the PCVS 37 and went for a touch. The play was called back by the referees under an incomplete pass ruling. With just a minute left in the game, PCVS fumbled on their five-yard line with Perry recovering. On the next play Sarnia were put back 10 yards for interference. Harris then booted to the deadline for the winning point which broke the PCI'ers hearts.

Eleven thousand fans watched the two games which proved to be evenly matched. The two weaker teams, evident from the night's play were Peterborough and Sarnia, with Hamilton and East York providing the night's excitement in their encounter.

Of the 11,000 fans over 1,000 were from Hamilton who arrived 40 minutes late at the stadium in 30 buses from the Ambitious City. East York rooters shared a block of the seats in the stands and really made their school spirit heard over the playing field.

Before the game started the 48th Highlanders Band, the bugle and brass bands of East York Collegiate, 250 cheerleaders and drum majorettes paraded around the playing field giving a demonstration of school spirit. A little five-year-old girl led the huge procession through their antics.

Introduce Boys

Immediately following the singing of the National Anthem by Miss Canada of 1949, Joe Crysdale, popular Toronto teenage news broadcaster, introduced the players of the starting teams—U.S. style—as each player left the bench and took his position on the field. The Hon. Leslie Frost, Premier of Ontario, kicked the ball to start the game, while chairman of the Red Feather Drive, Trevor Moore, held the ball.

During the halftimes of both games and between games the cheerleaders of the schools of Toronto and district plus the visiting teams' cheerleaders, the bands and the drum majorettes, provided a colorful display of snake dances and tumbling acts with careful timing. Throughout the games the cheerleaders, who were divided to provide equal cheering for all teams, really worked up the enthusiasm of the fans.

East York Collegiate, besides fielding what may easily be the championship team of the tournament, had the most colorful group of drum majorettes, cheerleaders and bands of all the schools represented. Their cheering combined with those of the 1,500 fans from the Collegiate topped off to show the grand school spirit that exists in the school students of East York Collegiate of Toronto.

Plan 38 Changes In Ball Rules

KITCHENER, Oct. 22—(CP)—Some 38 proposed changes in the rules and constitution of the Intercounty Baseball Association will be considered when representatives of the league's clubs meet in Brantford Nov. 2.

Officials released Friday the long list prepared for the annual meeting.

A Brantford Senior suggestion asks that the league rule that "no player shall qualify as a bonafide resident of the city, town or village to which his club belongs who regularly participated in any other athletic competition in a community other than the said city, town or village, unless the executive first approves such other participation."

The suggestion is believed the result of charges that certain Senior teams were using commuters who played in United States leagues as well as in the Intercounty.

Several Minor clubs are urging that the practice, a wartime innovation, of permitting junior players to jump indiscriminately between Senior and Minor ranks, be terminated. Kitchener Minors would make it possible to play in three games in higher series. Brantford suggests that the number be five.

Add Peewee Section To Minor Puck Loop

The newly-organized peewee section has been accepted into the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association. It will be known as the "peewee pro section". Certificates have been drawn up and must be given to the secretary of this section, Ted Naish, signed by Jan. 15. The team limit is 15 players. Six teams are entered now, with games being played on outside ice.

Age limits under OMHA rules are: Juvenile—under 18; midgets—under 16; bantams—under 14, all by Nov. 1, 1949 Peewee age limit is set by that division as under 13, and not playing in any other age group. Play in the PMHA will open early in November.

Official playing certificates have been issued and are to be signed and returned complete to Walter Bent, secretary, by Dec. 1, a team being limited to 18 players. Arnold Olmstead was thanked for preparing these certificates.

Boy's Prizes

Prizes for the two boys selling most season tickets for arena games were set at $30 in hockey equipment for the first prize and $15 in equipment for second. The prize for the draw stub in conjunction with the season tickets will be a round trip by bus and a ticket to an NHL game in Toronto. The next PMHA meeting will be at the "Y" next Thursday night. Following are the arena practices for next week:

Monday—Boys Town Midgets at 7.30 to 8.30 a.m.; East City bantams 4.30 to 5.30 p.m.; Tuesday—Oddfellows 7.30 to 8.30 a.m.; Marines 4.30 to 5.30; Wednesday—Clapper juveniles 7.30 a.m.; Trojan midgets 4.30 p.m.; Thursday—Boys Town bantams 7.30 a.m.; Trojan bantams 4.30 p.m.; nothing Friday; Saturday—southend midgets 7.00 to 8.00 a.m.; northend bantams 8.00 to 9.00 a.m.

Harry Greb, former middle and lightweight world boxing champion, died at Atlantic City 23 years ago today following a minor nose operation. Known as the Pittsburgh windmill, he whipped almost every man he met in a career of more than 300 battles over a 13-year stretch. He was the only fighter to beat Gene Tunney.

Some action likely next week by the sub-committee appointed to check on the proposed Memorial Centre site on George St. between Rink and Townsend. Councilmen checking include Ald. Hurrell Dodds, Adam Sands, Doug Miller and Jim Gillespie; the Centre committeemen being Bill Eastwood, Harold Dormer, Frank Buckland and Ed Riley. They are authorized by the council to make a thorough investigation of this property, checking dimensions, footing conditions and how the lacrosse bowl fits into the picture. We believe that there is ample room for both important projects on this large piece of property, but that remains to be seen. Centre committee hopes for an early report.

St. Kitts scribe describes the OHA junior "A" Teepees thusly: "No busier buzzers have come to sight on any other club, despite the fact they are smaller than the usual run of junior huskies, and a wasp stings as hard as a bumble-bee when aroused. Our Teeps pack a world of team fight, they are elusive, fast on their feet and, when whipped into shape for quick getaway, should be as battling a unit as any under the Hewitt banner." George (Red) Sullivan of Peterborough is one of their main stars and, barring injury, we expect the sorrel-topped scrappers from Ashburnham to go a long way in hockey. A fine, hustling young athlete.

Mr. Atkins Plays Rough

While the main bout of the last pro grapple show here produced plenty of action, 'twas demonstrated to the customers that you can't send a boy to do a man's job. Toar Morgan is a husky, shifty matman—with some boxing experience as a background—but he was certainly outmatched in his bout with Fred Atkins. The scowling Australian had too much weight, strength and ring savvy—and Atkins plays it plenty rough. A powerful guy, indeed, and with the killer instinct which shot Dempsey to the top of the fistic ladder. Fred showed no mercy when he had Morgan injured and well-nigh helpless. Frank Taylor beat Dan O'Connor in a lively semi-final, while Tiger Tasker and Antone Leone were both counted out in a steaming prelim.

According to word out of Bella Villa, a Quinte squad won a softball trophy for the district comprised of Belleville, Oshawa, Kingston and Peterborough. The Murray Davis Trophy, emblematic of the crown for brewery warehouse employees in softball. As a matter of fact we hadn't heard of such a loop, or playoffs in it, or the winner, or anything. It is true that we have heard of brewery warehouses and one supposes the operation thereof entails a number of chaps being employed. Nor is there any reason why such employees should not compete in softball for a trophy. Evidently, the Peterborough team preferred no news reports on such a series. Anyways, congrats to the Quinte victors.

You're Welcome, Suh!

Quoted herewith under the caption: "Tsk, Tsk, Naughty, Naughty Peterborough C.I." is this item from Belleville's George Carver: "According to the public prints, the Peterborough Collegiate football seniors are being hailed as the COSSA champions and as such have been invited to the Toronto Red Feather football tournament this week-end. Coach Red Townsend states that the Petes have not as yet met the Bay of Quinte champions and, due to this fact, cannot be classed as COSSA winners. So what goes on here?" We will enlighten George and Red. PCVS won the COSSA senior title the last three years and are champs until at least the end of this grid season, when the 1949 final playoffs are staged. As for the Bay of Quinte champs—stop it, puh-leeze, you're killing us!

Red Feather grid tourney of champions in Toronto will conclude this evening. PCVS seniors played last eve and suffered a 2-1 setback at the hands of Sarnia before nearly 12,000 fans. A toughie to drop but the squads were well-matched and 'twas just a tossup, with Sarnia booting to deadline in the final minute to gain the edge. Roy Armstrong of Bev Goulding's bunch won a gold watch for his plunging, starring for the Peterborough entry. Northcott was good, too, and on the line Killingbeck, Grant, Knox, Lowes and Grainger all proved solid citizens. The other hunk of the double-header went to a scoreless draw as huge Hamilton and East York teams put on a thriller. Whole shebang was quite a show with color, noise and excitement galore.

St. Peter's Win Grid Tilt Over Lakefield

In a neat exhibtion grid game Friday at the Oval, St. Peter's High took a 35-5 victory over Lakefield. Armstrong and McCormick passed well early and Richardson and Brioux got distance on their kicks to bring the Saints from behind early. Twist went over in the first for Lakefield after a McCracken-Coyle pass. St. Peter's second line then broke up the Lakefield attack and McTeague intercepted a pass to go 40 for a try.

Johny Jones tackled Blake on Richardson's kick for a rouge in the second. Richardson ended a series of plunges with a major, and the half ended 11-5. On a pass in the third from Armstrong, Mike Fitzpatrick lateralled to Hickey, who ran 15 for a try, a pass from Harry O'Neill to Brioux converting. It was up and down then in hard going till Picard got through a hole to go nearly 50 yards for a touchdown and make it 22-5. Both sides battled hard in the fourth. A McTeague-Hickey pass set Fred Allore's bunch up where Armstrong passed to Cavanagh for five points, and later an O'Neill-Cavanagh pass put them in position for Armstrong's fine fling to O'Neill, who went over, Richardson converting. Teams:

Lakefield—Flying wing, Sloan; halves, Calberry, Coyle, Blake; quarter, McCracken; snap, Burger; insides, Campbell, Pearson; middles, G. Berger, Pearson; outsides, Twist, Wilford; alternates, Wingett, Darling, Pue, Charlton.

SPS — Flying wing, O'Neill; halves, Hickey, Picard, Brioux; quarter, Armstrong; snap, T. Fitzpatrick; insides, O'Leary, Hickson; middles, O'Reilly, Crowley; outsides, Cavanagh, M. Fitzpatrick; alternates, Byrne, McCormick, L. Jones, J. Jones, Richardson, McTeague, LaPlante, Fitzgerald, Harrington, McGillen, Hull, Clark, McMurray, Kirkley.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

Alex Connell, coach of the Allan Cup champion Ottawa Senators of the Quebec Senior Hockey League, Friday night announced at Ottawa he had asked Senators to relieve him of his duties because of ill health.

The surprise announcement stunned club officials and players who were counting on the Ottawa fireman and former National Hockey League goaltender to lead them to their third straight league championship.

Connell said the move had been made on the advice of his physician.

Club officials immediately scheduled a meeting for today to discuss the matter of a replacement. It was reported that Eddie Dartnell, playing his second year at right wing with Senators and former coach of Seattle Ironmen in the Pacific Coast League, was being seriously considered for the position.

First and second rounds of the combined Canadian wrestling championships and British Empire Games trials were held at Montreal Friday night with favorites advancing to the final rounds tonight.

Twenty-nine semi-finalists were declared in the eight classifications ranging from 114½ pounds to heavyweights.

Among the favored wrestlers who won their matches were: R. A. Cleater, British Columbia; P. Plett, Manitoba; J. Billinger, D. Leonard and R. Fox, Ontario; and M. Crete, F. Payette, B. Ovenden and V. Jensen, Quebec.

Arthur Leman, treasurer of the Toronto Maple Leaf Baseball Club for the last 28 years, has retired from the International League club.

He got into baseball when he left the cashier's cage at the old Toronto Globe. During his time with the Leafs, he worked with eight club presidents and 18 managers.

Edward Barrow, one of the many baseball figures with whom Leman worked during his career, nicknamed Leman "the deacon."

At Hayward, Wis., Louis Spray, Rice Lake, Wis., tavern-keeper, claimed Friday to have set a world muskellunge record for sport fishermen. He said his fish, out of the Chippewa flowage, weighed 69 pounds, 11 ounces.

If his catch is authenticated it will surpass the record of 67 pounds, eight ounces for a muskie taken July 24 this year on rod and reel by Cal Johnson, Wisconsin outdoor writer, in Lac Court O'Oreilles.

Young Lester Felton, a comparative newcomer from Detroit, turned in an upset decision over Kid Gavilan of Cuba at Detroit Friday night in a 10-round bout before 13,187 fans. Gavilan is currently the No. 1 contender for Sugar Ray Robinson's welterweight title. The 20-year-old Felton, who used to be one of Gavilan's sparring partners, won his scrap by simply outspeeding Gavilan and landing more punches while doing it. It was the first major fight for Felton, a Negro battler.

The University of Western Ontario Colts defeated the Toronto University Intermediates at London Friday, 17-4, in a game that was played for the most part in a driving rain.

London was greatly strengthened with the return of Andy Sokol, star back, to the lineup.

Flying Dutchmen Chalk Up 5-3 Overtime Win On Dukes

By The Canadian Press.

Toronto Senior Marlboros lost their first Ontario Senior Hockey Association game of the season last night when Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen banged out a 5-3 overtime victory over the Dukes.

After fighting the Toronto club to a standstill, the Dutchmen took the lead for the first time of the game in the overtime period and clinched the tussle when Don Bauer scored on the open Marlboro net with goalie Don Lockhart sitting out the last few seconds in favor of six forwards.

Billy Flick, with two goals was leading scorer for the Dutchmen with Wally Hnatiuk, Ted Grasser and Don Baur each scoring once. Scotty Mair, Don Rope and Johnny Hannigan each blinked the light once for Marlboros.

In the Junior A loop Toronto Marlboros seemingly were well on their way to a shellacking when their game against St. Catharines Teepees was called after the second period because of fog on the ice surface. Teepees were lading 6-3 at the time and Barrie Flyers, who won 6-4 against Oshawa last night now split first-place spot with the Marlboro Juniors.

Sullivan Top Scorer

The first frame of the Marlboro-Teepee game ended in a 2-2 tie, but St. Catharines went ahead at the 16-second mark of the second period and by the end of the frame had outscored Marlboros 4-1.

Red Sullivan with two goals, was Teepees top man while Obie O'Brien, Mel Mullen, Gord Byers and Wayne Browne each scored once. George Armstrong scored twice for Marlies and Larry Regan scored once.

Barrie Flyers, last year's OHA champions, earned their win in the fast-moving game against Oshawa Generals. The Flyers controlled play in the first frame to take a 3-0 lead but in the second period were hard pressed by the motor city boys and were outscored in that frame 3-2. Oshawa kept up the pressure in the final stanza to split a pair of goals.

Rick Hogg and Stan Long were standouts for the Flyers with two goals apiece. Barber and Red McCarthy each scored once. Doug Towers, Sonny Hooper, Ted O'Connor and Reg Campbell each flashed the light once for the Generals.

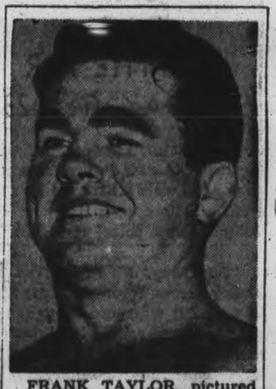
Win First Frame

Windsor Spitfires won their first game in two starts last night defeating Guelph Biltmores 4-3. Spits threw a strong defence in the first two periods to take a 3-0 lead by the end of the second frame. Guelph continually broke through in the final frame however, to outscore the Spits 3-1 but couldn't get the equalizer.

Erwin Grosse led the Spits with two goals while Bob Bailey and Glen Skov picked up one goal apiece. Don Oberholtzer, Bob Palmer and Joe Shaw each scored once for the Biltmores.

Galt Black Hawks won their first game of the season last night defeating Stratford Kroehlers 3-1 after dropping their first three starts. The Hawks took a 2-1 lead in the first frame, battled through a scoreless second period and added their final goal with only 10 seconds of the frame remaining.

George Ford, Jack Hill and Pete Conacher were the Hawk goal-getters while Jimmy Pernfuss robbed goalie Clark Sommerville of a shutout.



Charley Allen, regular end, was also back in the starting line-up after missing the McMaster game.

Need Some Shells?

WINNIPEG, Oct. 22—(CP)—A special squad of Canadian Army Engineers has collected enough bombs, shells and other ammunition from Winnipeg homes during the last few months to spark a small-sized revolution, army officials said Friday. The squad, set up at the request of the Winnipeg police force in 1947, was the first of its kind in Canada.

THE OIL PROVINCE

Alberta contributes about 90 per cent of Canada's total oil output.

FRANK TAYLOR, pictured above, who has been given the tough assignment of taming Fred Atkins in the main bout of next Thursday's wrestling show at the Brock Arena. Atkins aroused the ire of the fans here this week when he all but hospitalized Toar Morgan. Taylor looked good in his win over Dan O'Connor Thursday. He should give the Australian champ a real battle. One of the most sensational matmen of the present era has been signed for the semi-final. He is the colored sensation, Seelie Samara. His opponent and the remainder of the card will be announced Monday.

Horse Loses Tail Disqualified At Race

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 22—(AP)—A horse got the horse laugh at the Pennsylvania National Horse Show Friday night.

Wilson's Grey Boy, a five-year-old gelding, finished a walk-around in a class for stallion or gelding walking horses.

Then—oops!—its tail fell off, leaving nothing but an undersized stump. As it turned out, the tail was a switch of tied-on horse hair.

Judges disqualified the steed. It is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Byron D. Kuth, Chesterland, O.

Hebrew Prophets Fought For Justice, Social Reform

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

The earthly fate of the Hebrew prophets, and their deep suffering under persecution, is summarized in the tragic words of Hebrews 11:37; "They were stoned, they were sawn asunder. . . were slain with the sword. . . being destitute, afflicted, tormented."

Why did these chosen and select souls of Israel suffer these tortures? It was certainly not solely for their religious zeal, or their spiritual qualities; not for their earthly estate, for some, like Isaiah, were highly born, and might have been among the socially prominent and politically powerful of their day.

Rather, it was because their religious zeal was not content with formal observances and polite profession. It was a zeal for righteousness, which made them fearless in rebuking sin in high places and in low. Nor was their rebuke of sin general and formal They were not simply "agin it." We are all against sin in a general way.

What made the prophets distinctive, and what brought upon them severe persecution, was the detailed and specific way in which they attacked the prevalent sins, and especially the social sins, of their time. It is always safe to denounce personal sins in a general and impersonal way. It is when the prophets says, "Thou are the man," that he brings upon himself the wrath and hate of the sinner, and when he denounces the unjust and evil practices from which their perpetrators are profiting that he becomes "an enemy of society."

Nothing is surer in this world than the need of social reform. There has never been an age, or place, among any people, when social injustices and evils were not rampant, and crying for correction. Yet the role of the social reformer has always been one of danger, sacrifice, and social ostracism. The social reformer of to-day may be esteemed and honored tomorrow, but Jesus remarked upon how the children praised the prophets whom their fathers had stoned.

The reformer, of course, sometimes appears in a strange light, and in a very angular form. It was James Russell Lowell, a very real reformer himself, who wrote in] is "Interview With Miles Standish" of the "Men of vision, whose gaunt eyes see golden ages rising.

Salt of the earth! In what queer guys thou art fond of crystallizing."

But real reformers are to be distinguished from the marginal cranks, and the true reformers are not persecuted for their peculiarities, but because their indictments strike home against conscience and self-interest. The socially elite and successful do not like to have their sins rebuked, either personal or social.

What were the sins that the prophets denounced? What was the good way of social righteousness that they proclaimed? The sins were those that Jesus denounced in the pronouncement of "Woes" in Matthew 23—the exploitation of the poor, the devouring of widows' houses, the selling of the righteous for a pair of shoes, the disregard of human rights and values in the grasping for wealth and power. And against this they set God's way—the way of honesty, man with man, of justice and mercy, and devotion of the common good.

It is the continuation of that conflict, through the ages, and even now, that makes the message of the prophets so persistently timeless and vital.

Ideals Of Christ's Ministry With Jesus In Wilderness

By REV. E. R. JAMES.

Micah, a little known prophet sums up the ideals of God, which the Lord Jesus followed in his ministry: "What doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly, to love mercy and to walk humbly with thy God." Micah 6:8.

The Lord Jesus saith: "I am come to do the will of Him that sent me."

Are you surprised as you read: "immediately the Spirit driveth Jesus into the wilderness." It will strengthen your mind when you take to heart the reasons. To-day we have to understand why the Master did certain acts and refused certain appeals. "Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, to-day and forever." His experiences are for thoughtful men of every generation. When they understand His ideals their faith is strengthened in their living the Christ life.

The Christ had lived for eighteen years working and pondering over the Old Testament Scripture the idea of the Messiahship was growing in His mind. The coming of the Baptist confirmed Him and He left his cottage forever. The Baptist looked into his eyes and felt sure he was unworthy to baptise the Carpenter but he did so. In the waters of baptism the Lord hears the Father's voice: "Thou art My beloved Son in whom I am well pleased." This confirmed his thoughts of His ministry. He goes into the wilderness to think out his ideals that He is the Son of God in a special sense of the word. Jews everywhere were expecting the Messiah to rule over them and bring them freedom and prosperity.

Three ideals were to be his guidance during His ministry. Ponder upon them.

BRIBERY. It is a great appeal when men are offered something for nothing. The first temptation endorses this thought. Give us bread for nothing and multitudes will flock to you. That is why at the close of feeding five thousand with five loaves and a few small fishes the men hoped to take Him by force and make Him a king. Bread would be provided by the king himself. He lays down the great ideal: "Man shall not live by bread alone but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

POWER. He has a vision of all the kingdoms of the earth. He is offered this power—world wide. Very modern. The essence of the temptation is to be a god and to rule every man. His is offered the worship of the world of power. His answer: "Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God."

SELF ADVERTISING. "Cast thyself down." Force yourself upon the minds of the people. They expect the Messiah to do wonders and thus prove his mission from God. "Signs and wonders" are the popular ideal and expectation of the people. He performed miracles only on those who besought Him. The answer: "Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God." The underlying motive is the appeal of self—very modern.

Takes Pity On Audience

FITCHBURG, Mass., Oct. 22—(CP) — What church congregations need is a good seventh-inning stretch—so says a Canadian-born minister who spent a week on the other side of the pulpit.

In fact decided Rev. C. Fraser Keirstead, a native of Amherst, N.S., it's often easier for the preacher to give the sermon than for members of the congregation to sit and listen. He said he found hard pews "numbing and tiring.

That's why—well along in his services at the German Congregational Church here—he began the innovation of saying, "Let us all stand and take a seventh-inning stretch and relax."

The 29-year-old clergyman, who conducts a Harvard University divinity school seminar, also says that sermons must run no longer than 20 minutes.

"If a sermon can't be delivered in 20 minutes," he explains, "I don't believe a man should attempt to deliver it at all."

Mr. Keirstead graduated from the University of Manitoba and attended Gordon College, Boston, and Tuft College Theological School. While at Tuft he sold automobiles and worked in a factory besides doing wartime service as an atomic laboratory guard.

2 Villages Wiped Out

GUATEMALA, Oct. 22 (AP)—The National Emergency Commission said Friday two villages were wiped out in the torrential floods which took hundreds of lives in Guatemala and made thousands homeless. A United States survey team from the Caribbean command headquarters in Balboa said best information from government and Red Cross sources indicated that the death toll was only 500 instead of the 4,000 previously estimated by government officials.

Messrs. C. C. Watson and F. L. Woodhouse are visiting a number of cities in the United States this week on business.

Recent guests included the Misses Joan O'Connor, Reta McAvoy, Joan McAndrews and Mary Kennedy, all of Kingston, with Miss O'Connors parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. O'Connor; Mr. and Mrs. Don Lucas and son Donald of Peterborough with relatives here.

Canvassers appointed by Marmora branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society are making their rounds just now hoping to complete the canvass by the end of the month.

Mr. Frank Wilkes and daughter Janet of Toronto, spent two days this week with Mrs. J. Wilkes.

Hold Service Of Thanks

COTTESLOE, Oct. 22 (ENS)—Thankoffering service of the W.M.S. was held at the monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. J. S. Kidd. The opening service in the missionary monthly was followed, with the president, Miss Helen Tedford in charge.

Mrs. J. Kidd acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. D Barr. There were 20 women present. Mrs. Russell Tedford and Mrs. John Gallaher were appointed to collect the Bible Society money.

The Thankoffering was taken by Marion Tedford and Mrs. Wm Forsythe gave the dedicatory prayer. The scripture readings were taken by Mesdames Fred Bolton and Dave McCoy. A thanksgiving reading was given by Helen Tedford and a circle of prayer by members.

Mrs. Unstead of Warsaw was guest speaker. Mrs. Tom Webster sang "God's way is the best way."

A temperance reading was given by Mrs. Forsythe. The meeting closed with a hymn and prayer by the president. Lunch was served by Mrs. Kidd. The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Chas. McMillan.

Cavan

Mrs. Mary Perrin, Millbrook, is the guest of Mrs. Ida Keegan this week.

Mrs. Mary Carpenter, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Snyder for the past three weeks has returned to her home in Toronto.

Cottesloe

Mrs. Merd Clysdale is visiting her daughter, Mrs. George McIlmoyle of Selwyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Patterson were guests of Mrs. Richard McMillan and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. McMillan Wednesday.

Labor Council Votes Support To CGE Union

Peterborough's Allied Labor Council, claiming to speak for 6,000 organized workers in this city, Friday night promised active support of Local 524 UE-CIO to help it in present negotiations with CGE.

Council condemned the Company claiming it had not acted in "good faith" with its workers nor had it observed the principles of genuine collection bargaining.

The meeting of the ALC executive was called by Local 524 to elicit support of the labor body which unites AFL and CIO unions.

A local aspect was introduced by T. P. Davies, vice-president of the CGE local, who put forward the UE case.

"We remind the workers of Peterborough and our fellow citizens that nearly 4,500 of our fellow workers depend upon the outcome of these negotiations for their livelihood," he stated. "We are further aware that rates and conditions established in CGE's Peterborough works form a pattern for our own industries."

The statement of support of Local 524 included the following: "This Allied Labor Council endorses the struggle of the CGE workers....to raise their standard of living, and protect themselves against speed-up, price cutting and layoffs....We are ready at all times to lend our active support to the workers of CGE to assist them in winning a new contract, with wage increases, and adequate protections against the Company's attempts to undermine their union and their bargaining strength."

Phil Knibbs, district UE representative, struck the keynote of the Union's contention when he stated: "It's not an arbitration fight, particularly, but a fight on the contract."

"What they win or fail to win will affect every other plant in Peterborough," he said.

Jeff Hurley, in charge of District publicity, traced the history of negotiations between the Union and the Company on the Arbitration Award issue.

From time to time Council members interrupted to question Mr. Davies who spoke for the executive of the union and messrs. Knibbs and Hurley of the District.

They were particularly concerned about certain merchants in town allegedly refusing credit to CGE employees in anticipation of a strike.

"We must show them it is in their interests to support the CGE workers," commented Mr. Hurley. "After all they are kept in business by the workers' wages spent here in Peterborough."

President Alfred Barber of the ALC asked members to spike the many rumors that are flying about the city, particularly those regarding excessive rates of pay for CGE workers. If you don't know the answer yourself, phone a UE official or another member of the ALC and find out, was his advice.

Rotary Offers Fellowship

A likely student candidate who might be able to qualify for a Rotary Foundation Fellowship for advanced studies in a foreign country is being sought by the Peterborough Rotary Club in Peterborough county.

Men and women who have a bachelor's degree or are graduating from a university next spring, are eligible if they are between the age of 20 and 29.

The purpose of the fellowship is for young men and women to acquire an understanding of another nation by studying in one of its universities and taking as active a part in the country's social life as studies permit. It is hoped through the first-hand information students will be able to give in both the foreign county and his home, a better understanding between nations will result.

Money is provided for the fellowship to cover cost of travel, tuition fees, book costs and living expenses as well as for some travelling within the country visited. The student must have a working knowledge of the language of country in which he proposes to study.

Fifty-six fellowships were awarded for the 1949-50 school term, and the number has been increasing since the program was begun about three years ago.

Anyone who is interested can learn more about the plan from the secretary of the Rotary club in Peterborough.

First Examiner Carrier Boy When Paper Became Daily

The boy who sold the first copies of the Examiner when it emerged from weekly to daily publication has turned up with his memory of that afternoon's introduction to business in the person of Dixon Jewett of Cannington. His recollection of the incident 66 years ago have been relayed to the Examiner by Mr. Ford Moynes of the Lindsay Watchman-Warder, who recognized its particular interest to this paper and also to older residents of Peterborough who recall Mr. Jewett as a contemporary of their youth.

Mr. Jewett recently wrote to Mr. Moynes in the inspiration of the national week in newspaperdom that honors its junior aides, the boys who carry papers into every home in the land.

His letter of reminiscence harks back to Peterborough days that can be remembered only by comparatively few people still living here. As contributed by Mr. Moynes with incidental explanation, the text follows:

"I have been reading with interest the articles you have been printing about the Watchman-Warder's carrier boys, and I also read the editorial in last week's and referred to the fact that thousands of successful business men had their beginning as newspaper carrier boys" Mr. Dixon wrote. "I have been interested because I sold the first 50 Evening Examiners printed in Peterborough."

Born in Lindsay

Mr. Jewett, who was born in the Benson Hotel, Lindsay, a hostelry which was founded by his father, the late Charles Jewett, was for some 15 years the proprietor of the Bennett hotel at Cannington. For some years past he has been living retired in Cannington.

"It was back in 1883," said Mr Jewett "and I was a wee lad going to school when I was passing the Examiner office of George St. and a man hailed me:—

"Do you want to make some money. Our first daily paper will be off the press at four o'clock, come around and we'll give you all you can sell. There is a Methodist Conference on at George St. church. Take them up there—they'll buy them."

Mr. Jewett continued: "I ran all the way from school to the Examiner, and had to wait till five o'clock for the papers. I was the first in line. They showed me how to fold them the right way and the quickest way. I dashed up to the Church as the people were coming out and I soon sold 50 papers at 2 cents each. I got another big bundle and sold them just as fast. I went home feeling rich and I was proud that I had earned the money. I kept at the job and soon had a small route. Then I started buying other fellows out, so I could get a compact route, and soon I was carrying 50 papers every night. I remember well when I tucked away my first $100 in the savings bank at Peterborough post office. From that time on I aimed to make a little money and save it."

Following the death of his mother, Mr. Jewett was strictly on his own, and at the age of 14 started looking for work. For a time he worked at an elevator in Lindsay, carrying heavy bags of grain. Then he was offered a job by William Snowden, who kept hotel in Peterborough (father of Harold and late Herbert Snowden). Mr. Jewett did well with Mr. Snowden, who befriended him, even to the time when Mr. Jewett decided to purchase the Rockland hotel at Bobcaygeon and later the Bennett hotel at Cannington.

As an hotel man Mr. Jewett was recognized as one of the best in Ontario, keeping an hotel which was quite popular with commercial men, who were numerous in those days. By visiting other hotels in various places, he picked up ideas which helped him run a first class hotel at Cannington. At one time he handled considerable real estate in Lindsay, including the large brick building, now occupied by J. A. Isaac and Claxton's on York St., as well as the large brick building on the opposite side of the street. He was also a few years ago joint owner with Dr. M. F. White of the Temple Building on Kent and Cambridge Sts.

His hobby has been fishing and hunting and he has also been an active member of the Anglican church at Cannington. He is a gentleman well and favorably known in many parts of Ontario, particularly in Lindsay, Peterborough and Cannington where he has a host of friends.

Modern circulation men with their enterprise in getting subscribers would probably smile at the casual manner in which their business was carried on in 1883. Circulation of the new evening edition of the Examiner appears to have been an afterthought when the papers were piling up from the press, and the detail of selling them suddenly occurred to some one in responsibility, who finally thought of the importance of such boys as young Dixon Jewett in the distribution of the products of the new and larger flat bed press.

FORGOTTEN — THE NECESSARY

That Bill Joiner of Brioux Ave. is an outdoor sporting enthusiast none of his friends will deny. To follow this hobby even closer he is an active member of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association, and is the present 2nd vice-president. But even the best informed of us sometimes make mistakes, and Bill is human too. Together with Jim Joiner and Frank Millard he started out earlier this week to bag some ducks from a little-known spot on the Otonabee River. Carefully he checked over his equipment, hip boots, proper clothing, lots of shells and the many little things that could so easily be forgotten. With his companions he arrived at "the blind" and prepared for action. Then came the crushing realization: he had forgotten his shotgun. D. W.

Melchior Charms Large Audience By Arias, Lieder

By Robertson Davies

The recital given by Lauritz Melchior in the Summer Gardens on Friday night drew a large crowd and was enthusiastically received. Mr. Melchoir is an expert at winning the hearts of his hearers, and creating an easy and friendly atmosphere in the concert hall. It is a great tribute to his art in this respect that he was able to give an air of intimacy and festivity to the Summer Gardens, which is by no means well adapted to concerts. Rarely has Peterborough's need for a capacious and comfortable auditorium been plainer than it was on Friday night.

Mr. Melchior opened his program with a group of Scandinavian art songs, and it was not until his second appearance that he attacked the great Wagner arias which are his principal strength. He sang the Tannhauser "Hymn To Venus" with splendid verve and robustness. His is that very rare thing, a genuinely heroic tenor voice, and in this aria it was shown to fullest advantage. In this group also he sang the Steersman's Song from Wagner's somewhat neglected opera "The Flying Dutchman"; in the opinion of the present writer this was the high point of the evening.

Later in the program Mr Melchior sang two "lieder," one of which was Schubert's great "Erikonig." He was most generous with encores, and sang several pieces from moving pictures in which he has appeared, as well as such popular ballads as "The Rosary" and "Because." The program was carefully balanced between popular and classical music.

Mr. Leonard Eisner, who accompanied Mr. Melchior, played two groups of solos; the first was composed of three Chopin pieces, and the second of modern compositions. It was in the second group, particularly a Toccata by Khatchatourian, that he seemed happiest, and surest of his ground.

Mr. Melchior, as well as being the possessor of a great voice, is also a skilled entertainer. His platform demeanor was a model of friendly, easygoing dignity. As becomes a man who bears the title "Singer to the Royal Court of Denmark," he appeared with his orders and medals upon his breast, but he also invited his audience to join in the chorus of "Vive l'Amour," which they did with great spirit. He knows, as every superlatively successful concert performer must, how to make his supporters his guests.

New Secretary For City Legion

Cyril Giroux has been chosen by the Branch 52 of the Canadian Legion to succeed Maurice Rea as secretary. Mr. Giroux will hold the position of secretary-treasurer and manager.

A member of the Canadian Legion for some years, Mr. Giroux is a veteran of The First World War serving in France with the Sir Robert Borden Battery and the 1st. C.M.M.G. Brigade as lieutenant. After the war he worked in Northern Ontario until 1932, when he returned to Peterborough, his native town. He has been operating a small auditing and accounting business here.

Besides being a member of the Legion, Mr. Giroux is a director of the Parents and Teachers Association of Peterborough Separate Schools, a director of the Peterborough Curling Club and a member of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club.

Mr. Rea resigned about a month ago to take up a new position in Montreal. As secretary of the Legion, Mr. Rea conducted the Poppy Fund last year and part of this year. Albert Mason has now taken over the duties of chairman of the Poppy Fund.

Hallowe'en Carnival Plans For Civic Arena

Walter Smillie, manager of Civic Arena, is planning a Hallowe'en party for the young people. It may be a carnival with prizes for the most suitable bizarre outfits. An announcement will likely be made in good time for fixing up costumes.

Some of the district junior hockey teams have been getting occasional practice hours at the Arena. The program for Monday are the free hours for minor hockey, 7.30 to 8.30 a.m. and 4.30 to 5.30 p.m. In the evening Port Hope juniors are on from 7 to 8 p.m. and Port Hope Pelicans 8 to 9 p.m.; Nashua Paper 9 to 10 and Newtonville 10 to 11. Cobourg juniors are coming up for practice Nov. 1.

Mr. Smillie is offering the rink from 2 to 4 Wednesday afternoon for general skating.

His mother, Mrs. Ida Angus, lives at Havelock and his grandfather, Mr. John I. Adams, formerly of Campbellford, resides here.

James MacDonald Awarded Damages

Judging that Victor Newton was 60 percent responsible for an accident at the corner of Weller St. and Monaghan Rd., May 29, 1948. The Hon. Mr. Justice P. E. F. Smily awarded James MacDonald $600 and action costs in Supreme Court Friday.

His Lordship commented that the intersection was a particularly bad one because the view of approaching drivers was obscured by shrubbery on the southwest corner.

Hugh Stewart driver of the car in which MacDonald was a rear seat passenger was judged 40 percent negligent. Mr. Justice Smily set MacDonald's damages at $1,000.

MacDonald suffered a broken collar bone. Hip injuries developed and an arthritic condition was aggravated as well.

Counsel for the plaintiff, MacDonald, was W. B. Gordon and for the defendant, John W. Corkery.

Bond Ads In French Termed Waste In Peterborough By Member In Commons

OTTAWA, Oct. 22—(CP)—A Progressive Conservative member told the government Friday that there has been a language mix-up on Canada savings bonds advertising in parts of Ontario. G. K. Fraser (PC—Peterborough west) brought the matter to the attention of Finance Minister Abbott. "Does he know that throughout Ontario, in the English - speaking section, Canada savings bonds advertising has been sent out in the French language?" Mr. Fraser asked.

"In Peterborough a number of those postcards in French were received, with the picture of the Prime Minister's home town (Compton, Que.) on the back of them. I just thought that I should bring this matter to the Minister's attention because it is a waste of money to send them out in Freenh in this area."

Mr. Abbott thanked Mr. Fraser for bringing the matter to his attention.

"There may," he said, "possibly be some waste of money in sending these cards to Peterborough, but I would not think so."

George Cruickshank (L-Fraser Valley) interjected at this point: "That will hold you," he told Mr. Fraser.

The Peterborough member was all ready with another question—this one rhetorical.

"Does he (the Minister) know that Peterborough has always gone over the top with regard to victory bonds?" he asked.

Manslaughter Charge Follows Crash

COBOURG, Oct. 22. (ENS) — Harvey Lingard, 21, of Bewdley, was remanded on $5,000 bail to next Friday in Port Hope police court when he appeared on a charge of manslaughter. The charge was laid by provincial police as a result of an accident which occurred near Fenella on Oct. 14 when a car, said to have been driven by Lingard, left the road and rolled over into a ditch. Nine-year-old Nancy Davis of Bewdley, who was riding in the rumble seat, was killed.

Baby Fractures Skull

A six-months-old baby boy William Blackstone, fractured his skull in a fall when his carriage tipped over in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Blackstone, 484 Glengarry St. The baby is under observation in the Civic Hospital but no report of his condition has yet been released.

Vehicles Skid On Wet Roads

Three minor accidents caused principally by wet highways were reported by provincial police Friday night.

Joyce Alexander, 23, of Centre Island, Toronto, received a slight cut on the head when the car in which she was a passenger skidded on Highway 7, three miles east of Havelock, and turned over in the ditch. It was driven by Barbara Coolins of Thorold.

Another car, this one driven by Lawrence W. Lowe of Second Ave., Ottawa, turned over after skidding on the highway a mile east of Havelock. There were no injuries.

In both accidents, Provincial Constables G. W. Stevens and De Bow investigated. And in both cases damage to the overturned car was minor.

The third accident was when a truck going north on Highway 28 a mile north of Lakefield, crashed into a guide rail. Guy S. Peel of Bridge St., Lakefield, was the driver of the truck. Slight damage was caused to the truck which skidded on the wet road surface and struck the rail.

Peel was uninjured. Provincial Alfred Boulter investigated.

Military Funeral For W. W. Livingston

HAVELOCK, Oct. 22. (ENS)—A military funeral was held here today under the auspices of Havelock-Belmont Legion No. 389, for William Wilson Livingston, 62, a veteran of World War I and a member of the 93rd Peterborough Battalion.

The service at his home was conducted by Rev. R. D. Duncanson of Knox Presbyterian Church, of which Mr. Livingston was a member. Burial was in Norwood Cemetery.

Born in Norwood, Mr. Livingston was a son of Mrs. J. M. Harrison and the late R. B. Livingston. He has lived nearly all his life in this district. For several years after returning from overseas he was in charge of the Power House at Lakefield.

Death followed a lengthy illness resulting from his war service. He was a member of Havelock LOL No. 326. Surviving besides his mother and widow are a son, Wilson, of Toronto, and three grandchildren.

WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE?—Jewish refugees from Communist-held Shanghai wait in Montreal's Central Station to hear where they have to go after this. Most of the group, except for the children, started their travels 10 years ago when they fled to Shanghai from Europe to escape the Nazis. Now another dictator forces them to begin their travels anew.

No Political Organization So Persistent As Reds

EDITOR'S NOTE: What is it like to lead a double life as undercover agent in the Communist party? This is the second of two dispatches by a Pulitzer Prize reporter that tell the dramatic story of Angela Calomiris, who gave seven years of her life to help her country in the case against 11 Communist leaders. Her only reward, the knowledge that these 11 were convicted of conspiring to teach violent overthrow of the U.S. government.

By FREDERICK WOLTMAN
NEA Special Correspondent

NEW YORK—(NEA)— "When you lead a double life, it takes a toll."

Angela Calomiris, the FBI's star undercover girl, was talking openly—for the first time in seven years.

Serving as an FBI plant in the Communist party over that time brought plenty of tribulations. It required some masterful political tightrope walking. Most of all, it took many hours of working overtime, none for pay.

There were a few close calls, too.

Brown-eyed, black-haired and olive - skinned, being of Greek parentage, Miss Calomiris spoke quietly and objectively of her experience. She is no zealot.

At the behest of the FBI, she entered the Communist party from scratch, learned it tactics and dialectics and became an authority on its inner-workings, from the ground level up.

Through the years her constant worry, Angela said today, arose from the danger of her friends running into her Soviet-minded contacts inside the party. Both were unaware of her dual identity.

A professional photographer, she maintained a studio beneath her small apartment in Greenwich Village. They tended to be congregation spots for the party faithful and her own social circle.

Many times she lent her tiny ground-floor studio to fund-raising affairs for the party. Once no less than 40 comrade jammed in and drank cocktails to help re-elect Councilman Benjamin J. Davis, Jr., one of the convicted 11.

A Close Call

"I finally had to put down my foot," said Angela. "I made a rule that nobody could visit without phoning first."

Once, however, Angela nearly kicked over the applecart and wrecked her usefulness as a prospective witness at the trial. She blew up when a Communist regional director accused her of meeting "anti-party people."

"I told her, of course, I was a photographer and had to meet all sorts of people. For a time I was afraid the party had discovered my Bureau connections. Fortunately, it hadn't."

During her seven years in the party, Angela formed one unalterable conviction: "There's no political organization anywhere so persistent and methodical. Once you're in, the party demands the whole of your life."

As the trial drew near, she continued to move ahead in the party apparatus. While organizer of the Yugoslav Section, she'd taken one of the largest delegations to Washington to protest the Mundt-Nixon bill.

She kicked in $50, supplied by the FBI, to the Civil Rights Congress drive against the prosecution. When the party's big fund drive came around last winter, Angela's individual quota was set at $200.

Angela considered $200 too steep for an FBI expense sheet. She talked the party drive collectors into accepting $50 instead.

Before the 1948 election, she said, her Communist bosses assigned Angela to spy on a member who was also an American Labor party official. He had been suspected of opportunism—namely dickering with the Democrats.

So she took a trival job at a district ALP headquarters. Her job was addressing Henry A. Wallace envelopes.

"I'm sure someone in the party had already tipped him off," she commented, "and he knew all along why I was there. The party, in spite of its iron discipline, was shot full of intrigue like that."

On election night, she said she helped to deliver district ALP tally sheets to county Communist headquarters. All over the city the same thing happened, she declared, ALP tally sheets wound up in the possession of the Communist party.

Indeed, in April, all Communists were checked to make sure they were in the ALP, according to Angela.

"The CP even checked the ALP's registration lists, to be sure we signed up. That's when the party expected to go underground and operate exclusively through the American Labor party."

Buy Printing Machine

The same year the CP high command suddenly directed each party club to raise $60 and buy a small, high-speed printing machine; and to conduct classes in writing and literature production, she revealed.

The party was anticipating a ban on the Daily Worker. Plans were laid for a nationwide underground set-up to turn out leaflets as a substitute for the Workers. Her unit, of which she was financial secretary, stored its printing outfit in Angela's studio.

Shortly before testifying, she turned it back.

In her apartment now the sole reminders of Angela's seven undercover years in the Communist party are a copy of "Political Affairs" on the magazine stand and Karl Marx' Das Kapital in the bookshelves.

Framed on the wall is an embroidered motto. It reads: "Home is where the heart is."

DUAL ROLE Angela Calomiris played for the FBI as a plant in the Communist party came to light when she testified against 11 Communist leaders Even then, this fuzzy snapshot was the only glimpse the public had of her until the trial was ended.

RAF Commander To Head England's Track Squad

By MICHAEL O'MARA

LONDON, Oct 22 — (CP). — A grey-headed RAF wing commander with two decades of athletic supremacy behind him, and a schoolboy's heart in a 40-year-old body, will lead England's track-and-field squad in the 1950 British Empire Games in New Zealand.

Donald Finlay, DFC, AFC, came back from a distinguished wartime career—in which he led a fighter squadron in the Battle of Britain and later served in Malaya—to win a place on his third Olympic team and later to better his own national mark for the 120-yard hurdles.

When he chalked up a blazing 14.4 in a Britain-France match at White City Stadium here only a few weeks ago, he announced it marked "positively my last appearance" in competitive athletics.

English selectors had heard that one before. They put the finger on Finlay to represent his country at Auckland in February. Barring accidents, Don will be soaring over the stick again then, in what he probably also will call "positively my last appearance."

Few of Exploits

The cinder-track exploits which Finlay has written into the record book could be listed by the chapter. Here are a few of them:

He won 11 consecutive RAF hurdles championships.

He won seven consecutive AAA championships before the war and added another this year.

He has broken 15 seconds for the 120-yard hurdles at least 75 times.

In Olympic competition he ran third in the 1932 Games at Los Angeles and second to the Great Forest (Spec) towns of the United States in 1936.

In last year's Games at London Finlay had cruel luck. Leading his field by a wide margin in the opening heat, he hit the last hurdle, stumbled, fell heavily to the track, rolled over and over—and finished flat on his face inches short of the finish line while his opopnents stormed past.

No Sign Of Settlement In 15-Week Stoppage

TORONTO, Oct. 22 (CP) — A work stoppage in the Ontario and Quebec lithographing industry shows no sign of settlement after 15 weeks, Trade sources said Friday that food processor soon may run short of eye-catching lithographed labels.

Thirty-eight plants are involved in the wages-hours dispute between the Amalgamated Lithographers of America (CIO) and the Canadian Lithographers Association.

At issue in the shutdown—the employers call it a strike, the union a lockout—are union demands for a 37½ hour week, a 10 per cent wage increase and a company financed pension plan.

Jailed for 3 Months

Wm. Hagerman, 646 Donegal St., was sentenced to three months in jail when he pleaded guilty to a third offence under Liquor Control Act within a year by Magistrate W. R. Philp KC in police court Friday. The two previous convictions were Aug. 23 and Sept. 15. The third offence was intoxication.

Convention In Halifax

MONTREAL, Oct. 22—(CP)—The 1950 convention of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs will be held in Halifax July 8-11, Miss Ruth McGill of Regina, national president, announced Friday.

Keep Magnificent Despite Doubts

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA, Oct. 22 — (CP) — Should the "Maggie" go?

That's the crux of an argument within the Canadian Navy about the future of its young, small fleet air arm and the 18,000-ton aircraft carrier Magnificent that is its core.

There are those among the Navy's officers who think Canada mad when she decided to create a post-war air arm that now absorbs one-fifth of the Navy's annual budget. They say Canada should quit this field and concentrate on small surface ships in preparation for revival of another convoy fleet if war comes.

The argument has gone on for years but there is no sign that it has shaken established policy based on the belief that naval aviation is an essential part of anti-submarine work and that Canada should, even on a small scale, have her own facilities for training and, if necessary, for action.

In the face of published reports about it and the state of the arm's facilities, high naval sources said Friday "no consideration whatsoever" is being given to sending the Maggie home to Britain where she was born.

Informed sources said the Cabinet has never considered the issue formally and that there is no indication at this stage that the Maggie is on her way out, taking the air arm with her.

No Arrangement Made

OTTAWA, Oct. 22 (CP) — No arrangements have been made by the government to keep the British cable ship John W. Mackay based at Halifax, Transport Minister Chevrier Friday informed Gordon Isnor (L-Halifax) in the Commons. Mr. Isnor had asked if the government, which plans to take over certain Atlantic cable facilities, also intends to "enter into an agreement covering repairs and maintenance of cables which will enable to cable ship to continue to be based in Halifax."

Have No Engraving

OTTAWA, Oct. 22 (CP)—C. W. Hodgson (PC-Victoria, Ont.) asked the government Friday if it will recall medals issued for service in the Second World War and have them "properly engraved." Veterans Minister Gregg said "no." Mr. Hodgson had asked on Thursday in the Commons why the medals did not follow the first war example in containing the name and regimental number of the recipient. Mr. Gregg told him it would have taken another two years to do the job.

Gets Year In Jail

STRATFORD, Oct. 2—(CP)—Charles Harold Farquharson of Toronto was sentenced Friday to one year definite and six months indeterminate for manslaughter in the traffic death of two-year-old Gordon Murray last July 1. Farquharson was prohibited from driving for 30 months.

'Touch And Go' Timely, Pleasing Show In New York

By PAT USSHER

NEW YORK, Oct 22 (CP) — A timely and pleasing show is George Abbott's new revue, "Touch and Go."

Its sketches are pointed and topical; it has some graceful dances arranged by Helen Tamiris and some moments of uproarious farce. And its humor at no time sinks to vulgarity.

One of the principal assets of "touch and go," now installed at the Broadhurst Theatre, is the presence of George Hall, comedian who was born in Toronto.

Hall, who moved into the production from another revue, "Lend An Ear," appears as a master of ceremonies at intervals and also in some of the comedy sketches. Others who contribute to the merriment are Nancy Andrews, Kyle MacDonnell and Pearl Lang.

Maurice Evans goes modern in "The Browning Version," a double bill of Terence Rattigan plays at the Coronet Theatre. In the play which gives its name to the dual performance, he is an elderly, ailing master of an English boys' school. Evans handles the part with sympathy and restraint and Edna Best is admirable as his obnoxious and unfaithful wife.

The second play, "A Harlequinade," is a broad comedy study of a pair of acting veterans rehearsing "Romeo and Juliet" while on tour in England. Both Evans and Miss Best make the transition from serious drama to light farce with ease in this thin but amusing sketch.

Lockhart For "Salesman"

Gene Lockhart, a native of London, Ont., has been engaged to replace Lee J. Cobb in the leading role of Willy Loman, the unhappy hero of "Death of a Salesman." Cobb is retiring from the play on medical advice and will be replaced by Lockhart some time next month. Lockhart hasn't been on the New York stage since 1945. . ."People Like Us." the melodrama by Frank Vosper, may not reach Broadway at all. The play closed down for revisions after a week in Detroit following its Toronto engagement. . ."Blackout of 1949," Ken Murray's vaudeville-type show, failed to attract the public here as it did on the west coast, where it ran for seven years. It closed last Saturday after a span of only 51 performances.

Hunting in the Moose River Woods

Great Times AT MOOSONEE

The Canadian Goose of all game birds is probably the one most North American sportsmen covet. And James Bay in Northern Ontario, besides duck, deer, moose and bear, offers fine sport with geese. The season is late September and October. At Moosonee or Moose Factory you'll find outfitters and experienced Indian guides.

More information from The Public Relations Officer of the Northern Ontario Railway, North Bay, Ontario. Trains leave Cochrane twice a week for Moosonee. Cochrane is 482 miles (15 hours) north of Toronto. It's 5 hours flying time—airline and chartered plane connections at Porquis Junction.

POWER REGULATIONS MUST BE ENFORCED

A reduction in power deliveries from one of the Commission's suppliers makes it necessary for all consumers to avoid wasting electricity. The Commission has advised the municipal systems that strict compliance with regulations respecting the use of electricity is essential.

Voluntary conservation is also needed. Homes, industries and farms can play their full part by reducing the use of electricity at all times, particularly during the hours of maximum use, from 10 to 12 in the morning and 4 to 6 in the afternoon.

Seeking To Curb Credit Given Members

Encouragement of cash payments on purchases by customers in a tightening of credit policy was approved by the members of Peterborough District Co-Operative Services at their ninth annual meeting Friday night in the Empress Hotel. The attendance was around 400 men and women of the Peterborough, Sunderland, Havelock and Warkworth areas.

W. Clarence Mann, president, in his review of the year's operations, said: "We have paid the bank over $16,000 in interest on money borrowed for current operations. We would have much preferred to have paid this money to our members as interest on loan units. However, as you all know, you were appealed to twice during the past year, first by person to person calls and secondly through a number of small meetings held throughout the district.

"We felt that these meetings were worth while through the fact that they better acquaint our members with the organization's structure but they failed to fulfill the main object, which was to have our members subscribe enough capital for our operations. At this time I would like to thank those who did subscribe.

"We fear that the majority do not realize the true meaning of a Co-Operative. We also wonder if you appreciate what this Co-Operative has done for the farmers of this district."

"There is one thing which your directors and managers object to very strenuously, that is having to give so much credit. The members have subscribed $18,200 in loan units and memberships, and at present are asking for and getting around $200,000 in credit. This adds greatly to our costs in three ways: this money has to be borrowed from the bank, it means extra bookkeeping and there is extra cost in collecting past due accounts."

Cash Discount

A motion by G. A. Brathen, Norwood, seconded by Milton A. Clark of Smith, endorsed the recommendation of the directors that a discount of 1 per cent be allowed for cash payments and that after thirty days from the time of purchase one per cent per month be charged on credits.

Mr. Mann reported total business turnover at close to $3,500,000 in the year ending June 30 last. "During the year we have paid the instalment on our mortgage, kept the equipment and buildings in first class condition paid 4 per cent interest on members' loans, and 4½ per cent on special loan units."

"Our fertilizer has been larger than any of our past twelve month fertilizer sales. The feed mill is operating at a satisfactory level. Our Sunderland and Havelock branches are operating very satisfactorily. The Warkworth branch operated at a small loss, but is coming ahead under the guidance of Glen Hancock."

Robert M. Pierson, manager, reported the Co-Op membership at 2,388 an increase of 38 for the year. Reserves for depreciation were increased to $43,295.36, and the working capital was increased by $37,935.82.

"The first six months of the year were not pleasing from the standpoint of earning, but the last six months with steadier markets and more closely exercised controls resulted in a net profit for the year of $76.90."

"Business volume was $3,446,012.98 as compared with $3,905,211.10 in the previous year. The major part of that decline was shown in the produce department, down from $618,780.12 to $248,616.83.

"Sales volume in the mill division amounted to $1,244,696.49 as against $1,355,079.88 in the previous year."

Produce Department

"Poultry and egg business was greatly reduced due to the general trend to reduce poultry flocks during the previous year." Unfavorable feed-egg ratio during the early part of 1948 reduced sales of chicks, and was a reflection in this year's volumes marketed. Very little poultry moved to the U. S., "and our attention has been centred on the domestic trade.

"During the years 1943 and 1947 almost our entire output was based on export business both in eggs and poultry with the result that most small plants such as ours had developed very little, if any, domestic business.

"For the past 18 months the efforts of the produce department have been directed toward developing a domestic pack of poultry using all the 'know how' developing the finest pack of any veloped in our export business during the war.

"We are proud to announce that we have been successful in processing plant in the Dominion, but unfortunately we lack volume to take advantage of the opportunities now ours."

Illinois Visitor

Guest speaker of the dinner was Fred Herndon of Macomb, McDonough County, Illinois, who was introduced by Vern Campbell, vice-president. He has been for 18 years president of Illinois Farm Supply with a membership of 170,000 farmers who have invested approximately $7,000,000 in their co-operative enterprise and did $50,000,000 business last year chiefly in feeds, fertilizers and petroleum products.

Defining a co-operative as a business institution, apart from any social facets it might develop Mr. Herndon said that its organization assumed a potential need for cooperative action.

"One of the first questions you must ask in setting up a co-operative is whether the people it is designed for are willing to finance it. We have 102 counties in Illinois, and the first thing they had to do for their co-operative was to put up the money. That is essential. And, in the last year or so we asked them for more. You know how it is in your own affairs. It takes more money to operate it. I know that is fact because I have been keeping my farm accounts for 33 years and besides that a monthly inventory. I know that it takes four times as much cash in the bank to operate as it did six years ago."

Mr. Herndon stressed the importance of managerial ability and the avoidance of family connection in staff employment.

"And we are not price-cutters. We charge the regular prices, quality considered. And if there is any profits we let them accrue to the end of the year and then worry about what we do with them.

"A co-operative organization should have a clear credit policy, because the man who pays all the time is also paying something for those who are disposed to look for credit and charge their accounts. We insist on quality products in our business. It has every economic justification for it. If we have any savings, we pay it back in dividends to our members. But, if I may say it modestly we don't talk much about savings."

Mr. Hendron advised that no director should be a paid employee. He was entitled to ordinary mileage costs or something like that. And no employee should be related to the manager or to a director.

Mr. W. C. Mann was chairman of the after dinner proceedings. At the head table with him and Mr. Herndon were Mayor M. J. Swanston, Vern Campbell, J. H. McLean, R. M. Pierson and directors John Kitney C. E. Moore, W. G. Waterman, Merrill Bagshaw of Sunderland, Isaac Anderson, Havelock; Howard Evans, Warkworth and F. C. Paterson.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Hendron was extended by Mr. Waterman.

Canadians Making Name On Stage, Radio In Britain

By NORMAN CRIBBENS.

LONDON, Oct. 22 — (CP). — On stage, screen and radio Canadians are making a name for themselves in Britain.

Some came here before the war when opportunities were fewer than now. Many more have come since. Today at least 20 are established successes, while others are well on the way up.

In less than nine months, a maried couple from Vancouver—Bernard Braden and Barbara Kelly — have made themselves known to millions of radio listeners with a weekly series of diverting comedy sketches.

On the stage, too, they have a large following. While Barbara plays the feminine lead in James Thurber's "The Male Animal," Bernard is starred opposite Vivien Leigh in the controversial American play "A Streetcar Named Desire."

"We did not leave Canada for any lack of appreciation," Braden said.

"But we want to prove to Canadians that Canadian theatre folk are as good as any in the world. Later we plan to return."

Contralto a Hit

Another quick success, in the more serious world of opera, is contralto Jean Watson of St. Thomas, a graduate of Toronto Conservatory of Music. Scottish-born Jean arrived only six months ago, made two successful concerts at Covent Garden Opera House and the Edinburgh Festival and now is launched on her second season at Covent Garden. She is also singing in a Beethoven Festival with Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra.

Fast wininng fame as conductor, composer and arranger is Toronto-born Bob Farnon whose 46-piece light orchestra is broadcast weekly in a BBC program called "Journey Into Melody."

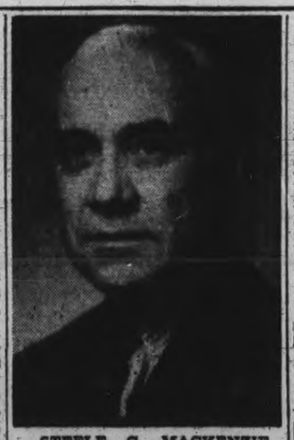
"He is a conductor with a difference," said a London musical journal.

Winnipeg's Stewart McPherson, a standing favorite with British radio audiences since 1938, says he expects to go to the United States soon to work with the Columbia Broadcasting System.

With him in a movie is Robert Beatty of Hamilton, who came here in 1937. Beattie is also starred with Jean Kent in the comedy film "Her Favorite Husband," and has been picked for a stage role in "Philadelphia Story," opening in London's West-end soon.

Cable Services 'Strategic' So Gov't Handles

OTTAWA, Oct. 22—Transport Minister Chevrier Friday in the Commons said "strategic reasons" partly underlie the government's decision to take over Canada's external communication services.



He was asked by Howard Green (PC, Vancouver-Quadra) to explain why the government was establishing a crown company to handle overseas telecommunication facilities when it is expropriating from two private firms. He said this was merely a method for getting it away from the direct control of parliament.

Mr. Chevrier, who obtained second reading—approval in principle—of his telecommunications bill, said there were two reasons for government action in expropriating the firm's property and equipment at a cost of $4,000,000.

One was the importance of government control of such servicesfor "strategic ceasons." Another was an agreement among all Commonwealth countries to do likewise.

Purpose of his bill, he added, was first to acquire the telecommunication assets of Canadian Marconi Company Limited and Cable and Wireless Limited and secondly to establish a crown company "to co-ordinate the maintenance and operation of these two Commonwealth-controlled telecommunication systems."

The crown company — the Canadian Overseas Telecommunication Corporation—would not constitute a monopoly "in any sense," Mr. Chevrier said. He agreed that the bill should be sent to committee for detailed study. It will come back to the House itself for final reading after committee study.

STEELE C. MACKENZIE, superintendent of agencies for the Dominion Life Assurance Company, addressed 100 members of the Underwriters' Association in Peterborough Friday.

100 Underwriters Listen To Expert

Nearly 100 members of Peterborough Life Underwriters' Association from the city and surrounding towns heard Steele C. Mackenzie, superintendent of agencies for the Dominion Life Assurance Company speak on life insurance in review, at a luncheon at the Empress Hotel Friday.

A former vice principal of a school at Kitchener, Mr. Mackenzie left the teaching profession in 1927 to spend five years as a life insurance salesman in London.

Joining the agency department the Dominion Life Company in 1932. he was appointed agency supervisor and was in charge of the agencies in Eastern Canada from 1937 to 1941. He is now responsible for the company's agencies in Western Canada and in the States.

The speaker was introduced by Paige Rowell and thanked by Jack Allan.

Eleven new applications for membership were accepted by the Peterborough Association at this meeting. The booster prize was given by John Hornabelle, who was boosted by Joseph Waters.

Lakefield Legion Honors Don Hurl

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 22 (ENS) — A farewell party in honor of Don Hurl who is returning to England was held Thursday night in Lakefield.

Attending were 24 fellow-Canadian Legion members of Branch 77. A tan travelling grip with toilet accessories was presented to him on their behalf by William Hampton. The presentation address was delivered by Walter Chappell.

Mr. Hurl will sail from Montreal on Oct. 29 to join his English wife and two children already there. He has a boy, born in Canada, and a girl whose birthplace was England. Their plans are to live there permanently.

Entertainment on the evening's program was provided by card playing and a general sing-song led by Harry Baldwin. Refreshments were served.

Thomas Allen, another Legion member, thanked the other for their contributions to the community Christmas tree.

WMS Sends Bale

Thankoffering meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Church, was held Friday in the church parlors with the president, Mrs. F. W. K. Harris presiding.

A bale sent to needy people was valued at $137.50. It was decided to make six bed jackets for the Matheson Hospital.

Mrs. T. Curvin sang two solos, which were much appreciated. Mrs. B. F. McNeely led in the worship service. Rev. H. G. Douglas gave a most interesting and helpful address.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Harris. A cup of tea was served by the group in charge.

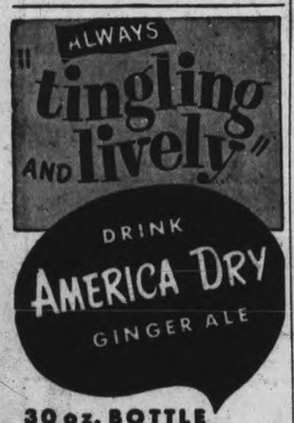
33 Marriage Laws Unknown to Girls

LONDON, Oct. 22 — (CP) — Every day hundreds of starry-eyed girls are married—but, stays the Married Women's Association, their starry eyes don't look closely at their legal positions as married women.



So the association has asked the government to publish a cheap booklet giving newly-weds a summary of Britain's marriage laws.

"There are 33 marriage laws," said Lady Helen Nutting, chairman of the association, and most boys and girls marry without the slightest knowledge of them.

"They show that a wife does not legally own one twopenny-half-penny stamp to put on a letter to her mother. Nothing in the home is legally hers—unless she can prove she bought it or that it was given to her.

"That isn't right. The wife contributes as much to the home as the husband, only her is in kind instead of money. If there is no wife, there is no home."

CGIT Doings

ST. ANDREW'S

Marion Crawford reported for St. Andrew's group. Janet Merrett conducted the worship service at this week's meeting. The following girls were elected to the executive for the coming year: president, Judy Bell; vice president, Marie Hughey; secretary, Lois Holman; treasurer, Janet Merrett. Plans were made to hold a Hallowe'en party on October 20. Some time was spent decorating the room with black cats and crepe paper for this party.

✧ ✧ ✧

ST. JAMES'

Shirley Hudgin reported that a graduation ceremony for the Explorers took place last week. As a result of the elections, the following girls were put into office: president, Laureen Keeting; vice president, Marion Anderson; secretary, Shirley Hudgin; treasurer, Barbara McCulloch.

Plans were made for a Hallowe'en party which will take place next week.

✧ ✧ ✧

ST. PAUL'S

The meeting this week took the form of a graduation ceremony when Jean Blewett and Doris Johnson conducted the service. New members were presented with black ties, symbolizing the CGIT uniform. Later, members of the Explorers and the Intermediate group made plans for a joint Hallowe'en party. Seniors started working on their Christmas creche.

✧ ✧ ✧

GEORGE ST.

Helen Wright, secretary for Intermediate group, reported that George Street groups spent the evening decorating their room for the Hallowe'en party which is to be held next week.

TRINITY

The CGIT Department assembled for worship which was taken by the Intermediate group, Dale Nichols reading the scripture and Anna Edmondson reading a poem on 'Prayer". Gaynor Galoska was pianist. Joan Krogh conducted the business when it was decided to invite members of the Girls' Work committee, as well as mothers of the girls, to attend the meeting next week which will be a combined initiation and rededication service.

Junior group, led by Marjorie Bryden, held a supper meeting this week. For the business meeting, Helen Zakos, president, was in the chair. There were 17 members present. The Hallowe'en party and initiation were discussed. The leader read some interesting facts about politeness.

President Edith Nicholls, presided during the meeting of Intermediate Group. Anna Edmondson told new members the name of the group, 'The Torch Bearers" and the motto "His World is a Lamp unto my feet and a Light unto My Path" was repeated. The group then discussed the meaning of CGIT and made plans for future meetings. A full schedule is anticipated as the group plan to make attendance cards for the Beginner's Department of the Sunday School, plant bulbs to be taken to the sick during the winter and to sing carols at Christmas.

Joan Henry presided at Senior Group meeting. The girls were glad to have the opportunity to wash and rewind wool for the Children's Shelter. Plans for packing a bale for the Canadian Church Relief Abroad were discussed. Suggestions were made for place cards for the forthcoming Mother and Daughter banquet.

"Date Pits" proved to be worthwhile pointers on "dating," rather than the eastern fruit which the name implies, and now the girls are well prepared for the Collegiate hop next Monday!

Advises Wives How to Hold Their Husbands

By VIVIAN BROWN

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 —(AP)— Scheming girls who go out with married men are just wasting their time—if wives are smart, says lovely Billie Burke.

Miss Burke, widow of the great authority on beautiful women. Florenz Ziegfeld, knows plenty about that "other woman" angle" says she:

"My husband always was surrounded by pretty women. I was 22 years younger than he but sometimes I'd get so upset I'd want to rip the scenery. I held my ground though, and fought to hold him. I knew, too, that if I relinquished him to any of those women, it would not have been right for him."

Put Cards on Table

Sometimes, she says, men need to be reminded how much their wives mean to them. If you suspect your husband is interested in another woman, have a heart-to-heart talk with him.

Don't nag. Put your cards on the table calmly, find out where the breach is, she suggests. Says something like this:

"Now look here, what do you really want to do with your life? Is there anything we can do to save our marriage? Or do you want to sacrifice what we've built up?"

The plan is to want to stay married. no matter what the obstacles, says Billie.

Sometimes, she says, women do not put enough stress on marriage. They rely on the delicatessen, and often do not even provide clean homes. Says she:

"There weren't so many divorces years ago. Women gave their homes a personal touch with their own handmade hooked rugs, anti-micassars, embroidery and knitting. Men were conscious each day that wives were working to keep the home together."

"Hotsy-totsy" interlopers didn't stand a chance in breaking up her marriage, says Billie.

"Silly as it might seem, I used to wake up at 5 o'clock and wash my face, comb my hair, and put burnt cork on my eyelashes and brows. Then I would climb back to bed and look pretty when Flo woke up."

Lila Kennedy Marries M. F. Fitzgerald

The marriage took place in Immaculate Conception Church on Monday of Lila Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Kenendy, 470 Rogers St. to Maurice Francis Fitzgerald, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fitzgerald. The Rev. J. E. Greenan officiated. Mr. J. Armstrong played wedding music.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an ankle-length dress of transparent blue crepe, styled with peg top skirt, rounded neckline and shirred sleeves. She wore a crownless hat of matching blue crepe with ostrich plume and elbow-length white kid gloves. She carried a nosegay of pink roses and white baby 'mums. Mrs. V. Sullivan attended her sister. Her gown was of Rembrandt wine taffeta with full skirt, a V neckline and cap sleeves, and she wore a matching hat and carried a nosegay of bronze 'mums.

The groomsman was Mr. V. Sullivan and ushers were Frank and Weldon Kennedy, brothers of the bride.

A reception was held at Club Aragon with the bride's mother receiving in brocade blue crepe dress with black felt hat. The groom's sister, Mrs. J. O'Brien, also received and was attired in black. Each wore a corsage of red roses.

For her travelling outfit the bride chose a suit of monotone blue tweed, brown accessories and a topcoat of cherry glow wool. After a wedding trip to Montreal, the couple will live in Toronto.

Thelma Pattenden Marries Hamilton Man

The wedding was solemnized at All Saints' Anglican Church today of Thelma Margaret, daughter of Mrs. M. S. Pattenden, 190 Charlotte St., and the late George Pattenden, and Stewart Harold Lund, only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lund of Hamilton. The Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a grey velvet gown in low neckline style with large cowl collar. Tiny velvet covered buttons extended from neckline to hem. Her hat was of coral velvet trimmed with lime green French feather tips, and she wore a corsage of orchids. Only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Paul Chartrand, who was in a gown of sapphire blue velvet, made similarly, and wore a matching blue turban with ostrich tips. She had a corsage of pink roses at her shoulder.

The groomsman was Mr. Bill Wrathall of Hamilton.

A reception was held in the Empress Hotel. The bride's mother received, gowned in flowered jersey and wore a grey felt hat and corsage of red roses. The groom's mother, who was dressed in figured crepe, black felt hat and corsage of red roses, assisted to receive.

Leaving later on a trip to Londone, Ontario, and Detroit, the bride was wearing a dress of royal blue wpol crepe with light fawn topcoat and black accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Lund will live in Hamilton.

Some Old Jazz Records Worth $1,000 Each

By BETTY PROSSER

CHICAGO (AP). — There may be a pot of gold hidden in the dusty phonograph records in your attic. Jazz record collecting is big business, and collectors' items bring good prices.

George Hoefer, writer for Down Beat magazine, jazz critic and long-time collector, lists two King Oliver records on the old Gennett label either of which he estimates would bring $1,000.

There is only one known copy of these 1923 discs—"Zulu's Ball" and "Workingman Blue," on Gennett 5275. The owner of this record keeps it locked in a safety deposit box. The other record, "If You Want My Heart," and "That Sweet Something Dear," on Gennett 5276, is known to exist but has never turned up.

Any discussion of prices, Hoefer emphasizes, presupposes that the record is in "mint" condition. Prices decline in geometric ratio to the amount of surface wear to which a waxing has been subjected. But even a "poor" condition copy of either of the fabulous Oliver records would be valuable

A disc is considered a collector's item when it contains good jazz (sometimes only a phrase or two by a well-known artist), and when there are not enough copies to satisfy demand. This can be due to a small original pressing. or to the fact that many musicians recorded under pseudonyms and their work was not recognized until after copies were lost, discarded or widely dispersed.

If you have some old records on the QRS label by Earl Hines, they'll sell, Hoefer estimates, for $50 each. They were Hines' first recorded piano solos. The company which made them stayed in the recording business only a few months.

Other Rarities

Two records made by a small band under the direction of a Chicago butcher whose hobby was music are valuable. His name was Charley Pierce, and when Paramount records asked him to "get some boys together" for a recording date, he showed up with a small band which included Muggsy Spanier and the late Frank Teschemacher on clarinet. The waxings from that session are worth $40 to $50 apiece.

Trumpet King Louis Armstrong, signed to an exclusive contract with Okeh, played two beautiful choruses with "Johnny Dodds and His Black Bottom Stompers" for Brunswick's "Wild Man Blues" and "Melancholy." A pressing from either of these "masters" commands $15 to $25.

There are some long-lost Armstrong works which probably would be in the $1,000 class.

In 1927, Walter Melrose, a music publisher, wanted to put out a sheet music trumpet folio featuring Armstrong's tunes, but Armstrong couldn't write his music down. So he went to Melrose's office and made four recording machine cylinders, which were turned over to a musician to be transcribed on paper. Somehow the cylinders disappeared. They comprise what Hoeffer terms 'one of the most de luxe collecting items in jazz."

Another rare record, on the Perfect label, stems from a session by some musicians from Frankie Trumbauer's orchestra. They made a jazz version of "Three Blind Mice" and backed it with a popular tune of the day, "I'm More Than Satisfied." It was issued under the name of The Chicago Loopers and one of the "boys" happened to be the immortal trumpeter, the late Bix Beiderbecke.

In general, Hoefer says, the best collector's items are to be found on white label Vocalion, red Okeh, Gennett, QRS, and Paramount.

Teen-Age Expert At 'Y' Supper Club

Friday Night Supper Club was addressed this week at the YWCA by Miss Jean Campbell, national teen-age secretary of the YWCA. She spoke about her visit to Geneva this summer to attend a "Y" team conference.

Lois Paddock introduced Miss Campbell and the vote of thanks was proposed by Margaret Martyn. The talk was followed by committee meeting.

Abiding Loyalty Too Rare In Fair-Weather Friends

A foolish young girl asks me what tests she can apply to her friends to determine whether they are true friends or not.

Dorothy Dix

To which I can reply: Better not. Don't put friendship under the microscope. Don't apply the acid to it to find out if it is pinchbeck or pure gold. Don't put a strain upon it to ascertain its strength. Just take it at its face value and enjoy it. Believe in the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow as long as you can. There are a lot of beautiful things put in the world for its adornment and our enjoyment that are never meant for hard daily usage. We are not expected to make a scrubbing brush out of the painted wings of the butterfly.

Of course, sooner or later, life does try out our friends for us. Poverty, sickness, sorrow, death, age come to us. We are no longer gay and amusing companions. We are shabby instead of richly dressed. Our tables are only spread with meager fare instead of groaning under rich banquets. Our homes are places of mourning instead of houses of mirth. Then it is that our hosts of near-friends fade away and we are fortunate if one or two are left who are faithful and true and whom no misfortune can alienate from us.

A Mistake

It is the custom to be very contemptuous of these fair-weather friends, but this is a mistake. They are a part of the amenities of life and add to its delights. They serve their purpose in the general scheme of things and help make existence a pleasanter thing than it would be without them. And, after all, isn't this about all that we have wanted of them? Just entertainments and suavity and making themselves agreeable and showing us a few pleasant attentions? And isn't it about all we have a right to expect of them? And isn't it supervanity that makes us think that we inspire a deathless passion in the breast of every casual acquaintance that would cause them to sacrifice themselves for us and stick to us through thick and thin?

Cartainly very few of us have such an irresistible power of fascination that we bind every one with whom we come in contact to us with hoops of steel. Most of us are fortunate if those we meet feel even a passing liking for us.

John Hay said that once even the most popular among us would die of chagrin if we knew what our neighbors really thought of us.

So we can easily perceive the folly of attempting to test out our friends and find out exactly how strong is their affection for us. The chances are too great that they think no more of us than we do of them and that they would be no more faithful to us than we would be to them in a time of stress and storm. For we too are fair-weather friends to many people, delighted to exchange a chop for a chop with them, but not to divide our last bite with them.

Expect Too Much

One of the queer things about friendship is that we regard it as a sort of a graft in which we always expect to get more than we give. We expect our friends to love us better than we love them, to pay us more attention than we pay them, to be truer to us than we are to them and when they fail to do this we call them false and grow bitter about it.

Yet how many friends have we for whom we would make a real sacrifice? Perhaps none. Perhaps one or two at most. Yet we expect all those with whom we have played around to be willing to fight our battles for us, pay our debts for us and to whitewash our names when we cover them with slime.

Oriental Rug Like Painting Hand-made Work of Art

Members of the Women's Art Association who attended the opening studio meeting Friday afternoon in the YWCA now know to their satisfaction wherein lies the value of an Oriental rug.

"Creation by human fingers makes these rugs different than any other," said speaker George Semerjian of Toronto, who has made the craft of oriental rugs with its fundamental art his main interest in life. "My mission in coming here is to make it realized an oriental rug is valuable in the same way as a Rembrandt painting," he explained.

With a display of rugs, valued at many thousands of dollars, he showed that they are truly works of art. Just like the painter putting his conceptions on canvas, the weaver picturizes highlights of Persian life, animals, mosques and temples, the crown jewels, the rulers, or he may weave in his conception of heaven, character patterns, folklore. Even portraits are done on the rugs as a charming sample illustrated.

Silk rugs, the finest of all, were breath-taking in their beauty of color and design, an embossed rug showing the raised pattern technique, Mr. Semerjian named each rug as it was shown, the name being the place in which it was made. Some, such as the Sarouk, were quite familiar. They come from five countries: Persia, Turkey, Turkestan, Caucasia and China. There are also Indian rugs which are clever imitations of the Persian, but recognizable to the connoisseur as not being "original."

"There is no machine-made oriental rug," the speaker stated and explained why this is so with a demonstration of the hand-tied knots which no needle yet invented can duplicate. A Turkish knot is used for some rugs, but the finest are done with a Persian knot which requires another twist of the finger. The knotting is done on primitive type looms with a system of numbered threads.

A rough calculation of the time that would be spent by the weaver showed all too clearly why oriental rugs cost as they do. Working eight hours per day it would take about two years to do a small rug and with a salary of $20 per week this would make labor alone $2,000. The number of years the rug will retain its beauty and usefulness is inestimable.

The main material used for the rugs is sheep's wool and the quality of this has a lot to do with the rug. Northern Persia produces a greasy and oily wool, which is best, so Southern breeders try to send their flocks to the nort hto pacture for a few months before clipping time. About three per cent of rugs are made with camel hair.

To penetrate fully the value of an oriental rug it is necessary to know the background of the Persians. Mr. Semerjian gave an historical summary, commencing with the beginning of human civilization on Mount Ararat and leading up to the Golden Age and 1720 A.D. when the first books on oriental rugs were written. Through intermingling wars the Persians, who have the Aryan trend of civilization, developed their fine feelings of art and literature.

Mr. Semerjian and his wife, who gave some assistance with the display, were introduced by president Mrs. N. D. Seaton.

Anderson-Hoffman Nuptials Held At Bride's Home

HAVELOCK, Oct. 22.—A pretty house wedding took place at high noon today, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hoffman, King St., Havelock, when their only daughter, Anna Josephine, was united in marriage to Mr. Isaac Anderson, son of Mrs. John Anderson and the late John Anderson of Belmont Township.

Bronze and yellow 'mums formed a beautiful setting for the ceremony, performed by the Rev. R. D. Duncanson, Presbyterian minister. Wedding music was played by Mrs. E. G. Hoffman.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a pearl grey gabardine suit, blue blouse, and a head bandeau of pink Briarcliffe roses and corsage to match. The couple was unattended.

At the reception, the bride's mother received in a gown of battleship grey crepe with black accessories and a corsage of red 'mums. The groom's mother was in navy crepe with black accessories and wore a corsage of mauve 'mums. Luncheon was served at the Masonic Hall by the ladies of Prosperity Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson left on a motor trip to North Bay and points north, the bride travelling in her wedding suit with black gabardine topcoat and black accessories. They will live on the groom's farm in Belmont Township.

Rear End Collisions On Wet Pavement

A three-car accident occurred at the corner of George and Lansdowne Sts. Friday night, about 11.30.

Francis J. Leether, 504 Chamberlain St., told police while driving south on George St., he stopped behind two other cars at the Lansdowne St. stop sign.

While he was waiting, his car was hit from behind by a car driven by Gordon C. Tom, Webber St. Tom in turn said he had stopped and been hit by another car. This last car was driven by Frank E. Clarke, 494 McKellar St.

Clarke told police the car in front of him had stopped very quickly. The pavement was wet at the time. Only Leether's car was insured. Sergeant Gordon Puffer and Traffic Officer Clare McGillen investigated.

Former CGE Employee Dies In Dundalk

Funeral service for a former employee of the CGE, Frank Russell Hurlbut, 65, of Dundalk, Ont., was held on Friday. The Rev. Mr. Christianson of Dundalk United Church officiated and burial was at Dundalk cemetery.

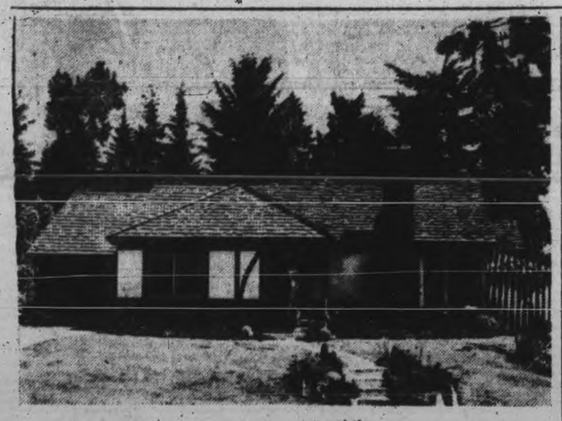
Mr. Hurlbut died in Dundalk on Wednesday following a short illness. Born in Kemble, Ont., he came to Peterborough 12 years ago from his home town and left here only six weeks ago. A daughter, Mrs. Frank Metcalfe (Dortha) predeceased him in 1946.

He leaves his wife, the former Mary Wallace and two daughters, Mrs. Hugh Smith (Laura) of Duncan, Ont., and Mrs. Ainsworth Jack (Hazel) of Dundalk. There are three sons, Provincial Constable Leighton Hurlbut of Wasaga Beach, Donald of Cannington and Clinton of Dundalk. Mr. Hurlbut was a member of the United Church.

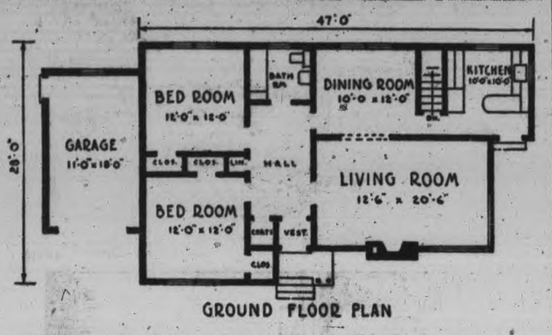
Obituary

MRS. AGNES LATCHFORD

Mrs. Agnes Latchford, 72, of 228 Rubidge St., died in hospital on Friday following a short illness. She was born in Port Hope, Agnes Ethel Victoria, daughter of the late David Mallock and Ethel Broley, and before coming to Peterborough 12 years ago, lived at Best Station. Her husband, Herbert Latchford, predeceased her in 1939.



She leaves five daughters, Mrs. Cecil Jones (Teresa) of Omemee, Mrs. James King (Grace) of Seaforth, Mrs. James Wilson (Greta), Mrs. Samuel Vint (Muriel) and Mrs. Fred Kiff (Ethel), all of Peterborough. There are also five sons living here, Lawrence, Hector, John, Bruce and Robert, as well as 20 grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Mrs. Latchford was a member of the Presbyterian Church.



Funeral service will be held on Monday at the Belleghem Funeral Home at 2 p.m. The Rev. E. W. Rowland of Grace United Church will officiate and burial will be at Emily Cemetery.

PRACTICAL PLANS FOR THE HOME YOU WANT AND HOW TO PLAN IT

GROUND FLOOR PLAN

HOUSE NO. 90—One of the nicest features of this low-English style cottage is the manner in which the living and sleeping areas are separated. Notice also that the two equal-sized bedrooms are insulated from each other by closets—and that all rooms have easy access to the bathroom. The living room is large, with ample light provided by the sweeping corner windows overlooking the front and side garden. Both the kitchen and dining room are at the back of the house using the plan shown. A broad band of white stucco between dark-stained cedar boards enhances the horizontal efect of the exterior. Roof is of cedar shakes. For further particulars write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

3rd Field Park Coy Went In Ahead of Infantry In D-Day Invasion of France

The fighting history of the 3rd Field Park Coy., RCE, in the Second World War follows closely that of the Canadian 3rd Division The Sappers, holding their first annual re-union today in Peterborough, formed an important cog in that Division which was the spearhead of the D-Day landings

Although engineers do not have battle flags as do infantry regiments they can pridefully point to the fact that they were indispensable in combat operations, whether a skirmish or a major battle. And it was they who were left behind to do the cleaning up of a devastated objective.

The 3rd Field Park Coy., originally 168 strong, was recruited here in August 1940 under Captain George Walker of Chatham. Practically all were from the Peterborough district.

When the unit left Peterborough to go to Debert Camp the members were presented with watches as a token of the city's appreciation by Mayor James Hamilton. At Debert the local Sappers joined the rest of the 3rd Division Engineers and helped build the camp there. They replaced the 18th Field Co., RCE, which was moved to Sussex, N. B.

The two brother Coys. were the 6th Field Coy. from British Columbia and the 16th from Montreal.

Then in August 1941, almost a year from the time it was recruited, the 3rd Field Park Coy left muddy Debert for Halifax and overseas. In England they joined the rest of the 3rd Division.

First camp which the engineers settled in was Thursley, Surrey, and there they went under canvas for the first time. Thurslay was an NETD, which in army jargon means Non-Effective Transit Depot. When they arrived there it was still being built and they helped complete it.

From that time on the Sappers put in their time by building camps and taking part in the many extensive training schemes devised for the poised armies in the United Kingdom. They remained on these schemes until D-Day. All members of the unit recall the aches, pains and fatigue associated with such code names as Beaver IV, Tiger, Spartan, and Curly Kate.

Stiff Training

One of the toughest was the half dozen or so "pirate schemes" in which the Sappers learned some of the intricacies of combined operations — embarking and disembarking on a supposedly enemy coast with bulldozers, trucks and other heavy equipment.

While out on one of these exercises in June 1944 the Company received orders they would not be returning to their embarkation point. They were part of the huge D-Day invasion which was to sweep the German Army back from the occupied countries and force it into unconditional surrender.

Soldiers never grow tired of arguing over which was the finest fighting force in the Canadian Army, but sopporters of the 3rd Division claim neutral observers pronounced them the best-equipped and highly trained division to take the field.

The Sappers, tense, competent and ready after three years of careful training, hit the Normandy Beach at Courseulles-sur-Mer. Courseulles was one of four enemy strong points on the five-mile frontage given to the Canadians to assail. Strong points consisted of heavy concrete gun emplacements as well as open positions, mounting 50-mm., 75-mm or 88-mm. guns sited to fire along the beaches in enfilade.

As well these were supported by mortar and machine gun positions and there was also a strong protective area of mines and barbed wire.

Cleared the Way

The assault engineers, went in ahead of the infantry, cleared the mines, barbed wire, tank traps and other obstacles in the way of a swift advance and consolidation. All the time they were under heavy fire.

When the 3rd Field Park Co. went in front LST's they were taking bulldozers, trucks, bridging, road-building material and the means of transportation generally.

It was here that Sapper John Duval of Rouyn won the Military Medal. With his 20-ton armored bulldozer shedding a steady enemy fire of machine gun bullets and mortar shells he crashed through a heavy wall making a pathway for trucks to go through.

The Sappers then followed through to Caen and helped clear the rubble from the streets. For four days while cooped up inside Caen they sustained a barrage of bombing and shelling from the Germans.

In the latter months of the year the advance continued with the troops crossing the Belgian frontier, hailed entnusiastically as liberators, and they started the hard slogging for the Scheldt estuary. Here the Engineers encountered a new type of fighting that taxed their ingenuity to the utmost.

Amid raging battles they had to supply many bridges, and bring up top decking and barbed wire to string along outlying positions. The network of canals made amphibious operations necessary and this meant the obtaining of water craft of miscellaneous sorts.

Those who learned how to handle a boat on the peaceful waters of the Kawartha Lakes found a new use for their skill in the constant patrolling and sharp fighting in this particular phase of the campaign.

Rough Bitter Winter

The unit wintered at Nijmegen where they took over from the 101st United States Airborne Division. And the Sappers found it a "rough, bitter winter" with no fuel and little excitement.

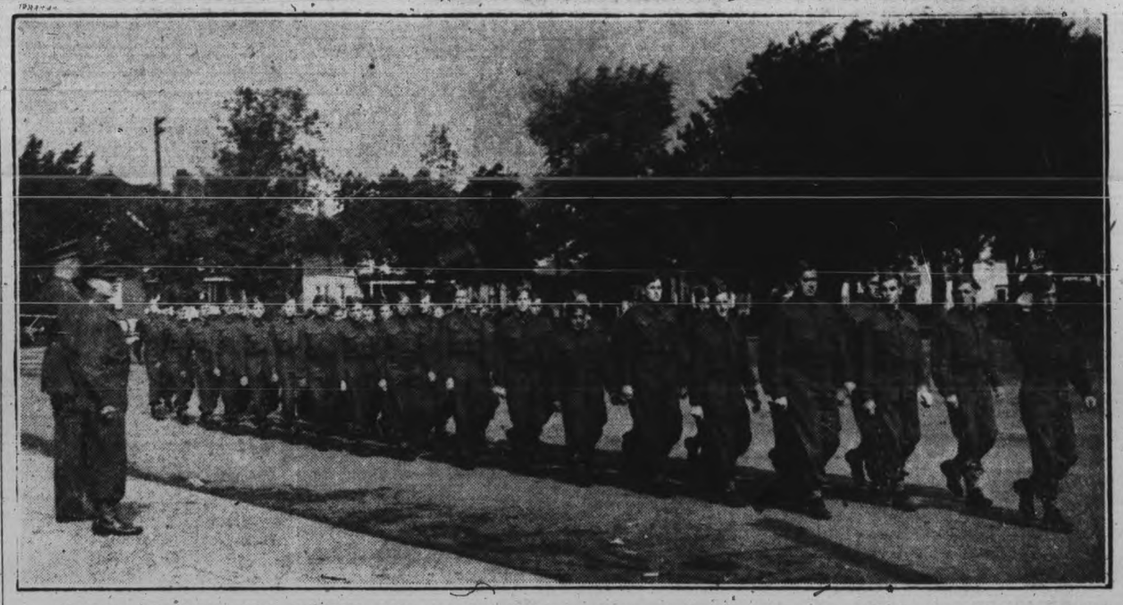
After the Germans were trapped in the Falaise Cap the Sappers continued their rapid advance with the hard-hitting 3rd Division troops, forming part of the 1st Canadian Army.

Included in the places captured and cleaned out by the 3rd Field Park Coy. were Boulogne, Calais and Cap Gris Nez. Heavy fighting during September took place for Calais; the general pattern was a shattering bombing and artillery bombardment followed closely by an assault of armor and infantry to break the enemy resistance.

Cap Gris Nez was the promotory, about 12 miles southwest of Calais where the Germans located their huge 15-inch naval rifles, used to bombard Dover and coastal shipping. When the Canadians drew near the guns were swivelled around to face inland and drop shells on the attackers.

Through these two battles the Sappers continued to play a leading role.

Here the 3rd Field Park Coy. had an entertainment hall, formerly used by the Gestapo, for their Mess Hall. Auxiliary services put on a large number of shows to help while away the time while the Engineers applied themselves principally to the task of building up supplies for the Spring offensive.



Chief enemy action was constant barrages of buzz bombs.

When action re-commenced in the Spring they accompanied the infantry in the breakthroughs that occurred in the Siegfried Line, and the Hochwald and Reichwald Forests. Just west of the Rhine at Udem they met the heaviest fighting of the campaign.

It was here that Sapper (Tex) Heathcote of Vancouver, B.C., received the Military Medal for rescuing a stalled bulldozer under intense enemy fire. While on maintenance of the Cleve-Udem road he as detailed to fill in six bomb craters with his unarmoured bulldozer. He was the target of heavy mortar shelling, ducked for cover after a particular vicious barrage stalled the machine, and then returned and got it going again.

Next major advance waited until the British 2nd Army pushed across the Rhine. The unit was concentrated chiefly on supply work at this closing stage of the final drive toward victory. And the last fighting it saw was on the road to Aurich, Germany.

After VE-Day they were sent back to Utrecht to await repatriation and the bulk of the Sappers returned home in 1945.

Safety In Home Building Can Eliminate Accidents

From Home Builder in Canada

Countless thousands of Canadians each year are the victims of needless accidents in the home . . . accidents that could be avoided by incorporating safety features in the home when it is being built or remodelled . . . and by care in selecting and arranging equipment. Here are a few of the more important features that will make your home a safer place in which to live.

Build stairs in straight flights with square landings at turns have risers 6¾ to 8 inches and treads 10 to 11 inches wide in proportions that give 17 inches as the sum of one riser and one tread. Build the balustrade at least 30 inches high around the stairwell and open stairway. Put continuous handrail on at least one side. Leave headroom of 6½ to 7 feet at all points. Have enough natural or artificial light on stairways to give good visibility.

Arrange storage space so that all parts are accessible. Keep frequently used materials where they can be reached without use of chairs or ladders.

Have doors swing in the direction that will obstruct traffic the least. opening against a wall if possible. Have at least a 2-inch clearance between door and other objects.

Fit bathtub and shower stall with hand grips. Don't place soap dishes or other accessories where they will project.

Build floors on same level throughout each storey. In existing dwellings any unevenness, warping or projections (nail heads, metal door edgings, etc.) should be corrected. If floors have different levels, guard changes of level with a handrail.

Place hooks, nails and other sharp projections above eye level if they are used at all.

All wiring must pass inspection, meet local electrical code. Don't use long extension cords. Have walks, porches, outside steps, hallways, stairways, storage spaces and halls lighted and have switches conventiently placed.

Build outside porch or landing large enough to open and close screen or storm doors without having to step off the landing.

Safety standards for outside steps should be the same as for interior steps. Avoid steps of unequal height, width or depth, or surprise steps that are likely to cause tripping and falling. Steps that are too high or otherwise poorly designed also waste energy in addition to being dangerous.

Protect balconies or accessible flat-decked roofs by railing 30 inches high.

Arrange space to store poisons separately from foods and medicines in well-marked containers, out of reach of children. Provide a special place that can be locked for firearms if you expect to have any, and also keep them unloaded.

In the kitchen, striking hazards can be reduced by the use of sliding cabinet doors and rounded corners on counters and built-in furniture. Movable equipment should fit the kitchen and not protrude into work spaces. If hinged kitchen cabinet doors are used, narrow doors would be desirable which would not extend far into the working space.

Safe disposal of used safety razor blades should be provided for in the bathroom design. A wall slot near the wash stand in the medicine cabinet is a common method.

The driveway should be planned so as not to create blind corners by means of buildings, hedges, shrubs or trellises obscuring the entrance and exit of cars. If land area permits, it is desirable to provide a turn-around so that a car need not be backed out of the driveway.

Terrace or porch floors more than 10 inches above the lot grade should have a protective railing or barrier, regularly inspected for possible deterioration.

Dr. N. H. Parker To Preach In City

Dr. N. H. Parker, head of the Department of Old Testament in the McMaster Divinity School, McMaster University, Hamilton will be the preacher in Murray Street Baptist Church next Sunday morning and evening. Dr. Parker is a Southerner, having come to McMaster from the State of Mississippi. He is an outstanding scholar, and is in great demand throughout the country as a public speaker. On Monday afternoon he will address the Peterborough Ministerial Association on the subject of "British Israelism", and on Monday evening will bring a humorous and informative address to the Murray Street Congregation about the South entitled "Mostly About Mules".

Give Answer Monday

OTTAWA, Oct. 22 (CP)—John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) asked in the Commons Friday if prosecutions have been started against western bread companies alleged to have committed breaches of the Combines Act in setting the price of bread. Justice Minister Garson said he had received no notice of the question and would have to consult with the lawyer retained for the case before replying Monday.

Held Up In Tunnel

MONTREAL, Oct. 22 (CP) — Two masked men, one armed with a revolver and the other with a crow-bar, held up a Canadian National Railways employee in an underground tunnel Friday and escaped after relieving him of $500 in cash and personal papers.

Have 250,000 Cases

OTTAWA, Oct. 22 (CP)—The Canadian Pension Commission—whose policy is to be "very generous"—has considered some 250,000 disability cases in the last fiscal year, Veterans Minister Gregg Friday night told the Commons. The Commission's total liabilities during the year amounted to $8,000,000.

Dies Of Heart Attack

EXETER, Oct. 22—(CP)—A post-mortem performed on the body of Provincial Constable John Ferguson who died at nearby Grand Bend, following a struggle with a mental patient, disclosed he died from a heart attack, Coroner Dr. J. G. Dunlop of Exeter said Friday night. No inquest will be held. Constable Ferguson died in his police cruiser minutes after he subdued a mental patient who had been reported running about the streets "brandishing a pipe wren...."

Guards Not Required

TORONTO, Oct. 22 (CP) — Posting of lifeguards at public bathing beaches is not required by Ontario law the Ontario Court of Appeal said Friday in dismissing an appeal in a damage suit arising from a drowning at Lake Erie Beach. Mrs. Esther R Rogers, of Buffalo, N. Y., widow of the victim, appealed against a decision which refused her damages. She claimed in her appeal that guards should have been on duty at the beach near Welland.

Have First Snow

WINNIPEG, Oct. 22—(CP)—Weather-damaged power and communications were restored in most parts of southwestern Manitoba Friday. Winnipeg saw its first snow Friday. Snow also fell at Brandon and in the Gimli area.

Victory Without Shot

TOKYO Oct. 22 (AP)—China's Communist armies can take Hong Kong any time and without firing a shot, the chief of the Chinese (Nationalist) mission in Japan declared Friday. Lt.-Col. Chu Shih Ming said the British Crown Colony cannot support its population without imports, and the Reds can cut off these shipments easily.

CLEOPATRA USED IT

Rose petals have provided material for perfume since the days of the ancient Egyptians, Greeks and Romans.

WINS PLOWING AWARD—Ronald K. Marquis, 28, of Sunderland, won a trip to England for his proficiency in plowing with horses at the International Plowing Match near Brantford last week. He won first prize in the sod plowing with horses class.

SENIOR AND GRAND CHAMPION COW at the Central Ontario regional Holstein champion show here was Elmcroft Queen R. Triune, bred and owned by Elmcroft Farms, Oshawa. She was born in September 1944, daughter of Montvic Rag Apple Triune and Elm Queen Colantha R. As the photograph indicates, she is an animal of large frame and great depth of body, with well balanced udder. She was shown dry. Some of the experts expressed the opinion that she would be a strong contender for the grand championship at the Royal Winter Fair. The halter is held by Harold Jebson, herdsman at Elmcroft Farms. COUNTY FARM NOTES

By HARRY THEOBALD

Premier L. M. Frost To Open Ottawa Winter Fair Next Week—Junior Farmers' Dinner Meeting Tuesday Night—Tractor Wins Best Land Prize At Durham Match.

For the Central Ontario regional Holstein championships Tuesday, the big hall at Exhibition Park looked as if it had not been dusted and groomed since the Army marched out. A battery of vacuum cleaners would have made a big difference in the tidy appearance of the interior.

Possibly, responsibility for putting the hall in the good order befitting the championships event was assumed by the Holstein directors as resting on the Exhibition Board, or conversely. The show has obviously reached a stage of importance warranting better housekeeping within the hall, and trimness in setting the stage for visiting spectators.

Civilian management has dropped a long way down the scale of neatness since the years when officers of the Army were in charge.

Praise of the display of Holsteins from Central Ontario counties was expressed in the broadcast remarks of G. Herrara Carizosa of Bogota, Colombia, one of the five South Americans who came here presumably with some eventual purchases in mind. He said it was an outstanding show, and offered the opinion that the animals exhibited would do well at any of the other shows he had seen. M. Carizosa included in that compliment of comparison the recent livestock show at Indianapolis which he attended.

Hon. George S. Henry, former premier of Ontario, and owner of a Holstein herd at Todmorden in East York, said the Black and White days were of special benefit to local breeders throughout the counties as an opportunity in initative and management by which they demonstrated that they could carry out important undertakings themselves. The co-operative effort required and the goodwill that was stimulated in such efforts were assets for the county communities.

Another phase of the show that was mentioned last Tuesday was the participation of farmers who could readily take part in their county Black and White Days and also in the regional finals, but would be deterred by the higher cost of exhibiting at the C.N.E. and Royal Winter Fair. Some of the regional animals would be seen at the Royal next month, and farmers competing in the district exhibition would thereby get a fairly exact idea of what their own stock might do in the national arenas.

Peterborough friends of Stanley Wood, secretary of the County Holstein Association, were pleased at his rating as runner-up for the premier breeder and exhibitor honors, awarded to George R. McLaughlin owner of the notably strong herd at Elmcroft Farms, north of Oshawa.

HOLSTEINS AT BRANTFORD

Dr. Gordon M. Cairns of the University of Maryland, judging his first Canadian show, "did a splendid job" at the regional Holstein finals at Brantford Wednesday, according to the report from John Powell of the Holstein Journal staff.

"A popular feature with the exhibitors was the manner in which Dr. Cairns pointed out the strong and weak points of each animal to the leasman while ribbons were being placed at the end of each class."

As at Peterborough Tuesday, the Brant championships show attained new levels of quality in the animals displayed at this annual event. Total of 172 animals was shown by 61 breeders.

Peel repeated for the fourth year in succession in winning the county herd banner. J. M. Fraser of Streetsville was named premier exhibitor. Largest class of the day was for senior heifer calves with 24 entries.

POTATO INSPECTION

Henry Blakely of Manvers told Frank Paterson this week that he agreed with the proposal that seed potatoes should be distributed only in new bags as a means of eradicating ring rot. Old bags might be a medium of infection. Mr. Blakely, Ontario's potato king several years ago, speaks highly of the inspection service of the provincial Department. His advice is that every commercial producer of potatoes should co-operate fully with the Department's campaign against blights and diseases that affect the potato crop.

On a recent trip to Prince Edward Island he bought two cars of 1,500 bags of potatoes, the best he could find, for distribution among the Durham Club members. He took off a good crop this season, and has a lot of seed stock in storage.

Mr. Blakely's long experience in growing potatoes has equipped him as an authority, and he is always ready to pass on to others the information he has acquired from his own successful work.

JUNIOR FARMER'S DINNER

George Atkins, B.S.A., Bronte, will be the speaker at the Junior Farmers dinner meeting Tuesday Oct. 25 at Kawartha Club. Mr. Atkins is a young farmer who has been prominent in junior organizational work. He was active in the drafting of the Ontario juniors' new constitution. There are still some tickets in the hands of the directors and at the office of Frank C. Paterson.

SON AND MACHINE VICTORS

Significant of the changing practices in farming, and especially of the quality of the mechanized work that is being done today, was the award to John Hooton of Cavan township for the best plowed land at the Durham-Northumberland match on Thursday.

In capturing that honor, Mr. Hooton actually defeated his father William Hooton, and somewhat pathetically for those who cling to sentiment for the old ways it was a tractor victory over horses, within the Hooton family. The trophy John Hooton won for the best plowed land in the match was a symbol of the trend of the times—the elders and their teams taking second place to the sons and their tractors in the turning of prize furrows.

The award of William Clark of Gormley to the younger Hooton was done. There was no sentimental factor in the judicial decision, and Mr. Clark is one of the most experienced judges in the province. It summed up the practical aspects and merits of the work done Thursday on Leonard Henderson's farm, and the trophy did not go to the more slowly moving horses. It was just another instance of the old order changing. Incidentally and not with reference to the plowing match but to the tractor competition, a Durham elder, now retired, remarked: "Maybe some of those young fellows who are so handy with a tractor might have a little more respect for it, if they had to buy it."

At that, their work is helping to produce the income that pays for such improvements around the place.

William Hooton, 70 in February, told the Examiner he could not clearly remember his first plowing match.

"There was an old man here today who said he remembered me plowing at a match 50 years ago. But, I think he's a little out on that. I haven't missed a provincial plowing match since 1927—Brant this year, Lindsay, Kingston, and so on back through the years. I guess the best year I had was at St. Thomas when I won the Eaton first prize for jointer plows in sod."

Durham was the sixth match for Mr. Hooton this year. Last week he was plowing in the Brant county soil near Burford. Next week he is heading for King and Vaughn, in York, Haldimand and Peel. The wind-up of his plowing season will be in East York, Nov. 2nd.

In North York last Wednesday he drew the $15 special prize for being the oldest plowman in that competition. Give him a good going team, and land like that at Len Henderson, and Mr Hooton gets as much thrill out of matching his ability against other horsemen as do his juniors with their tractors.

"And I've never been sick in my life," was the Hooton acknowledgement to the active work he has done close to the sail since his boyhood.

BUCKINGHAM HOLSTEINS

At the dispersal sale of the Mahoney Farm Holstein herd, Buckingham, Que., this week, the 36 head sold for $10.615, averaging $249. The 28 females averaged $305

Top prices was $1,000 for the senior herd sire, Loneim Lochinvar Frame, bought by Ira Morgan of Lisbon, N. Y. This animal was purchased by Mr. Mahoney for $1,200 at the Goodyear sale in 1945. Mr. Morgan also paid the highest price for females, $450 each, for two bred 3-year-olds. In the female division, top price was $480 for an 8-year-old cow one of the herd's foundation animals.

"One hundred bushels an acre" was W. W. Dawson's estimate of his hybrid corn crop off a seven acre field a mile or so south of his home on the Wallace Point road. His son, Stuart Dawson, was operating the mechanical picker Thursday afternoon, while the senior member of the family was a traveller on the wagon receiving the cobs from the machine.

Apparently six rounds of the field were filling each accompanying truck. The individual load was around 80 bushels.

This crop of Can-606 was grown from Warwick seed bought from H. J. Inman this year.

"The cobs are wonderfully uniform," Mr. Dawson remarked to the Examiner "and they are all of good size. The grain has the right kind of bloom or shine on it. We should have a lot of feed from this crop."

Mr. Dawson is convinced of the merits of hybrid corn and its adaptability in some varieties to this area. Two years ago he took off a fine crop. A year ago it was somewhat disappointing. Comes this fall—and 100 bushels to the acre. That is the basis of his recommendation and his own satisfaction with grain corn. He says it is cheap and good feed for poultry and stock.

Gales Smash Britain's Sea Defences

10-Ft. Waves Upset Fishing Boats, Damage Piers, Walls

LONDON, Oct. 24 (CP)—Britain's long and warm summer broke up during the week-end in a fury of 60 mile an hour gales, tropic rains and boiling seas.

During the night the storm lost its fury after flooding homes, breaching sea defences, overturning boats and cutting off coastal roads.

At Sandgate, Kent, the devastating gales undermined walls protecting some of the largest houses in the town. Some of the walls have fallen and the sea has eaten out great hunks of gardens.

Early Sunday gangs of workmen tried to fill the breach torn in the gardens of the five-storey Sandgate Hotel.

"The gap is large enough to hold two double-decker buses," the manager said. "We are moving all furniture out of the hotel."

At Deal, Kent, 10-foot waves overturned boats and fishermen returning from a fishing festival were pitched into the sea. Mass rescue operations were carried out along a four-mile stretch of shore.

Extensive damage was caused to Hastings, Sussex, piers by the incessant pounding of heavy seas and tons of shingle were washed right into the roads beyond the promenade.

Work By Candlelight

Telephone operators, nurses, hotel and railway station staffs, and newspapermen worked by candlelight at Dartmouth, Devon, after torrential rains caused a fault in the electric cable and blacked out the town until after midnight.

The autumn storms took their toll all along the coast of Europe as well as Britain.

The 1,140-ton Swedish ship Ketty, limping into Ijmuiden, the Netherlands, with her after holds flooded, was beached Sunday to prevent her sinking in deep water.

Coal Oil Explodes Two Women Burned

TIMMINS, Oct. 24—(CP)—Two women were burned, one seriously, in an early morning fire here when coal oil one of them was pouring on a fire in a stove exploded.

Mrs. Emory Delaire, 54, was in hospital in serious condition with "widespread burns" to her body, face and arms. Her sister, Mrs. Moise Fosy, was treated for burns to the hands.

Mrs. Delaire's 11-year-old daughter, Margaret, was in the bedroom when the explosion laid a wall of flame across the bedroom floor.

The child wrapped a blanket around herself to get through it and ran barefoot across the street for help.

RCAF Jets Save New York City

NEW YORK, Oct. 24—(CP)—Reserve members of the Canadian and United States air forces cooperated in a mock bombing raid on New York city Saturday which high air officials of both countries described as "very successful."

A tactical bombing force, attempting a sneak raid on the metropolis, was "shot down" by defending fighter aircraft, the United States National Air Guard announced after the manoeuvres.

The interceptor planes, including eight R.C.A.F. Vampire Jets, spotted two flights of light bombers within the metropolitan area's inner defences. The defenders "destroyed" a majority of the attacking bombers, the announcement said.

It marked the first time reserve men—"week-end fliers"—of the two countries had co-operated in air manoeuvres.

The Vampire Jets were from reserve fighter squadrons 401 and 438 from Montreal.

Radar equipment was flown to New York by the R.C.A.F. to join the National Guard units in erecting the defence screen.

Watching the manoeuvres were Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, Chief of Staff of the R.C.A.F., and Lt.-Gen. Ennis Whitehead, Commanding General of the United States continental air command.

Nehru Accuses Pakistan Of 'Brutal Aggression'

OTTAWA, Oct. 24—(CP)—Prime Minister Nehru of India, at a long, widely-ranging press conference, today accused Pakistan of "brutal aggression" in Kashmir. He also told reporters. 1. India is interested in buying wheat and machinery from North America and desires technical assistance to help build up her economy. 2. On the whole, such bitterness as there was among the Indian people as a result of long years of British rule in India has disappeared. 3. There was no reason why there should be any change in India's connection with the Commonwealth when India becomes a republic in three months.

Pandit Nehru lashed out vehemently and at length on Kashmir, the northern state that has been the crux of India-Pakistan controversy since partition.

He accused Pakistan of "making a continual appeal to the grossest type of religious bigotry" to Kashmir's Moslems and maintanied that "Pakistan's armies have no business there."

Troops There Legally

Indian troops were in Kashmir "legally, constitutionally and by invitation of the people" to protect them. India had accepted the principle of allowing the people of Kashmir to decide for themselves which country they wished to join—but under certain conditions.

These included withdrawal of Pakistan troops. Pakistan was withdrawing regular troops but was substituting irregulars under her direct command. No plebiscite was possible until this situation was cleared up.

Mediation was the only solution. India had asked Pakistan to agree that under no conditions would the issue be settled by resort to arms. The only answer was steady incitements to holy war in the Pakistan press.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, who met the Indian statesman on his arrival, said the visit "will be helpful in bringing about a realization of the importance of relations between east and west.

Gets Warm Welcome

Besides Mr. St. Laurent, those on hand to greet him included Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King, former prime minister of Canada, most members of Mr. St. Laurent's cabinet, political leaders, and the majority of Ottawa's diplomatic corps.

As Pandit Nehru, dressed in a western overcoat and western clothes, stepped from an R.C.A.F. aircraft, the 30th Field Regiment of the Royal Canadian Artillery fired a 19-gun salute, a 100-man R.C.A.F. guard of honor snapped to attention and the band of the Royal Canadian Regiment played the Indian and Canadian National Anthems.

Accompanying the Indian prime Minister here were External Affairs Minister Pearson and his deputy minister, Arnold Heeney.

Once the formal reception at the airport was over, Pandit Nehru's party, including his sister, Her Excellency Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, Indian Ambassador to the U.S., and his daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, were whisked away for dinner with the Governor-General.

At Rideau Hall, here all three will be guests of the Governor-General and Lady Alexander during their stay, an informal dinner was held. Guests included Prime Minister and Mrs. St. Laurent and Mr. and Mrs. Pearson.

Balmy Weather Flees Ontario

By The Canadian Press

Week-end gales, rain and a nip in the air put an end to a month of balmy weather in Ontario and claimed at least one life.

Strong winds and sporadic downpours swept throughout the province Saturday and Sunday. Storm warnings continue to fly on the Great Lakes today and the weather will remain cool and cloudy in southern sections until Tuesday.

First victim of the change in weather was James Loveridge, of Scarboro. Loveridge was drowned Saturday in Lake Simcoe, 50 miles north of Toronto, when a duck-hunting boat overturned.

Four Goderich men escaped drowning Saturday morning when a launch, the Anna Mac, capsized on Lake Huron. They were thrown into the water, but managed to reach shore.

Off Manitoulin Island, a Lands Department patrol vessel ran aground in stormy weather Friday night. Its two occupants were stranded on a tiny island until help reached them Sunday.

At Fort William 18 grain-laden freighters sailed early Sunday after waiting in Thunder Bay for the storm to blow itself out.

Princess At Bottle Party Shocks British Citizens

LONDON, Oct. 24 (CP)—Ever since Princess Margaret danced the can-can at a United States embassy party in London, her activities after dark have been under scrutiny.

Most Britons see no harm in Margaret's love of parties and dances — no more pronounced than in most girls of her age. But an announcement that she had been to a "bottle party" brought letters to newspapers from shocked middle-aged readers.

The announcement meant no more than that she had been to a fashionable west end night club. For the term "bottle party" simply means ordering bottles before midnight for consumption after the bar is closed.

Since her 18th birthday Margaret has been many times to clubs where this practice is followed. On such occasions she is often seen in the company of the Hon. Peter Ward, second son of the Earl of Dudley; Sharman Douglas, daughter of the United States ambassador in London and Capt. Tom Egerton, son of Cmdr. and Mrs. Sydney Egerton.

When out dancing, Margaret rarely returns to Buckingham Palace until after 1 a.m. and sometimes later. Last winter when she did this several times a week, a London newspaper editorially suggested that the Princess was having "too many late nights" for her own sake, and for the sake of the example she is supposed to set the young people of Britain.

Opinions for and against were freely ventilated in this newspaper, but no change in Margaret's habits was noted. Like most high-spirited teen-age girls—she was 19 last August—Margaret is impatient of restraint and more often than not gets her own way.

Many find it hard to reconcile the hard-working young Princess with the Girl Guide's uniform with the girl in the low-cut evening gown dancing the Samba at night clubs. But Margaret, fast "growing up," is equally at home in both roles.

Boat Upsets Rescue 5 From Icy Lake

Standing In Water Up To Necks, Launch Hears Cries

TORONTO, Oct. 24 (CP)—Five persons, including two young girls were rescued from drowning in the icy waters of Lake Simcoe when their 14-foot outboard motor boat capsized between Snake Island and Island Grove Sunday night.

The five were brought to shore in a motor launch almost stiff from cold.

Rescued were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sanderson, their 16-year-old daughter, Patricia; Roberta Walsh, 14, a niece of the Sanderson's, all of Toronto, and Albert Hinchcliffe, of Lansing, Ont. Hinchcliffe is a brother-in-law of Mr. Sanderson.

The five set out for shore from Snake Island shortly after dark Sunday night. The water was comparatively calm, Mr. Sanderson said until suddenly the boat was rocked by a smell and capsized.

"I don't know what happened or what caused the swell," Mr. Sanderson said. "The motor was fine and we were making good speed toward shore. The next thing we knew we were all in the water."

Although they were more than a quarter of a mile from shore the five were able to stand up, the water being only a few feet deep.

Charles and Fred Johnson who operate a launch ferry between the island and Island Grove, heard the cries for help. Together with James Day they went out and found the group standing in water up to their necks.

Hornets Keep Service Lively In Church

EAST MONO, Ont., Oct. 24 — (CP)—A startled cry of stabbing pain ripped the solemn stillness of St. Luke's Anglican Church Sunday night.

One worshipper leaped to his feet, slapped at his neck, looked sheepishly around the tiny church.

He'd been stung by a hornet.

Astern of the first attacker was a buzzing colony of insects, angered into a dive-bombing attack on the humans whose stove had disturbed their winter hibernation so soon after it started.

Rev. A. A. Read, conducting the first regular service in the church in five years, didn't get stung—but he had trouble of another sort.

"It seemed to be each time I wanted to put a particular point across during my sermon the hornets started to act up."

Fire-Retardant Paint

TORONTO, Oct. 24 (CP)—The use of a fire-retardant paint, is planned for all mental institutions throughout Ontario in the near future Health Minister Kelley said today. The Minister said that the hospital division of the department has the subject under study and that tests are underway as to the use of plasteric on the walls, ceilings and woodwork in the 14 mental hospitals in Ontario. The point not only is fire-resistant but also releases bases that help to extinguish the fire.

"Dead" First World War Vet Comes Home Finds His Name On Memorial Plaque

BRACEBRIDGE, Oct. 24 — (CP). — A "dead" First World War soldier came home at the week-end.

When Bert McEachern of Revelstoke, BC, visited his old home town he found his name on a memorial plaque in the Bracebridge Hospital.

With his wife and daughter, Mr. McEachern, who has not been here for more than 25 years, dropped in to see Mayor A. F. Bastedo and talk over old times.

"You are supposed to be dead," was the Mayor's greeting.

Nobody knows how the mistake was made. When the hospital was erected in 1928, the names of the town's residents killed in World War I were obtained from the Dominion Government or families of the men.

McEachern moved to British Columbia after he was discharged from the Army physically fit, he said.

Now civic officials are wondering how the mistake can be rectified. They fear erasing the name would mar the appearance of the plaque.

Stork Moves Fast

TORONTO, Oct. 24—(CP)—Mrs. John Tracey gave birth to a daughter Sunday in the back seat of an automobile driven by her husband. A neighbor, Mrs. Lou Errington, assisted the mother. Tracey made the eight-mile trip from suburban Mount Dennis to western Hospital here in 18 minutes. The baby was born 10 minutes after he started "but I just kept on going," he said.

Asks Control Of All Forms Transportation

OTTAWA, Oct. 24 (CP)—Control of all forms of transportation under a central regulatory body was urged today by the Canadian National Railways in its basic submission to the Royal Commission on Transportation.

The government-owned line also called for revision of its unwieldy financial structure to provide a clearer picture of its operating results, and for the transfer from railway to public accounts of losses from uneconomic operations carried on as a matter of broad national policy.

The financial reshuffle, the railway said, would not cost the government any money. It would clarify the system's position to provide "an understandable yardstick by which the public can measure its operating efficiency."

In advocating a national transportation policy with central control of all transport, the railway suggested this be brought about either through agreement with the provinces or through enlarging parliament's jurisdiction by amendment of the British North America Act.

Doesn't Exercise Control

At present, the provinces have control over highway transport within their borders. The Dominion has jurisdiction over inter-provincial and international highway traffic, but it does not exercise control under that power.

Objective of its proposed policy, the CNR said, would be the preservation of "the inherent advantage of each mode of transport to the end that each should perform the function for which it was best adapted from the viewpoint of national cost, convenience, efficiency and necessity."

"This would be impossible of full attainment," the brief says, "without uniform control under a central regulatory body and uniform regulations designed to guard against unfair competitive practices, excessive charges, unsafe operations, unnecessary operations, discriminations, preferences and unfair working conditions."

Failing enlarged parliamentary jurisdiction or agreement with the provinces, the CNR said, the Dominion at least could undertake control of interprovincial and international trucking operations.

Financial Handicaps

Dealing with its financial position, the company declared it operates under "tremendous financial handicaps."

Its fixed charges—some $47,000,000 a year—were "grossly ex-

Aide Is 13th Guest Has To Eat Alone

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 24—(CP)—Officialdom bowed to superstition and Flt. Lieut. A. A. Sherlock, Governor-General Alexander's aide-de-camp, ate lunch alone Saturday.

He was the unlucky 13th in the official party which had luncheon at the home of Dr. G. E. Hall, vice-chancellor of University of Western Ontario, where his excellency received the degree of doctor of laws and officially opened the new Thames Hall building.

Rather than have 13 persons at the table and perhaps upset some of the guests the official party decided the aide-de-camp was dispensable and got along without his company.

The honorary aide-de-camp-in-waiting, Brig. G. W. Robinson of London, however, attended the luncheon.

Slash Medical Services And Defence Costs To Ease Economic Crisis

Prices of Dried Eggs and Fish Increased Due To Food Subsidy Cut; Lop Millions Off Building Program

LONDON, Oct. 24—(CP)—Prime Minister Attlee today slashed dollar spending and defence costs and cut down on free medical services to ease Britain's economic crisis. The Prime Minister announced to a crowded House of Commons a new austerity program which puts a charge on national health prescriptions, increases some food prices, cuts defence outlay, capital expenditure and housing. Attlee said the new program was designed to reduce government spending by £280,000,000 ($868,000,000) a year. Britain's budget now is about £3,300,000,000.

Attlee said £30,000,000 of the savings will be in armed forces expenses of this country which holds a key position in the west's Atlantic Pact defence plants. Attlee said the government's forecast of future defence expenditure would be announced later.

The governemnt will save another £10,000,000 on the national health scheme. Instead of being free, each prescription under the scheme, introduced in July, 1948, will cost less than a shilling except for old-age pensioners.

Britons now pay a small weekly social security tax, of which eightpence goes to the medical program. Other taxes pay for the remainder of the scheme.

Cut Administration Costs

The Prime Minister also lopped millions from government administration expenses and capital expenses for new buildings, hospitals, schools and public works.

The prices of dried and frozen eggs and fish will be increased due to a reduction in food subsidies on which the government spends £485,000,000 a year. The government will no longer help farmers buy fodder for their animals after February.

Attlee made no direct references to Canadian food purchases

Wins Tug-of-War

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 24—(AP)—A hefty cop and a circus elephant had a tug-of-war Sunday. The cop won.

A housewife called police and reported: "There's an elephant in our block. Could you do something?"

Desk Sgt. Jack Adams called in Baton Rouge's biggest patrolman, 225-pound H. E. Lambert.

Lambert found his quarry gamboling down the middle of a residential street. The cop latched onto a dangling neck chain, threw his 225 pounds into reverse and halted the plodding pachyderm.

An excited elephant keeper from the circus soon relieved Lambert.

Indian Countries Welcome New Cooperation

OTTAWA, Oct. 24 — (CP). — Prime Minister Nehru of India today told the Canadian Parliament that revision of the Commonwealth countries to include the Indian countries "is a significant step towards peace and co-operation in the world."

Addressing a Commons Chamber packed with members of both Houses of Parliament, with diplomats, high civil servants and the public, he said India's "suspicion and bitterness" from years of British rule have "largely faded away, giving place to friendly co-operation between free and equal nations."

Imperialism, he said in a 3,000 word speech, lingers in only a few countries today. Asia was renascent in the wake of its departure. But to regard "the present unsettled state of south-east Asia as a result or a part of ideological conflict would be a dangerous error."

"The troubles and discontents of this part of the world and indeed of the greater part of Asia are the result of obstructed free-

CGE Tells Jackson Union Caused Delay

C. S. Jackson, Canadian head of U.E. sent a telegram Sunday to the President of Canadian General Electric, H. M. Turner, saying that strike votes had been taken in all the plants, with 3,222 voting for strike, 639 against. He requested that an immediate meeting between the Company and Union take place so as to "get down to genuine negotiations".

Today K. J. Corkery, Vice-President of the Company replied for Mr. Turner in a wire to C. S. Jackson and turned down the proposal. He pointed out that negotiations are currently in the hands of the Board of Conciliation. The Corkery wire said that any delays in the meeting of this board were due to the "union's nominee having other pressing business", and that the Company believed that any further negotiations should be continued before the Conciliation Board. The next scheduled meeting of this Board is on October 28, Friday.

Challenges All Countries To Outlaw Atomic Bomb

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP) — President Truman today challenged all countries to agree on a workable way to outlaw the atomic bomb, as the alternative to man's destruction.

Speaking against the background of Russia's refusal to come into an agreement that the United States and other powers have endorsed Truman said:

"To assure that atomic energy will be devoted to man's welfare and not to his destruction is a continuing challenge to all nations and all peoples."

Truman spoke at the laying of the cornerstone of the Secretariat Building and permanent United Nations headquarters on the UN's fourth anniversary.

The United States has offered to surrender its bombs under the Russian-opposed, but General Assembly approved "Baruch Plan" providing rigid UN inspections and controls to assure against illegal bomb building.

The President did not mention Russia by name, but indirectly challenged the Soviet government to offer a "better and more effective plan."

He said the United States now is, "and will remain ready to do its full share" to meet the atomic weapon's threat to peace."

In another obvious dig at the Soviet orbit Truman sharply criticized disregard of human rights which he said were "indispensable to political, economic and social progress." He said UN members know that "disregard of human rights is the beginning of tyranny, and, too often, the beginning of war."

He spoke just two days after the General Assembly voted agreement with western charges that Russian satellites Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary are suppressing human rights and freedoms.

See No Sign Of Break In 2 Strikes

White House Silent As More Industries Hobbled By Shutdown

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Thickening gloom appeared to have smothered today any hope for early peace in the industry-crippling coal and steel strikes in the United States.

Nowhere was there any apparent progress toward a break in either the two major disputes as unemployment mounted and more and more industries became hobbled.

There was no indication that President Truman had decided to intervene in either strike but spreading dislocations in the country's economy made such action seem likely. Government policy, however, was described Sunday as still one of hope that some strike-breaking concessions might be forthcoming soon and that White House action would not be necessary.

But out of the dismal week-end developments came settlement of two other strikes—the 45-day tie-up of the Missouri Pacific Railroad by train and engine men and the 176-day walkout of stevedores at five of six Hawaiian ports.

But these settlements involving a total of 27,000 men scarcely dented the country's total of nearly 4,000,000 idle workers which Secretary of Commerce Sawyer says might climb to 5,000,000 by Dec. 1 unless the steel and coal strikes are settled meanwhile.

More than 1,000,000 are idle as a direct result of the steel and coal shutdowns alone. Pennsylvania with 330,000 idle from the steel and coal strikes, is the hardest hit State.

State Labor Department and unemployment compensation claims indicate there are 3,837,000 workers idle in the United States. Of these, 500,000 are striking steel workers, 380,000 striking miners, 16,000 striking aluminum workers, and 2,941,000 others, including those laid off or involved in widespread steel strikes.

1 Couple In 6 Happy

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 24 (AP)—One married couple in every six is "extremely happy" and only one couple in every 20 is "quite unhappy." Those conclusions from a 10-year study of marriages were reported Saturday to the Pennsylvania conference on family relations by Dr. Clifford R. Adams, professor of psychology at the Pennsylvania State College.

Fire Destroys Cheese Factory

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 24—(CP)—Fire destroyed the Bronk Cheese factory and a separate cheesemaker's residence in Thurlow township Saturday. It was believed caused by faulty electric wiring.

Cheesemaker Arthur McCreary said the fire was first noticed in the attic of the factory when the embers started falling through a hole burned in the ceiling. All stock and equipment in the cheese factory was lost, including 150 cheeses in the factory storage room. The factory was making 12 cheese per day.

A high wind quickly spread the flames, and nothing could be done to save the factory and residence. Most of the household furniture owned by Mr. and Mrs. McCreary was saved from the residence.

Czechs Announce Spy Band Caught

PRAGUE, Oct. 24 — (AP) — Czechoslovakia's Communist-controlled government announced Saturday night it had crushed a large band of desperate spies and terrorists who sought to assassinate certain government officials.

The official account declared the group was in league with the intelligence service of a foreign power and had carried out a bombing in Prague last August.

It was the second Czechoslovak announcement within 24 hours reporting the cracking of spy rings. Friday the government announced the arrest of one employee of the U.S. Embassy here and the expulsion of another on charges that they directed operations for espionage, terrorism and the smuggling of political refugees.

Colder air has moved into Ontario from the Hudson Bay region. Temperatures in northern sections dropped to between 5 and 15 degrees above zero this morning. Scattered showers or snowflurries are occurring over Southern Ontario. As skies clear tonight freezing temperatures are expected throughout the province.

A disturbance over the Rockies is moving rapidly eastward and will cause occasional rain or snow in northern sections late Tuesday. A return to southerly winds over the province on Tuesday will result in somewhat higher temperatures.

Forecasts:

Lake Ontario and Niagara regions: Cloudy, clearing this evening. Frost tonight. Sunny and cool Tuesday. Winds light. Low tonight and high Tuesday at Trenton 25, 50; St. Catharines 30, 50.

Summary for Tuesday: Sunny and cool.

Lake Huron, Georgian Bay, Haliburton, Southern Kirkland Lake, Southern White River and Sudbury regions: Cloudy with scattered showers or snowflurries, clearing tonight. Frost tonight. Sunny and cool Tuesday. Winds light. Low tonight and high Tuesday at Wingham 25, 45; Muskoka and Sudbury 20, 45; Killaloe 18, 45; Earlton 30, 40; London 35, 50.

but said the government had "settled a new dollar-import program at a reduced figure of $1,200,000,000 a year and this should reduce imports in the first half of 1950 to $600,000,000."

Britain spent about $1,600,000,000 on imports last year and $820,000,000 in the first half of this year. Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced July 14 that a temporary 25-per-cent cut would be made in imports. Attlee mad the cut permanent until the end of the government's fiscal year next March 31.

Housing Plans Reduced

The housing program is to be reduced by some £35,000,000 a year. The rate of capital expenditure, now running at close to £2,100,000,000 a year, will be reduced by about £140,000,000 a year. A £5,000,000 reduction will be made in the cost of education.

"To counter the risk in inflation, we must reduce expenditure and increase production," Attlee told the House as crowds in the galleries hung on his words. Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret, heard the address.

"The measures, many of them distasteful, which we are taking, are necessary and consequently of the decision to devalue," the prime minister said.

"They do not affect the main structure of the welfare state. They are, rather, a retardation of progress in certain directions."

Support Proposals

Winston Churchill, leader of the Opposition, asked why these proposals, if they were practicable and adequate, were not put forward two or three years ago when the Opposition asked that a check should be put upon "unbridled and even fantastic expenditure."

But the Opposition would support any proposals which on their merits seemed to be for the good of the country even though they were unpopular, he said.

Hit Health Program

The Prime Minister said there will be savings in the Labor government's socialized health program, in education, in public and private building, government administrative costs and in government public relations offices.

Prices of some foods will rise, Attlee told the House.

The Prime Minister's program is tied in with Britain's recent devaluation of the pound from $4.03 to $2.80 in United States funds.

Attlee outlined these cuts:

Capital expenditures: a reduction of about £140,000,000. This covers such projects as school construction, hospital construction, highways and the like.

Education: about £5,000,000 in school spending for England, Wales and Scotland. This will result in an increase of a penny for prices charged for students' meals, and will mean less transportation for students to schools.

Health service: a charge of a shilling will be made for each prescription under the National Health Service. Hitherto the prescriptions were issued and filled free of charge. This saving will amount to about £10,000,000.

Slashing Hard

Explaining the capital expenditure cut, Attlee said the 1948 value of goods devoted to fixed investment was about £2,000,000,000. For the current year the figure might approach £2,100,000,000. The Cabinet proposed in 1950 to reduce this rate by about £140,000,000 a year.

The housing problem, he said, would be reduced by £35,000,000 a year and capital expenditure about £140,000,000

General control of building would save another £35,000,000

Attlee said that the government had decided on reduction of expenditure that, together with the increase of profit tax announced recently by Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, should produce more than £100,000,000 for the next year's budget.

The preliminary estimate of state expenditure on agriculture next year would be reduced by about £6,000,000

Ministry of Supply estimates would also be cut by about £6,000,000, and £1,000,000 would be lopped from the estimated cost of the Festival of Britain to be held in 1951.

Certain parts of the free legal-aid scheme planned by the government would be deferred.

Administrative expenses in running the Ministry of Food would be reduced by about £1,700,000. This would be done mainly by reorganization, concentration of divisional and local offices, and dropping some refinements of control.

Two Hunters On Weekend Fatality List

By The Canadian Press

The Canadian Press week-end compilation of fatalities in eastern Canada showed today that Ontario reported the highest death toll of the five eastern provinces.

At least 10 persons lost their lives by violent means in the province. Of these seven were killed in traffic accidents. Altogether there were 18 fatalities with a fire which burned a mother and her three children to death in their Hartland, N.B. home Saturday taking the highest toll of any single accident.

In the Maritimes there was also one other fatality—a traffic accident near Pondville, N.S.—while three deaths were reported from Quebec.

Mrs. Oland Everett, her son, Bryan, seven, and two daughters, Danne, four and Brenda, three, lost their lives in the Hartland fire.

Tom Casselman, 18, of Toronto, and Marvin Lordon, 20, whose home town is listed by police as Robbinsville, N.B., were killed near Orangeville, Ont., when their automobile went out of control and hit a telephone pole. Two other youths in the car were injured.

Hamilton Williams, 37, of Strathroy, was killed near the town when his automobile rammed into the back of a truck. The occupants of the truck were uninjured.

Hits Telephone Pole

Mrs. Roy Smith, of Bond Head, died when the car in which she was riding swerved to avoid an oncoming autombile and crashed into a telephone pole. Her husband and daughter were injured in the accident.

Mrs. Irene Wale, 26-year-old mother of four children, was killed in a two-car collision eight miles west of Brantford. Police say the car was hit at an intersection and turned over. Her husband and four children, riding with her, escaped injury.

Three weeks after he fell from the back of an automobile, Archibald Darrach, 72, of Paisley, died in hospital during the week-end.

Alex McPhereson, 52, Tiverton district farmer, was killed when the car in which he was riding toppled on top of him. David Stanley also a farmer in the district drove the car near a ditch when it began to lean. McPhereson jumped out and was trying to hold the car upright when it fell on him.

Hunter Drowns

James Loveridge, of Toronto's suburban Scarboro, drowned in Lake Simcoe while hunting when a squall overturned his boat. Three other hunters were saved.

Percy Smith, 65, of Toronto, was asphyxiated by coal gas and died in hospital when firemen were unable to revive him.

Hubert Grosbeck, 20-year-old Muncey Reserve Indian drowned in the Thames River near London while swimming fully clothed. No reason was given for his swim.

A double highway death resulted at Levis, Que., when Ray Legere, 22, and his wife were killed when their automobile crashed int a train at a level crossing.

Guy Leguyer seven, was killed at Hull when he was struck by an automobile. He was running home after viewing another automobile accident involving two cars.

Armadee Boudreau, 29, was killed near Pondville, N. S. when another hunter mistook him for a deer in the bush and shot him.

cessive" in relation to earning power. This earning power was restricted by the necessity of operating pioneer lines, lines where traffic is thin and "stragetic" lines, all as matters of government policy.

Its management is harassed by the necessity of reporting annual deficits and the harrassment permeates the entire organization." The company said "because of these deficits, the operating efficiency of the system becomes a ready target for criticism in uninformed cricles."

To remedy this, the Canadian National's solution would be to remove the government's $760,000,000 in loans from the company's bonded indebtedness and make it part of the CNR's equity capital. That would have the effect of freeing the CNR from annual debt charges of about $21,600,000.

The company explained this would not cost the government anything, since, in any case, the treasury receives any CNR surpluses and has to absorb its deficits.

By comparison with United States railroads and the Canadian Pacific Railway, the national line submitted, too large a proportion of its costs had been capitalized, and a "disproportionate" part of the total capital was in the form of obligations carrying a fixed interest charge.

Prices Slip Slightly On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Oct. 24 (CP) — Prices moved narrowly, slipping slightly from opening firmness in dull forenoon trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Industrials were steady on balanced fractional gains and losses while base metals sagged under realizing sales on Saturday's gains. Western oils brightened as the session progresed.

In industrials, steels tended slightly lower and International Paper slipped ⅛ at 70 in papers. Montreal Locomotive was strong for a gain of ⅜ at 20⅛.

Base metals turned briskly, opening higher bu settling under pressure of realizing sales. Silver Miller touched a new high at 63 cents but dropped into the minus column. Noranda was down a fraction but Labrador and Falconbridge continued strong.

Golds barely moved. A few junior producers dipped pennies. Some signs of strengthening appeared in seniors as the session progressed.

Bidault Tries Hand At Forming Gov't

PARIS Oct. 24 (AP)—Georges Bidault, leader of the Popular Republican party, sought today to lead France out of a 19-day political crisis. His chances for success in forming a cabinet were dimmed considerably by mounting sentiment for a new national election.

The veteran negotiator and former Foreign Minister was the third man to try to form a government since disputes over wage and price-policies toppled Premier Heri Queuille's cabinet.

Hold Dairy Show December 6-7

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 24 (CP)—The annual British Empire Dairy Show will be held here Dec. 6 and 7 in conjunction with the 22nd annual meeting of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association. Some 300 entries are expected.

More than $1,700 in cash prizes is offered. Officials said it is the biggest prize total for any cheese show in Canada. Two new trophies will be up for competition: the G. G. Publow Trophy, donated by Dr. C. A. Publow of Picton in honor of the former dairy inspector, G. G. Publow, and the Frank Herns Trophy, donated by the Western Ontario Cheese Makers' Association.

Arab League Adopts A Security System

CAIRO, Oct. 24 (AP)—Representatives of the seven countries in the Arab League Saturday night adopted a collective security system, a source close to the Egyptian delegation said.

The informant said Egypt had proposed the security plan, adopted by the league's political committee at a closed meeting.

The system was described by the informant as providing for creation of a common defense council; removal of trade barriers between member countries, including tariff reductions; and inter-Arab co-ordination on all issues affecting member states. Other provisions include possible unification of postal communications, navigation and civil aviation.

THE HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER COMMISSION OF ONTARIO

ALTERATIONS AND ADDITIONS TO NEW OFFICES CANNINGTON, ONTARIO

Sealed tenders, in triplicate, addressed to the undersigned and clearly marked "Tender for Alterations and Additions to New Offices, Cannington, Ontario" will be received up to 12:00 o'clock noon on November 2nd, 1949, for a General Contract.

The building is of concrete block construction, single storey, and measures approximately 90 ft. by 45 ft. The basement is unfinished.

All trades (including mechanical) will be required for the work in connection with the above alterations.

Plans, specifications, etc., may be obtained on and after, Monday, October 24th, 1949 between 10:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m.—on week days excepting Saturday; at the office of The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, Cannington, Ontario, on payment of $5.00 per set. This deposit will be refunded when the drawings and specifications are returned in good condition.

Each tender must be accompanied by a Bid Bond, issued by a Bonding Company recognized as such by the Province of Ontario, in the amount of fifteen percent (15%) of the tender price. The Bid Bonds of any, or all, of the tenderers will be retained until a contract shall have been executed, after which the bonds of the unsuccessful tenderers will be returned. The successful tenderer will be required to provide a Performance Bond for one hundred percent (100%) of the contract price. Copies of Bid and Performance bond forms which are acceptable to the Commission are included in the documents exhibited for tender. Instructions as to the procedure to be followed concerning the posting of Performance Bonds may be found in the tender documents.

The lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

ROBERT H. SAUNDERS, Esq., C.B.E., K.C.,
Chairman and Members of The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, Toronto, Ontario.

Forget God And Future Lost

ROSENEATH, Oct. 24 (ENS)—"We are God's tenants living in the lap of luxury but we rob God of his dues" was a statement made by Rev. Arthur Luffman of Baltimore as guest speaker at the Centenary Anniversary Services on Sunday.

Paying tribute to our forefathers who hewed homes and churches out of the wilderness, he deplored the lack of Church attendance. Roads were full of people in pursuit of pleasure too busy to attend Church, he said.

"No community can be strong, efficient or have a future that forgets God," he declared.

Centenary choir was in charge of the music, assisted by Willis Dowler, Port Hope, and Melville Macklin, Fenella. Mrs. Clifford Timlin and Mrs. Clifford Minife were guest soloists. Miss Hilda Arthur was organist. Mrs. Minife sang Hold Thou My Hand and Mrs. Timlin and Mrs. Minife sang two duets at the morning service.

Baltimore choir was in charge of the music at the evening service.

Both services were largely attended.

'Twas No Ill Wind

COBOURG, Oct. 24 (ENS) — Except for a large branch from a tree on King Street and a fence blown down on Buck Street, no damage was caused in Cobourg by the high winds on Saturday. However it was a far from pleasant day, with store signs creaking ominously and the wind buffeting pedestrians. The high wind had no effect on the partially-built recreational centre. It tore at the high wooden trusses but the skeleton framework was too secure to suffer any damage.

Wants UN Set-up For Collegiate

COBOURG, Oct. 24—(ENS)—Formation of a United Nations structure in the local Collegiate with students forming committees exactly as in the United Nations set-up, was suggested by Mayor Joe Smith in an address at the weekly luncheon of Cobourg Rotary Club.

The speaker declared that since 1914 the democracies had fought and won two wars and then sat back each time and lost the peace. They allowed themselves to be worked into another war after the first great war and it may happen again. The League of Nations was formed but six U.S. senators crippled it and Sir Samuel Hoare kicked the bottom out of the League by refusing to apply sanctions on Italy.

The Nurnberg trials had produced documents which showed that the Germans had acted in 1933 under an amazing lack of control by the League of Nations. Out of it came the second Great War, and 22 million people, soldiers and civilians died, the majority of them civilians. The world now saw Russia trying to cripple the United Nations. The United Nations set up can control the forces which would cause war if the organization is guided along its proper lines of influence, the speaker said.

The atom bomb increased the horror of war. This continent escaped direct contact in the last war but it might be a different story in the next, he warned. The future of the United Nations was possibly the future of Canada and the United States as well as the European countries.

"I don't know anything about the United Nations," declared Mr. Smith. "I think a great many of us could learn a whole lot about it. We know how the Nazis were able to teach their children the ways of deviltry. Why can we not have in our own collegiate here, a United Nations structure formed by the students which would serve the purpose of teaching them all about the United Nations. I would like to see town hall forums during the winter with adults participating," he said.

The speaker was thanked by Murray Smith, who drew attention to the suggestion of Joe Smith as a good way of educating the younger people on international affairs. R. N. McKenzie principal of the collegiate, said that the school was prepared to do all could.

Permanent Committee Looks After Quads

SAULT STE. MARIE, Oct. 24—(CP)—B. C. Garthouse has been appointed head of a permanent committee to guard the welfare and education of the Hargreaves quadruplets. He is vice-president of the (Great Lakes) Power Company which employs the quads' father.

John McPhail, company president, and Mayor W. H. C. Brien Friday night were appointed advisers to the family. The quads were born to Mrs. Oswald C. Hargreaves last Oct. 13.

A representative of a bricklayers' union announced his organization would furnish material and labor to build a house for the family, which now lives in a five-room wartime unit.

Complains Men Work For Dollar, Not God

ROSENEATH, Oct. 24 (ENS)—Materialism endangers the world more today than Communism" was a statement made by Rev. E. S. Richards, of Shanty Bay when he spoke at St. James' Anglican Church on Sunday. Mr. Richards said that people killed themselves chasing the almighty dollar instead of working for the Almighty God. He deplored the lack of church attendance and the meagre givings of others but yet these people expected a reserved seat in heaven.

Chamber Wants Ferry Service

MARMORA, Oct. 24—(ENS)—A resolution asking for continuance of the ferry service between Cobourg and Rochester was passed at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Friday at the Royal Hotel.

The president, A. F. Fraser, was chairman. A letter was received from the Waterloo Chamber of Commerce regarding compulsory defence education. This received the endorsement of the local body. Other letters called attention to the annual sessions of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, which are being held in Montreal from October 25-27. A communication was read from the Ontario office announcing the speakers' panel. The Chamber decided to avail itself of those facilities.

It was reported that net receipts from Marmora Day amounted to $822, which had been turned over to the local Athletic Commission.

The special committee reported that the matter of fire protection, winter cleaning of sidewalks and the placing of stop signs had been given attention. In the case of fire protection the reeve, Vincent Lynch, touched upon the progress made and the handling of the debentures.

Chamber Takes Over

The Chamber decided to take over the Hallowe'en Shell-Out for the children, which has been relinquished by the Kinsmen. C. T. Nicholson was appointed chairman and Rev. G. D. Young and D. P. Marett added to that committee which was given power to add to its members.

The Chamber favored the continuance of the Santa Claus parade. Mayor Percy Gray was appointed chairman with power to pick his committee.

The next meeting was arranged as Veterans' Night for which a suitable speaker will be secured. The matter of holding a regatta at Crowe Lake in the summer was introduced. Host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Neath, served refreshments.

Open New Hospital

GRIMSBY, Oct. 24—(CP)—The result of nearly two years' planning and work, the new Lincoln Memorial Hospital officially was opened Sunday. Costing nearly $300,000, the new hospital was built to replace the first one, destroyed in a fire Jan. 29, 1948.

IMPORTANT INDUSTRY

The trapping industry in Canada supplies products worth over $20,000,000 annually.

$380,000,000 Cost

ATHENS, Oct. 24—(Reuters)—Stephen Stephanopoulos, Greek minister for Economic Co-Ordination, said today the guerilla warfare has cost Greece $380,000,000 in material losses such as looting, burning and the destruction of the country's resources. These losses, he said, accounted for 85 per cent of American aid, which up to July of this year amounted to $400,000,000.

Family Agency Work Discussed At Cobourg

COBOURG, Oct. 24 — (CP). — Three-day sessions of the 10th annual Casework Institute closed here Saturday after round-table discussions of the two main themes, "The Role of the Family Agency Today" and "Up-to-date Philosophies in Relief Giving."

Thirty-eight representatives from 16 family agencies in Ontario and Quebec attended.

Miss Hayda Denault, Associate Professor of Social Work, Laval University, Montreal, was elected chairman of the Institute's Planning Committee for 1950.

Committee members will be named later from Welfare and Family Service Bureaus in Ottawa, Cornwall, Toronto, Hamilton, Windsor and Galt.

United Nations Day

The Assembly of U.N. has given its sanction to the proclamation of today as "United Nations Day". We do not ordinarily put much stock in such 'Days', but this is rather special. Four years ago today the Charter of United Nations was signed at San Francisco, and today in New York the corner-stone of U.N.'s first permanent headquarters was laid. The years between the signing of the Charter and the laying of the corner-stone have withered many of the high hopes mankind held out for itself through the concept of United Nations, yet U.N. is not now bankrupt, unless human society whose creation it is, is bankrupt. World statesmen, even Russian ones, still give its assemblies the tribute of sincere and purposeful effort.

* * *

However much one may disparage U.N.'s achievements and condemn its failures, its charter is a grand statement of human hope and its existence in the imperfect form of today is testimony to an earnest attempt to act rationally. While the Assembly and the many branches of U.N. continue, mankind has an agency to promote peace on earth and goodwill among men.

* * *

If U.N. is judged only on the fulfilment of such aims as are contained in Article 1 of its Charter, it must be judged a failure. Section 1 of that Article states that the purposes of the United Nations are:

"To maintain international peace and security, and to that end: to take effective collective measures for the prevention and removal of threats to the peace, and for the suppression of acts of aggression or other breaches of the peace, and to bring about by peaceful means, and in conformity with the principles of justice and international law, adjustment or settlement of international disputes or situations which might lead to a breach of the peace".

Even the American "Cold War" has done more to keep the peace than has United Nations and its agencies. Nations pay lip-service to collective security, but what they want is national security without sacrifice of national sovereignty. Walter Lippmann, an able American political observer, has said: "The method of collective security is too crude, too expensive, too unreliable for general use. There would be little surgery if the surgeon had to amputate his own arm when he was called upon to amputate a leg."

* * *

U.N. has been successful and served mankind and nations valuably in unpolitical fields. In science, sociology, health and the welfare of stricken nations it has succoured humanity and advanced society. If it had success in these endeavours alone, through its agencies like UNESCO, FAO, WHO, it would have justified itself, as did the League of Nations.

Canada An Arsenal

We have already discussed in these columns the reorientation of Canadian arms, on American rather than British patterns. It is militarily sensible that North American equipment and operational methods should be standardized. When Canadian and American servicemen are using the same types of guns and planes, and their tactics and training are co-ordinated, defence of this continent will be more coherent and easier. While no amalgamation of Canadian and American forces is contemplated, a working-together is, for defence calls for a joint effort.

There are further practical advantages to the standardization now in progress. Industrially and economically it makes sense. It has never been economic for Canadian factories to produce all the small components for the equipment they are making. Canadian armament is therefore dependent on outside sources. Formerly the chief source was British, and aeroplane parts, electrical equipment, special parts of big guns and the like were provided by Britain. It is better in these times that the Atlantic life-line so tenuous and expensively maintained during the last war, should not be relied on.

An impediment to the Canadian-American standardization of arms was noted in these columns on Saturday. That is Canada's shortage of dollars. Canada has not enough free American dollars to buy the American arms which she does not manufacture herself and needs under the new program. The remedy has been proposed by Prime Minister St. Laurent. The United States should reciprocate by buying some of her military equipment in Canada.

This would not only give Canada the dollars she needs for her American arms purchases, but would also bolster the Canadian factories. It is important to the United States and the western world that Canada be maintained as an 'arsenal of democracy'. During the last war only thirty per cent. of the arms and munitions which Canada produced was used by her own forces; seventy per cent. was for the use of other countries. Such production cannot come out of a vacuum. There must be a minimum of sustenance in times of peace to ensure full and immediate production in the event of war.

Democrats And Republicans Seek U.S. Farm Vote

On Thursday last, the United States House of Representatives and the Senate passed a farm bill by top-heavy votes in both bodies. It is a bill to provide continuing price support for farmers, and is a compromise between the form of support favoured by the House and Senate respectively. Farm price support was the one major issue of the Government program which was never in doubt, except for the form it would take. That some form of price guarantee would be given United States farmers was a foregone conclusion—and has been since the last Presidential election.

One of the surprising features of that election, and the one which definitely sealed Mr. Truman's triumph, was the vote in the states of Ohio, Iowa, Minnesota and Illinois, all traditionally Republican. They are also great farming states—and Mr. Truman had stumped through them, and other farming states, promising continued support if returned to office. He was returned, and his promise has now been kept. The Democrats found it fairly easy to compose their differences over the form support should take when they recalled what the farm vote meant to them in 1948.

The memory of the Republican Party also goes back at least that far, and most of its members are determined to make an effort to regain their lost strength in the states mentioned above. There was strong Republican support, therefore, for a farm price support bill; in the Senate, for example, nineteen of the forty-six favourable votes were cast by Republicans. By so doing, most Republicans feel, they will be in a better position to regain the farm vote they lost last year.

New Mayan Discoveries

No fields of study and exploration, for those who like to dig into the past, are so lucrative and convenient to North Americans as the ruins of ancient civilizations in the Panamanian Republics and Mexico. The study of Mayan civilizations is particularly fascinating. Knowledge of the various Mayan Empires has been much enlarged by recent discoveries made in the ancient city of Palenque, in the forest region along the frontier between Guatemala and Mexico.

Palenque was founded in about the fifteenth century B.C. It was the residence of Mayan nobles and priests, who built for themselves splendid palaces and temples. The expedition which made a three months' investigation of the field found paintings of unusual harmony and perfection, painted manuscripts on paper made from the "amate" tree, sculptured slabs, and even a date tablet. The tablet has a date corresponding to the year 644 A.D. Most of our present knowledge of the ancient Mayans does not go back earlier than the fifth century, A.D. Their relatively modern decendants were the dominant American Indian race in Yucatan and other states of Mexico at the time of the Spanish conquest in the early sixteenth century.

Colourful as may be the often spurious samples of present-day Mexican handicraft now being sold along road sides and in shops from Rochester, N.Y. to Las Vegas, N. Mex., they cannot compare, in thrilling interest if not in brilliance, with the archeological remnants now being unearthed. Should ever we go to Mexico we shall scorn the shops and go to Palenque there to gaze in wonder on the traces of a proud and primitively splendid civilization whose roots antedate Christianity.

Six Power Conference On Germany

From FLORA LEWIS
At The Hague

THE Netherlands have asked London, Washington and Paris for a new Six-Power Conference on Germany, it was learned today. The Conference would be to discuss legal settlement of Allied claims on Germany and would, it is hoped, result in a binding interim agreement to take the place of peace treaty clauses on these questions.

* * *

AS the new German Government would be expected to sign the document, the Dutch consider that German representatives should take part in the negotiations along with Britain, the United States, France and the Benelux countries. The suggestion for the Conference has been put forward informally to the three capitals and, if the reaction is favourable, a formal proposal will be issued.

* * *

OFFICIALS here emphasize that they have nothing like a peace treaty in mind, but they consider it essential to settle in the near future, certain problems normally included in peace treaties. The only way to an assured solution of these questions, they feel, is to obtain the signature of the West German Government on common decisions so that they would become part of German law.

* * *

IT is pointed out here that normally after a war, a peace treaty is signed fairly quickly in which the defeated nation acknowledges certain prerogatives demanded by the victors in return for readmission into international society. Since it is in the interests of the vanquished to return to the family of nations, their government is able to get popular assent if not real support for reasonable concessions.

* * *

BUT there is still no treaty in sight for Germany. In the meantime, European political and economic considerations demand the reacceptance of Germany into the European community. Thus the victors are now in the position of giving away their bargaining power without having obtained official, binding acceptance of the bargain from the Germans.

* * *

IT is felt that if this situation is allowed to crystallize no German Government could politically afford to insist that the nation accept the restraints imposed by the Allies. Thus Allied decisions on reparations, on restitution, on the position of foreign capital in Germany risk being repudiated if there is too much delay in transferring them into German law.

* * *

THE matter is of especial interest to the Dutch, whose livelihood has always depended largely on two main customers and suppliers. One, Indonesia, is rapidly slipping away beyond retrieve. The other, Germany, is being allowed to develop behind a protectionist barrier which can only result in squeezing the Dutch and in postponing, if not completely wrecking, any chance for freedom and unity in European exchanges.

* * *

SPECIFIC problems which worry the Dutch are regulations which prevent Rotterdam and Amsterdam from competing with the ports of Bremen and Hamburg; regulations which exclude Dutch shipping on the German Rhine in competition with the Germans; and restrictions on the use of Dutch investments in Germany. The Dutch have 1.7 billion pre-war Reichsmarks worth of capital in Germany. Its use, under Allied military government, has been tightly controlled on the grounds that free movement would prevent German reconstruction. If the Germans do not accept responsibility for fair and liberal treatment of these assets before they are again politically powerful, it may never be possible to get them to do so.

* * *

IT is also claimed here that the Allied military government, thinking in terms of German rather than overall European interests, prevented the Dutch from resuming their normal role of shippers for much of Germany's goods traffic. Now that control has passed over to the Germans, the Dutch have found the restrictions against them growing even tighter rather than relaxing. As one official said: "Using military government's orders as precedent and justification, the Germans are on many of these trading questions heading straight back to the Hitler system of self-sufficiency. But it is even worse for us now than in 1938 because there is so little trade to share out".

* * *

THE six Powers would also have to look into the problem of pre-war treaties with Germany. It has been generally accepted that pre-Hitler treaties are still valid and Nazi treaties void, but there has been no agreement on this, and most important, no explicit gesture from the Germans towards reinstating old treaties which Hitler denounced. Among these was the 1868 Act of Mannheim, which guaranteed freedom of traffic and free competition on the Rhine.

* * *

OFFICIALS here underline their fear that if these problems are not all settled with the present German Government, and before the German people "climb too far back up on their high horse", they will cause inevitable trouble between the Germans and the Allies. Dismantling and the border rectifications in the West are already examples of bad blood arising not so much because a thing is done but because it is attempted after it is too late.

Angry Bulls

(Windsor Star)

Recent death of Mr. C. H. Crowe, Chatham Gore Township farmer, when gored by a bull, emphasizes what every farmer knows. These animals, especially as they grow older, are dangerous.

Experience shows the way to handle a bull is to have a ring through his nose, with a stout, long stick attached. By this means he can be led easily—and, more important, can be kept at a safe distance. One just can't take chances.

Letters To The Editor

APPROVES GEORGE STREET SITE

Sir: May I, through this column, express a few opinions regarding proposed site for our Memorial Community Centre.

Until a site is approved and finally decided on, our Memorial Centre Committee cannot hope to begin the task of our having a decent community Memorial Centre. If a site is proposed near a residential area, there is an immediate and rightful protest from the residents. It is impossible, and the cost would be prohibitive, to secure a site in the immediate downtown centre area. If the Community Centre were built on the outskirts of the city, I doubt that it would have the financial success it would need. I doubt if our Community Centre Committee will ever be able to satisfy all of us.

Personally, I have felt that a portion of Morrow Park (Exhibition Grounds) was the most logical site, as it would have ample traffic and parking facilities, and the Centre building would lend itself (besides its other uses), to the advantage of our agricultural fairs.

It seems that legal technicalities are barring this site from the community, who, for the last decade have been using these grounds as their own, but now are prohibited from making more full use of same.

If Morrow Park is not available, then the proposed George Street site should really be considered seriously. It is now so near to the downtown area that its success from a business standpoint is assured. It is to be hoped that this building will be the centre for many interesting attractions throughout the year. It will need good attendances from people not all of whom have cars. If one watched the dispersal of the crowds from the lacrosse games—the ones who have walked, you would believe it ideally situated in this respect. As yet, I have not heard anything really definite as to the tentative cost of placing a foundation in this area. Members of the Beaver Lumber Company have informed me that they did not experience any undue difficulty in reaching bed rock when sinking cement piers for their new warehouses. Of course, foundations for a Community Centre may be a different matter.

Cost is relative to the benefits to be received. The Memorial Centre Building, not only will be a War Memorial, but will be of benefit to the whole Community, and also must be run as a successful business. If its location will assure this success, then we must not be afraid to pay for its location (all within reason, of course.)

In view of the proposed value of the project, and since this George Street site is owned by the city, in my opinion it should be worth up to $75,000.00 for foundation costs, to assure this location.

The Centre Site has been a sorry question for a number of years. If the foundation costs are not unreasonable, the George Street site would play an important part in the financial success of the Centre's operation.

I, for one, believe it a very good location.

MYER CHERNEY.

COMMENDS DAYLIGHT SAVING

Sir: It seems to me no letters favouring Daylight Saving Time have appeared in your paper lately for two reasons. In the first place, those who are pleased with it, forget that they should use your columns to defend it and secondly they are too busy making good use of it these fine evenings to take the time to write.

I work at the C.G.E. and punch the clock along with several thousand others and from my enquiries, I am quite sure that the majority of these and of factory and office workers all over the city are in favour of Daylight Saving Time during October. Nearly every citizen whether for or against it, has been making good use of it to finish up the garden after "supper" (as we still call it in Peterborough), put on storm windows, do some little extra painting or repairs, put things in order at the summer cottage, get in the last few evenings of fishing before Oct. 15 or duck shooting after it, finishing up that schedule of games or just enjoying a drive or a walk during the sunset hour. Just think that with Standard Time, it would be quite dark at 6 p.m. not 7 p.m. these nights. Surely these worried "Bystanders" have found this extra hour of daylight very useful during October.

Our City Council should not be censured for continuing Daylight Saving Time this fall because both manufacturers and up-town business men found it very desirable to keep our time in step with that of Toronto and put considerable pressure on the Council to have it continued. Had this not been done, firms in our city would have found themselves in touch with their Toronto branches during only four hours out of an eight hour day. Our Council did not "ape" Toronto.

Yours truly,
ONE ENJOYING DAYLIGHT SAVING.

THE FORGOTTEN MORTAGEE

Sir: Who plays an important part in providing housing accommodation, has been hard hit, but makes no noise? It's the mortgagee. Interest rates have been declining—and held down with government supports, while property values were rising. And the purchasing power of the mortgagees' dollar has been shrinking while the landlords' investment has doubled in value in a few short years.

Frozen rentals are supposed to allow a reasonable return on original investment. This, in many cases, has been supplemented by savings on decorating and upkeep which were customary under former competitive conditions.

After all, it's the gross income including capital gain that counts. Since real estate investments take second place to few others one wonders why there's so much beefing. Of course some may be coming from another source as there could be a gold mine in decontrol for real estate brokers. Many landlords are so biased and infuriated by the constant one-sided propaganda that it would be unwise to release the controls until more normal conditions prevail. Note the uncontrolled rentals that soared to heights of absurdity. Re-imposition of ceilings on these wouldn't be a bad idea.

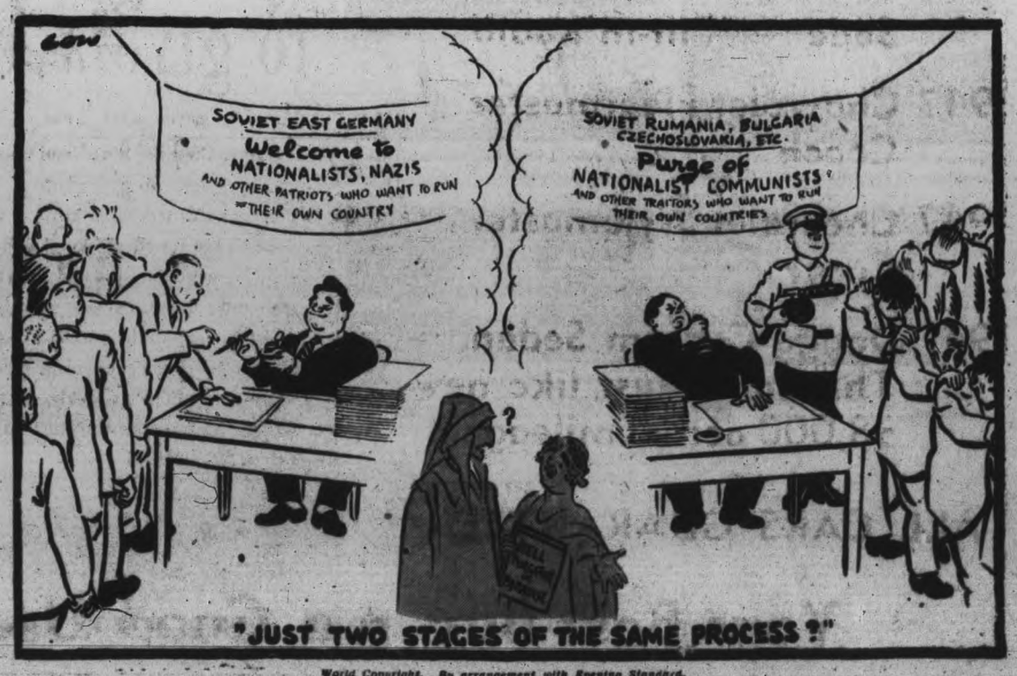
Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Moses called all Israel, and said unto them, Hear, O Israel, the statutes and judgements which I speak in your ears this day, that ye may learn them, and keep, and do them. (Deut. 5:1.)

* * *



When thou art come into the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee, thou shalt not learn to do after the abominations of those nations. There shall not be found among you any one that maketh his son or his daughter to pass through the fire, or that useth divination, or an observer of times, or an enchanter, or a witch, or a charmer, or a consulter with feminine spirits, or a wizard, or a necromancer. For all that do these things are an abomination unto the Lord; and because of these abominations the Lord thy God doth drive them out from before thee.

Thou shalt be perfect with the Lord thy God. (Deut. 18:9-13.)

* * *

And when they shall say unto you, Seek unto them that have familiar spirits, and unto wizards that peep and that mutter: should not a people seek unto their God? for the living to the dead? To the law and to the testimony; if they speak not according to this word, it is because there is no light in them. (Isa. 8:19, 20.)

Business Men To Meet In Montreal

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor.

About every sizeable community in Canada will be represented in Montreal for the next few days for the sessions of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

It is variously called a "parliament of business men" and a "grass roots" convention.

It is called the one because most of the delegates are concerned with business; and the other because they come from so many communities, both large and small, and are concerned with about every phase of Canadian life and community effort.

In the Chamber's membership are 633 boards of trade and Chambers of Commerce in 632 cities, towns and villages; and 2,000 Canadian companies employing some 1,600,000 people.

Country-wide Forum

Its work goes on through the year, under the guidance of its elected officers and permanent staff; and once a year the annual meeting is held to provide a country-wide forum, to pass judgment on the things that have been done, and to make or confirm plans for the coming year.

This year's meeting is particularly interesting because of the many world and currency problems which at present concern Canada so much; for, more and more, the Chamber is giving attention to these.

Particularly it is attempting to bring about helpful discussions with business men of other lands through inter-country committees and its various international affiliations.

Canada's Famed Bush Pilots Said On Way Out

ST. JOVITE, Que., Oct. 24 (CP)—Canada's famed bush pilots may be putting themselves out of business by the aggressiveness of their own operators.

That was the word today from H. C. Cotterell of Winnipeg, who told the convention of the Air Industries and Transportation of Canada (A.I.T.C.) that "as highways move into the north we will be forced into the progressive atrophy of air operations, direct subsidy through airways and suitable equipment."

"The airplane has pioneered and opened up the north country. We are now reaching a stage where certain operators which were developed by aircraft have now become sufficiently large to justify highways that are sapping the life blood of the air operations that created the communities....

"We must recognize that as civilization moves into the territory that the airplane has been exploiting, the airplane gradually loses certain natural advantages but still maintains its position as a vital instrument in the community.

"We know that the small aircraft of the north cannot compete cost-wise with the heavy transport operations on government-built highways. We also know, however, that heavy transports operating from airports and over airways day and night can compete for and live cost-wise on certain traffic."

National Kids' Day

UTICA, N.Y., Oct. 24—(AP)—C. Douglas Taylor of Montreal, governor of the Ontario-Quebec-Maritime district of Kiwanis International Saturday announced formation of a National Kids' Day Foundation for community aid to underprivileged children. The Kiwanis International will promote a national kids' day Nov. 19 to raise funds for the organization. He spoke at an inter-district meeting at which 159 Canadian Kiwanians were guests of the Utica club.

Say Parliament Through Early

OTTAWA, Oct. 24—(CP)—Parliament will be out of the trenches well before Christmas with the agenda for its fall session cleaned up, judging from the amount of business remaining on the order paper.

Several major items in the government's program remain to be disposed of, but it looks as though parliament—believed to include most of the important legislation scheduled for the session—can be handled by early December.

Biggest and most controversial issue still hanging fire is the government's resolution to obtain for parliament power to amend the British North America Act on exclusively Federal matters without going to the United Kingdom parliament.

Baritone Dies

TORONTO, Oct. 24 — (CP)—A former outstanding baritone, H. Ruthben MacDonald, 84, died Saturday, after a brief illness. Born at Kingsville, Ont., he toured Canada, the United States and the British Isles as a concert artist and at one time was manager of the Adanac Quartet.

Electrics Take 4-0 Game For Phelan Cup

CGE soccer team won the Father Phelan Charity Cup for the second time on Saturday afternoon when they defeated the O'Halloran eleven 4-0 in ideal weather. Best for the winners were: Strong, Booth and McCann; and for the losers- Duffus, Smart and H. Lathem.

O'Hallorans started with nine men against a full quota. Within a minute Electrics were up a goal through Featherstone on an individual effort. Encouraged by their success CGE aided with the wind confined activities to the opponents' area. Lathem broke up the attack to send his forwards up but Buchan missed the open goal. A few minutes later, Strong scored on a player's miskick. Electrics did everything but score. Duffus transferred the play to the other end where O'Halloran had a succession of unsuccessful kicks. CGE were still pressing as the interval arrived.

O'Hallorans were taken unawares, on resuming, when Strong broke fast to find the inside of the upright. Then O'Hallorans came into the picture with an aggressive campaign that found a superb half-back line dominating the situation. After 30 minutes of play, CGE inaugurated a close-passing formation that ultimately saw Featherstone make it read 4-0.

O'Hallorans — J. Hutchinson, goal; A. Downer and A. B. Smart, fullbacks; D. Grey, J. Duffus and H Lathem, halfbacks; H. Foster, C Murduff, A. E. Smith, H. Buchan and A. O'Halloran, forwards; sub, H. Buchan.

CGE—J. Chamberlain, S. Murduff and T. Tollington, fullbacks; F. Booth, J. Craig and S. McGann, halfbacks; F. Attard, H. Steel, R. Strong, A. Featherstone and E. Cotton, forwards; sub, R. Titshell.

Referee—James Buchan; linesmen—H. Pyle and S. Howden.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

Don Newcombe, brilliant Brooklyn Dodger pitcher, and Roy Sievers, St. Louis Browns' slugging rookie outfielder Sunday were named "Rookie of the Year" for their respective leagues by the St. Louis Sporting News.

The double selection by the weekly sports publication was a departure from its past custom of selecting only one outstanding freshman.

By this system Sievers became the first American-leaguer to be so honored since Sporting News began its annual selections in 1946. Previous winners were Del Ennis, Philadelphia Phillie outfielder; Jackie Robinson, Dodger infielder, and Outfielder Richie Ashburn of the Phillies.

The publication named the pair on the basis of votes by sports writers who follow the major-league clubs. Newcombe, formerly with Montreal Royals, was an almost-unanimous choice for the National League award, the paper said. He hurled 17 victories against eight losses.

Sievers finished the season with a .306 batting average. He hit 16 home runs.

The 1950 Canadian Amateur Golf championship will be held at the Saskatoon Golf and Country Club, probably from July 17 to 22, assistant manager and secretary E. H. Banks of the Royal Canadian Golf Association announced at Montreal Saturday night following a special executive meeting.

He said July 15 was the tentative date for the Willingdon Cup match and Canadian Junior championship at Saskatoon.

The Canadian Open will be held at Royal Montreal in August, but no definite dates were set.

Eddie Dartnell, a former playing coach with Seattle in the Pacific Coast League, has been appointed coach of Ottawa Senators of the Quebec Senior Hockey League.

Dartnell replaces Alex Connell, former National Hockey League star goal-tender and Ottawa fire department employee, who took over Senators this year after George (Buck) Boucher left the Allan Cup champions to coach Boston Bruins.

Connell anounced Friday night that he was retiring for medical reasons.

Four Montreal wrestlers have been recommended to the British Empire Games chairman for membership on the Canadian team at the games in Auckland, N.Z., next February.

Recommendation of the four, Ferdinand Payette, Maurice Vachon, Morgan Plumb and Roland Milord, was made by the trials selection committee at the close of the Canadian championships at Montreal Saturday night.

Bill Ezinicki, Toronto Maple Leafs' right-winger, has married a Winnipeg girl.

Ezinicki told Toronto sports writers after Saturday night's hockey game that his bride is 19-year-old Janie McPherson, whom he had known since both were toddlers. The bride, a hospital laboratory technician, came to Toronto recently.

The couple were wed last Sunday in a quiet ceremony.

At Guelph, Ontario Agricultural College-Ontario Veterinary College Aggies tightened their hold on first place in the Intercollegiate Intermediate Football League Saturday by trampling McMaster Marauders 27-6. It was the third straight win for the unbeaten Aggies, leaving them two points ahead of the second-place Western Colts.

At Port Hope, Trinity College School Firsts made their initial start of the season a winning one Saturday by whipping Toronto's Upper Canada College 18-11 in a Little Big Four football contest.

"GOT HIM" WHISPERS VERNE DAYMAN to himself (at left) as his one hand brings down PCVS's plunging half, Ted Evans, deep in the PCI'ers territory in Friday night's Red Feather Tournament game with Sarnia. In the picture at the right, Roy Armstrong isn't saying much but he's thinking plenty. Brought down by Tom Harris after a long plunge Armstrong is pinned to the ground by Sarnia footballers. The final score was Sarnia 2, PCVS 1.

Alec Baptie Edged For Provincial Title

Second by two inches, Alec Baptie, youthful swimmer for the YMCA Swimming Club, lost the chance to win the 11 years and under 50-yard free style Ontario championship event Saturday night in Hamilton. His time for the 50 yards was the same as Roger Davis, of Hamilton YMCA, 33 seconds, but the judges ruled Baptie was two inches behind Davis. Twenty-four boys were entered in this event of the Ontario Open Championships held at the Hamilton YMCA.

John Boorman, a foot behind Duncan Vignale, a swimmer from Toronto West End YMCA, placed third in the final heat of the boys 14 and under 100-yard free style championship event.

Toronto West End YMCA took the 200-yard free style relay race for boys 14 years and under. The Peterborough boys, Jim Heffernan, John Boorman, Elwood Palmateer and Scott Pearton, finished 4.2 seconds behind the Toronto boys. Seven teams were entered in the relay event.

A Good Show

Donald Wood finished third in his heat for the junior men's 200 yards free style and sixth in the final heat. He was also in the junior men's 150 yards back stroke but finished out of the running. Michael Triggs was fourth in his heat for the nine years and under 40 yards free style with a time of 44 seconds and the winner's time was 40.4 seconds. Ross Dobbin finished fourth in his heat for the boys 12 and under 50 yards free style.

Some of the clubs which entered teams in the championships were: Toronto West End YMCA, Toronto Central YMCA, Hamilton YMCA, Peterborough YMCA, London YMCA, Woodstock YMCA, Kitchener YMCA, Hamilton Aquatic Club, Toronto Granite Club, Montreal YMCA and New Toronto Lakeshore. In all over 200 boys participated in the events with eight of them being from Peterborough.

Gordon Dobbin and Harry Baptie assisted Coach Gord Minty in taking the boys to Hamilton.

President of RCEME

KINGSTON, Oct. 24—(CP)—Brig. G. M. Grant, of Toronto, was elected president of the Royal Canadian Electrical Mechanical Engineers Corps Association at the fourth annual meeting here at RCEME school at nearby Barriefield during the week-end. Brig. Grant succeeds Lt.-Col. L. L. Playfair, of Montreal.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC PERDUE, Sports Editor.

East York were worthy winners of the Red Feather grid tourney of champions, and they should have won that scoreless draw with Hamilton in Toronto but for passing up third-quarter chances for singles. PCVS seniors made a fine showing, too, when it is recalled that about three-quarters of that team is made up of ex-juniors, first year chaps in senior high school football. The line looked good against Sarnia and the defence was solid, but the backfielders had some trouble with a slippery ball. The PCI-ers go to Oshawa this week-end and a win gives 'em group honors. November is COSSA playoff month, and we think the Garnet and Gray will do okay once more.

* * * * * *

Coach Bev Goulding was quite satisfied with the showing of his squad in the Red Feather tournament. He feels it was an honor to be part of this big affair and that Peterborough did well against such competition—and we do, too. The tourney was quite a success from all angles, and the football good throughout. The PCI-ers aren't as heavy as most of those other championship clubs, and the 1949 team isn't as experienced, naturally, as next year's Collegians will be, but they came mighty close to taking their game and made it one of the real ball games in this colorful all-Ontario football classic for high school senior teams. It drew a big crowd.

* * * * * *

They Really Rolled

In Lindsay on Saturday, Alex Londry's lively junior PCI-ers fashioned a 23-6 group win at the expense of a game Scugog squad. Third in a row and they've got this group tucked away in ye olde gunny sack. Lindsay battled back hard toward the finish but just didn't have enough. The wind was stronger than skunk oil and that played havoc with hoofing and much of the passing. Stewart, Craw, Langhorne and Fowler, reeled off a lot of yardage from the back section, as Facendi and Forbes shone on a strong line. No dearth of good senior school gridders on the horizon, apparently.

* * * * * *

Blair Thomson is playing on the intermediate McGill rugby team. First-year college men rarely make the senior team as they're too busy on scholastic endeavors to start with, and the head coach prefers to break them in for a year in his system. But, in a recent practices game, the good intermediate team held the senior McGill crew scoreless, so Blair and his buddies are getting the paternal treatment from Vic Obeck. Yeah, the speedy and hard-hitting Thomson is one guy we won't worry about not making the grade in senior interscholastic ranks another year—he's practically a cinch. He goes in also for tennis and hockey, and was with the champ softball Cosmos here last summer.

* * * * * *

Minor Puckists Set

But trading the lemon-shaped leather for a burnt biscuit—a puck, in case you're not hep—we note where the PMHA-ers are going to operate a peewee section, too. Six teams in, and certificates go to Ted Naish by Jan. 15. Schedules in the minor puck setup are being worked out and play will start early next month. A big season expected in this important young supervised loop, since we have artificial ice and the arena management is quite sympathetic to minor hockey. Also a good set of officials, so they can't miss. Certificates in the other sections are to be returned to Secretary Walter Bent by Dec. 1, Arnold Olmstead having done a fine job drawing up these certificates. So, plenty of puck play looms now on the local horizon.

* * * * * *

Back to the gridiron again before we forget to mention two more Peterborough pigskin toters going good under new colors. Johnny Green is turning in a nifty performance for the Varsity intermediates, scoring most of his side's points in a game a week ago. And a Montreal item on Queen's says: "They have a first-year man by the name of Jack Sisson who has been setting the opposition on its ears with his fleet running. This Peterborough boy is hailed as one of the fastest men in the circuit, and that includes Mustangs' mighty Jack Parry." High praise, indeed. Another local star, Jack Matthews, sat is out Saturday with Western, as he nursed an injured ankle.

Tied Atop U.S.H.L.

By The Associated Press.

St. Paul and Minneapolis are tied atop the United States Hockey League standing. The Saints edged Omaha 4-3 last night in a bumpy tilt which sent three players to the sidelines for stitches to close cuts in their heads. Two last period goals by Doug Baldwin gave Kansas City a 5-5 tie with Minneapolis last night. His final marker came with only 19 seconds left in the game.

Seelie Samara In Semi-Final Bout Of Thursday's Mat Card At Brock

Seelie Samara, sensational colored wrestler, will take on The Red Devil in the semi-final bout of Thursday's mat card at the Brock Arena. Samara's great record should leave the identity of the Red Devil short-lived. The colored star has a long string of victories and met Yvon Robart last week for the British Empire title. It was one of his few losses. The Red Devil will be forced to unmask if Samara wins.

The main bout will bring together Fred Atkins and Frank Taylor. Atkins is fast becoming one of the most hated matmen in the game. The rugged Australian is ruthless and leaves nothing undone in his desire to win. With all his roughness no one can dispute his ability as a wrestler. Frank Taylor is a worthy opponent. He is big, fast and clever. Fans thought his win over Dan O'Connor last week was a masterpiece of perfect timing. It should be a hard-fought fast bout from the go-in.

Pat Flanagan, always a great favorite here, will hook up with a newcomer, Angelo Cistoldi, in the opening bout. The entire card sparkles and should draw a big crowd.

Luke Sewell Named To Manage Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Oct. 24 (AP)—Luke Sewell, who led St. Louis Browns out of baseball's wilderness, today had shouldered the task of trying to do the same thing for Cincinnati Reds.

Sewell, a veteran major league catcher, Sunday was named manager of the Reds for 1950 and 1951 succeeding Bucky Walters, who was relieved of his duties in the last week of the 1949 season. Sewell was a coach under Walters last season when the Reds finished seventh.

Sewell directed the Browns to their one and only American League pennant in 1944.

And in taking over the job of hoisting Cincinnati out of the lower reaches of the National League, Sewell did it with positive word from Powel Crosley, Jr., principal owner, that it must be done by developing young players and not through wholesale purchases of established stars.

PCVS Juniors Trim Lindsay For Third Straight Triumph

The PCVS junior footballers rolled to an easy 23-6 victory over the Lindsay Collegiate squad in Lindsay Saturday. This was the third straight league victory for the Collegiates and their second over the Lindsay crew.

With their backs to a strong west wind, the PCI'ers whipped up 12 points in the first quarter. They added five more in the second to the Lindsay boys' point, a kick to the deadline. A major and a conversion in the third quarter ended the scoring for the PCVS team. The Lindsay boys rallying in the last quarter managed to score an unconverted major and they were in the PCVS zone for most of the time.

Passing and kicking were practically useless in the strong wind. Smith, of Lindsay, tried nearly all his passes with the wind, finally enabling the team to score a touch near the close of the game. Young, for Peterborough, had worse luck than Smith and finally tried only ground plays. Both Smith and Young had the same trouble when it came to booting the ball. The kickoff to start the game by Young went well over the deadline, the wind lifting it most of the way. It was brought back and rekicked with allowance for wind carriage.

Stewart Scores

Logan, quarter for Lindsay, tried a pass on his 23-yard line at the first of the first quarter and Stewart intercepted and went over easily for the first PCVS major. Young converted. Young booted to Martin at the Lindsay 25. Three plays by Lindsay took the ball to the 32 where Smith booted to Young at centre who ran back to the Lindsay 35. Fowler, Langhorne and Craw carried to the three-yard line where Fowler plunged through the centre for a touch. Young converted to make the score 12-0.

Near the close of the quarter PCVS got the ball on their 37. Craw picked up 14 yards through the middle position, Langhorne around end for 12 yards, Fowler went for nine yards and then carried to the Lindsay 8 and Craw went to the three-yard line to end the quarter.

On the first play of the second quarter, Stewart went across for a touch standing up with Young's kick bad. Young then booted to Martin at the 25. Plunges by Smith and Maidens took the ball to the PCVS 43 where Smith booted for a point. The half time score was 17-1.

PCVS Has Edge

Peterborough dominated the play in the third quarter hemming the Lindsay crew in. Smith's booting was ineffective against the strong wind and they couldn't get the ball out of their zone. Near the close of the quarter Young booted to Logan at the line and he was downed by McIlraith at the Lindsay 3. Two plays by Lindsay failed to take the ball out of danger zone and Smith booted to Stewart at the Lindsay 24. Stewart ran back the kick easily for a major score. Young converted for the PCI'ers' final point.

Lindsay pressed the Petes in the fourth with Logan, MacDuffee Smith and Georgas carrying the ball. Smith flipped a 20-yard pass to McLean from his 42-yard line with three minutes left in the game. McLean carried the ball to the 3-yard line and Georgas went over for a major standing up. An attempted pass by Smith for the extra point failed.

Langhorne, Fowler, Craw and Stewart, the PCVS halves, all went well on the offensive with Fowler playing a good defensive game. Facendi and Forbes were the pick of of the linemen. Maidens and Smith, for Lindsay, were the best ball carriers with Pennock and Tozios playing well defensively on the line.

Lineups:

Peterborough — Flying wing, Langhorne; halves, Stewart, Fowler, Craw; quarter, Young; snap, Buckland; insides, Facendi, Graf-stein; middles, Forbes, Jameson; outsides, Fanning, McIlraith; alternates, Howe, Outram, Ward, Ferguson, Johnston, Harrison, Griffin, Galley, Clapper, Floyd, White, Scriver.

Lindsay—Flying wing, Ward; halves, Maidens, Georgas, Smith; quarter, Logan; snap, Bellamy; insides, Pennock, Tozios; middles, Graham, McFadden; outsides, Brown, McLean; alternates, MacDuffee, White, Teal, Sschenk, Stoddard, Martin, Race.

Whip Bowmanville

FORT ERIE, Oct. 24 (CP) — The Fort Erie Ontario Baseball Association juvenile team Saturday defeated Bowmanville 4-3 to take the provincial championship two games straight. Lefty Buttonshaw, on the hill for Bowmanville allowed only four hits, but four errors, all of which counted in the scoring, decided the contest.

"CHRYCO Cyclebond BRAKE LININGS GIVE ME 3 TIMES THE WEAR".
SAYS MONTREAL CAB DRIVER YVON BELLEMARE
"I am more than satisfied with the exceptional service I have had with Chryco Cyclebond Brake Linings", writes Yvon Bellemare, 5330 St. Denis St., Montreal. "They were installed 31,000 miles ago on my taxi . . . in use 24 hours a day in heavy traffic. Life of ordinary riveted linings used previously was from 12,000 to 14,000 miles." Reports from coast-to-coast in Canada tell the same story . . . Chryco Cyclebond Brake Linings give up to three times the wear under tougher-than-ordinary use!
Chryco Cyclebond Brake Linings are rivetless, wear longer, give more effective braking, practically eliminate drum scoring.

Rangers Hold Leafs To Tie As Bruins Cramp Montreal

By VIC MORRIS, JR.,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Montreal Canadiens are still on top of the National Hockey League ladder although they failed to produce a victory in two games during the week-end with Boston Bruins.

Once again big Bill Durnan proved that he was tops among the netminding fraternity by coming up with a shutout performance against the second-place Boston Bruins Sunday night in Boston. Saturday night at Montreal the big fellow eased up enough to allow the Bruins to edge his team 2-1, in a close, but dull fixture.

Sunday night's game provided 13,526 Boston fans with the rare treat of watching a scoreless game. Durnan at one end of the rink was sensational and at the other, equally brilliant was rookie Jack Gelineau. The former McGill Redmen net custodian.

In other week-end games New York Rangers and Toronto Maple Leafs battled to a 2-2 stalemate at Toronto Saturday and Detroit Red Wings were forced to come from behind a two-goal deficit to earn a 3-3 split with the Chicago Black Hawks Sunday.

Capitalize on Breaks

Saturday night Boston Bruins, playing a sly game, waited for the breaks and capitalized on both of them for their goals. The five-time winner of the Vezina Trophy had little chance on either Dave Creighton's first period goal which came on a ganging attack or on Ed Harrison's winning marker in the third session. Maurice Richard's lone Canadien goal late in the opening period was Durnan's only condolence.

Equally brilliant in the week-end battle was Gelineau, who allowed only one puck to pass him in two games. The former Montrealer, who replaced Frankie Brimsek in the Boston goal this season, proved that he will be a hot contender for Durnan this year in the Vezina Trophy race.

Toronto Maple Leafs, the Stanley cup champions, were unable to shake off the New York Rangers, who were only one minute and 27 seconds away from victory when Ted Kennedy evened the count 2-2. Pentti Lund moved the Rangers in front after 20 seconds of play. Leafs evened the count midway through the stanza with Max Bentley scoring on a play with Ray Timgren.

Kennedy To Rescue

The New Yorkers moved ahead in the middle session when Eddie Slowinski scored. But Kennedy broke through in the crucial stretch drive to knot the count.

The third place Detroit Red Wings were hard pressed to eke out a stalemate with Chicago Al Dewsbury who came up from the Indianapolis farm club only last week, saved Wings from defeat with a third-period goal with less than two minutes remaining. Ted Lindsay and Jim McFadden notched the other Detroit markers, both in the middle session, while Metro Prystai led the Chicago marksmen with first and second period goals. Bert Olmstead scored the other Chicago counter.

Mohawks Hand Barons Lacing

By The Canadian Press.

The newly-formed Cincinnati Mohawks handed Cleveland Barons their first defeat of the 1949-50 American Hockey League season Sunday night as they edged the western division leaders 2-1.

It was the fifth game in six nights for the Mohawks and provided the 4,353 Cincinnati fans with plenty of thrills as their squad held a one-goal lead for the last 19 minutes of the game.

The defeat left the front-running Barons only one point ahead of Indianapolis Capitals who captured two games over the week-end. Saturday they defeated St. Louis Flyers 3-1 and Saturday night they blanked Pittsburgh Hornets 7-0.

Meanwhile in the league's eastern section New Haven Ramblers took over sole possession of first place with a pair of victories. Ramblers inflicted a 3-2 defeat on Springfield Indians Saturday and trounced Hershey Bears 7-1 Sunday night.

Buffalo Bisons are in second place as a result of a split in their week-end tussles. They outscored Hershey 4-1 Saturday but dropped a 3-2 decision to Flyers Sunday.

Providence Reds also divided their weekend tilts edging Pittsburgh 2-1 and then losing 8-1 against Springfield Sunday night. Reds now are in third position in the eastern loop, one point behind Buffalo.

Weekend Stars

(By The Canadian Press)

Ed Harrison, Boston, who scored the winning goal as the Bruins edged the league leading Canadiens 2-1.

Ted Kennedy, Toronto, who scored at 17.33 of the third period to hold New York Rangers to a 2-2 deadlock.

Bill Durnan, Montreal, and Rookie Jack Gelineau, Boston, who shared netminding honors by holding Bruins and Canadiens to a 0-0 deadlock, first in the current NHL season.

Al Dewsbury, Detroit, rookie who saved the Red Wings from defeat with a third-period goal to knot the count with Chicago Black Hawks at 3-3.

Marlies Hold Dutchmen To A 3-3 Tie

By The Canadian Press.

Toronto Senior Marlboros just managed to hang on to their first place slot in the Ontario Senior Hockey Association series Saturday night, by tying the Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen 3-3. It was the second consecutive overtime game between the two clubs with Dutchmen taking Friday's game 5-3.

Hugh (Scotty) Mair sank the tying counter with three seconds remaining in the game.

Mair scored two goals for the senior Dukes and Al Buchanan got the other. For the Dutchmen, Billy Flick racked up two goals and Art Hurst scored the other.

Owen Sound Mercuries, with four points, one point behind Marlies, are in second spot in the league. The Mercs rattled in three goals in the first three minutes of their game with Hamilton Tigers Saturday night to defeat the Bengals 4-3.

Tighten Defence

Tigers tightened their defence in the first frame to try to overcome the three-goal lead and Eddie Busch scored the first Hamilton goal 15 minutes later. Mercs made it 4-1 with two minutes remaining in the second period and Hamilton cut the lead with Carl Smelle's goal in the dying seconds of the frame. Tigers pressed to tie it up, but Jack Taylor's goal halfway through the final frame was the only tally of the period.

In the OHA Junior A series, Marlboro Juniors share first-place slot with defending champions Barrie Flyers after four week-end games.

Marlies saved from defeat at St. Catharines when fog closed in after the second period Friday night, came back Saturday to whip the Teepees 4-0.

10 Penalties

An outbreak of fighting in the final period resulted in 10 penalties. Jack Andrews and George Sullivan of Teepees and Lorne Pirie and Dan Windley of the Dukes drew majors with misconducts being added to the sentence of Andrews and Pirie.

Larry Regan scored twice for Marlies with Ron Hurst and McKenzie each scoring once.

Bill Barber's goal for Barrie Flyers with less than three minutes of the game remaining against Oshawa Generals, Saturday put the Flyers in a first-place tie with the junior Dukes. Each club scored twice in the opening frame and tied it up 3-3 again by the end of the second period.

Barber scored twice for Barrie with John Bobenic and Real Chevrefils each counting once. Marcel Clements, with two goals and Sonny Hooper, with one goal, were the Oshawa marksman.

St. Michael's College Majors Saturday edged Windsor Spitfires 4-3 to take a third-place tie with Galt Black Hawks. The Irish led play from the face-off, but split the first period with Spits 1-1. The second frame ended 2-1 for the Irish and they outscored the Windsor team 2-1 in the final frame.

Galt Black Hawks won their second game in as many nights from Stratford Kroehlers Saturday, defeating the Stratford Club 4-2 to leave their cellar position for the first time this season.

AMERICAN INVENTOR

Benjamin Franklin invented the lightning rod.

MR. MUSCLES—Known at Sudbury as a shot-putting expert, Leo Roininen will be tossing a javelin when he goes to New Zealand this winter as a member of the Canadian British Empire Games team. Unable to develop his abilities at high school where javelin throwing was unknown, the blonde youngster picked it up fast enough to represent Canada at the Olympic Games in 1948 and top all contestants at the Empire Games trials last summer.

Child Violinists Play To Young Music Students

An audience of young music students had their enthusiasm rekindled Saturday when they heard a violin recital by two young Toronto girls, Florence and Andrea Hansen, Aged 14 and 10 the talented sisters played works by Tartini, Coreli Kreisler, Drdla, Bach and Sibelius with a degree of skill rarely achieved by students of their ages.

The recital in the auditorium of the Public Library, was sponsored by Peterborough branch of the Ontario Registered Music Teachers' Association. Mrs. Thursa Williamson announced that the branch presents a recital every year for Peterborough children, to enable them to hear some of the outstanding young students on their way to successful careers in music.

The Hansen sisters' ability and musicianship is far above average but they are still in the process of establishing themselves as concert violinists to be accepted by wider audiences.

After constant study and practice, since Andrea was three and Florence six, they are now increasing their public appearances and thus obtaining the valuable experience of facing the test of public demands.

One of the greatest acclamations the girls have received was when they won scholarships at the Brantford music festival this year, obtaining higher marks in their group than any other award made by the adjudicator either this, or in previous years.

The violin is one of the least spectacular instruments when compared with others played by young exponents. Immaturity is invariably a greater handicap, for instance, in a violinist than a pianist and public acclaim is therefore, often less enthusiastic. The Toronto sisters will doubtless overcome this inevitable setback, for their playing is good and deserves high recognition. Their handling of Tartini's Sonata in A Major was extremely competent and most unexpected in such a young couple.

If they continue to progress as they have done already in proportion to their years, the girls will be assured of bright future in their musical careers. They are studying at the Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto.—H.P.

Badminton Play

In the first week of badminton play at the Market Hall, about 50 players have been coming out almost nightly. New players are asked to apply right away at the Hall any night but Friday. This also applies to older members and juniors, as there is a limit to club membership.

This year, men's and ladies' singles have been added to the Central Ontario tournament, which will be held in Oshawa or Lindsay toward the end of February. The first out-of-town visitors here will be from Port Hope either Oct. 29 or Nov. 5 with two dozen coming. Tuesday and Thursday are junior nights as well as instruction time for new members and beginners.

Raid On Gamblers

MONTREAL, Oct. 24—(CP)—In one of their busiest week-ends in recent months, provincial police swooped down on six alleged gaming houses in Montreal Saturday, arresting a total of 194 persons on various gambling charges. The raids followed last week's statement by Deputy Director Hilaire Beauregard of the provincial police, in which he denied that "Barbotte" and other forms of gambling were "operating freely" in Montreal.

EXTRA POINT—Eric Chipper has become an institution around Ottawa for his almost automatic precision in booting converts from placement after the plentiful touchdowns that have put Ottawa Rough Riders far out in front of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union. The big lineman has kicked for the extra point 23 times in his first nine games this season. That's Benny Steck, another Ottawa lineman, holding the ball.

Rough Riders Hand Argonauts Sweeping 24-13 Weekend Pasting

By The Canadian Press.

Apart from a boost in the price of wheat, Saskatchewan couldn't have heard much better news than what happened on a football field in Calgary on Saturday.

Saskatchewan Roughriders, a team of also-rans for more seasons than their supporters care to remember, handed the Dominion champion Calgary Stampeders their first defeat in two seasons of scheduled play in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Spearheaded by Del Wardien, a backfielder who wasn't considered good enough to make the Calgary team last year, the Regina-operated Roughriders ended Stampeders' 10-game winning streak with a 9-6 victory. The win assured Riders of the second WIFU playoff berth and roused brisk speculation as to their chances of winning the western title.

Playoff hopes of the last two outsiders in eastern Canada neared the vanishing point as Toronto Argonauts absorbed a 24-13 beating at the hands of the league leading Ottawa Rough Riders in the Interprovincial Union while Windsor Rockets blew a 5-3 decision to the front-running Hamilton Tigers in the ORFU.

That eased the worries of the second-place clubs in both leagues as Montreal Alouettes rolled to a 22-6 triumph over Hamilton Wildcats in the Big Four and the ORFU's Sarnia Imperials fattened their scoring averages with a 34-5 decision over Toronto Balmy Beach.

Squeeze Out Win

In the evenly-balanced Intercollegiate Union, the unbeaten University of Western Ontario Mustangs squeezed out an 11-8 victory over University of Toronto Blues while McGill's Redmen downed the Golden Gaels of Queen's University 17-1 at Montreal.

The results gave McGill a two-point edge over Toronto for the second playoff berth at the halfway mark. The collegians do not participate in Grey Cup competition.

Argos struggled gamely to hold Ottawa on even terms until the Riders struck for two quick touchdowns just before halftime to take an 18-6 lead. Even the return of Joe Krol to the Toronto backfield after three weeks' absence due to an ankle injury wasn't enough to match the power of the Eastern Canada champions.

Steep Path

The Argos' path to a playoff berth looks pretty steep. They need to knock over Ottawa next week—something they haven't done in two years—and take the Alouettes in Montreal the following Saturday.

That could create a tie with Montreal for a playoff spot even on the assumption that the Als win again over Hamilton next Saturday. A loss to Ottawa next Saturday and Montreal victory over Hamilton will eliminate Argos but the combinations of Argo victories over Ottawa and Montreal with a Montreal loss over Hamilton next Saturday will give the Toronto club a playoff spot.

Off last Saturday's performance that isn't likely. The willing Hamilton youngsters scored the first touchdown, but faded fast as the Alouettes unleashed a powerful ground offensive featured by Virgil Wagner's three touchdowns.

Businessman Dies

OTTAWA, Oct. 24 — (CP) — James Howard Walker, 40, prominent Ottawa businessman, died suddenly in hospital Sunday night. He was owner and manager of a bread and biscuit firm bearing his name at Brockville, an official of the Ottawa Junior Board of Trade, and a member of the Ontario Bakers' Association.

Woudn't Mind Oliver Running Again

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 24 — (CP)—The Ontario Liberal Association would be glad to see Farquhar Oliver stand again for Ontario leadership of the Liberal party, Norman Matthews, Toronto, Association president, said Saturday.

Mr. Oliver recently resigned as provincial leader but will lead the Liberal group in the Ontario Legislature through the next session. It is expected that a convention will be called next Spring, perhaps in May, to pick his successor.

Addressing delegates from 10 Ontario riding at a meeting of the Southern Ontario Liberal Association, Mr. Matthews said:

"The nomination of Farquhar Oliver to stand once again for leadership of the Liberal party in Ontario would be welcomed by the Ontario Liberal Association. No pressure was brought to bear on Mr. Oliver to resign, as implied by some newspapers. If Mr. Oliver would allow his name to stand again, the association would have no objection."

Officers Elected

Alvin Cadeau, Burlington, was re-elected president of the Southern Ontario Liberal Association, with H. E. Hazelwood, Port Colborne, and Elmo Riddle, Simcoe, vice-presidents; Harold Minden, Hamilton, secretary; and James Osbaldeston, Hamilton, treasurer.

By an amendment to the constitution, the convention approved the addition of a third vice-president, who will be the president of Southern Ontario Women's Liberal Association. Thus Mrs. J. E. Large Niagara Falls, Ont., becomes an ex-officio vice-president of the SOLA.

Members of the management committee elected at the meeting were Col. Frank McCordick, St. Catharines; Miss Dorothy Porter, Welland; Harold Minden, Hamilton; Harold Thompson, Lynden; and D. P. Cliff, Dundas.

Hockey's Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Ted Lindsay of Detroit Red Wings moved into a first-place tie with Boston's Paul Ronty for National Hockey League scoring honors, each with three goals and three assists for a six-point total. Lindsay scored one goal during the week-end to step out of a second-place tie with Sid Smith, Toronto, and Johnny Pierson, Boston, who now are deadlocked in the runner-up slot with five points each.

The leaders:

	G	A	Pts
Lindsay, Detroit	3	3	6
Ronty, Boston	3	3	6
S. Smith, Toronto	2	3	5
Pierson, Boston	1	4	5
Richard, Montreal	4	0	4
Kennedy, Toronto	3	1	4
Mackell, Toronto	2	2	4
K. Smith, Boston	2	2	4
Lach, Montreal	2	2	4
Prystai, Chicago	2	2	4
Meeker, Toronto	2	2	4
Abel, Detroit	1	3	4

TOP SCORER — Calgary Stampeders' chances of repeating last year's Grey Cup victory took a sharp upswing when young Vern Graham appeared in the backfield this season and started booting placements. Pressed into service when ace place-kicker Freddie Wilmot left the club at at start of the campaign to attend McGill University, the 25-year-old flying wing kicked his way to the top of the Western Interprovincial Football Union scoring race. A product of Calgary junior football, Vern didn't even make the Stampeders last year.

ROMAN TRADITION

Chester, common ending for English town names, comes from the Roman word, castra, meaning camp, since many were originally Roman camp sites.

THIS man is constantly "putting himself in other people's shoes" in order to see their problems from their viewpoint.

Doing this is an important part of his job. And he's so expert at it that he can easily make several of these quick changes in a single day.

With a middle-aged business man, for instance, he may be discussing ways and means of adding to a retirement fund. Right from the start, he will look at the facts in terms of that man's situation.

An hour later he may be considering, as though it were his own, the problem faced by a young father with dependents who need financial protection—or any of the various problems faced by countless other people who want to make the future more secure for themselves and their families.

He is the typical modern life insurance agent—a man who is not only an understanding listener, but a trained helper, too! Only through him can you get the advice you need to make life insurance meet your own individual needs.

More than a million Canadian families have benefited by the services of the skilled life underwriter. And he's always ready to help you!

A helpful citizen in your community.

When your agent sells you life insurance, he also helps to improve your community. For a large part of each life insurance dollar is put to work, through investments, to build schools, bridges, highways, industrial plants and many other projects that create jobs and make for better living. You share in these improvements, made possible through the efforts of your helpful fellow-citizen—the modern life insurance agent!

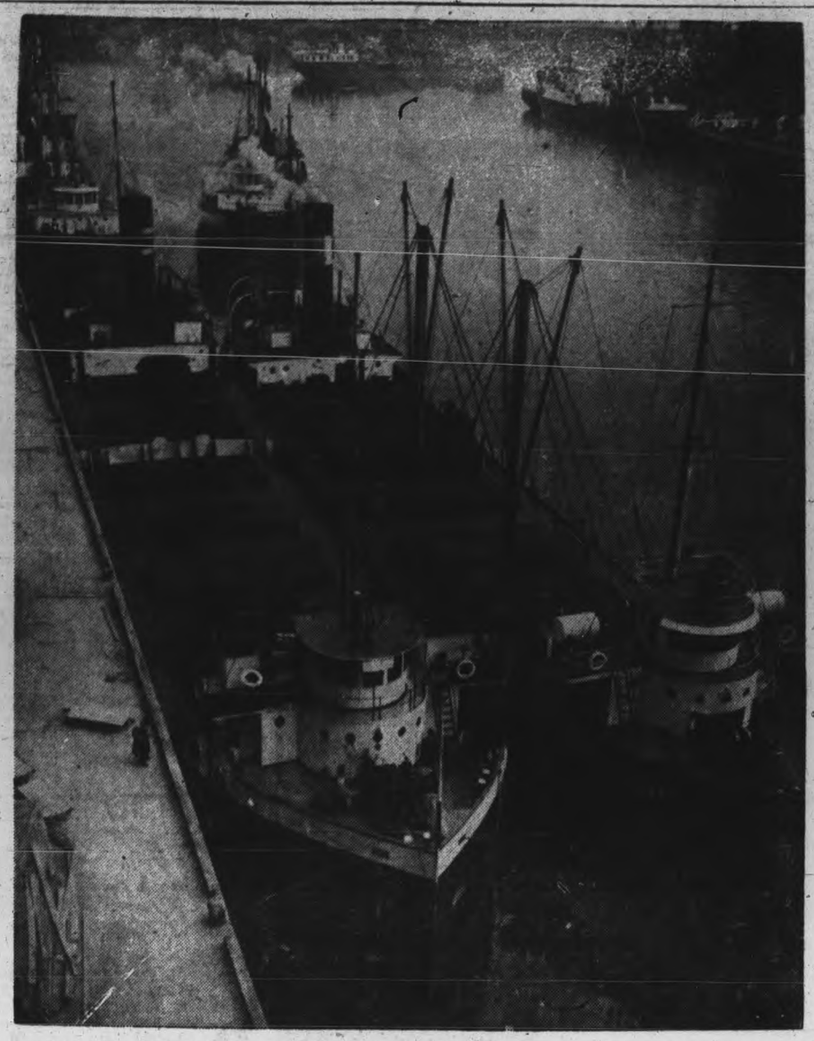
Church Crowded At Millbrook For Anniversary

MILLBROOK, Oct. 24 (ENS)—St. Andrew's Church was filled to capacity for anniversary services Sunday. In the morning chairs had to be placed in the aisles, and the evening congregation was only slightly smaller.

The chancel had been decorated with dahlias, asters and 'mums. A basket of white chrysanthemums had been placed beside the reading desk by Martha and William Lunn in memory of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lunn.

The special music in the morning consisted of a quartette "That Beautiful Land," sung by G. Might, D. McKnight, H. Ouellette and M. McDowell, "Hark, Hark, My Soul," by Shelly, with the solo parts taken by Mrs. G. A. Spicer, choir leader, and Mrs. Lawrence Winslow, and the sextette "O Spirit Stay" sung by Beth North, Ed. Hewitt, Frances Hanley, Kay Bigelow, George Ingham and Don Spicer. Rev. T. G. Husser, BA, BD, who was the speaker at both services, told the Bible contest story for the children before his address in the morning.

In the evening the Rev. Walter Patterson of Grace Presbyterian Church, gave the opening prayer and read the scripture lesson. A quintette composed of Mrs. Laurence Winslow and the senior male quartette sang "What a Comforter Is Jesus". Mr. Husser led in prayer and while the congregation remained in the attitude of prayer, Mrs. G. A. Spicer sang "The Lord's Prayer," by Malotte. Miss E. Hetherington was at the organ for both services.



Mr. Husser announced that services would be withdrawn in St. Andrew's on Nov. 6 to allow the congregation to join in anniversary services at Cavan. Transportation will be provided.

An anthem, "Praise Ye the Father," was sung by the choir.

More than $100 over the $800 asked for was raised, and the returns are not yet complete.

Get Top Priority

TORONTO, Oct. 24 — (CP) — Veterans Minister Gregg said Saturday the government is giving a "topmost priority" to the question of extending war allowances to Imperial veterans. Speaking at a Canadian Corps convention, Mr. Gregg said the government rehabilitation program is "over the hump" although a number of first world war veterans are still in need.

IN THE FOREGROUND two inland lake freighters are shown idle in Montreal port waiting to unload cargoes into port elevators already overloaded with wheat. Behind, two more are also waiting. Fifteen of these ships arrived last week carrying 1,325,000 bushels of wheat—with no place to store it. It may be another week before they are unloaded.

Senior Missionary Groups At Thankoffering

MILLBROOK, Oct. 24 (ENS)—St. Andrews Sunday schoolrooms Saturday afternoon were decorated with baby 'mums and asters for the Mission Band autumn thankoffering meeting to which mothers and members of the senior missionary groups had been invited.

Before the meeting opened, Frances Dawson, games supervisor, took charge of the youngest children and had they playing together. Judy Hobbs and Elizabeth Anne McKnight greeted the guests at the door and showed them to their seats.

The president, June Blair, made a short speech welcoming the visitors before the children joined in the Mission Band hymn and repeated the Mission Band purpose.

After the roll had been called and the minutes read by Alice Hawkins, Dorothy Ball gave the treasurer's report.

A duet was sung by Barbara Ann Thompson and Frances Dawson.

Four little girls, Elinore Crowley, Jane Ouellette, Sharon Ball and Pamela Hussar, lighted the candles of the worship centre, which consisted of a model church, complete to its bell, made for the children by Mrs. Arnold Fallis.

Glenna Sloan read the Scripture and missionary reading was given by Helen Ingham. The children who took solo parts in the hymns were Nancy Innis, Lenore Ouellette, Dorothy Dawson, John Stinson, Frances Dawson and Nancy Powell.

Barbara Ann Thompson, Marion Kennedy, Muriel May Husser and Carol Hawkins took up the offering. Mrs. Ingham told another story from the study book, assisted by Janet Hobbs, who pasted the flying umbrella, which took the children from Millbrook to Korea, on the map. John Stinson and Glenn Forsythe sang a duet.

Refreshments were served. The small children were placed round a table for a party of their own under the care of older members of the Band. The children who played the piano during the tea hour were: Marlyn Husser, Laureen Guthrie, Helen Wright, Helen Ingham, and Frances Dawson.

The offering amounted to more than $10 which brought the Mission Band well over its allocation for the year.

Test Pilot Goes Home

TORONTO, Oct. 24 — (CP) — Jimmie Orrell, test pilot for A. W. Roe's jetliner, will return to England this week. "My work here is now finished," he announced Saturday. Orrell, who has been here three months, testflew the jet airliner from nearby Malton airport for 20 minutes again Saturday as about 6,000 persons looked on.

COME AND BRING YOUR FRIENDS

GOOD CITIZENSHIP
is a lot of little things

PUBLIC PROPERTY IS YOUR PROPERTY

Most of us respect the private property of others and in turn demand a similar respect for our own! Then why shouldn't we extend this responsibility to what we all own . . . the neighborhood parks, government buildings, etc. . . . in general, public property? Your money helps buy, build and maintain it. Take a pride in your ownership . . . refrain from abusing public property in any way . . . and prevent others from abusing it. You'll be acting in the interests of "Good Citizenship".

You can help this public service effort. Make a note of some of the little things which, in your opinion, contribute to Good Citizenship.

Mass Migration Of Jews Drains Coffers

TORONTO, Oct. 24—(CP)—Israel's Consul-General in Canada says growing anti-semitism in Europe is forcing a mass migration of Jews from European countries to Israel.

Avraham Harman, the Consul-General, Sunday told the Canadian Jewish Congress:

"There are countries in Europe where Jews are living in an atmosphere of fear and uncertainty. Tens of thousands of Jews are being forced to seek a new home and a new refuge. The consequences of this migration are that the coffers of the Jewish Agency are empty.

Dr. Nahum Goldmann, chairman of the World Jewish Congress, said in another address that the avalanche of immigration is only one of the problems Israel faces. He said the Jewish state in Israel is not yet consolidated, the Arabs are rearming and Israel is "in the danger zone."

The position of Canadian jewry in relation to Israel was discussed by Samuel Bronfman of Montreal, National President of the Canadian Jewish Congress. He said the establishment of the state of Israel enables Canadian jews to turn their attention and energies more fully than in the past to developing Canadian jewish tradition in Canada.

Get Winter Training

LONDON, Ont., 24 — (CP)—Army reservists in Ontario will have a chance for the first time this winter to take modern winter training, Maj-Gen. Chris Vokes told a week-end conference here of commanding officers and key personnel of Western Ontario Units. About 35 men attended. Courses of winter indoctrination will be held at Petawawa, said the head of the Army's Central Command.

On Way To Churchill

WINNIPEG, Oct. 24—(CP)—A party of 64 Army officers arrived here Sunday on their way to Churchill, Man., where they will study military problems in the Arctic. The party, composed of 43 officers now attending the Army staff college at Kingston, and 11 members of the directing staff, is headed by Col. W. C. Dick, director of the Canadian Army Staff College.

24 People Holding Ticket On Hyperbole

PRESTON, Oct. 24 (CP) — If Hyperbole wins the running of the Cambridgeshire Stakes Wednesday, there will be 24 Irish Sweepstake winners in the Preston district—all on one ticket.

Last summer Albert Abbott, of Preston bought two books of tickets on the sweeps when he was in Ireland and sold a ticket to 23 of his friends and one to himself on the condition if there was a winner among the 24 all would share the prize.

One of the tickets, held by Eva McCarthy of Kitchener, was drawn and the horse was Hyperbole. If it wins, the 24 will get about $3,000 each, but if it loses they will get only $18 each. The ticket holders are pretty confident Hyperbole will come in somewhere. They said they recently turned down an offer from a syndicate to buy a half share for $8,000.

Dance Hall Burns

SIMCOE, Oct. 24—(CP)—A fire believed to have caused $50,000 damage last Sunday destroyed a combined dance hall, store and restaurant at Long Point Beach, about 30 miles southeast of Simcoe. The fire was discovered soon after a wedding reception in the building. Cause of the fire is believed to have been a cigaret butt left smouldering in the ladies' washroom.

To Lay Ship's Keel

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 24—(CP)—Ivor Wagner, Dominion and Owen Sound Transportation Company official, said the keel for the company's new passenger ship, the Norgoma, will be laid at Collingwood ship yards Oct. 31. The Norgoma, due for service next spring, will replace the Manitoulin, now being used for passenger and freight runs to North Shore points.

Family Reunites At Fairview For Anniversary

FAIRVIEW, Oct. 21 (ENS) — Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bell of Smith township were surprised on Thursday when relatives and friends gathered in the evening to honor them on the occasion of their 40th wedding anniversary.

An impromptu program was arranged by the chairman, Allan Mann and consisted of greetings and good wishes from several of the guests and included a toast to the bride and groom by their minister, Rev. D. P. Morris.

The celebration was also a reunion. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. James Mann of Elgin, Manitoba, cousins of the bride and groom, who are visiting the former's brother and his wife Mr. and Mrs. Allan B. Mann of Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Bell have three children, all of whom were present; Mrs. D. T. Watson (Hilda) of Long Branch; Olive and Carmen at home; and two grandchildren, Howard Bell and Elizabeth Watson who were also present. Other guests included Mrs. Lillian Roseborough, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Whitfield Northey, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Webdale, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Bell, Mrs. Carmen Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Roseborough, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Nicholls, Rev. and Mrs. D. United Nations Day Recalls Aims And Achievements

The United Nations Assembly voted last year to set aside today October 24, as "United Nations Day," as an occasion for the rededication of the peoples of the world to the principles and purpose of peace for which the United Nations stands.

In conjunction with "United Nations Day" Rotary International has proclaimed the week of October 17-24th as "United Nations Week," during which, the 325,000 Rotarian members in eighty-two countries of the world are endeavoring to focus the attention of the people on the work of the United Nations. Emphasis is being given to the fact that this organization, which is the hope of the world for peace belongs to the peoples of the world

The Peterborough Rotary Club in it's program last Monday, its sponsorship of a radio program and through public effort to stimulate discussion about U. N., is taking its part in "United Nations Day."

Preamble of Charter

The charter of the United Nations is the "Peoples' Charter." This is evidence by the wording of the Preamble to charter of United Nations. Signed in San Fransisco in 1945. The preamble reads:

"To save suceeding generations from the scourge of war, which twice in our lifetime has brought untold sorrow to mankind, and

"to reaffirm faith in fundamental rights, in the dignity and worth of the human person, in the equal rights of men and women and of nations large and small, and

"to establish conditions under which justice and respect for the obligations arising from treaties and other sources of international law can be maintained, and

"to promote social progress and better standards of life in larger freedom,

"to practice tolerance and live together in peace with one another as good neighbors, and

"to unite our strength to maintain international peace and security, and

"to ensure, by the acceptance of principles and the institution of methods, that armed force shall not be used, save in the common interest, and

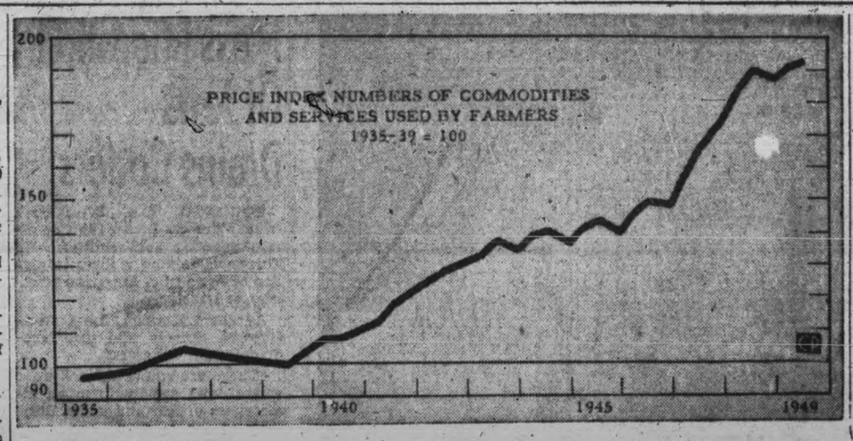
"to employ international machinery for the promotion of the economic and social advancement of all peoples,

The United Nations charter has been signed by 59 nations representing nearly two billion people have signed it. Secretary-General Trygve Lie said recently: "Never before have so many people, or representatives of so many human beings, agreed on such far-reaching provisions for the good of the whole world."

Peace Efforts

The task of making peace after World War II was not given to the United Nations. It has not yet been accomplished. That makes U. N.'s task of maintaining peace much harder, yet the secretary-general could claim in his report that "the United Nations has either prevented or ended wars involving 500 million people." Mark that down on the credit side of the U. N. ledger! The question the Italian colonies, submitted to U. N., suggests that the task of making peace with Germany and Japan may eventually be referred to it also.

UNESCO and other specialized U.N. agencies are trying to create international understanding among the masses of men, the ultimate arbiters of war and peace. In this, they need help of the citizens of all the member nations.



U. N. has achieved much. The lives of many million have been saved. Epidemics that might have taken your life were checked after the war. Vaccine flown to Egypt stopped cholera. Typhus is now being fought in Afghanistan. Refugees from the fighting in Greece and Palestine get relief. Millions of undernourished children in Europe and Asia get supplementary feeding, thanks in part to the U. N. Appeal for Children which all can support.

Funds Raised For Record Player

TRENT RIVER, Oct. 24 (ENS)—School children of S. S. No 10 Seymour with their teacher Mr Linton, staged a dance and social evening in the school house on Friday.

Music for dancing was supplied by Mrs. Eric Little, Joseph McNeely and Frank McLaughlin.

Lunch was served by the pupils. The proceeds of the evening go toward the purchase of a record player and album.

PRICES RISE — Farmers have to pay more for what they buy, just the same as city folk. This Bureau of Statistics graph shows how the prices of commodities and services used by farmers have climbed since 1935. Like the cost of living for city dwellers this index has done its steepest climbing since the war, took a tiny dip in late 1948 but has been on the rise again in recent months.

Farm Costs At New High Nearly All Items Advance

OTTAWA, Oct. 24 (CP)—Almost all the things farmers have to buy or pay for were higher during recent months, sending farm costs index to a new peak.

The Bureau of Statistics reported Saturday that the composite price index of commodities and services used by the farmer—including living costs — rose from 191.1 in April to 192.3 in August. The August figures compares with 190.1 for the same month a year ago.

Based on the index of 100 for the 1935-39 period, over-all farm costs are almost double what they were ten years ago.

The index for farm costs, exclusive of living costs, advanced from 202.9 for April to 204.2 in August—slightly above the previous peak of 203.7 recorded a year earlier.

The bureau said the increase since April is largely seasonal and was due to higher farm wage rates and increased farm living costs. Trends showed little variation between Eastern and Western Canada.

Reflecting increases for food, clothing, household equipment and miscellaneous items right across Canada, the index of farm family living costs rose from 173.3 for April to 174.5 in August. The latest index figure was five points above what it was in August a year ago. Fuel costs moved lower during the four months, while costs of health maintenance remained unchanged.

Showing the usual seasonal trend, the index on farm wage rates rose from 379.6 to 388.1 between April and August. It remained below August, 1948, when it was 398.4.

Indexes for farm equipment and materials declined slightly from 180.4 to 180.2, compared with 176.7 a year before.

A breakdown shows prices higher in August for farm machinery, gasoline, oil and grease and feed Prices declined for building materials, seed and hardware, while they remained unchanged for fertilizer and binder twine.

Housewife Shot

PRINCETON, B.C., Oct. 24—(CP)—A young housewife was found shot to death in bed in her cottage home here Sunday, Provincial Police reported. She is Mrs. George Mathewson, about 25. Police said she apparently was criminally assaulted before being shot in the head with a HOUSEWIFE SHOT

Looking Ahead In Ottawa

Government About Ready To Quit Butter Business

OTTAWA, Oct. 24—(CP)—The government is about ready to go out of business as Canada's biggest butter customer. With the surplus production season nearing its end, government purchases as price support action also are declining. The big job now will be to sell what it has accumulated and this job, agriculture minister Gardiner said recently, likely will not be difficult. For one thing the market doesn't know for certain how much butter the government has accumulated. They know there is about 70,000,000 pounds in store. They don't know how much belongs to the government.

Normally, Canadians use about 23,000,000 pounds a month. During the winter season—when butter is scarce—production is too small to match the monthly demand.

Thos will be the months the minister will likely move fast, shipping butter out as quickly as the public buys it.

He has said the Agriculture Department will sell without discrimination to anyone who can afford to buy in carload lots.

Prices will approximate the average 58 cents a pound the government has paid at price support during the summer months, plus the cost of storage.

In other words, Mr. Gardiner doesn't expect to lose any money over the butter deal. Neither does he hope to make any. All he wants is to break even.

Transportation

Present indications are that the Royal Commission on Transportation will not complete its work for close to another year.

The three-man commission, appointed last December, held public hearings through the last summer. A new series of hearings is to open Nov. 1, with a tentative agenda laid out as far as Dec. 18.

However, expectations now are that it will be March by the time all evidence and argument has been presented.

After that, it will undoubtedly be some months before the commission's final report is put together.

Municipal Tax System Needs Overhaul

By HARRY THEOBALD

The municipal tax system should be overhauled to shift some of the burden from real estate, J. Harper Schofield, president of the Kitchener Chamber of Commerce, recently told its members.

"Real estate is paying for service which have nothing to do with property," he said. "Recreation, care of indigents, education, and similar expenditures comprised the category to which he objected.

He agreed that police and fire protection, maintenance of streets, building of sewers directly affected land and buildings and should be paid for out of taxes on realty.

This subject recruited a strong advocate in Peterborough in James Hamilton, former mayor, whose municipal experience persuaded him that home-owning citizens were not getting the consideration to which they were entitled. William J. Ovens, succeeding him, expressed the same views, that property was being overloaded with taxes. Herbert I. Bradburn was another who retired from the council with the same conviction.

Municipal experience in Peterborough has brought this matter closer to the members of the council than to the rest of the, public, and from what they have reported in recent years from the municipal association conventions which they have attended, their opinions were held widely throughout the province.

Kitchener Chamber appointed a special committee to study the tax field, and it was suggested that it might be reported to the Canadian Chamber.

TAIL IS MISSING

The eyes of a guinea-pig don't drop out if you pick the animals by the tail—guinea pigs haven't got tails.

THIS IS THE CLIMAX for Roy Armstrong, PCVS halfback, as William Park presents him with a gold watch for being the most valuable player to his team Friday night at the Red Feather Tournament in Toronto. Armstrong played a steady game both on the offensive and defensive although his team lost to Sarnia Collegiate 2-1 in the last 10 seconds. At the right, Bob Smith of Sarnia, the quarterback, is also presented with a gold watch by Mr. Park for being the most valuable player to the Sarnia team.

Cars Damaged When Parked

Parked cars had a tough weekend as three were hit by less than careful drivers, only one of whom stayed around to tell about it.

Mrs. C. Dummitt, 483 Donegal St., reported to police Saturday her car had been struck during the night while it was parked in front of her sister's home on Sherbrooke St.

Lorne Smith, 169 Perry St., Saturday night told police the door of his car had been pushed in some time between 9.30 and 11 o'clock while it was parked on Water St., south of King St.

Edwin Smith, 464 Parnell St., backed into a car owned by Homer Lee, 229 King St., near the corner of Park St. and Stewart Place. The accident occurred Sunday afternoon while Smith was turning around.

Rural Area Invited To Name Director

Chamber of Commerce is inviting rural Peterborough to nominate a representative to its directorate at the beginning of the new year, Wilson M. Gemmell, president, informed the annual meeting of Co-Op members Friday night. Beginning in 1950 the Chamber will have 20 directors, 15 elected from the membership, two named from the Junior Chamber, two from the resort operators' section of the Chamber and one from the county organizations.

Did Seated Men Play Crap? Court Weighs Window-Talk

Judgement in the trial of Robert H. McMaster charged with keeping a common gaming house at 474 Wolsley St. was reserved until Thursday by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC., in police court Monday morning. The magistrate commented he wanted to consider the extent of the onus resting on the accused or the crown. John Corkery representing McMaster offered no evidence in his defence.

Mr. Corkery said he thought the crown had not presented sufficient evidence for a case, in spite of the fact the men had no chance to hide anything.

Constable Gordon Trennum testified he had the house under observation about two hours the night of Oct. 15. He then obtained a search warrant and together with Constables Sherman Keliele, D. S. Mackay and H. W. Andrew raided the house.

Heard At Window

While he had been outside a window at the west side of the house he had overheard some of the things said by the occupants. Some one said, "I'll raise you"; another said, "I'll take you on that"; and another "It's my turn now."

He said it was impossible to see through the widow, but he connected the remarks with a crap game.

When the police officers returned with a search warrant, Constable Keliele smashed the window with an axe. The window was too high for Constables Keliele and Trennum to see more on the table than a few bottles of beer. Several men were seated around the table.

Four Dice

McMaster let the police in a short time after being told to and the police found a motor rug on the dining room table, a pack of cards on the china cabinet and two more packs in a writing desk.

Constable Trennum said he saw Neil Harrington put four dice behind the cushion of a seat.

Constable Keliele told the court while they were in the house, the phone had rung and he had answered. A local taxi driver asked for Jack and wanted to know if it were alright to bring up two men. In a few minutes the two appeared.

Constable Keliele said before he smashed the window he had heard someone say "You're covered," which he connected with crap, although he associated "I'll raise you," with poker.

Mr. Corkery pointed out men do not usually play crap seated around a table. They usually stand. The remarks heard by the officers, he suggested, could have been from a discussion of a previous game. He said there was no evidence of a house rake-off and that the person asked for over the phone by the taxi driver was not McMaster who was being charged with being the keeper.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw said the onus was on the accused to prove his innocence.

Reserve Units Recruit Band

Peterborough is to have a second trumpet band. Besides the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School band a new band to be affiliated with the two local reserve force units is being recruited.

Albert Croasdale, former senior bandmaster with the Canadian Army during World War II, will be the conductor of the new unit. He is already working with the PCVS band and under his direction the band was chosen by the District Cadet Training Officer at Kingston to attend the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto this year with the Lindsay Collegiate band. In June Mr. Croasdale was adjudicator at the Waterloo Music Festival and judged over 30 bands at one day's performance.

Since recruiting started over a week ago nine men have entered the band, Mr. Croasdale said. He added that 40 will be the full strength, consisting of 25 trumpeters and 15 drummers.

100 Y's Men Attend Regional Conference

A two-day Ontario regional convention of Y's Men was held Saturday and Sunday with more than 100 delegates from points all over Ontario attending.

Speaking to the delegates at a Saturday night banquet Dave Elder, editor of Y's Men's World, addressed the gathering on the subject "How Big Is a Man?"

He pointed out that Y's men had set for themselves one of the most difficult tasks. The purpose of the International Club was to bring to world mutual respect among peoples, understanding, peace, and finally, most difficult of all, true brotherhood.

Whether or not man, or Y's men were big enough for that task was the question. But he concluded, "With God in him, a man is big enough."

The Y's men delegates were welcomed to the city by Alderman Hurrel Dodds on behalf of Mayor Max J. Swanston.

Presiding over the banquet was Andrew C. Hunter, Toronto, Regional Director. Jack Richardson, president of the Peterborough Y's Men's Club, expressed his pleasure at having the regional conference in Peterborough.

George Moore, chairman of the entertainment committee arranged for the delegates' social program. One of the features of the entertainment was a swimming display put on by the Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club in the Y pool.

FIRE MADE EASY

Matches began to supersede the old flint and steel, or tinder box method of obtaining fire by about 1800.

Sappers, Wives Attend First Reunion

About 75 ex-Sappers of the 3rd Field Park Coy., RCE, gathered in Peterborough Saturday to indulge in post-war reminiscences and honor their fallen comrades. The unit was recruited in Peterborough and the majority of those in it were from the Peterborough district.

It was not a military affair. There were no berets, service ribbons or parades. The chief event was a banquet Saturday night at the Kawartha Club, and a dance followed. Altogether about 150 ex-members of the unit, their wives and friends attended for the first annual reunion.

In memory of those who had fallen the Honor Roll was read by R. Malcolm MacPherson, president of the executive committee, and a minute's silence was observed.

While most of those attending were from this district other members of the unit came from as far away as Toronto, Hamilton and Tillsonburg.

Set Fine Example

The Hon. Harold R. Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests, complimented the Sappers, informing them they had set an example in re-unions by bringing along their wives. "I hope you have many more happy re-unions," he concluded.

Alderman Dr. Herbert Young, welcomed the visitors to Peterborough on behalf of Mayor M. J. Swanston. And he extended an invitation for those who wished to stop overnight to go on a conducted tour of the city Sunday morning.

Other speakers at the head table were Captain Max Morrison, CRE adjutant and Captain Neil Mustard of Toronto, former adjutant of the Company. Brigadier D. H. Storms of Toronto, former CO of the 3rd Division Engineers, was unable to be present, but his place was taken by Captain Robert Chambers, second-in-command in Canada and acting OC of the unit in England.

The Rev. Walter Gilling, Canadian Legion padre, and Harold Yelland, president of Branch 52 of the Canadian Legion, both complimented the Sappers on their re-union. Mr. Yelland reminded the ex-servicemen of the necessity for supporting the "poppy fund".

Small plaques with the engraved names of all the engagements the 3rd Field Park Coy. took part in during the Second World War were presented to each ex-sapper.

A dance and social evening were held after the banquet.

Boy, 7, Making Quick Recovery

TORONTO, Oct. 24 (CP) — Seven-year-old Gary Bugg of Peterborough, who was brought to Toronto with his throat muscles paralyzed, from an attack of bulbar poliomyelitis last Wednesday was reported today to be "recovering quickly."

Hospital authorities said Gary would be ready to go home "quite soon, possibly at the end of the week."

OBITUARIES

MARY AILEEN CUPOLI

The death of Mary Aileen Cupoli, 548 Elm St., occurred Sunday in London, Ont., after a long illness. Her age was 29.

Miss Cupoli was born in Peterborough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Cupoli, and had lived here continuously. She leaves her parents, one sister, Mrs. John Dipirro (Patsy), of Detroit, and one brother, John, at home. She was educated at St. Mary's Concent and was a member of the Sodality of St. Peter's Cathedral.

The funeral will be Wednesday morning from the family home on Elm St. to St. Peter's Cathedral where requiem mass will be begun at 10.30 o'clock. Burial will be at St. Peter's Cemetery.

MISS CATHERINE MAHONEY

Miss Catherine Mahoney, 84, of 380 Brock St., died on Sunday in hospital following a lengthy illness. She was born in Ennismore Township, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Mahoney, and has lived in this district a lifetime. She was a member of St. Peter's Cathedral.

She leaves a brother, James Mahoney, of Windsor.

Funeral will be held on Tuesday from the Lane Funeral Home to St. Martin's Church, Ennismore, where requiem mass will be said at 10 a.m. Burial will be at St. Martin's Cemetery.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

Starting from his home town about a month ago, Mr. Thrush has already attended a lodge session at Grand Rapids, Mich., and in the next eight months will visit 88 lodges in Ontario. While in this district he will visit Lakefield, Millbrook and Havelock.

Youths Get Fines Suspended Term For Joyriding

Three suspended sentences, a one month jail term and two $50 fines were handed out by Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., to four youths in police court Monday morning.

James Atkins, 20, was sentenced to jail for one month after pleading guilty to a charge of stealing some clothing and luggage and was fined $50 after pleading guilty to a charge of joyriding.

Gerald Hogan, RR 3, Peterborough, was placed on two years' suspended sentence after pleading guilty to a charge of joyriding. William Burns, 69 Maple St., was fined $50 and costs on a charge of joyriding and given two years suspended sentence for stealing gasoline. To both charges he had pleaded guilty.

Escapade Results

Raymond Lester, 366 Reid St., was also given two years' suspended sentence on a charge of stealing gasoline.

The joyriding charge resulted from an escapade in which Burns and Atkins got "beered up" and took a car belonging to Harold F. Huff from in front of 199 Dalhousie St.

They took the car to Green Hill where they hid it. Later they returned to town and picked up Gerald Hogan. The three men went for a jaunt in the car to Haliburton county where they spent the night.

The next day they decided to return the car. When they got to Lindsay, Hogan and Burns left and hitch-hiked the rest of the way home. Atkins, who had taken the car in the first place, drove the car back to Peterborough and left it in Jackson's Park where it was recovered by police.

Car Damaged

On the way to Haliburton, they had piled the car into a tree doing considerable damage to the front of the car.

The gas-stealing charge arose from Lester and Burns siphoning some gas from a car parked in a yard at the back of an apartment house at the corner of James and Ashburnham Sts.

Atkins stole a suitcase of clothing from the car he and his friends had highjacked.

Water Heaters To Be Cut Off 4 Hours Daily

Use of flat-rate water heaters will be cut four hours a day beginning Tuesday, Mr. R. L. Dobbin, manager of Peterborough Utilities, informed the Examiner today.

The period of restriction will probably be from 10 a.m. to 12 a.m. and 4 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Robert H. Saunders, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, said the reduction was intended to shift the peak load of power in those hours. It would result in a saving of about 40,000 horsepower daily.

"Our hope is that with this cut our present restrictions and voluntary efforts by consumers we can get by for the next two weeks." Mr. Saunders said.

Wide Area Affected

It was announced Saturday that power would be cut off for two hours daily in Toronto, but the city was told today the reduction of water-heater time had been enlarged another two hours. The area affected is defined as south and east of Huntsville.

Peterborough Utilities Commission had been hoping recently that this method of saving electric power might be prolonged indefinitely, but the notice that went out to Toronto on Saturday was regarded as soon to apply to Peterborough and the rest of eastern Ontario.

Boy On Road Hit By Truck

LINDSAY, Oct. 24 — Lloyd Burrows, son of Deputy Reeve and Mrs. Lloyd Burrows was struck and injured by a truck Friday when he dashed out into the road near St. Dominic's School. He was on his way home from school and ran into the road in front of a stationary bus.

Driver of the truck, whose view of the sidewalk was obstructed by the bus, did his best to swerve and avoid hitting the lad, police say.

The reeve reports that his son, aged 10, has severe head cuts which necessitated four stitches. The lad was given first aid treatment at the office of Dr. M. F. White and later removed to Ross Memorial Hospital for X-ray.

Ask Government To Increase School Grants

OTTAWA, Oct. 24 (CP)—The Ontario Public School Trustees and Ratepayers Association of Education to step up its school grants to meet the increase in school costs.

The association wound up a three-day annual meeting here Saturday on a decision to ask the department to increase its grants to an amount commensurate with the increase in school costs. The grants now are based on a cost for each pupil of $115.

A resolution from Windsor, that the federal government be asked to consider financial relief for school boards which, during the war, gave their vocational schools over for the use of the armed services, was referred to the Urban School Trustees Association.

Delegates reserved for consideration at next year's convention a resolution that the Assessment Act be changed to assure complete payment for education of children of separate school supporters transferring to public schools.

At the final session of the convention, the association was told that school authorities must bring children to the position where they want to learn and where they will get a thrill out of accomplishment.

C. F. Cannon, superintendent of elementary education in Ontario, said that the Ontario public school system operates on the basis that every child be given a chance "to participate in the abundant life that is available in this great country."

He said it had to be determined at the local authority school level what basic knowledge a child needs to be able to meet problems as he passes through life.

"Our job is not drive things into kids' heads, but to bring things out of kids' heads," said Mr. Cannon.

The department of education, despite continually increasing school grants, was prepared to go along with the idea that local school authorities were supreme. But it must be remembered "that local authority is elected."

Mr. Cannon said there are more than 5,900 schools in Ontario, 15,000 teachers, 500,000 school children, 3,300 administering school boards, spending more than $45,000,000. This sum includes more than $20,000,000 in government grants.

Ven. W. A. Townshend, Anglican Archdeacon of London, was re-elected president of the association. Others named were: Honorary president, L. H. Saunders, Toronto; past presidents, D. R. Kennedy, Ottawa; J. F. Twigg, Windsor; vice-presidents, L. R. Shantz, Kitchener; C. H. Hulse, Ottawa; secretary-treasurer, J. D. Mills, Toronto.

BUS TURNS OVER—Twenty-four persons were injured, three seriously, when this Grey Coach Lines bus overturned near Orillia, 80 miles north of Toronto, after colliding with an automobile on No. 11 Highway. The bus, bound from Toronto to North Bay, was driven by a trainee under supervision of a regular driver. Both men were among the injured, together with the driver of the car, Howard Sharpe, who is in serious condition.

Will Force Action

TORONTO, Oct. 24 — (CP)—Mayor Hiram McCallum and Senior Magistrate Robert E. Browne hinted Saturday at an early move to renovate Don Jail and the City Hall Magistrates' Courts here. The mayor told a reporter he is going to "force a decision" on the issue of greater jail accommodation. Magistrate Browne said he has reached the end of his patience about the "intolerable" court conditions.

Parole Prisoner

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 24—(CP)—Career burglar Millard F. Wright, who underwent a delicate brain operation to curb his criminal tendencies, has been paroled from prison. Prison officials confirmed Saturday that Wright was released Oct. 15 in a move to learn whether surgery can cure what a prison cell could not. Wright's freedom came 2½ years after he underwent the operation. He has been a model prisoner.

Accused of Slaying

TOMAH, Wis., Oct. 24—(AP)—A 23-year-old mental patient at the local Veterans Administration Hospital was accused Saturday night of slaying an aged widow. District Attorney William Gleiss said Jose Ramirez, of Ozona, Tex., was named in a first-degree murder warrant in the death of Mrs. Bert Hoag, 82-year-old grandmother. Her nude and beaten body was found in a private garage early Saturday.

Arrest Juvenile Robbers

MONTREAL, Oct. 24—(CP)—Two 16-year-old boys who allegedly fired six shots at their pursuers after holding up a restaurant proprietor at Place Philippe in nearby Repentigny, were captured and brought to provincial police cells here Saturday. The young juveniles—armed with a .32-calibre revolver and a paring knife—face arraignment in criminal court on four charges of burglary and one of armed robbery.

Warns Smokers

CHICAGO, Oct. 24—(AP)—A St. Louis surgeon said Sunday that in his study of 400 cases of lung cancer, "it has been very rare" to encounter a man with the most common form of the disease who had not been an "excessive" cigaret smoker at one time. Dr. Evarts A. Graham, professor of Surgery at Washington University School of Medicine, addressed the sixth inter-American Congress of Surgery.

Victoria Paper May Be Sold

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 24 (CP)—The Daily Colonist said Sunday in a newspage story the 65-year-old Victoria Daily Times is in the process of being sold at a price "said to be about $650,000."

The Colonist named Max Bell, owner of the Calgary Albertan and a member of the syndicate controlling the Edmonton Bulletin, as the man most closely associated with the reported deal.

"Behind Mr. Bell, according to reports," says the Colonist, "is wealthy Vancouver sportsman F. Ronald Graham."

Reported value of the Times, in control of the Spencer family since 1920, has been $1,250,000 in recent months. It was transferred only last week as the sole property of Mrs. J. W. Spencer, widow of the long-time managing editor, J. Will Spencer.

Mrs. Spencer arrived in Victoria from a New York visit on Friday when negotiations were believed to have opened with Mr. Bell and his associates.

Transfer of the Times to Mrs. Spencer's sole ownership was announced in a terse front page story in the paper and came as a surprise to Victoria business circles.

Fowl Supper Realizes $360

TRENT RIVER, Oct. 24 (ENS) —About 400 people were served at the annual hot fowl dinner which was held in the dining hall of the United Church on Wednesday under the auspices of the Women's Association of the church.

The long linen covered tables were decorated with roses of autumn flowers and bowls of fruit.

About 95 can be accommodated at one sitting and dinner was served in relays.

A program presented by the chairman Rev. F. R. Vanderburgh included sing song led by Mr. Vanderburgh and accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Eric Little. Miss Pollock and George Heath played the accordion.

Selections were played by the Pollock Family (2 violins 2 guitars and piano) and there was an address by John Ruttan.

Slides were shown by Mr. Vanderburgh.

A pot luck dinner was held at noon the following day when the surplus of food was served. About 80 atended. There was also a sale of pies and chickens.

The total proceeds will exceed $360.00.

Newlyweds Honored At Community Dance

The community of School Section 17, Otonabee, held a square dance at the school Friday. Main purpose of the party was to present Mr. and Mrs. Joe Corkery, a newly-wed couple living in the section, with a lazy boy arm chair.

The presentation was made after Howard Quinn extended the good wishes of the community to Mr. and Mrs. Corkery. He remarked that the young couple represented the third generation of the Corkery family to live in the section during his lifetime there. There were few families who had stayed on the section such a long time, he said.

The presentation was the climax of a gay evening of square and ballroom dancing. Refreshment conveners were Mrs. Audrey Watkins, Miss Blanche Quinn and Miss Clotilda Hurley.

One Quilt Completed WA Starts Another

ROSENEATH, Oct. 24 (ENS)—Quilting was the main feature at the October meeting of the W.A. of St. James' Anglican Church on Thursday at the home of Mrs. William Robins.

A quilt was completed during the afternoon and another custom quilt was on order. Pieces of material were distributed among the members to be made into a quilt for the annual autumn bale, to be sent to the W. A. House in Toronto.

The president, Mrs. C. R. Spencer, presided over a brief business period. The treasurer, Mrs. James Brown reported a balance of $222.

It was decided that the Little Helpers Secretary, Mrs. Jack Webb, send $10 from their funds to foreign missions.

A letter was read from the secretary of the W. A. of St. George's Anglican Church, Hastings, extending an invitation to attend the meeting to be held in the church on Oct. 28 at 2.30 p.m. The invitation was accepted.

Plans were wade for the November meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Herbert McCracken.

The meeting closed with prayers by Carion Spencer.

Lunch was served by the hostess.

Millage-Endicott Wedding In Omemee United Church

Chrysanthemums and gladioli formed the setting Saturday in Trinity United Church, Omemee, for the wedding of Audrey Rolene, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Endicott, to Mr. John Gordon Millage youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Millage, Lakefield.

The Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt performed the marriage. The music was played by Mrs. I. Connell. Before the ceremony Miss Dorothy Connell sang "I Love You Truly" and during the signing of the register she sang "Because."

A gown of white slipper satin with graceful flowing train, edged with lace to match an inset yoke at the neckline, was the bride's choice. The skirt fullness was caught up at the front hemline with sprays of lily-of-the-valley. Her veil of embossed net was caught in a Queen Anne headdress and she carried a cascade of American Beauty roses. She was given in marriage by her father.

Bridesmaids Miss Vaila Endicott and Miss Grace Millage, sisters of the bride and groom, were in similarly fashioned frocks of orchid and green taffeta and wore long mittens to match and pleated hats of the same material. They carried cascades of yellow and orchid 'mums. Cheryl Endicott, niece of the bride, was flower girl, dressed in yellow taffeta and carrying a variegated nosegay.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Ralph Millage. Ushers were Keith Brown of Lakefield and Meryl Endicott of Welland, brother of the bride.

The reception was held in the church parlor where the decorating was carried out in the colors of the attendants' gowns, orchid, green and yellow. The bride's mother received, gowned in grey silk crepe with wine hat with ostrich plume and wearing a red rose corsage. The groom's mother assisting wore brown satin with hat of green felt and corsage of yellow roses.

The couple left on a wedding trip to Detroit and points south, and on return will live in their newly built home in Lakefield. The bride's going-away outfit was a dress of light blue and navy, navy fitted coat, navy and pink accessories and a grey squirrel neckpiece, and she had a corsage of pink roses on her handbag.

Guests at the wedding were from Peterborough Lindsay, Lakefield, Bobcaygeon, Toronto, Port Credit and Welland.

Mildred Bulmer Wears Mother's Wedding Veil

In St. Paul's Presbyterian Church Saturday afternoon, the Rev. C. G. Boyd performed the marriage of Miss Mildred Mary Elsie Bulmer and Mr. Clarence Stanley Bishton. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Bulmer, of R.R. 4, Peterborough. The groom is son of Mrs. E. Fife, of Indian River, and the late Mr. Frederick Bishton.

The altar was banked with palms and ferns for the occasion. Mr. Christopher Gledhill, organist, played traditional wedding music and accompanied Miss Dorothy Lowes when she sang "Bless this House" at the signing of the register.

Mr. Bulmer gave his daughter in marriage. She was wearing an ivory satin gown with full court train and her mother's wedding veil of silk embroidered tulle, caught to a beaded tiara. She carried a shower bouquet of Briarcliff roses and bouvardia.

Miss Elda Bulmer was maid of honor for her sister and Miss Marilyn Hutchinson was bridesmaid. They were in similarly styled frocks of mauve and green taffeta which had large bustle bows and they wore flower headdresses and carried nosegays of yellow 'mums centred with Talisman roses. Marlene Watson, small niece of the groom was the flower girl and was dressed in rose taffeta with flowers in her hair and she was carrying a nosegay of white 'mums centred with a pink rose.

The groomsman was Mr. Elwood Fallis. Ushers were Dennis Crowhurst and Fred Vyse.

The reception following was at the bride's home. Her mother received the guests in a gown of steel grey crepe, wearing a hat of American beauty shade and corsage of red Bettertime roses. The groom's mother also received and she wore black with hat in orchid shade and Briarcliff roses at her shoulder.

The bride's table was lovely with a lace cloth and centred with the cake, surrounded with pink and white flowers. Refreshments were served by the Misses Leta McNevin, Meryl McMullen, Phyllis McKee, Hilda Northey, Evelyn Northey, Ruth Harrison, Marion Perry, Doreen Charlton, Violet Sanderson and [illegible] Hart.

The bridal couple are taking a wedding trip to Ottawa and the Maritimes and for travelling Mrs. Bishton chose a navy check suit, navy hat and accessories. When going away her corsage was of Briarcliff roses.

On return they will live on Parkhill Road.

Home and School Conference For Havelock

Mrs M. D McLellan of Brantford will be guest speaker at the afternoon and evening sessions of a conference in Havelock Friday for Home and School Associations of Havelock, Peterborough and surrounding district.

Mrs. McLellan, provincial convener for leadership training and past vice-president of the Ontario Federations of Home and School Associations, at the request of the Department of Education, has instructed for the past two years a summer school course for teachers on "Home and School Relationships." She will address the conference on "The Overall Picture of Home and School."

During the evening session, with Miss Isabelle Connelly and Mr. J. Telford of Peterborough, she will take part in a teachers' panel. The topic will be: "Is Parent Interest and Co-operation Necessary?"

The showing of two films and explanation on the use of visual aids in classroom and community by Mr. K. O. Birkin, district school inspector, and Mr. R. Ward of the National Film Board, will conclude a meeting planned to help and inspire those interested in the Home and School movement.

High-pressure Causes Man Suspect Girl No Bargain

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been keeping company for some time with a girl who is, I think, about as fine as they come. However, her mother is constantly praising her daughter to me. To hear the old girl rave one would think her daughter was a Fairy Princess and I the luckiest fellow in the world. All this overlaudation is beginning to get under my skin and make me wonder if everything is O.K. with the girl and if she is as good as she looks to me. What is your opinion?

PUZZLED MAN

ANSWER: I daresay the girl is all your fondest fancy paints her, and the only trouble is that she is afflicted with a stupid and tasteless mother who hurts her daughter instead of helping her by overlaudation.

Dorothy Dix

There are many women who hold it to be a mother's duty to be her daughter's press agent. Let some eligible youth come around and show a glimmering of interest in Mamie and the first time mother gets his ear she will tell him not only how many suitors she has, but what an angel she is. Mother does not really think she has a fault in the world, but if she has one, it is just being too sweet and amiable and unselfish.

Too Much Praise

The dear child is always thinking about everybody but herself, and just never gets angry or impatient. And she is so domestic and economical. Why, would you believe it, she just picked up the goods for that dress she has on for a few cents and made it herself. And she just has a natural turn for cooking, and he really must try a piece of the cake that she baked this morning. And the young man, who is perhaps himself a salesman, and who knows that the poorer the article you have to sell, the more encomiums you have to lavish on it, begins to be suspicious of the real merits of the girl.

Why, if Mamie really is so desirable, does her mother have to cry her up to the skies? Why, if so many other men want her, should she be so anxious to sell the girl to him? Why, if the girl is really the light of her home and the prop of her age, is mother so anxious to get rid of her?

And he can't know that it is just because mother knows that Mamie is in love with him. She wants to enhance Mamie's value in his eyes and she hasn't sense enough to see that she is lowering it instead of raising it.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX—I have a friend of whom I am very fond and whose society I enjoy greatly. During the last two years I have frequently come across the husband of this friend at various placs o famusement in the comany of a girl, and I have reason to know that he is unfaithful to his wife. I have never told her, but I feel so disloyal in keeping my knowledge from her that lately I have avoided going out with her. Am I doing right in keeping silent? I hate to see her treated so badly.

WORRIED FRIEND

ANSWER: There is no surer way of making an enemy out of a friend than to open the eyes of a wife who has purposely blinded herself to her husband's side-stepping.

For in her heart every woman knows when her husband is unfaithful to her. She may not know the precise moment, nor the actual individual girl with whom he is philandering, but she knows with a woman's unerring intuition that he has betrayed her. No woman so dull but who knows when her husband ceases to love her. No woman so dumb but what she can read by a thousand signs when her husband begins to be interested in another woman.

But even when a woman knows within herself that her husband is faithless to her she does not want to be told because it somehow saves her face to think that nobody else knows that she is a neglected wife. She doesn't feel she has to take any step in the way of a divorce or leaving him, as she is often driven into doing by public opinion.

So, for your friend's sake, don't tell her. Let her live in her fools paradise as long as she can if she really doesn't know, and, if she does know, respect her pretense of ignorance.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My wife and I feel that we should get a divorce as we can no longer get along together. The only thing that keeps us from separating is having to break the news to our 14-year-old boy.

TROUBLED

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I should think parents would find it extremely difficult to explain to a child why they were breaking up his home and taking away from him the love and guidance of a father or mother. You will need a pretty good alibi to convince him that because you and your wife won't control your tempers, he should be thrown out on the world to be a miserable little half-orphan.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Would you give me a good recipe for old-fashioned sugar cookies to cut out for Hallowe'en cookies? I have never made them, but I know my mother used to—for when I was little I helped roll them out—that is, I rolled out some of her dough trimmings—for some reason mine were a much darker shade but I ate them just the same. I have little ones now—that would enjoy rolling out cookie dough too I think.—Druggist's Wife.

✧ ✧ ✧

Answer:

Rolled-out Cookies

(For Cutting Hallowe'en Shapes)

Two-thirds cups shortening, 1¼ cups sugar, 2 eggs, 3 cups flour, 1½ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons baking powder, grated rind 1 orange, 1 tablespoon orange juice. Cream the shortening, sugar and eggs together until light and foamy. Sift the flour, salt, and baking powder together and add to the first mixture. Add the orange rind and juice. Mix until very smooth. Chill. Roll out to ¼-inch thickness on very lightly floured board. Cut out with various shaped cutters such as half moons, witches, pumpkins. The witches may be dotted with currants for features. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 12 to 15 minutes. Frost with Orange Icing: 1 teaspoon light corn syrup, ⅞ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon grated orange peel, 1 egg white, 3 tablespoons orange juice, shake of salt, ½ teaspoon lemon juice. Beat together in top of double boiler all ingredients except lemon juice. Place over boiling water and beat constantly with rotary beater for 7 minutes or until stiff enough to stand in peaks. Remove from heat, add lemon juice and continue beating until of spreading consistency. This will also frost top and sides of a 2-layer cake.

Question: Print your recipe for date squares when you have the room will you please.—Perennial Baker.

✧ ✧ ✧

Answer:

Date Squares

One cup hot water, 1 cup chopped dates, ¼ cup shortening, ¾ cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1¾ cups sifted flour, 1 tablespoon cocoa (this is optional), ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon cloves, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 cup chopped nuts. Pour hot water over dates and let stand. Cream shortening, adding sugar gradual and the eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Sift the flour, cocoa and spices together and add with the liquid drained from dates, and the lemon juice. Mix in the dates and nuts. Press into well-buttered square tin and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 30 minutes. Sprinkle with sugar while warm and cut into squares or diamonds when cold.

Two Ways to Utilize Surplus Apples, Tomatoes

By MARY MOORE.

My household may not be "average" because I am a "Working Mother" or if you prefer it a "Career Woman" but we do seem to be subject to similar pressures and to have the same wants as our neighbours and friends.

So I changed my mind about today's subject. I was going to describe a Hallowe'en party but when I realized that a lot of you ladies might like to use up some of the cheap windfall apples and green tomatoes to be had this week I make a quick switch.

See some Hallowe'en ideas unuder the question column.)

I made India Chutney and a Mincemeat that is strictly peculiar to Mary Moore.

India Chutney (also known as apple or English chutney)

Twenty large-sized apples (I used Spys). (If there is much waste from using windfalls increase number of apples.) 6 cups chopped green tomatoes (wash and remove only the black part of the core), 3½ cups brown sugar, 8 cups spirit vinegar, 5 tablespoons salt, ¾ cup mustard seeds 2 or three tablespoons ground chili powder (or increase this if you wish), 1 lb. ground green ginger, 1 lb. raisins, ½ lb. currants, (these are optional), 4 onions.

Wash and trim the tomatoes chop with knife and sprinkle with 2 tablespoons of the salt and let stand 12 hours, then drain well. Through medium coarse knife of food chopper put unpeeled but washed, quartered and cored apples, peeled onions and ginger.

Add all remaining ingredients and cook over medium heat, stirring very frequently until mixture is of chutney consistency and a medium shade of brown. This takes a little over an hour. These amounts make about 10 10-lb. jars. I covered mine with boiling hot parafin and paraffined the insides of the covers too, immediately before screwing them down.

Fruit—6-quart basket of sour apples, 1 lb. cranberries, 5 cups chopped green tomatoes, 2 lbs. raisins or 1½ lbs. raisins and ½ lb. currants; 3 lbs. brown sugar, 2 lbs. very finely chopped lean beef, 1 cup finely choppe suet, quart cider or any other fruit juice, 2 quarts water, 1 teaspoon each nutmeg, cinnamon, cloves, mace, allspice.

The above ingredients may be varied: the meat may be omitted; the cranberries left out and substituted with more chopped green tomatoes; the spices may be varied. Lemons, put through food chopper are a nice addition, as is lemon rind.

Boil all ingredients together until apples and green tomatoes are soft, and the whole mass is of mincemeat consistency. This must be stirred almost constantly Pour into sterile quart jars and seal with sterile rubbers, lids and rings.

Sweet Green Tomato Pickle

One peck green tomatoes, 6 large Bermuda onions, 1 cup salt, 2 quarts water, 3 quarts vinegar, 2 lbs. sugar, 2 tablespoons each whole cloves, ginger, whole allspice, mustard seed, cinnamon, 1 teaspoon pepper. Slice the tomatoes and onions, sprinkle with salt and let stand overnight and drain. Add the water, 1 quart of the vinegar, and boil 15 minutes and drain. Add the sugar, the 2 quarts vinnegar and the spices all but the ginger tied in muslin bag. Boil about 1 hour or until the syrup is somewhat thickened. Pour into sterile jars and seal. This is best when it stands for a month before using.

Variations of Green Tomato Pickle are that you may replace some of the green tomatoes with thinly sliced celery; whole mustard seeds up to 2 tablespoons may be added directly to the mix with the ginger. You may add up to 3 thinly sliced red peppers. The mustard seeds, red peppers give it an interesting appearance.

-AND I LEARNED ABOUT THE APERIENT FROM HER!

Yes . . . that's her and trust a nurse to know what's good for you! Whenever you feel dull, dragged down and dopey because of common constipation, it pays to know about the great aperient—gently laxative KRUSCHEN.

The natural aperient action of Kruschen is due to its unique blend of saline minerals, the same as are found in the natural waters of famous medicinal springs. Kruschen offers you these four advantages:

EASY TO TAKE—Dissolves quickly in water, or your morning coffee, tea or fruit juice. Most folks find the small morning dose is best.

WORKS FAST—Usually within the hour. Does not spoil your day.

GENTLE ACTION—Its formula is balanced to act gently, without discomfort.

TIME-TESTED—Over 300,000,000 packages sold throughout the world.

Let Kruschen help you as it has so many others. Try a regular morning dose of this great aperient and know yourself what it is to have "that grand Kruschen Feeling". 25c and 75c at all drug stores.

One-Burner Dinner

Italian Meat Balls (see directions for managing these one one-burner below)
Lemon Snow (see notes)
Coffee

Directions

You will notice that I am stressing apple recipes. At present apples are in too good supply on the markets and we should use them in as many ways as we know to take advantage of the good price.

Use tart apples for Apfel Kuchen: (This method may be used for raw appricots or peaches too.) Put in sifter 1½ cups flour, 1-3 cup sugar, ¾ teaspoon salt and 3 teaspons baking powder, and sift into bowl. Cut into this 3 tablespons butter or shortening until quite fine, then beat in 1 egg and 1-3 cup milk. Spread this dough on rather shallow buttered pan to ½-inch thickness. Place wedges of apples point side down in even rows on dough to completely cover it. Sprinkle with mixture of ¼ cup buttered cream with 2-3 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour and ½ to 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 30 minutes.

I have often printed method of making Italian Meat Balls so will not repeat it today. I only want to tell you how to make this dish on one burner: Saute the onions and green peppers if used in top of double boiler over direct heat, then sear the meat balls in this fat with the onions, etc. Mix the tomato sauce and seasoning in a bowl and pour them over the the meat balls, and simmer about 15 minutes. In bottom of double boiler boil the spaghetti in plenty of salted water until nearly tender. Drain off some of the water so that top will fit on bottom and let stand over low heat until top is heated through again.

Lemon Snow (Or Snow Pudding or Lemon Sponge)

Soak 2½ teaspoons gelatine in ¼ cup cold water 5 minutes; add 1 cup boiling water and stir until gelatine is dissolved. Add ½ cup sugar, pinch salt, grated rind 1 lemon and ¼ cup lemon juice and cook until slightly thickened, stirring constantly over boiling water. Beat 2 egg whites until stiff then beat into them ¼ cup sugar, beating until very stiff. Remove hot pudding from heat, and beat the meringue into it with a strong rotary beater. Turn into individual moulds or large mould and chill. Serve with Custard Sauce: Scald 1 cup milk. Beat together the 2 left-over egg yolks with 2 tablespoons sugar and ⅛ teaspoon salt. Pour the milk over them, stirring, then return to top of double boiler and stir until mixture coats spoon. Water in bottoms should not boil. Remove from heat at once, add ½ teaspoon vanilla and chill before serving with the "snow".

Nehru Ready To Visit Russia If Invited

OTTAWA, Oct. 24 (CP)—India's Prime Minister Nehru, visiting the United States and Canada, said today he would go to Russia, too, if Stalin invited him.

He was told at a press conference that the Russian press was saying he has committed India more firmly "to the U.S. block."

He said "our policy is not to align ourselves with any bloc but to be friendly with all." There were certain contacts with the Commonwealth but this did not preclude complete independence.

Czech UN Head In Hot Water

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 —(CP)— Foreign Minister Vladimir Clementis of Czechoslovakia faces questioning on charges of "deviationism" when he returns to Prague, the New York Times says today in a dispatch from its Paris correspondent. Dr. Clementis now is in New York as chief of his country's United Nations delegation.

The Times writer, C. L. Sulzberger, says that recent diplomatic advices received in Paris report that authorities of the Communist information bureau, which has been tightening up party discipline in several eastern European states in an effort to eliminate all traces of "Titoist" heresy, have not yet decided what to do about Dr. Clementis.

Sulzberger says the Czech foreign minister is considered "somewhat too independent minded."

The Times writer adds:

"It is reported that one body of Communist opinion is ready to 'purge' Dr. Clementis from all positions of party or governmental power, and possibly, in the future, bring him to court for public trial...."

Cricket Club Enjoys Successful Season

By C. H. IRESON.

The Peterborough - Whitaker Cricket Club enjoyed a successful season this year. It closed with the drawn match against Toronto St. Edmund's after the longest and strongest schedule for the locals sinces the beginning of the war.

The club played 16 matches, winning nine, losing six and drawing one. Wins were over TCS (two), Dovercourt (two), New Hambledon (two), Oshawa, Parkdale B and Dentonia. Losses were to Oshawa, TCS Vacation Team, Parkdale B, Carleton County, Ottawa Valley Council and Yorkshire. During the season, the team scored 1,408 runs to 1,358.

These matches include the county championship against Carleton, who went on to defeat Wentworth in the final for the Matthews Trophy, won in 1948 by Peterborough. Another was against Ottawa Valley, the same club as Carleton County. The semi-final for the Woods Memorial Trophy was lost to Yorkshire, one of the strongest of the Toronto teams.

Good Showing

The local teams boldly entered the Toronto and District Council in the Rawlinson or third division and headed this division at the end of the season with but one loss to gain promotion to the second division next year. There they will meet Dontonia, Parkdale A, Toronto B, St. Edmund's and West Toronto.

The club was strengthened by the arrival late in the summer of A. V. Pope at TCS. A member of the Derbyshire County team from 1932 till the war, he showed his value here by scoring 72 in his first match against Oshawa, and finished the season with a four innings average of 27-75 and had taken eight wickets average 8.85.

Other high scorers were F. Booth with 72 not out against New Hambledon and 73 not out against St. Edmund's, scoring in the season 258 runs average 25.80. H. Pyle scored 64 against TCS and an average of 16 for 13 innings. B. Roberts had 160 average 13.33, W. Wright 150 for 12.16, and R. Rollwagon 83 for 10.3. Best bowlers were F. Dyer 40 wickets for 7.57, F. Booth 19 for 8.89, H. Pyle 38 for 9.10, W Wright 14 for 9.28. It was a good season with a full schedule and a fine sporting team which always gave its best. Full particulars on averages will be available at the club general meeting shortly.

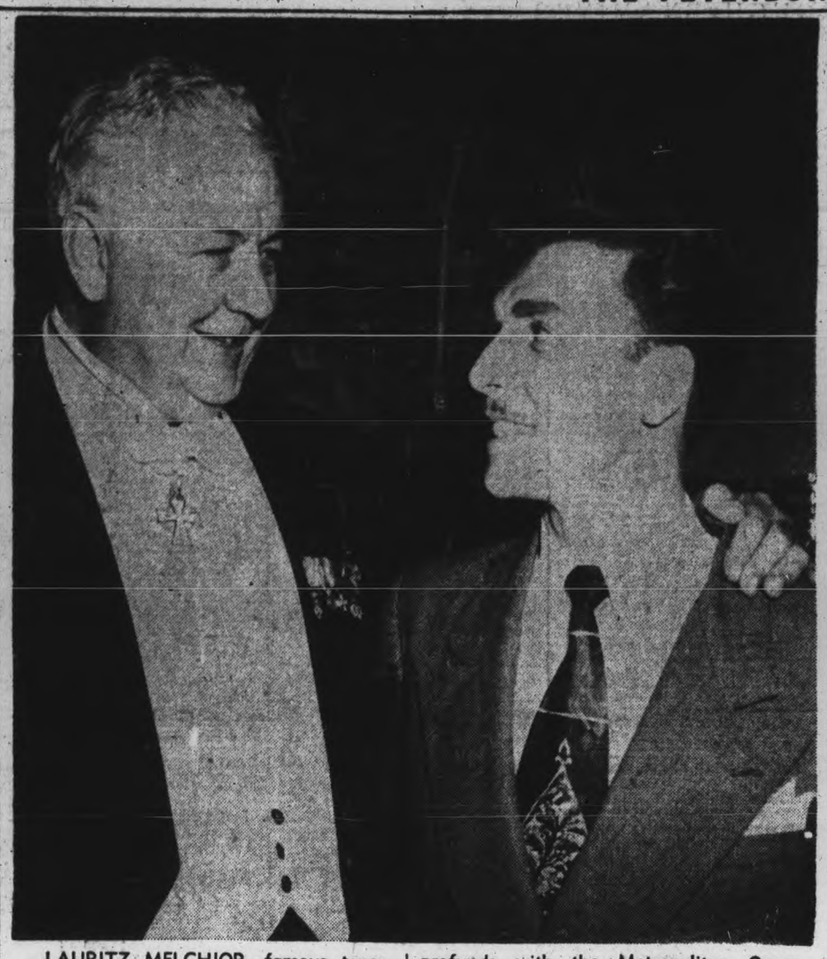
1,000 Children Needing Foster Homes

OTTAWA, Oct. 24 (CP)—Foster homes are needed immediately for more than 1,000 Canadian children, the Canadian Welfare Council said today.

The figure is contained in a report released today following a survey by the council. The shortage of foster homes at Toronto was reported to be so "acute" that social workers there were forced to use their own homes as temporary shelters for children.



"It is easy to forget that for every child available for adoption, there are several others—equally in need of a home—who cannot be adopted," said Phyllis Burns, secretary of the council's child welfare division.

"Children's agencies all across the country have long waiting lists of parents who want to adopt a child," said Miss Burns. "This certainly is not the case for children who need foster homes."

Children in need of foster homes are often members of broken families or from homes where sickness or other causes make it impossible for them to receive proper care. Some are orphans or have been abandoned. They may be babies, six-year-olds, or teen-agers.

The main thing is that they are not adoptable, perhaps because their parents hope eventually to give them a home or because they are for some reason difficult to place.

Foster parents are paid by the agency which places the child in their care. The average monthly payment runs around $28 for each child.

LAURITZ MELCHIOR, famous tenor, who gave a recital in Peterborough last weekend, found fellow-countrymen, colleagues and acquaintances in the city. On the right is Art Dollack, who sang basso profundo with the Metropolitan Opera chorus in 1944 to Melchior's star roles. Another Peterborough resident, John Jessen, served with Melchior in the Swedish Guards during the first World War. — (Choate Studio Photo)

American Ladies Watercolorists In Library Show

Thirty water-colors are now hanging in the Public Library Gallery. It is a travelling exhibition of work of the National (U.S.A.) Association of Women Artists. The show has special interest because it is entirely American and entirely the work of woman painters.. It looks more American than feminine; that is to say, it is representative good American painting, and shows to this reviewer at least, that women painters are not a different species from male painters.

As befits water-color many of the paintings are impressionist and expressionist; have an impromptu freshness in technique, and treat of mods rather than sights seen. Such are Harriet Oliver's 'Cresendo Al Fresco', with an interesting oriental suggestion, 'Santa Fee Landscape' by Elizabeth Erlanger, 'Our City' by E. Zundel—with a hint of social comment, and Margret Knapp's 'Acrobats'.

There are two flower arrangements, at which women painters seem to excel, a strong winter scene ('Winter Pallette') which pushes water-color as far as it will go in the direction of oils, and an evocative but clearly-stated study, 'Evening At Home', where the at-home pastime is chequers. It and the Santa Fee landscape are among the more provocative works in the show. A clean and bold use of blue and green gives Nancy Ransom's 'Rockport Cove' a brilliant freshness. Vanessa Helder's sprouting tubers have a strange introspective quality emphasized by the purples and the meticulous fidelity of the drawing.

No Elegance

This American exhibition has a lesson of discipline and maturity to teach Canadian water-colorists. There are two lacks which perhaps water-color should not be expected to fill: there is nothing grand, and there is no elegance. The absence of both grandeur and elegance in modern painting is, this reviewer feels, stigmatizes the moderns.

The exhibition was directed to Peterborough by the Local Council of Women whose members will no doubt flock to the show to see what wonders they have wrought, hung by Men's Sketch Club, and financed by the Library Board (it was expressed from B.C.). Mr. William Graff, Peterborough's Librarian, is to be complimented for his continuing efforts to give our citizens something in paint worth looking at.

Police Escort 3 From Toronto

COBOURG, Oct. 24—(ENS)—Brought back from Toronto by Provincial Police during the week-end, Albert and Robert Pink, of Toronto, and Joan Todd, of Toronto, formerly Peterborough, appeared in court today on a theft charge. They were remanded until Wednesday. The three are alleged to have stolen a diamond ring, bracelet and clothing, the property of Clarence Coyte, of Port Hope.

U.S. Employee Shot

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 24—(AP)—Richard Cowan, 42, an American employee on the joint Mexican-United States Commission fighting hoof and mouth disease in cattle, was shot and killed early today in the bar of a residential hotel here. Police said they are searching for a man and woman who fled in an automobile after the shooting. They gave no motive.

Falls Off Cruiser Find Worker's Body

MIDLAND, Oct. 24 (CP)—The body of Harry Watmough, 53, of Toronto, was recovered Sunday from Georgian Bay.

Watmough was drowned last Sept. 10 when he fell from a cruiser which he and other employees of a Toronto iron company had chartered for duck-hunting.

The body, lodged between rocks along the shore some three miles east of here, was found Saturday by Phileas Leduc of nearby Port Severn. Because of high winds and rough winds, it could not be removed until Sunday.

Magistrate's Wife Feared Abducted

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24 (AP)—The words "foul play feared" in a police teletype message today spurred an 11-State search for a 40-year-old woman believed abducted from her home clad in pyjamas.

The missing woman, Mrs. Dorothy Forstein, disappeared last Tuesday. Her husband — City Magistrate Jules Forstein — sought police help Thursday.

The attractive blonde woman's nine-year-old daughter Marcy, told police she had seen a man carry her mother from the Forstein home. At first the police doubted the child's story. Then they took her to a psychiatrist who reported Marcy "apparently is telling the truth."

Forstein said he could give no reason for his wife's disappearance.

A Lucky Escape

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 24 (AP)—Earl Moran, 27-year-old roofer, toppled three storeys from an overhanging eave Sunday. He landed on the broad shoulders of his employer, 67-year-old Morris Hart, who raced to the scene when he heard the rotting wood of the eave give way. Neither was hurt.

Shoots Brother

COBOURG, Oct. 24—(ENS)—Accidentally shot in the knee by his brother, Gerald Doyle, of Cobourg, is in Cobourg Hospital. Gerald, who is 16, was shooting north of Cobourg on Sunday afternoon with his brother John, aged 14. John had the gun and as he turned to speak to Gerald, who was a few yards away, the rifle discharged. Provincial Constable W. Baluk investigated.

Joan Crawford Retains Zest For Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 24 (AP)—How does she do it? How does Joan Crawford retain her zest for Hollywood after all these years?

It has been quite a parcel of years since Lucille Lesueur from San Antonio, Texas, became Joan Crawford and the country's symbol of flaming youth. She even nears the record of Ronald Colman for longevity of film service.

Yet she has the bounce of a starlet. She attacks each film job with rare enthusiasm and is often on the night club circuit and mentioned in the gossip columns. How does she do it?

"Oh, I don't go to the night clubs very often," she said defensively. "I go in spurts. Recently I had three dates with Bill O'Connor, two with Mel Dinelli and a couple with Cesar Romero, who is an old friend. Now I'll stay home for a while."

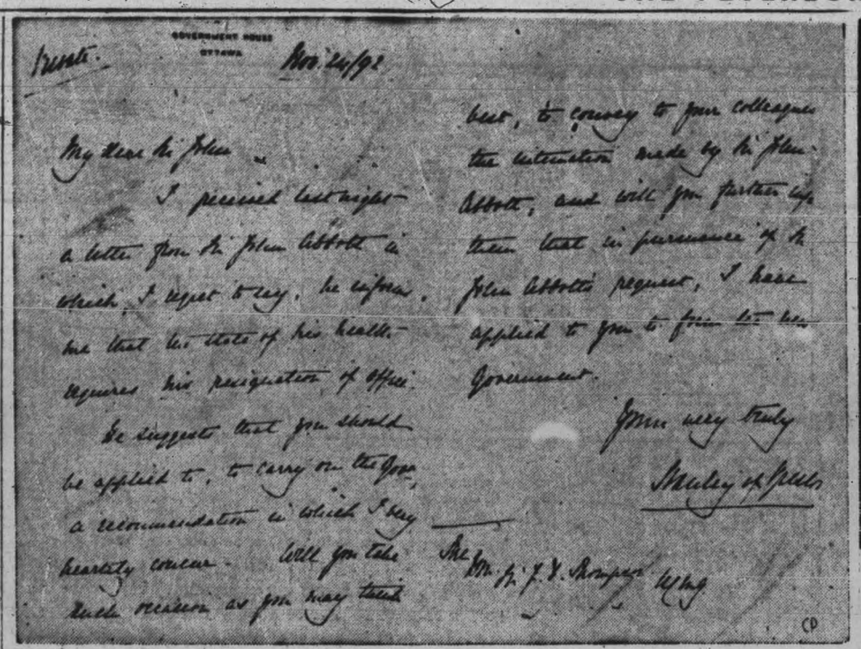
Dinner Date

Uh-huh, she also has had a dinner date with Brian Donlevy, who is the latest swain to be linked with her by the gossipers. Out here a date is a romance, three an engagegement.

A common sight on a Crawford set is Joan surrounded by a dozen people, each serving a different function. Doesn't she ever grow weary of this routine?

"This is the most fascinating business in the world," she said. "I love everything about it."

Laundry Too



"I'll tell you when I get weary. That is when a finish a full day's work at the studio and go home to four kids. I am practically without help now. By the time I answer all the children's questions, get them quieted down and in bed, cook my own dinner, eat it, put in a few loads of laundry, hang them out—then, brother, I am tired.

"By that time it is 10:30 and I have to be up at 5:30 to go to the studio. So I drop into bed and spend most of the night hunting for a soft spot to sleep on."

This laundry routine is no gag. I have heard of a studio attache who went to La Crawford's house one night for a conference. "Come on down in the basement," she said. "I have got a washing in the machine."

SUMMER VISITORS

Tuna, which have a world-wide range, are common along the Nova Scotia coast and in the Gulf of St. Lawrence during the summer months.

OFFICIAL SUMMONS—With this letter, Lord Stanley of Preston, Canada's governor-general in 1892, invited Sir John S. D. Thompson to become prime minister of Canada. The original letter is one of a collection of from 10,000 to 15,000 of Sir John's official and personal letters acquired by the Public Archives at Ottawa.

VOLUMINOUS WRITER — Sir John S. D. Thompson wrote numerous letters to his friends and family when he was prime minister of Canada from 1892 to 1894. From 10,000 to 15,000 of his letters, casting a new and revealing light on Canadian history, now are being sorted in the Public Archives of Canada. This portrait of Sir John was done by J. W. L. Forster, a Canadian who painted most statesmen of the day. The portrait itself was destroyed when the Parliament Buildings burned in 1916.

Prime Minister's Life Told Vividly In Old Letters

By GEORGE FORSTER.

OTTAWA, Oct. 24 (CP)—How does it feel to be Prime Minister of Canada?

For Sir John Sparrow David Thompson, Conservative Prime Minister from 1892 to 1894, it meant days of tension during a crucial parliamentary debate, long separations from his family and going to campaign meetings, dirty and tired from travel.

It meant, too, participating in international conference with the world's leading statesmen and describing intimate details of the conference in letters to his children.

These and other aspects of his life are vividly described in from 10,000 to 15,000 of his letters, now in the public archives.

Thompson was a Nova Scotia lawyer who became Prime Minister after serving as Federal Justice Minister and as Attorney-General, Premier and Chief Justice of his native province.

In spidery handwriting and colorful language, some letters tell of the strain of public life.

Full of Human Interest

Others are full of human little incidents and observations.

One tells his wife of the first day he arrived in Ottawa as Justice Minister to find departmental offices empty—his staff had read on erroneous newspaper report and hadn't expected him for another week.

Another tells his children about the important world figures at an international conference — and describes a president of the United States as "pompous."

Norah Story, a historian and head of the archives manuscript division, thinks the letters form one of the most valuable collections in the country.

Her staff has only begun to nibble at the wealth of historical material in them and it will be some time before the letters are sorted and bound and take their place on archives shelves beside those of two other Prime Ministers, Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Many of the letters—the purely personal ones—will be returned to Lt.-Col. John Thompson of Ottawa, a son of Sir John who collected the letters and turned them over to the archives this year.

Macdonald called his appointment of Thompson as Justice Minister the "greatest discovery of my life" and many of the most colorful letters were written when the two toured Ontario in the election campaign of 1886.

Minister From Ireland WMS Thankoffering

MILLBROOK, Oct. 24 (ENS) — Grace Presbyterian church W.M.S. held its autumn thankoffering in the church on Wednesday. Miss Agnes Johnston, president, was in the chair.

The Scripture was read by Mrs. Roy Brackenridge of Centerville, Mrs. David Lunn led in prayer and Mrs. G. A. Spicer sang. Miss M. Collins was at the organ. The special speaker, Rev. J. Greene of Keene, recently arrived in Canada from Ireland, was introduced by the Rev. Walter Patterson. He chose as his subject "Women in the home."

The offering was taken up by Mrs. Gerald Armstrong and Mrs. H. Perkin.

Mrs. A. Mulligan moved a vote of thanks. Refreshments were served.

Millbrook News

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Underwood of New York City are visiting Mrs. Margaret Thompson and other relatives in the community.

John, Joe and Alan Thompson spent two or three days at the interprovincial plowing match in Burford last week, where Alan Thompson was a contestant in the junior section.

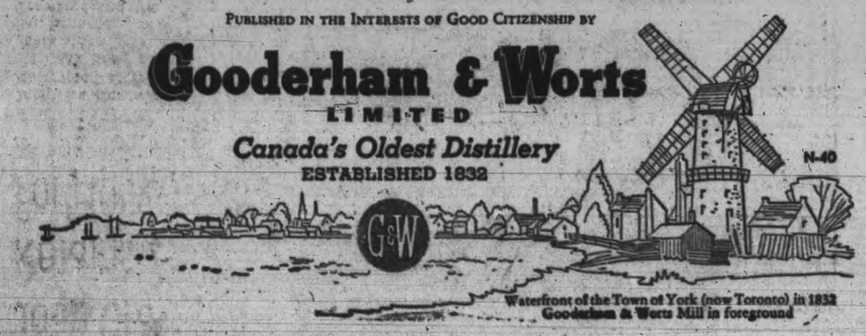
Heat your home with 'blue coal' and feel the DIFFERENCE

The year was 1866...

... the leaders in Canada's confederation movement met in London and argued a knotty problem: what to name the new nation. "Colony" fell far short of suiting the temper of Canadian thinking. It is recorded that Sir Leonard Tilley of New Brunswick finally pointed out the aptness of the biblical quotation:

"He shall have dominion also from sea to sea."



There is a lesson for every Canadian in this story from the past. By the very origin of the name, "Dominion" can never mean "domination." "Domination" would never be accepted by Canadians. But the Dominion of Canada is the Dominion of a free people . . . men and women who are privileged to express their will through the ballot box:

When YOU cast your secret ballot at every election—municipal, provincial, federal—you exercise a duty and privilege planned, worked, and fought for by your forefathers. Your vote protects the future of your children. To fail in this duty is to be less than a good citizen.

Liberals Lose Three Ridings PC Financial Critic J. M. Macdonnell Wins

7 of 8 Winning Candidates Newcomers To House of Commons; 3 Independents To Back Present Gov't.

OTTAWA, Oct. 25—(CP—The Liberal government, a big winner in the June 27 general election, Monday retained four and lost three seats in eight Federal by-elections. The eighth seat—Toronto Greenwood—was retained by the Progressive Conservatives. Two of the Liberal losses were to Independent Liberals and the third to an Independent. All three said during the by-election campaign that they would support the present government. However, they will not be recognized as supporters until they are invited to attend party caucuses.

The seats retained by the Liberals were Montreal Laurier, Montreal Mercier, Gatineau (Quebec), and New Westminster (British Columbia). The Independent Liberals carried Kamouraska (Quebec) and Restigouche- Madawaska (New Brunswick). The Independent took Montreal Jacques Cartier.

Eight of the 23 candidates lost their deposits of $200 required to enter Federal elections.

Standing of the Commons:

Liberals 190; Progressive Conservative 41; CCF 13; Social Credit 10; Independent five; Independent Liberal three; total 262.

After the general election, the standing was:

Liberals 193; Progressive Conservatives 41; CCF 13; Social Credit 10; Independent four; Independent Liberal one; total 262.

Seven Newcomers

All of the winning candidates are newcomers to the Commons except J. M. Macdonnell, who carried Toronto Greenwood for the Progressive Conservatives. He was the party's financial critic in the last Commons, but lost in the general election to Bucko McDonald, former National Hockey League star and Liberal member for Parry Sound-Muskoka.

Mr. Macdonnell had a plurality of more than 2,100 over Perry Ryan, the Liberal candidate. Mr. Macdonnell polled 9,378 votes; Mr. Ryan, 7,265; Harvey Hotrum, CCF, 6,568; and Mrs. Louise Watson, Labor-Progressive 188

The seat became vacant by the death of J. E. McMillin Progressive Conservative, who had a plurality of fewer than 200 votes over Mr. Ryan in the general election.

In Restigouche - Madawaska Paul L. Dube, 57-year-old locomotive engineer and an Independent Liberal candidate, defeated J. Albert Pichette, Liberal a 40-

Blast On Boat Kills One, Two Badly Hurt

MONTREAL, Oct. 25 (CP) — One man was fatally injured and two others seriously hurt when an explosion ripped the hatch covers off the British freighter Peter Dal at sea last Friday.

The 5,600-ton coal-laden freighter put in here during the night after landing the dead and injured at Havre St. Pierre, on the Gulf of St. Lawrence north shore 600 miles northeast of Montreal.

Capt. J. N. Marcomb said the dead man was Llewellyn Bassett and the two injured men were identified as James John and Michael John McMann. McMann and John were taken to hospital at Havre St Pierre where Bassett was buried.

Capt. Marcomb said the explosion occurred about 4.30 p.m. Friday while the ship, bound for Montreal from Barrow, England, was steaming through the gulf.

Blame Gas Pocket

The explosion, which the captain blamed on a gas pocket in a hold, hurled the hatch covers in the air, the debris falling on the three men who were working nearby.

Capt. Marcomb said he thought the three men were beyond medical aid. They were taken to the ship's hospital while radio messages were sent out for help. The nearest ship with a doctor aboard was the cargo-liner Lismoria 85 miles away.

The master said a message from quarantine officials at Quebec City advised him to steam towards Havre St. Pierre which he reached six hours after the blast.

Savings Bonds Selling Faster

OTTAWA, Oct. 25 — (CP). — Bank of Canada officials, frankly surprised, reported today that Canada savings bonds are selling more than twice as quickly as they did last year.

In the first five days the fourth series of the bonds were on sale, the bank announced, sales have totalled $59,983,500. Last year, sales of the third series were $27,199,950 during approximately the same period. There were 207,136 sales, averaging $289.50 each.

Officials said it does not necessarily mean sales will continue at that rate. The bonds went on sale October 17 and for a three-week period.

Just Wasn't His Day Gremlins Take Over

VENTURA, Calif., Oct. 25 — (AP)—It sounds like something out of an old Mack Sennett movie but it was no comedy to Harry Wilton Field, 35.

Field took his two children along with him Monday as he drove a trailerload of trash to the city dump.

He saw in the rear-view mirror that the trash was afire. He stepped on the gas to beat the fire to the dump.

Rounding a curve, the car door swung open and Field fell out. The driverless auto with the children aboard sped crazily down the highway.

Then the car turned itself around in the road and came back toward Field, ran him down and knocked him to the pavement.

The car stalled. Field was treated for cuts on the head but the children were unhurt.

Invents Safety Hatch Man Dies From Crash

ORILLIA, Oct. 25 — (CP) — Robert Kerr, 70, of Detroit, an inventor of safety hatches for buses, died Monday night of injuries suffered when a bus in which he was riding overturned last Friday near here. Two other persons were seriously injured.

Mr. Kerr recently had devised a roof escape hatch. He had signed a contract with a Chicago firm for installation of such hatches on school buses and was to have gone there shortly to supervise construction.

Three In Hospital

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 25 — (CP)—Three people were admitted to Belleville General Hospital today with injuries suffered in a car accident on the Trent Road west of the city. The injured are Mrs. Henry Chatterton, head injuries and fracture of the left wrist; Miss Audrey McGuire, bruises, shock and arm lacerations; and Spencer Farara, head lacerations with a badly gashed eye and a possible wrist fracture. All reside in Castleton.

Czech Bishops Order Priests Accept Red Law

PRAGUE, Oct. 25 — (AP). — Czechoslovakian Roman Catholic bishops told their priests today they may accept salaries from the Communist government and swear loyalty to it—to stay out of jail.

But the bishops told the priests to make these reservations:

In swearing allegiance to the "People's Democratic Regime" and taking the oath to "support the creative effort aiming at the welfare of the Czech and Slovak people," priests are to add the words: "Unless it is in contradiction to the laws of God and the church and the rights of man."

In taking salaries from the government, priests are to declare they do so without assuming "any obligations which would violate my conscience as a priest nor the church laws."

The Catholic bishops stated they regretted the recent enactment of the government's church control law as a violation of the church rights.

But the bishops added they were allowing the priests to comply with the law because they would otherwise be subject to arrest and persecution.

Represents Retreat

The bishops' new stand was expressed in a statement made available to the Western press. It represented a retreat from previous outspoken opposition to the Church Control Bill.

Church sources have reported that nearly 300 priests have been jailed for expressing opposition to the measure.

Alexei Cepicka, Communist Minister of Justice, has declared that anyone who opposed the new law would be "broken as an enemy of the state." The new law, which gives the government control of appointments, finances, and administration of all the churches, was passed by Parliament October 14 and becomes effective November 1.

The bishops' statement to the priests said:

"If you accept you do so only because of the pressure of external circumstances. It is necessary to defend you against possible consequences and save you for the spiritual care of the faithful."

Only last week the bishops had stated that it would be "unmanly" to accept the higher salaries proffered under the church law "while thousands of believers and other citizens suffer in prison and work camps."

Unofficial Vatican sources said that the concessions of the Czechoslovak clergy to the Communist government were "superficial."

Teach White Supremacy Get $50,000,000 Bequest

WASHINGTON, Miss., Oct. 25 —(AP), — Jefferson Military College has qualified for a $50,000,000 bequest by agreeing to teach white supremacy.

The school's announcement on Monday night came from A. J. Armstrong, business manager and son of George Armstrong, benefactor of the 102-year-old prep institute.

The college declined to publicize its enrolment, but estimated place it at between 70 and 80 Cadets.

Young Armstrong said his father had notified the Board of Trustees he would give the school all of his mineral rights in Mississippi upon certain conditions.

These conditions, which Armstrong said the school had accepted, called for the exclusion of "any instructor or employee who is a known Communist or has Communist leanings or who is of African or Asiatic origin."

In addition, the elder Armstrong specified that the faculty and student body be composed primarily of persons of Anglo-Saxon and Latin American antecedents who hold "the true Christian faith."

The endowment includes three producing oil wells and over-all the bequest probably would exceed $50,000,000, Armstrong said.

Labor Party Displeased, Storm Rages

Prime Minister Calls Confidence Vote Second In A Month

LONDON, Oct. 25 — (AP) — Prime Minister Attlee hit a political storm today—a whirlwind of charges that he was too timid with economies meant to keep Britain from going broke.

Even large sections of his own Labor party were let down by the plan Attlee discussed before the House of Commons Monday—a plan to whittle £280,000,000 ($868,000,000) from the country's £3,300,000,000 budget.

For two weeks the country had been built up to expect a really drastic belaboring. When it came, Conservative leader Winston Churchill summed up the reaction of many: "Is it adequate to the need in which we stand?"

Labor criticisms rifled through a caucus of the party's legislators this morning. Its results were unknown, but Attlee previously has been able to whistle rebels to heel.

Some of his opponents saw political motives in his failure to swing the economy ax wider. Attlee must call an election before the government's five-year term expires next July.

Calls Confidence Vote

The Prime Minister called for a vote of confidence in his government—the second in a month. The vote will come Thursday night, after a two-day debate on his new program. There seemed little doubt Attlee would win it.

Attlee's economies were designed largely to stem inflation feared as a result of the devaluation of the pound from $4.03 to $2.80 in U.S. funds last month.

They hit hardest at new building projects. The premier cut down on house building and many other kinds of construction, including schools, hospitals and power projects. He promised to save £30,000,000 on defence, and to trim administration costs in other ministries.

Lightly Hit

But the ones that struck the taxpayers were small—small rises in a few good prices by removal of subsidies. A charge of up to a shilling for medicines previously given free under the national health program, and a one-penny rise in the charge for school lunches.

Heaviest criticisms from the Labor party centred on the school meals price rise, the charge for prescriptions and the relatively small cut in defence costs. Attlee trimmed less than four per cent off defence spending.

Sections of both Conservatives and Labor parties think the cut should be much more and that the country's military draft should be dropped to save needed manpower.

The Times called Attlee's speech "a tale of opportunities missed." The Daily Express called it the "biggest flop" of any government declaration.

Loses At Poker Bandit Revenged

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 25 — (CP)—A young bandit, wielding a pearl-handled cap-pistol and seeking "revenge" for the $96 he lost in a poker game, held up 18 men in the downtown Club Waverley Monday night.

He escaped with $21 but was nabbed by police a block from the club. Police identified the youth as W. H. Brocklebank, 22, of Grimsby.

"I lost $96 playing poker in here two weeks ago, and I just did it to get revenge," the hold-up man was quoted as saying.

Describing the robbery, one of the victims said: "He stuck the gun in Sammy's back, and said. 'If anyone makes a move, this guy gets it.' He made us put money, rings, and watches on the pool table."

The robber returned some of the money to the club members saying it could be used for taxi fare, and left the watches and rings behind.

JUST LIKE HAWAII—Premier Nehru and his party received an oriental welcome from representatives of Toronto's Indian colony during a brief stop-over on their Canadian tour. Serbjid Singh, daughter of the Indian trade commissioner in Toronto, is shown with his sister, Tardas, presenting Premier Nehru with a rose to go with the flower necklaces he and his party are wearing. Shown here, left to right, are: Indian Trade Commissioner Gurpal Singh; Mrs. Singh; Mrs. Indira Gandhi, the prime minister's daughter; Tardas Singh; Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, Nehru's sister and Indian ambassador to the US; Sarbjid Singh and Premier Nehru.

Seven Employees Sentenced Up To 3 Months

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 25—(CP)—Appearing for sentence after pleading guilty last Friday to theft of groceries from the York Trading Company, grocery wholesalers, seven former employees of the firm were sentenced by Magistrate T. Y. Wills from one to three months in jail.

Two other persons charged with receiving stolen goods were sentenced to one and two months in jail.

On month sentences were given to Kenneth Robinson, Elmer Dafoe, Garth Andrews, Reginald Adams and Reginald Bulpitt, while Elvin Robinson was given two months and Wilbur Sherry three months.

Mrs. Nina Sharpe, charged with receiving, was sentenced to two months, and Frank Brough, Thomasburg grocer, to one month. Mrs. Sharpe and Brough also pleaded guilty Friday and were remanded for sentence.

Harry Sharpe, charged with receiving, had his case enlarged to Nov. 14, while Arthur Kleinsteuber, Sulphide, also charged with receiving, pleaded not guilty and had his case enlarged to early in November.

In passing sentence Magistrate Wills noted that there had been nothing in evidence to indicate that the thefts had extended beyond those covered in the charges, and that the value of the stolen goods was comparatively small. However, it was reported prior to the hearing that several thousand dollars worth of goods were involved.

Communism In China Discussed With Nehru

OTTAWA, Oct. 25 — (CP). — The problems raised by Communist successes in China are expected to come under discussion today as Prime Minister Nehru of India moves through a program that will bring him in contact with Cabinet leaders several times.

Informed quarters said any talks with Pandit Nehru will be general. But the Reds' request for recognition as China's rulers is an issue confronting both governments. As such, an official said, it probably will be discussed.

Both Canada and India have recalled their ambassadors to Nationalist China in the face of the Reds' request for recognition. Pandit Nehru told a press conference Monday the character of the Communist victories as an extension of agrarian revolt could not be ignored.

Mr. St. Laurent and Mr. Pearson will have the advantage of advice from Canada's Ambassador to Nanking, Hon. T. C. Davis who arrived here Monday.

Crazed Farmer Shoots Up Two Taverns, Wounds 10

WATERFORD, Mich., Oct. 25—(AP)—A crazed, middle-aged farmer shot up two taverns Monday night, then killed himself after wounding 10 persons. On a mad spree with a terrorized this sleepy little resort village in a begrudging farewell to the world. Two of his victims, both women, were critically wounded.

Tramping back and forth across a street, Runyon fired seven or eight charges from a 12-guage shotgun through windows of the two taverns, witnesses said. At the end of a violent 10 minutes, he walked a short distance up the street and fired a final charge through his own chest. This was the last in a series of rapid reloadings. Runyon's gun was a single-shot weapon.

Reported in critical condition today were Mrs. Irene Zurawski, 37, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Helen Psciuk, 50.

It was at the Zurawski family's small bar where Runyon made one attack.

Six persons were wounded there and another four at the bar of the Waterford Hotel across the street.

The shooting recalled the recent Camden, N.J., mass killing of 13 persons by Howard Unruh, a former service man who later was found insane.

Farmer Despondent

Police said evidently things had gone wrong recently with Runyon and he had become despondent.

At his farm house was found a note to his son, Joe, Jr., saying: "Take over, Joe. Dad's quit work. (Obsenity) 'em all."

Runyon was known as a quiet person. He had his daily beer in town and peddled his farm crops here.

Before his rampage Runyon had spoken to some of his victims, including Stanley Zurawski.

"He told me he had plenty of trouble," Zurawski said. "He also told me 'if a man feels like he's going to die in his old age, he might just as well take a few people along with him'."

Mrs. Etta Ficher, 60, grey-haired day bartender who escaped injury, said that shortly before the shootings Runyon had complained that "three of my horses died and I lost $250."

Under Verandah For Five Nights

SAULT STE. MARIE, Oct. 25. —(CP). — Garry Rogers, nine-year-old schoolboy who ran away from home last week, said today that he was "afraid to come home or go anywhere" after some other children had told him that he had cut off a little girl's finger.

Garry spent five nights hiding under a verandah in bitter cold weather before he wandered home Monday night and was treated for exposure and lack of food.

The tale of the little girl's finger was not explained. The boy's foster father, Harold Nicholson, said "he certainly had nothing to worry about because he was not in any trouble.

"It was all in his mind. Those boys who kidded him about cutting off a girl's finger caused him a lot of trouble."

Garry said: "I crawled under a house several doors away. During the storm the other night I prayed to God that my Mom would be all right—I knew she was afraid of thunder and lightning."

15 Below Mere Nothing To Excited Gold Hunters

FISHWELL, Alaska, Oct. 25 — (AP)—Even sub-zero temperatures failed to stem the feverish activity today in this booming gold-rush camp.

Rumors that more nuggets had been found along the banks of the fabled Yukon River swept periodically through Fishwell. But attempts to trace the finds met cagey silence.

Although the temperature is 15 below and still falling, many early arrivals have begun panning for the precious yellow stuff.

From their results it may be learned soon whether this gold rush is destined to be remembered along with the other famous ones of Alaska history. That is the opinion held by veteran gold seekers.

Activity up and down the river from last week's discovery site 20 miles southeast of Fort Yukon increased as a report trickled through Fishwell's mushrooming tent city. The word was that a three - eighth - inch nugget had been found.

The nugget was said to have been accidentally pulled up in a miner's bucket from the bottom of a water hole one-quarter of a mile from the original strike.

Earl Hurst, veteran Alaska prospector, acknowledged he saw the nugget, which he described as "good coarse gold."

A trapper, Charlie Biederman, also said he examined nuggets panned a half-mile upstream from Discovery Island, on which Clifton. Carroll first found pea-size nuggets as he dismantled his water-propelled Fishweel.

Scores of new prospectors are arriving daily—lured to the rim of the Arctic by the age-old hunt for gold.

CIO May Fire One Million Left Wingers

Resourceful UEW Men Confuse Issue Backing Two Strikes

CLEVELAND Oct. 25 (AP)—The CIO executive board met to decide today whether the CIO is to rid itself of 1,000,000 members under left-wing union leadership.

The answer almost certainly would be an anxious "no" — if there is any way to woo left-wing followers away from the rebellious forces.

The CIO has a maximum of 6,000,000 members, and president Philip Murray indicated he wants to keep as many of those under his banner as possible.

But the so-called left-wing movement, spearheaded by a team of resourceful leaders in the United Electrical Workers and by Harry Bridges of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, was expected to put up a serious challenge.

The once clear-cut lines between the left-wing and anti-Communist right-wing forces in the CIO were somewhat confused by Murray's pressing desire for a settlement in the 25-day steel strike.

The United Electrical Workers executive board in New York voted to throw its financial resources behind both the steel and coal strikes — following the earlier idea of John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers (Independent) president.

The steel strike was described by Murray as his No. 1 interest. Murray, who is also president of the United Steelworkers, said that the CIO convention, beginning here next Monday, could go ahead without him if there was any chance of negotiating a quick settlement with the steel companies on free pensions and insurance for his 1,000,000-member union.

Says Union Officials By-pass Agreements

OSHAWA, Oct. 25—(CP)—An official of General Motors of Canada Ltd., Monday attributed a recent labor disturbance at the company's plant here to an attempt by Union officials to bypass existing bargaining agreements.

W. A. Wecker, Company president and general manager, said in a statement, cause of the trouble was a demand by union officials to negotiate, "as a matter of right, 'two important issues' ".

One was "entirely outside the realm of bargaining," he said, while the other was "not negotiable by the terms of our contract with the union until next year."

Last Friday some 4,000 workers, members of Local 222 United Auto Workers (C.I.O.), voted to walk off their jobs. They took what union officials described as a "one-day holiday" and returned to work Monday.

Student Dies Of Rare Disease

STRATFORD, Oct. 25—(CP)—A pathologist and other doctors today were examining tests taken from Harold Yundt, 16-year-old Collegiate student, who died suddenly Monday from a rare neck disease, Ludwig's Angina.

"Fortunately this disease happens only in very isolated occasions," said Dr. David Smith, the boy's doctor. He was assisted by Dr. T. R. Nichols and Dr. George Ingham in treating the case, in which penicillin, streptomycin and other medicine were used in an unsuccessful battle against death. The boy died within 24 hours after the first symptoms were discovered.

"We do not know the cause in this particular case and laboratory investigation is under way to find out the organism responsible," said Dr. Smith. "Usually it is a streptococcus infection."

The boy's neck swelled four inches. Action of the disease prevents swallowing and finally cuts off breathing.

Ching Plans Direct Talk With Truman

President Must Decide About Intervention Train Service Cut

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25—(AP—The United States government's top labor troubleshooter, Cyrus S. Ching, planned a direct report to the president today on the deadlocked coal and steel strikes.

His report of lack of progress towards settling either of the economy-damaging walkouts may prompt a revision of administration strategy in dealing with the crisis.

So Truman faced a decision of now taking a personal hand or asking Ching to try again. The president could put Taft-Hartley Labor Law emergency provisions into motion, with their strike-ending court injunctions.

Ching suspended his talks with the United States Steel Corporation in New York Monday night and returned here.

Meantime, effects of the twe strikes on the rest of the economy was growing steadily worse. The coal strike has been going on since Sept. 19, the steel strike since Oct. 1.

Cut Train Service

A government order for railroads with 25 days' supply of coal or less to cut operation of coal fuelled passenger trains by 25 per cent was due to become effective at midnight tonight. Three lines the Pennsylvania, the Long Island and the New York Central, said they planned to stop 202 trains.

Steel fabrications were feeling the pinch more and more.

A major stockholder scolded the United States Steel Corporation publicly for its position. He was James W. Gerard, one-time United States ambassador to Germany. He said his family owns more United States steel stock than all of the company's directors put together.

Gerard said a presidential fact-finding board's recommendation for company-paid pensions for steelworkers—the point the union is insisting on—is a "modest concession to labor."

Council Hopes To Divert Traffic From Charlotte Street By Paving of Sherbrooke and King Streets

By HARRY THEOBOLD

Relief of the congestion of traffic on Charlotte St. is the main purpose of this completion of the paving of King St.

Another investment this year in convenience for the motoring public is the paving of Sherbrooke St., from Park St. to Water St. The final touch in giving effect to this increased facility for downtown traffic will be the placing of automatic traffic signals on George St., presumably at both King and Sherbrooke Streets.

When these improvements are finished down to the signalling detail, motorists should have only themselves to blame if they persist, by habit or otherwise, in stringing their cars and trucks along Charlotte St.

The accompanying photograph indicates the new look and utility that has come to King St. It was taken as Warren Paving Company were laying the last surface strip on part of the job the city council has carried out this year on King and Sherbrooke Sts. That was another definite date in the extension of Peterborough's central business area south from Charlotte St., emphasizing the trend in that direction from the town clock corner.

Utilities Commission lent a hand in this projection by setting up a row of new and brighter lights between Water and Aylmer Sts.

Mercantile development of King St. is unlikely to duplicate the business primacy, east and west, of Charlotte St. Prospects point to the eventual building of commodius bus terminal by Colonial Coach, which is likely to fix the future use of a large block of the property with King St. frontage.

Business investment on George

St. since the war has largely centred around the corner of George and King Sts., and is now continuing further south on George St. below Sherbrooke St.

Assuming the sustained prosperity of Peterborough, this mercantile movement is bound to extend itself to Dalhousie St. on both sides of George St. These physical changes assume additional community interest from the fact that 1950 is the municipal centennial of Peterborough. One hundred years ago next year Peterborough became a separate municipality with full town status of administrative council and its first boundaries.

Through that long period Charlotte St. was naturally the way of traffic from the west to the commercial centre. The four years since the end of the war have brought about developments that are still in progress, radically altering for the future the appearance and the limits of the business section.

Congestion of Charlotte St. virtually forced the switch to George St. South. In one way and another the motor vehicle aggravated a problem of movement and business on the old street that was bound to demand a solution. The action of this year's council in tackling the traffic bottle-neck of Charlotte St. was taken as a sheer necessity. The paving of King St. became timely offering, with the Sherbrooke St. job, of alternate ways to George St.

The motor car plus private enterprise on George St. accomplished in the last four years the extension of business to the south which older citizens often visualized, but not at the swift pace of building which has remade that central area of the city.

$10,000 Paid For Bull Calf Six Months Old

TORONTO, Oct. 25 — (CP)— Top price of $10,000 was paid for the six-months-old bull Glenafton Trademark, at the all-Canadian sale of pure-bred cattle here on Monday.

The animal, son of Marksman, six times all-Canadian bull, was bought by the Waterloo Cattle Breeders' Association from J. J. E. McCague, of Alliston, Ont. The Waterloo Association also paid $2,500 to Elmcroft Farms, Oshawa, for a four-months-old bull calf.

Cattle buyers from many parts of the Western Hemisphere paid $79,327 for 73 head of cattle, some of which will be flown to South America.

Second highest price of the auction was $6,800 paid to Elmcroft Farms by the Oxford County Holstein Breeders' Association for Elmcroft Popularity.

Highest price for a female was $1,900, received by J. J. E. McCague for a heifer, Talisman, bought by Jay K. Secor of Reistertown, Md.

Other Purchases

Bruce Naylor, of Weston, paid $3,700 to C. J. Cerswell of Beeton, for a Marksman son; George S. Henry of Todmorden paid $2,600 for a bull calf, and E. R. Smith of Seneca Falls, NY, paid $2,000 to K. A. Hammond of Moorefield for a 10-months-old bull.

Foreign buyers took a prominent part in the auction. D. F. Mereilles, of Sao Paulo, Brazil, bought a heifer calf from H. L. Guillbert for $800 and a bred heifer from Albert Selling of Elmira for $1,050, and a Mexican buyer, Adelfa Casselas de Ortiz, Texcoco, paid $4,470 for six head, including bull calves, from Mr. Seiling and H. E. Downham of Strathroy.

Other high prices included: $1,750 paid by Rose Segsworth of Freeman for a bred heifer; $1,750 paid to D. Raymond, Vaudreuill, Que., by Albert Seiling for a heifer calf; $1,525 paid by Clark Brown, Woodstock, to Mr. Raymond for a bred heifer; $1,200 paid by E. R. Smith, Seneca Falls, NY, to Elmcroft Farms for a bred heifer; $1,200 paid by D. W. Shively, Springfield, Ont., to the Brown Corporation, Que., for a bred heifer; $1,150 paid by Lockwood Holsteins, Forfar, Ont., to Smith Haven Farms, Woodstock, for a heifer calf.

Shipping Aid May Be Given By Government

OTTAWA, Oct. 25—(CP)—The government is considering ways of helping Canada's sagging shipping industry, but the policy is not expected to take shape for at least several months.

Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier told the Commons Sunday night that a number of plans are being considered on how to bolster the vital shipping industry.

"I wish I could say what those plans are but I do not think it is in the public interest to do so," he said.

He was replying to questions asked by Gordon Isnor (L—Halifax) during lengthy discussion of the $77,539,429 in Department of Transport estimates.

Mr. Isnor expressed concern about the east-coast shipping situation. Fewer and fewer ships were using Atlantic coast ports and the effects were being felt all through the Maritime economy.

Mr. Chevrier said he fully recognizes the seriousness of the shipping situation. But it wasn't a problem faced only by Canada. The same was true of every country in the world.

Three Difficulties

Increased cost of operation was one of the difficulties. Another was lack of freight and deterioration in freight rates. A third was devaluation.

Operating cost of a Canadian flagship was second only to the United States. The cost of constructing a ship in Canada was considerably higher than the United Kingdom.

There were 118 ships in the Canadian fleet and at present 23 were laid up through lack of cargoes. The United States had laid up 2,050 war-built ships.

The effects of devaluation on Canadian shipping provided the big question mark which held up definition of a government policy. The results could not be seen yet and any policy announced at this time would be of little real use.

Suggests Subsidies

Mr. Isnor suggested that subsidies might be given to Canadian shipping in the form of freight assistance on outgoing cargoes.

Mr. Chevrier said he was unable to see whether this would be of assistance now. But it would receive consideration.

At the opening of the sitting Prime Minister St. Laurent tabled correspondence with Premiers Douglas of Saskatchewan and Duplessis of Quebec on the proposed Dominion-Provincial constitutional conference.

Mr. St. Laurent had advised Mr. Duplessis in one letter that he could see no purpose in continuing correspondence at this time on their constitutional differences. The matter might be raised again when the Federal Government was in position to extend the actual invitations to the conference.

Two western members—Irvin William Studer (L-Maple Creek) and William Bryce (CCF-Selkirk)—took part in the budget debate.

Mr. Studer, a farmer, urged the government to assist the farmers of southern Saskatchewan's drought-stricken areas. He emphasized it would not be charity but rather an investment which would pay off with dividends. He asked for increased crop failure payments to western farmers.

year-old lawyer. Mr. Dube, making his third Federal election attempt, ran previously as a Conservative and later as a supporter of the Union des Electeurs, an off-shoot of the Social Credit party.

Vote in the constituency, made vacant through the death of Benoit Michaud, Liberal member from 1945: Dube, 9,386; Pichette, 6,754. Five polls still are to report.

In Montreal Jacques Cartier, Edgar Leduc, an Independent, won with a majority of more than 2,200 over Sarto Marchand, the Liberal candidate. Mr. Leduc lost the Liberal nomination convention to Mr. Marchand by three votes and then decided to run on the Independent ticket. He polled 9,009 votes to 6,740 for Mr. Marchand with two polls still unreported.

The seat was held from 1939 by Elphege Marier, a Liberal who was elevated to the Quebec Superior Court last August.

The Kamouraska constituency elected Arthur Masse, an Independent Liberal, over Gerard Levesque, a Liberal.

The seat gave Mr. Masse 6,015 votes to 5,191 for Mr. Levesque with one poll still to report.

The vacancy occurred when Eugene Marquis, Liberal representative from 1945, was appointed to the Quebec Superior Court.

Two of the four seats retained by the Liberals formerly were represented by cabinet ministers —Hon. Joseph Jean, solicitor general and member for Montreal Mercier, and Hon. Ernest Bertrand, postmaster general and member for Montreal Laurier. Both were given bench appointments after the general election.

In Montreal Laurier, Liberal J. E. Lefrancois won easily. He polled 10,204 votes to 709 for Pierre Gelinas, Labor-Progressive, who lost his deposit.

The Montreal Mercier seat was carried by Marcel Monette, Liberal, with a plurality of 6,822. With two polls still unreported, Mr. Monette had 8,884 votes, Wilfrid Lattraverse, Independent Liberal, 2,062, and Leon Bertrand, Independent, 1,197.

J. Celestin Nadon, former member of the Quebec Legislature, carried Gatineau for the Liberals.

With 16 polls still to come, Mr. Nadon had 4,706 votes, Anastase St. Jean, Progresive Conservative, 2,135, and Marcel Bernard Bonnier, Independent, 1,085.

The seat was won in the last election by Leon J. Rymond, Liberal, since appointed as Clerk of the Commons.

In New Westminster, a seat vacated when Thomas Reid, Liberal, was appointed to the Senate, the Liberals won with William Malcolm Mott. Wit hfive polls still to report, he had 8,450 votes to 6,345 for Elmore Philpott, well-known news commentator and Independent candidate; 5,655 for Ronald W. Irvine, CCF; 2,962 for James Christmas, Progressive Conservative, and 624 for Maurice Rush, Labor-Progressive.

Sentence Four Czechs To Death As Spies

PRAGUE, Oct. 25—(AP)—A Czechoslovak state court Monday night sentenced to death four members of an alleged band of spies and terrorists charged with attempting to assassinate government officials.

Four others were sentenced to life imprisonment and an unstated number to prison terms ranging from four to 25 years.

Announcement of these sentences came shortly after reliable sources reported 18 Roman Catholic priests had each been given two years in prison.

They were convicted at a trial in Prague's Pankrac on charges of reading banned pastoral letters received from their bishops.

Lakefield Community Honors Sisson Couple

BETHANY, Oct. 25 (ENS)— Relatives, friends and former neighbors gathered Friday in the Town Hall to honor Mr. and Mrs. Clair Sisson of Lakefield, recent newlyweds. Clair is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alban Sisson, Bethany, and his wife the former Viola Neals, is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Neals, R.R. 3, Peterborough.

The presentation of a studio couch was made by Robert Reid, Preston Neals and Lloyd Capstick on behalf of the community with Mr. George Neals reading the address of congratulations and good wishes.

The evening was spent in dancing to music provided by Robert Sisson, Donald Ham, Levi and Morley McGill and Percy Mantle, with Ralph Malcom and Morton Davis directing the square dances.

Younger WomenForm Village Dorcas Group

WARKWORTH, Oct. 25 (ENS) —Mrs. Jim McCleary was hostess to the Dorcas Group for the October meeting on Monday. This is an organization recently formed and includes the younger members of the Women's Association of St. Paul's United Church. Mrs. Clarence Ellis is the president and Mrs. Frank Boyce, secretary. The social evening concluded with a lunuch served by the hostess and her assistants.

Black's 37th Year In Business

37 years ago, Mrs. Annie Black and the late Phillip Black, opened a women's clothing store on the corner of George and King Sts., and little realized that 37 years later they would be the originators of Peterborough's most modern and outstanding clothing stores for both men and women. Now, Black's stores are operated under the names of Towne Togs by Blacks and Isadore Black's Men's Wear, and are centrally located side by side at 380 and 380A George St.

For the past 37 years, the Blacks have been trying their best to bring to Peterborough, the latest in styles, the best in quality, in both women's and men's clothing and merchandise made by Canada's top manufacturers, at prices to suit the average budget. One of the big secrets to their success, has been the congenial personal attention that the Blacks give their customers wherever possible. In appreciation for the support and patronage they have received, Blacks are staging storewide sales this week, commencing Thursday, 9 a.m., and in addition some lucky couple is going to receive entirely free of charge, one complete man's and one complete woman's wardrobe, from a winter coat right down to the hosiery, and the two outfits are valued at $400.00. To be eligible for this draw, all that is necessary is to register your name at their store, sometime during their anniversary sale. If a woman wins the draw, she can give the man's wardrobe to whoever she wishes, and similarly if the man should win it, he can give it to any woman. The date of the draw will be announced later. This is a very novel idea, and should prove very popular to the Peterborough shoppers.

Coalition Forces Likely Returned

WINNIPEG, Oct. 25 (CP)—Two days before the close of nominations for the Nov. 10 general election in Manitoba, the coalition forces of Premier Douglas L. Campbell have about 70 per cent more candidates in the field than anti-coalition groups.

For 21 of the total of 75 Manitoba legislature seats at stake, only a coalition candidate has been announced so far.

Barring a last-minute surge of nominations, political observers said today, a number of coalition acclamations can be expected when nominations are formally entered Thursday.

Manitoba has had coalition government since 1940, first under Premier John Bracken, then under Premier Stuart Garson who now is federal justice minister, now under Premier Campbell.

Candidates urging return of a coalition administration numbered 58 Monday night. Anti-coalition candidates, of which two-thirds are C.C.F., total 34.

Monday a source close to the C.C.F. provincial organization indicated his party does not expect to form the post-election government—meaning, in effect, that the C.C.F., which was the official opposition in the House dissolved Sept. 29, expects the Campbell government to be re-elected.

Only Squawkers Against Meters Councillors Told

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 25 — (ENS)—"I came here to clear up certain misunderstandings", said H. Cameron of the Mi-Co Meter Co., to the Council at a special meeting Monday. "When your letter arrived in Montreal, I was in Newfoundland but I had my secretary advise you when I would return. Deputy-Reeve Lock accused me of tardiness in answering your communication," he said. "I still think you were," broke in the Deputy-Reeve.

"We will never dodge any issue whether good or bad," answered Mr. Cameron. "Our company," he said, "will co-operate in every way and will always be fair.

"Our meters," he stated, "have solved traffic problems in other towns and will solve yours if given a chance."

"How much will it cost to remove them?" queried Councillor Davidson. In reply Mr. Cameron said, "what is happening here has happened in nearly every town where we have installed meters. Before the trial period is over most merchants will be boosters," he added.

"It is true a large number of merchants petitioned this Council to have them removed," he asserted, "but unless you make a careful analysis of this group you cannot get anywhere. Do these merchants represent the majority of taxpayers?" he asked.

"Why did some merchants sign it? I can tell you," said Councillor Kelly. "They signed it because their opposition did. The only people you hear talking against meters are squawkers", he asserted.

"Angle parking is a nuisance," said Councillor Davidson.

Mr. Cameron stated that he had recommended angle parking.

"The angles are all wrong", answered Deputy-Reeve Locke.

"The Council", said Mr. Cameron, "wanted angle parking."

Councillor MacMillan stated that when the meters were being installed only four merchants objected to them and none to angle parking. Even the Deputy-Reeve who objects to angle parking now made no complaints.

"The matter was never discussed in Council", said Deputy-Reeve Locke, objecting to Councillor McMillan's accusation.

"We have never had any accidents," suggested Councillor MacMillan.

Deputy-Reeve Locke replied that he had driven a car long enough to know that the angle is wrong.

"Angle parking is not a problem," advised Mr. Cameron, "it can be changed."

The Mayor urged council to speed-up matters as the business men expected it to take action one way or the other. He said they were looking forward to the dismantling of the meters at the end of the trial period.

Not Bad For Business

"Meters have never driven away business from a town," declared Mr. Cameron. "It is unfair to blame them for a recession in business. How could any group express an opinion before the meters had been a month in operation?" he asked.

Deputy-Reeve Locke stated that the meters weren't working properly. "Sometimes a nickel gives you only half an hour and quite often the meters stick," he said.

"This is only in the case where the meter is not worked properly," answered Mr. Cameron.

"You can put in a cent, slap the meter, and get time for one-half hour," claimed Deputy-Reeve Locke.

"I'll bet $1,000 you can't," came back Mr. Cameron. "If you operate the meter according to instructions you will get a full hour for a nickel. However the 12-sided nickels will stick some times," he added.

Again Mayor H. M. Donald urged Council to speed-up proceedings.

Councillor Maier wanted to know if the spokesmen for the business men represented the group. "How much influence have they in the community?" he asked.

"The merchants claim there is no traffic problem here," stated Mr. Cameron.

"The only traffic problem we have here," answered Councillor Davidson, "is angular parking."

Mr. Cameron said that if the council decides to do away with angular parking, his company will be glad to co-operate. To do so will require less meters and the company will gladly take back the extra ones.

"Do you mean to say that you will take the meters back and we won't have to pay for them?" asked the Mayor.

"Yes," answered Mr. Cameron. "It is bad business to have too many meters in a town."

"It has been the cause of losing some rural business," argued the Deputy-Reeve. "We didn't lose trade through the enforcement of the bylaw," he declared.

Reeve Anderson thought that the police did a good job in handling the enforcement end of it.

"After a motorist receives two courtesy tickets he should be fined," said Mr. Cameron. "But even enforcement of the meters, if done in a sensible way, will not hurt business.

"The merchants claim that business is dropping," said Reeve Anderson.

"A large number of merchants don't say that," said Mayor Donald.

"During business hours there are hardly any cars on the streets," stated Deputy-Reeve Locke.

Farmers In Town

"Farmers are coming to town on Saturday nights who never came before," said Councillor MacMillan.

The Mayor asserted that the business men would be willing to give the company $2,000 to have the meters removed, providing it was done immediately.

Councillor MacMillan said that this had come up often. It was a disgrace to the municipality.

"Let the merchants put a bunch around this table and run the affairs of municipal government to suit themselves," he declared. "We have signed the agreement with the company, let's honor it. We don't want any Hitlers or Stalins here. I am going to stand behind the signature in this agreement and my oath of office," he declared.

Councillor Maier suggested that the meters be put out of operation during the winter months. This did not meet with the approval of the other Councillors.

Deputy-Reeve Locke moved that angular parking be done away with providing that there would be ample parking space by removing every other meter. The resolution carried.

Much discussion took place over the enforcement of the bylaw.

Mr. Cameron asked for an expression from Council as to the method of enforcement. "You know," he said, "motorists are entitled to courtesy."

Councillor Wilson moved that first offenders be treated in a sane and courteous manner, explaining to them the purpose of the parking meter, and refrain from collecting the fine. The motion carried.

Belleville Burial For Miss M. McCrodan

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 25 — (ENS)—Funeral service for Miss Margaret McCrodan was held at the home of Mrs. James Sanders, Second St., with the Rev. P. A. Rickard, of Norwood, officiating.

She died on Oct. 20 at Mrs. Peter's Rest Home, at the age of 73, after a lengthy illness. The graveside service was conducted at Belleville on Saturday by Archdeacon Smith, of St. Thomas' Church.

Daughter of the late John McCrodan and Elizabeth Gay, Miss McCrodan was born at Belleville and educated in the local schools. She came to live here in 1929.

Up to the time of her illness, she was an active member of Christ Church. A brother, Harry, was killed at Vimy Ridge during the first world war, and her other brother, John died seven years ago in Kingston.

Pallbearers were Hilton Beatty, Harry Denike, W. D. Wood, Harold Sanders, John Gay and Percy Melville.

Says Utilities To Transfer Bank Account

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 25 — (ENS)—The matter of part of the town's business going to the Royal Bank was never discussed with me," said J. D. Mills, manager of the Bank of Montreal, speaking to the council Monday night.

"I understand," he continued, "the Public Utilities Commission on recommendation by this council is about to transfer its account to the Royal Bank. The Bank of Montreal," he stated, "has been 45 years in Campbellford and has had the town's main account for only two years and the Commission's account for only 13 years.

"It appears to me," he said, "that the Bank of Montreal has received very little consideration. I have no objection to the Royal Bank coming to town.

"We have spent over $40,000 on our bank to give better service to Campbellford and district and I feel that the council has not taken into account the past history of our bank here."

Mayor H. M. Donald named the following to serve on the Court of Revision to be held on Oct. 28: Deputy-Reeve Locke, Councillors MacMillan, Maier, Wilson and Nicholas.

Permission was granted to the Campbellford Cloth Co. to build a tunnel between the old factory and the new weave shed.

Chief Constable George H. Hardy was voted $17 a month over and above his present salary for car expenses. This extra allowance was to be effective from Oct. 1.

A communication was received from Constable W. E. Cargin asking for an increase in salary of $400 a year. It was moved by Councillor Nicholas and seconded by Counucillor Davidson that no action be taken.

Councillor Wilson thought that it was unjust to discriminate between the two men when they both used their cars on duty. He suggested that Cargin should get a raise of $15 a month.

It was the police committee's opinion, said councillor Maier, that the $17 a month was not to be paid as an increase in salary. It was a recognition that had come too late. The other constable didn't use his car as much as the chief.

"Personalities shouldn't be dragged into it," stated councillor Wilson.

Councillor Maier said that the committee considered that the chief had to have a car to carry out his duties while this was not true of the other constable.

Councillor Nicholas' motion that no action be taken was carried.

Meters For $60.

Walter Lowe's tender for maintaining the meters at $60 a month was accepted. Other tenders were: Fred Sampson, 60 cents an hour; George Godden, $60 a month; H. R. Simpson, $50 a month; W. J Wilde, $60 a month and K. Downey, 75 cents an hour.

A resolution by Deputy-Reeve Ralph Locke that all town employees be put under schedule one of the Workmen's Compensation Act was carried. The town's cost will be $1.50 for every $100 of a permanent employee's salary and $2.25 per each volunutary fireman.

Treasurer Eldin Ibey said that basing the cost on last year's payroll it would cost the town about $250. a year under the Workmen's Compensation Act.

J. F. McGregor was instructed to write W. B. Gordon, Peterborough barrister, advising him that R. E. Willis had not made application to the Council for a taxi licence. The council did not deem any action necessary at present.

Councillor Maier moved that Messrs. Harrison and Hooper of Toronto subject to the town solicitor's approval, be permitted to negotiate with E. Ayrhart, regarding purchasing of the former parking lot, Frank Street. The resolution was carried.

DANGEROUS SOUVENIRS—Lieut. J. Heffernan, of the Royal Canadian Engineers, is shown displaying war souvenirs collected from Winnipeg houses visited by the Prairie Command's bomb disposal group. Loss For Communists

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Oct. 25 —(AP)—First vote returns in Iceland's general election today showed a loss for the Communists, who had campaigned against this island country's membership in the North Atlantic Pact. The Communist party, which held 10 seats in the last 52-member Althing (parliament), lost one seat to the Progressive (Agrarians) in the city of Reykjavik. Final results are not expected before Saturday.

Daley Now Hopeful Of Union Settlement

TORONTO, Oct. 25 — (CP)—Labor Minister Daley said Monday he was hopeful of an early settlement of differences between the Union Gas Company, serving south-western Ontario, and the National Union of Natural Gas Workers (CCL).

Mr. Daley reported new offers had been made governing the wage increase dispute and a conference of officials of both parties held in his office Monday had been adjourned to enable the company and the union to study them.

The union, in negotiations which have been going on for the last three weeks, has sought an increase of 15 cents an hour. A conciliation board recommended an increase of five cents an hour.

Campbellford Woman To Nurse In Yukon

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 25 — (ENS)—After a year's absence, Nursing Sister Willamena Allan spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Allan. A graduate of Kingston General Hospital, she has served with the RCAF since 1943.

Completing her duties at Middleton, N.S., she leaves today by air for Watson in the Yukon Territory.

Two Break-ins During Weekend

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 25 — (ENS)—Grant Anderson's dairy, Saskatoon Ave., was broken in over the weekend and a small amount of cash taken. Entry was made by removing a rear window from the office.

Davidson's garage, Mill St. was also broken in and a small amount of merchandise stolen.

Chief Constable George H. Hardy is investigating.

Connie Collins Wins Circulation Contest

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 25 — (ENS)—"Gee! We had a swell time and everybody was so good to us," said 8-year-old Connie Collins, popular Campbellford Examiner carrier. She was speaking about the trip to Niagara Falls sponsored by the circulation department of the Peterborough Examiner.

Connie won the circulation contract by getting 12 new subscribers. "I had to work hard," she said, "because the other carriers were going all out to win.

"It was the first time I was away from home," she said, "but I didn't have time to get homesick. We were going like mad all the time."

Connie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Collins. She attends St. Mary's Separate School and is in Grade 3. "I like school," she said, "and spelling is my favorite subject."

Do You Know...

where the name "hockey" came from?

The word 'hockey' is derived from the 'hooked stick' with which the game is played, from the Old French word 'hoquet', meaning 'shepherd's crook'.

Do You Know . . . that the general idea of ice hockey is not original with Canada? Many 16th and 17th century Dutch paintings show a game something like hockey being played with a stick shaped like a golf club.

Do You Know . . . that there are sharp differences of opinion as to exactly when and where the first ice hockey games were played in Canada? Although Kingston, Halifax and Montreal are most often mentioned in this connection, available records seem to suggest that the first organized games were played around 1881, between the Victoria Hockey Club and McGill University teams, in Montreal, and in Kingston between the Royal Military College and Queens University.

Canada Pays Her Debts

The Budget which Mr. Abbott presented to the House of Commons last Thursday night contained no surprises, and only three changes from the form which it took before the summer election. But a very interesting point arose in the course of Mr. Abbott's speech, though he did not stress it: if the surplus for 1949-50 comes up to expectations, it will mean that the Government has paid off $1,730,000,000 of Canada's national debt in four years. This is the largest payment ever made against the national debt in Canada since Confederation. We have no figures to prove it, but we believe that it is one of the most remarkable reductions of a national debt in modern economic history.

• • •

If you belong to the school of economics which is not impressed by national debts, this achievement will not interest you. There are economists who argue that national debts are at least partly mythical, and should not be looked upon as obligations which have to be met. We are not sufficiently learned in economics to argue this point. But we have a strong feeling that a country which can produce budgetary surpluses in an age of budgetary deficits, and pay large sums on its national debt when many countries are getting deeper into the mire, commands the admiration and envy of economists and business men everywhere in the world. Nothing that Canada could do would go farther to establish its credit in world banking and trade circles.

• • •

The money to pay the indebtedness comes, of course, out of the pockets of the Canadian people. But it also goes back into the pockets of the Canadian people. And we do not think that many Canadians object to the payment of just debts, or to financial moves which strengthen the credit of our country.

Heretics To Communism

Communists of the orthodox Kremlin faith abhor Communists who are "deviationists". Their special venom is reserved for those who dare to say a kind word about Tito and his Yugoslavia. This partly accounts for the bitterness with which Cominform countries have opposed Yugoslavia at United Nations. Yugoslavia is guilty of apostasy and Communists who have any truck with her are heretics. This is the orthodox Communist dogma.

It is said that British left-wingers whose passports show that they have visited Yugoslavia in the last two years are careful to apply for a new passport before they visit a country like Czechoslovakia. If they do not they are liable to receive a cold reception, once the word gets around that the fellow's passport shows that he has been in Titoland. No good Communist should want to go to Yugoslavia any more than a good Christian would want to go to Hell.

The fellow-traveller is considered by his London friends to be downright stupid if he ventures to go to, say, Bulgaria from Yugoslavia, on the same junket of left-wing enthusiasm. Among the orthodox Communists in London or New York anything but the wildest disapproval of Tito has for a year been considered as sinful as praising Churchill or Wall Street.

What Literature Is Obscene?

The bill which is now before the Commons to amend the Criminal Code in such a way as to make it a criminal offence to sell "crime comics" also provides a maximum penalty of two years in prison for anyone convicted of wilfully publishing, distributing or selling obscene literature. This law is hard to enforce, because a bookseller may sell a book without knowing that it is obscene, and also because it is often very hard to decide what is obscene and what is not.

The word obscene has two senses, equally valid. It means "offensive to decency, lewd, or suggesting lewd thoughts"; it also means "offensive to the senses or the mind". A dirty picture on a lavatory wall is obscene in the first sense; Nazi procedure at Belsen is obscene in the second sense. As people's minds differ greatly in character, a book which is obscene to one mind may not be so to another. Undoubtedly there are books which are obscene to all decent minds, but they are comparatively rare; books on the borderline are many; and there are also books which are works of art, obscene only to minds which fail to understand their value. Publishers who specialize in dubious books usually include a few of the latter class in their lists, as a protection to themselves.

We will not name any obviously obscene books here. In the second class (borderline books) might be included some works of the Tobacco Road class; argument as to whether they are obscene or not might be decided either way, and it might be said that they are obscene to readers with obscene minds. In the third class may be mentioned such works as Gautier's Mademoiselle de Maupin and Crebillon's The Sofa. Now the question is, should the courts of Canada be asked to make distinctions among these books?

Do we want a form of censorship in Canada which can be warped to suit the prejudices of particular localities? Are we prepared to entrust any body of officials with the right to tell us what we may or may not read? It is true that we have at Ottawa at present a system of sneak censorship which forbids the passage of certain books through the Customs, and that this censorship does not appear to be answerable to anybody. Further, once a book is banned from Canada it is most unlikely to be allowed to enter it at any future time. Thus James Huneker's novel Painted Veils, which was thought scandalous at the turn of the century but which is tame enough now, is still barred from this country. And it was remarkable that Edmund Wilson's Memoirs of Hecate County was banned from Canada within a week of publication, leading many Canadians to wonder if the unknown Ottawa censor had read the book, or merely reviews of it in American publications.

Censorship in Canada is in a sufficiently chaotic state now. Let our Ottawa legislators think twice before they do anything more to complicate it. The censorship of books on moral grounds is the first step toward censorship on political and economic grounds. And a stronger law against obscene books will only serve to fill the country with bootleg garbage.

A Discriminatory Hydro Cut

The decision of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission to cut the service of flat-rate water heaters by four hours daily is understandable: most of these heaters are in domestic quarters, and home-owners complain about such things less effectively than industries. Nevertheless, this is a discriminatory cut, putting the whole burden of a power shortage on a comparatively small group of power users. Every housewife knows what a four hour cut can do to the domestic hot water supply.

The Hydro Commission has not had much to say, as yet, about power shortages this winter. This is a relief from its passionate breast-beating of a year ago. But neither rhetoric nor silence can alter the conviction of Ontario people that the shortage is owing not to the negligence of Nature, but to a lack of foresight in Commission headquarters.

Four Premiers In Twenty Days

When devaluation, rising prices and demands for higher wages hit France at the same time early in the month, the precariously balanced French government of Premier Queuille toppled. From October 6th until today France has had four Premiers, or Premiers-designate: Henri Queuille, a Radical Socialist; Jules Moch, a Socialist; Rene Mayer, a Radical Socialist, and Georges Bidault, Popular Republican. These men belong to the centre parties which kept the Queuille government in power for the unprecedented post-war length of thirteen months—and which kept the Communists and De Gaullists out of power. The Radical Socialists are right wing, but not as far to the right as De Gaulle; the M.R.P. is chiefly a Catholic conservative party; the Socialists are left of centre, and it was their reluctance to keep the curb on wages which brought on the legislative crisis.

Four premiers in twenty days would indicate in a country which has the British parliamentary system a shocking instability. In France it shows a critical but not fatal parliamentary insecurity. The party system is less rigid in France than in Canada, and parties sometimes form merely to contest an election, and afterwards to disband. Party representatives are not under the direction of party Whips, and there is a fluidity of alignment which could not be tolerated in the Canadian Parliament. Although governments come and go in France, the same names come up in successive administrations, and there is a certain continuity of executive direction.

Despite all this, the difficulties various political leaders are having in forming a working cabinet are symptomatic of both a critical economic situation in France and a stumbling parliamentary system. Canada can be thankful it has a tradition of government under the two-party system.

New Importance Of Western USA

From FRANCIS WILLIAMS
In Seattle

"WHEN you as a European try to estimate the future development of America as a world power", said a friend in San Francisco, "remember this: the population of the three west coast States of California, Oregon and Washington is growing immeasurably faster than any other part of the nation, and when we in the west look west we find ourself looking at the East. When you look at us from London or even New York we are far west, way over the edge of things, but when we look at ourselves we are America's frontier with Russia, with China and with Southeast Asia. And we are growing all the time. That's going to mean something in terms of policy soon".

❖ ❖ ❖

ANOTHER friend in San Francisco, talking about economic developments said: "We in the west used to be an American colony financed from the eastern seaboard with absentee owners of our industries and little voice politically or economically. Now we are growing up. California has already jumped to second largest State in the Union and has eyes on an ultimate population of twenty million. The whole of the west is on the move in a way the east has hardly begun to realize despite statistics which tell them what is happening. That means lots of changes—changes of attitude most of all".

❖ ❖ ❖

CERTAINLY, as one travels through these States of the western seaboard, one cannot help but feel the impact of growth and its significance not only for America but also for the rest of the world. It is not only that the population of the three west coast States has soared by over fifty per cent. since the beginning of the war and is still rising, so that well over five million more people live here now than when the war began while thousands pour in every week. Nor is it only that in the same period the manufacturing output of these three States increased by over 260 per cent. or that next year they will have nine new Congressional seats while New York, Pennsylvania and almost all the southern States, because of population declines, will lose seats. It is that with this growth and with the development of new power resources the west feels that despite the phenomenal war and post-war growth it is still only on the threshold of its greatest development and the impact it can make on national affairs. It feels, and has hard evidence to support its views, that new orientations are taking place which in the end may significantly affect the former balance of economic and political power in the nation.

❖ ❖ ❖

WHEN, 98 years ago last month, a tiny group of twelve men and women and twelve children landed at what is now Seattle they looked at the great harbour and with a bold gesture to the future decided that their settlement should be another New York. They even at first gave it that name. Then as they became aware of the difficulties ahead of them they philosophically added the Indian word "Alti" which means "by and by"—the name by which the spot where they landed is still known. Now quite a lot of people in the west think that the day of alti is nearly over not just for Seattle but for the whole of the west coast.

❖ ❖ ❖

NO doubt they exaggerate. Certainly there is no likelihood that the western States, despite their present rapid growth, will for a long time to come seriously challenge the concentrated political, commercial and financial power of the eastern seaboard, even though San Francisco does now boast the largest bank in the world, the Californian-owned Bank of America. But what is undoubtedly going to happen over the next few years—indeed is already beginning to happen—is that the west is going to exercise increasing influence on national policy and that as a consequence its attitude to world affairs is becoming increasingly important to other nations. And in that attitude the fact that this western frontier of the United States faces the East and is well aware in any global war it would lie in the line of one obvious Russian bombing route is a factor of great importance.

❖ ❖ ❖

INDEED, it has been brought dramatically home to this city of Seattle by the U.S. Air Force decision that the west coast is such a vulnerable target, especially in the present stage of Alaskan defences, that the Boeing Airplane Company, which is the biggest single labour employer in Washington State, cannot be allowed to continue to build big bombers here. As a result the contract for the B-54 has been cancelled and the Company has been informed that its B-47 contract must be fulfilled at the less vulnerable war-time plant at Wichita in Kansas. That means a cut in jobs which according to estimates made by Seattle's First National Bank will directly and indirectly affect 200,000 people and hurt the State relatively speaking as much as the close-down of the iron and steel industry would the whole nation.

❖ ❖ ❖

FACED with such a prospect, the citizens of Seattle, who are organizing a big "Save Boeing and Defend Seattle" campaign, cannot help but feel already in the front line. This feeling is one important factor in west coast international thinking. Another is that the once busy waterfronts of San Francisco and Seattle now stand almost deserted owing to the absence of the formerly flourishing trade to the Orient. Yet another is that the dried fruit industry, which is of major importance especially to California, faces a crisis as a result of the loss of export markets due partly to Europe's dollar crisis and partly to the end of trade with China. Australia's dollar shortage has also hit the whole west coast and further reduced Pacific trade.

❖ ❖ ❖

FOR the time being the growth of population and the developments of new industries have lessened the economic effects of this, but west coast businessmen are well aware of its ultimate importance to them. For these and other reasons the American west, despite the continuance in an important measure of the frontier mentality and the preoccupation with the problems of its own growth, is internationally-minded to a degree which is at first startling to a visitor who is most conscious, after the 2,500 mile journey across this continent, of its immense distance from Europe. This can be of great importance in view of the west's growing political influence. Despite a natural orientation towards the Pacific, this influence appears to be firmly behind European aid, and is likely to remain so.

❖ ❖ ❖

BUT what this growing influence is most likely to produce in American policy is a much more positive and consistent concern for Far Eastern problems, economic as well as political. One finds here, for example, an urgent concern with the Truman Point Four Programme, both because the economic development of South-East Asia could be of the greatest importance to west coast trade and because the west coast has a special interest in trying to prevent the further spread of Communism in the Asiatic lands it faces across the Pacific.

The shifting in political influences which is following on the westward population movement in this country should, therefore, mean not—as sometimes from the eastern seaboard it seems it might—a diminution of American internationalism, but rather its strengthening and widening.

GATEWAY TO FULL SOVEREIGNTY

Stirring Pride In Being Canadian

(MONTREAL GAZETTE)

AN effort to give fresh impetus to an undertaking of constructive and lasting importance for all Canadians—present and potential — was launched last week with the first nationwide campaign which the Canadian Citizenship Council has carried directly to the public. The immediate, basic objective of the drive is to broaden and invigorate public appreciation of what the Council has set out to do, with the underlying, long-term object of stirring a deeper and more actively asserted pride in being a citizen of Canada.

Formed close on the heels of the coming into force of the Canadian Citizenship Act on New Year's Day, 1947, the Council is jointly headed by prominent representatives of the two main racial groups which form the foundation of Canadian citizenship—Gen. H. D. G. Crerar and Mr. Andre Taschereau, K.C. of Quebec. It is a voluntary organization seeking to promote and co-ordinate the efforts of hundreds of allied and co-operating bodies, including chambers of commerce, Canadian Clubs, educational authorities, service clubs, and veterans', labour, welfare and church bodies.

Though aimed at making better citizens of those who are already full-fledged Canadians as well as good citizens out of "new" Canadians, the Council has directed its early efforts largely toward encouraging an awareness of the advantages and duties of citizenship among Canada's 400,000 post-war immigrants, and to dealing with their special problems. The Council is fully committed, however, to an inclusive program designed to foster among all Canadians, natural-born and otherwise, a mature pride in citizenship and a real understanding of its meaning and challenge in a free democracy.

Coincident with the general campaign to familiarize the public with the Council's objects and to gain nationwide backing for them, the Council is making a quiet appeal, by direct canvass of business firms and individuals, for funds to meet its modest operating budget of $50,000. While the Council is particularly approaching those institutions and persons whom it believes are anxious to take the lead in fostering high ideals of citizenship, contributions from all sources are being welcomed.

The cause is a worthy one and should enlist widespread support in the shape of both material aid and active interest in furthering the Council's aims.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

For the kingdom of heaven is as a man travelling into a far country, who called his own servants, and delivered unto them his goods. And unto one he gave five talents, to another two, and to another one; to every man according to his several ability; and straightway took his journey.

Then he that had received the five talents went and traded with the same, and made them other five talents. And likewise he that had received two, he also gained other two. But he that had received one went and digged in the earth, and hid his lord's money. After a long time the lord of those servants cometh, and reckoneth with them....

Then he which had received the one talent came and said, Lord, I knew thee that thou art an hard man, reaping where thou hast not sown, and gathering where thou hast not strawed: and I was afraid, and went and hid thy talent in the earth: lo, there thou hast that is thine.

His lord answered and said unto him, Thou wicked and slothful servant, thou knewest that I reap where I sowed not, and gather where I have not strawed: thou oughtest therefore to have put my money to the exchangers, and then at my coming I should have received mine own with usury.

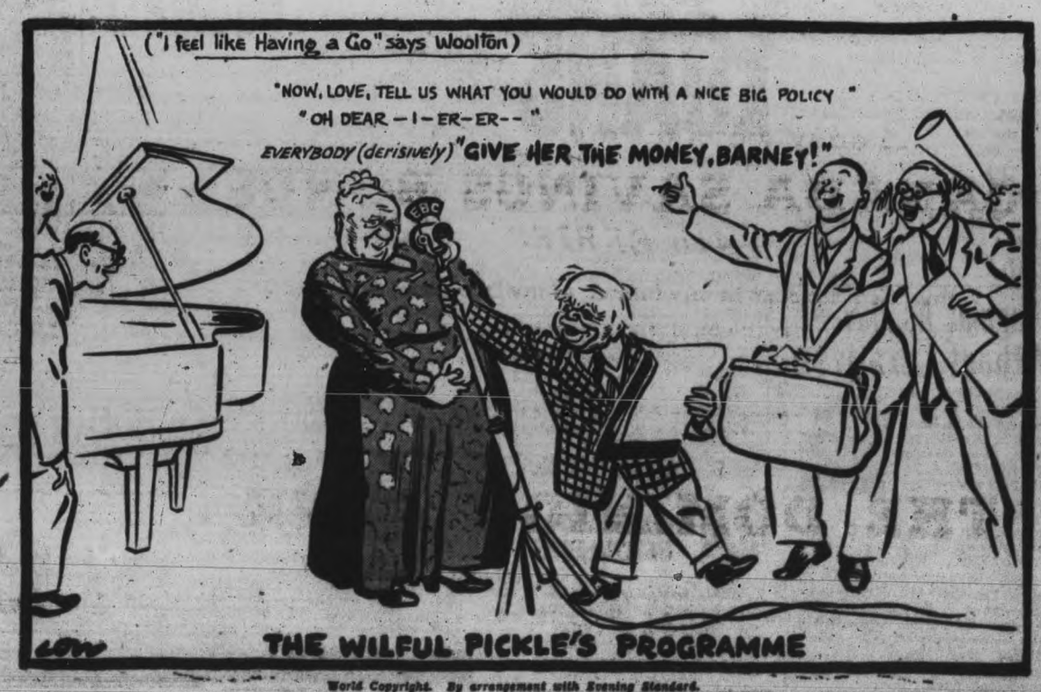
Take therefore the talent from him, and give it unto him which hath ten talents. For unto every one that hath shall be given, and he shall have abundance: but from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath. (Matt. 25: 14-19, 24-29.)

Mischievous Squirrels

The squirrel population in Ontario is well protected by Ontario's game laws, with the briefest of seasons and lowest of bags. But many a harried citizen wonders if the destructive little animals should not have their numbers reduced.

The stately shade trees of Woodstock and other Oxford county communities are well stocked with black and grey squirrels, whose only active enemies are cars, cats and boys with slingshots. And every Summer the complaints are numerous about the damage done by the squirrels in gardens.

While the squirrels are pretty and engaging creatures, there is little doubt that they do considerable damage. The indictment against them is heavy, their theft of corn and other garden produce being only one of many destructive acts.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.



House With A String On It

A kindly, if satirical, American critic said that England was a most happy place because whenever politics grew at all virulent someone brought in a Bill for the protection of birds; and all was well.

A new piece of evidence of this love of birds came to my knowledge this week. A lady is forced to sell her house—on the northern outskirts of London, though sufficiently rural—where the birds have been regularly fed for a generation or more, ever since a linnet was found dead on the doorstep one frosty morning.

A number of people have wished to buy the house, but all have been rejected on the ground that they showed no interest in birds whatever. The house will only be sold to a purchaser who will desire to go on feeding the birds.—London Spectator.

Peddles Wine To Policeman's House In Error

COBOURG, Oct. 25 (ENS) — When Douglas Butler of Cobourg attempted to peddle some wine from door to door on Saturday he made the mistake of calling on Corporal C. L. Dale of the local RCMP. Naturally the corporal was not in the market and felt that nobody else should be, under the circumstances.

Local police were called and wine salesman Butler was taken to the police station and locked up. "I was drunk and didn't realize what I was doing. I wanted to get some money to go to Toronto to look for a job and I was so drunk that I might have called on you, your worship, or the chief. I didn't know where I was calling," explained Butler. "The minimum for your offence is two months," said Magistrate R. B. Baxter, in police court.

Ruth Vivian Dies

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP) — Ruth Vivian, British-born character actress who appeared in "Goodby My Fancy" until she became ill recently, died Monday. She had appeared on Broadway for more than 20 years, and had roles in "I Remember Mama," "The Man Who Came For Dinner," and other stage hits.

Dies At 108 Years

WETASKIWIN, Alta., Oct. 25 (CP)—Jim Winter died Monday at the age of 108 years. He was known as Alberta's oldest resident. He was born in Atlanta, Ga., and claimed his father died at 110.

FIRST LOOK — Just like any other first-time visitor, Prime Minister Nehru of India took the trip aboard the steamer Maid of the Mist for a close-up view of Niagara Falls. Flanked by External Affairs Minisited Pearson, left, and Ontario Hydro Chairman Robert Saunders, the prime minister donned oilskins and gazed through the flying spray at a view he said exceeded his expectations.

Aerial Surveys Said Important

TORONTO, Oct. 25 — (CP)— The importance of aerial surveys and photographs in forestry was emphasized Monday in addresses as the opening of the three-day 41st annual meeting of the Canadian Society of Forest Engineers.

H. M. Rogue, of the British Columbia Forest Service, said aerial surveys have been used in that province for 18 years. For 10 years, photographs have been made of every project and maps have been made from the photographs prior to the start of ground surveys.

A. J. Nash, of the Dominion Forest Service, told of experiments in measuring tree heights from photographs. Heights can be translated into terms of wood volume which is the basis of all forest inventories, he said.

Another speaker, S. B. Logee, of Sault Ste. Marie, emphasized the need for close collaboration between aerial and ground survey parties.

Snow In Toronto

TORONTO, Oct. 25 (CP) — Most people didn't notice it, but weathermen said Toronto had its first snowfall of the year Monday. The weather experts described it as "almost negligible." At Caledon, Ont., 32 miles northwest of here there was enough snow to give children a chance to roll the year's first snowballs.

Honor Padres

QUEBEC, Oct. 25 (CP)—The Netherlands Government paid tribute to the Canadian Army Padres of the Second World War Monday when the Most Rev. Maurice Roy, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Quebec, was made a Commander of the Order of Orange Nassau during a private ceremony at his palace.

With Ontario Police Stationed In London

Fred Fowler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Fowler, 647 Armour Rd., is now serving with the Provincial Police in London, Ont. He joined the force in April this year and was recently transferred from Port Stanley to London.

During the war Constable Fowler served with the Navy for seven years. He is a former student of Peterborough Collegiate.

Falls 100 Ft., Lives

CARLETON, Oct. 25 (CP) — William Crews, 60, Canadian Pacific Railway section foreman, Monday survived after a 100-foot fall from a railway bridge spanning the Credit River four miles south of the village of Cataract. He suffered a fractured right leg, right arm, several ribs and severe shock. Hospital authorities said his condition is critical.

Steals Liquor Girl 13 Drunk Can't Lay Charge

PORT CREDIT, Oct. 25 — Police believe the 13-year-old public school girl found sprawled on a lawn near the Lake Shore Highway Sunday morning got drunk on stolen liquor.

Sgt. Walter Sheehan said he found the girl as residents were passing on their way to church. "She was drunk," said the officer. When I picked her up she vomited all over."

Chief Constable Joseph Nelson said Monday night he believed the girl, with another, had entered the home of a railway worker in Toronto Township and stolen the liquor.

"We have questioned the man and he says he was in the backyard and later came in the house and found the liquor missing," said Chief Nelson.

He stated that under the Canada Temperance Act, in force in Peel County, no charges could be laid against a man giving liquor to minors.

"We have been trying for two years to have the CTA amended to include three sections of the Liquor Control Act," said the chief.

Chief Nelson recommended these three sections of the liquor control act be incorporated into the CTA. Supplying liquor to minors; having liquor in an illegal place, being drunk in a public place.

"I have appealed several times to church groups, social organizations and council to advocate amendments to the CTA," said Chief Nelson.

"This case is not unusual except for the age. Other cases of minors consuming liquor or being intoxicated have been reported to the police," he said. "The usual age is between 14 and 16."

Chief Constable Garnet McGill of Toronto Township in Peel County said the hands of the police were tied as far as laying any charges were concerned.

WESTERN OIL FLOW

In 1948 Alberta produced 10,973,583 barrels of oil, approximately 4,000,000 barrels more than the previous year.

Dog Kills Mistress

MONTREAL, Oct. 25 (CP) — Mrs. Berthe Girard, 86, who lived alone, was found dead in her house Monday, gas escaping from an open jet on the stove. Police said their investigation indicated the aged woman had tied her dog to the kitchen stove and the dog, in jumping about, had opened a defective handle on the stove.

Thrilling Duel In Pimlico Race

BALTIMORE, Oct. 25 (AP) — The hand on the stop watch pointed today to a thrilling duel when Coaltown and Capot meet Friday in the winner-take-all Pimlico Special.

Both have burned up the turf in recent workouts, with Coaltown bettering the track record for a mile in last Sunday's outing over the old Hilltop course. His 1:37 2-5 clipped one-fifth of a second off the mark set in 1923 by June Grass.

Capot, the Greentree stable hope for "horse of the year" honors, turned in a brilliant workout Monday at Belmont. He toured a 1⅛ mile main course in 1:52 after covering the first mile in 1:37 3-5.

The $15,000 special is 1 3-16 miles.

Friday's meeting will be the first between Coaltown and Capot since the Sysonby mile, when Capot handed the Calumet campaigner his only unavenged defeat so far.

Close Competition In YMCA Men's Loop

Close competition marked the games in the YMCA Men's Five-Pin League last night, all games being 4-2 decisions. Commercials, Artists, Quakers and Canada Packers won by that margin from Tip Tops, B'nai B'rith, Aberdeens and Jay Bees.

Commercials had high pinnage of 3369 and high single game of 1208.

Ab Guerin was tops for three games with 766. Ray Bennett had 733, C. MacDonald 722 and Ross Hopkins 715. Harold Dormer chalked up the best single performance 302.

IN MAIN BOUT—Mat action of the explosive variety is anticipated at the Brock Arena on Thursday night, when Fred Atkins, pictured above, the burly, bustling Australian, will meet one of the toughest ring assignments of his career in the person of Frank Taylor, the big, powerful Hollywood matman. Seelie Samara, the Negro star, will meet the Red Devil in the semi-final, with Angelo Cistoldi tangling with Pat Flanagan in the opener.

Large and likeable Frank Taylor draws a tough pro mat assignment Thursday night at the Brock Arena when he takes on rough Fred Atkins in the main scrap of a three-bout card. It will be no tea party with the Australian champ, though the latter may hand out some lumps. The semi-final also sounds like sizzling action when Seelie Samara—huge colored grappler who uses his noggin as a battering ram—mixes with the bedecked Red Devil, an odd character who features a "devil dance head twist" hold. And popular Pat Flanagan makes his season's debut here against Angelo Cistoldi, another newcomer, in the prelim. Yeah, it's quite a card for the wrestling fans.

Jim Flowers, well-versed on sprinting matters, corrects us on the world record for the 100-yard dash. He quotes World Sports thusly: "The International Amateur Athletic Federation announces the acceptance of the following world records: 100 yard dash, 9.3 seconds, set up by Mel Patton, USA, on May 15, 1948 at Fresno, Cal.; 100 metre dash, 10.2 seconds, L. LaBeach, Panama, May 15, 1948." It takes the AAF a year to recognize a record, so Patton's mark did not become official until last May. Just last June, Patton ran 100 yards in 9.1 seconds and the 220 metres in 20.02 seconds. Previous to May, five sprinters did the 100 yards in 9.4.

* * * * * *

Owens Would Take It

Jim points out that both Patton and LaBeach have often been beaten outside of California. Patton was only fifth in the Olympic 100 metre dash and LaBeach was third. According to H. M. Abraham of World Sport, if all the former record holders could compete in a mythical 100 yard sprint, Jess Owens would finish first, followed by Patton, Wykoff, LaBeach, Joubert, Jeffrey and Davis. The Canadian record is 9.6, tied last year by Ted Haggis of London, Ont, That was at the Western University relay meet, and Peterborough harriers competed. So, that clears up the world sprint business, and our thanks to the local club secretary.

It is hoped the Petes' puckists will find time this coming season to stay around long enough for OHA fixtures. Bas Phelan informs us the club has four invitations for exhibition jousts quite some distance from this fair borough. The bids come from Toledo, Akron, West Allison in Wisconsin, and Fort Erie. With expenses, of course. Club officials are carefully considering them and may make a jaunt or two ere long. Meantime, Coach Eddie Foley and Manager Red Creighton are getting the team lined up and expect to ice a strong squad shortly. Defence is the only problem at the moment but the blue-line blockers will be picked this week.

Legion Were Flyers

Legionnaires convinced the Midland Flyers last eve on Midland ice why they are OHA senior "B" champs, coming up with a 7-4 convincer. And spread the scoring well around, too. Hill got two goals, Parnell and Crowley one and an assist each, Coombs an assist, while Fryia, Greenlaw and Rochetta each hit the twine once for the Ellis-coached club. A four-goal outburst in the initial inning gave Legionnaires time to set themselves up nicely and hold the Flyers within reason the rest of the way. A return tilt here may be arranged ere long. The Legion outfit is pretty well fixed now, we understand, and will be ready whenever an early OHA schedule rolls around.

A couple of notes on local football frays and players. The St. Peter's-PCVS windup junior scheduled tussle will be run off tomorrow afternoon in the Oval after school, instead of this week-end, leaving Saturday at the Oval free for an exhibition betwixt Grove and the junior PCI-ers, while senior PCVS goes to Oshawa. Don Griffin, clever young ex-PCVS junior gridder—who also shone in basketball and softball—has been going in every game so far this semester with Queen's intermediate footballers. A hefty step up from junior high school. And we noted a picture in this morning's Globe of Don Lech, husky middle for Balmy Beach.

Legion Victors 7-4 In Midland Game

MIDLAND, Oct. 25—(CP)—Peterborough Legion, last year's Ontario Senior 'B' champions, defeated Midland Flyers 7-4 in a fast exhibition hockey match here Monday night.

A big first period in which they scored four goals played a large part in the Legion victory.

Hill led the visiting marksmen with three goals, with Fyria and Rochetta, Parnell and Greenlaw each getting one. "Fat" Sales, Len Leduc and Lou Dukelman were the Midland goal getters.

Lineups:

Midland—Goal, Gagnon; defence, F. Swales, D. Swales; centre, Adams; wings, O'Hearn, Len Leduc; subs, Dunkleman, Duggan, Ambeau, Henderson, Armstrong, Leo Leduc, Richardson, Wheeler, Wilson, Simpson.

Peterborough — Goal, Nichols; defence, Godfrey, Burns; centre, Rochetta; wings, Crowley, Fryia; subs, Greenlaw, Parnell, Stewart, F. Mortimer, Montgomery, Vitarelli, Hill, Coombs, D. Mortimer, Hicks.

Referees—Chub Butters and F. Wilcox.

Appleby Trounces Lakefield Rivals

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 25—Appleby College's first team defeated their traditional football rivals, Lakefield Preparatory School, 10-7, in the annual "big game" between the two schools here Saturday. Appleby won on a field goal, kicked by Warren Beasley in the fourth quarter.

Appleby had taken the lead in the first quarter when Gerald Kaplan scored a touchdown which was converted by Beasley. Lakefield stormed back to deadlock the score in the second quarter when Ben Legate crossed the Appleby goal-line and Hugh McCulloch converted from placement. Then, Lakefield forged to the front just before halftime when Hugh Faulkner kicked a single point.

Beasley's placement gave Appleby the lead again in the third quarter and they added a point in the final period when a Lakefield safety-man was rouged on Kaplan's punt.

Appleby Seconds defeated Lakefield Seconds, 27-5, and Lakefield Fourteens defeated Appleby Fourteens, 18-5.

Loses Four Games Coach Has Resigned

STRATFORD, Oct. 25—(CP)—Leo Barbini today announced he had resigned as coach of Stratford Kroehlers of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A group. He said he was discouraged and disappointed over the showing of the team which has lost its last four games after winning its first one.

In verifying the resignation, Alf Riches, secretary of the club, announced that a new coach would be named by the management of Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League. The Stratford club has a working agreement with Cleveland.

HIS LAST YEAR?—One of the last reminders of Winnipeg's days of football glory will depart from active competition in a Blue Bomber uniform if Bob Sandberg sticks to his decision to retire at the end of the Western Interprovincial Football Union season. The big backfielder, whose kicking and all-around backfield play inspired the Bombers to a western title and a one-point loss to Toronto's powerful Argonauts two years ago, has been advised by doctors to quit before he suffers injuries to his battered legs.

Pancho Gonzales, the young California-born Mexican who skyrocketed to fame on the amateur tennis courts of the world, begins cashing in tonight when he makes his professional debut against Jack Kramer, currently rated as the game's best.

Their match, carded for three out of five sets, is to feature the opening program of a professional tour that will carry them to at least 90 cities.

It will be played on a green canvas court stretched tightly across the floor of New York's Madison Square Garden, where Kramer also started earning an annual income in six digit figures less than two years ago.

Frank Parker, who comes from Los Angeles as do both Kramer and Gonzales, also makes his bow into the money game on the same program. He is to play Pancho Segura, the little two-fisted Ecuadorian, in the first match, scheduled for two out of three sets.

Last event of the evening will be a doubles match with Kramer and Parker teaming up against Gonzales and Segura.

With ticket prices ranging from $1.50 to $8., a crowd of some 15,000 is expected.

Members of last year's Montreal Royal Juniors Monday attended the funeral services at Ottawa for Taggart (Tag) Millar, who coached them to the Canadian junior hockey championship and their first Memorial Cup last season.

The 36-year-old centre ice star died in a Montreal Hospital last Friday after an illness of several months, blamed on last season's long championship grind. A kidney ailment produced a general breakdown in his health.

Millar, a native of Ottawa, began his colorful hockey career with the Ottawa Primrose Juniors and went to Montreal cup heights with them in 1931.

Wally Halder has been appointed coach of the University of Toronto hockey team, university athletic director Warren Stevens announced Monday night. He succeeds Irvin (Ace) Bailey, who resigned to accept a position at Welland.

Halder, a Lieutenant in the RCNVR fleet air arm during the Second World War, captained Varsity seniors in the 1945-46 season after his discharge.

Halder was captain of the winning RCAF Olympic hockey team. He turned down several offers to join professional teams, preferring to stay in amateur ranks.

Sidney Smith, of Doncaster, Yorkshire, Monday led George Chenier of Toronto 8-4 at the end of the first day's play in their 37-frame heat of the £1,500 ($4,650) News of the World handicap snooker tournament at London.

Chenier, Canadian snooker champion, dropped his first heat in the round-robin tournament to Peter Mans, South African titlist. Mans won the match 23-14. Under the handicap system, Chenier gave Mans three points a frame. He is playing Smith on even terms.

Pete Mead, middleweight fighter from Truman, Ark., Monday was signed by promoter Jack Solomons to meet Dick Turpin of England in a 10-round bout in London Nov. 15.

Mead lost his first fight in London Oct. 11, when he was outpointed in 10 rounds by Dave Sands Australian middleweight

Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League Monday night farmed out defenceman Ed Kryzanowski to Hershey Bears. Kryzanowski, who came to the Bruins from the University of Toronto, was sent to Hershey on the American Hockey League on 24-hour recall option.

Mair At Top Of Scoring Race

TORONTO, Oct. 25 (CP)—With eight of Marlboro's 16 goals to his credit, Scotty Mair today heads the OHA senior scoring race. Scotty also has three assists.

Next in line are teammates Johnny McCormack and Al Buchanan, with seven and five points respectively. Billy Flick of the Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen, with four points, is tied with Doug Gillespie and Jack Ingoldsby, both of Owen Sound Mercurys for the fourth spot.

Red Sullivan of St. Catharine's Teepees leads the junior parade with 11 points, made up of six goals and five assists. Two more St. Catharines players follow in second and third positions. Jack McIntyre has nine points and Ken O'Brien, eight.

The junior goalkeepers are led by Don Lockhart of Toronto Marlboros with an average of only .80 goals against him in four games. Art Childs, Hamilton Tigers veteran, tops the seniors with an average of 2.5 goals against in two games.

Curling News

By Herb Martin

We have a correction to make. It would appear that in our column Monday evening, we informed that the schedule would commence of Monday, Nov. 7. What we intended was this —the curling season opens on Nov. 7 and for the first week the ices will be available for those who care to practice—no schedule games. The schedule proper is set for Monday, Nov. 14.

Lindsay and Ronty Tied Lead NHL Scoring Parade

MONTREAL, Oct. 25 (CP) — Boston's Paul Ronty and Detroit's Ted Lindsay have taken over command of the National Hockey League scoring race by a one-point margin.

Official league statistics released today showed that left winger Lindsay and right winger Ronty are evenly matched with three goals and three assists for a six-point total—one more than Toronto's Sid Smith and Boston's Johnny Peirson. Last week Smith was the top performer. He has two goals and three assists while Peirson has assisted four times and scored once.

The third-place spot is split seven ways among seven players each with four points. They are: Maurice Richard and Elmer Lach, Montreal Canadiens Captain Ted Kennedy, Howie Meeker and Fleming Mackell, Toronto Maple Leafs; Metro Prystai, Chicago Black Hawks; and Ken Smith, Boston Bruins.

In the goal-scoring department, Richard continues to stay in front with four—one more than he had last week. Peirson leads the assist division with four.

Big Stumbling Block

Big Bill Durnan, who allowed three goals in two games last week to bring his goals-against average to .80 per game, has proved the biggest stumbling block to opposing forwards.

The Canadien goalie also heads the shutout division with two. Rookie Jack Gelineau of Boston is Durnan's closest competitor with a 1.80 goals-against average and one goose-egg.

Kennedy leads the penalty parade with 14 minutes spent in the box.

Nursing a one-point margin, Montreal Canadiens are on top of the league race Boston and Detroit are tied for second place with five points. Leafs follow one point behind while Chicago and New York, who have yet to win a game in four starts share the cellar spot with two points.

Pick Corum For Job

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 25 (AP) —The name of Bill Corum, New York sports columnist, was moved to the head of the list today as the likely successor of the late Matt Winn as organizer of the Kentucky Derby. One member of the Churchill Downs committee going over the list of prospects to carry on for Winn, who died this month confirmed Monday night that Corum had been interviewed by the committee.

Make It Official Now Montreal Score 23-6

HAMILTON, Oct. 25 — (CP) —Scorer Jim Gough made it official Monday Montreal Alouettes beat Hamilton Wildcasts 23-6 in their Big Four football game Saturday, not 22-6 as most newspaper men reported it.

Gough's official summary of the game showed that Ches McCance of the Alouettes converted all three touchdowns scored by Virgil Wagner. Canadian Press and most other accounts of the game had McCance missing one of his three convert attempts.

Lamotta Agrees To Fight Cerdan Dec. 2

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP) — Middleweight champion Jake Lamotta has given his answer to critics who said he would never fight Marcel Cerdan again.

The Bronx Bull agreed late Monday to meet the Frenchman in a 15-round title bout in Madison Square Garden Dec. 2.

Jake, who lifted Cerdan's crown in Detroit last July 16, had been slated to give Marcel a return shot in Yankee Stadium Sept. 28.

But six days before the contest, Jake said he had injured his right shoulder. The fight was postponed indefinitely.

That gave rise to rumors that Lamotta was backing out and had no intention of giving the 33-year-old former champ his deserved return crack.

The conversation reached Lamotta's ears and he replied, "I'll fight Cerdan when my shoulder is okay. I ain't afraid to fight him or anybody else.

The main reason why the agreement wasn't reached sooner was television. The International Boxing Club has a contract with the boxing managers guild for all Garden fights.

It calls for main eventers getting $1,000 each as their share of the Video rights.

"Why should I only get that for defending my title," the champ squawked.

But Lamo finally gave in to the arguments of Jim Norris, president of the IBC and accepted the $1,000 extra. Norris, no doubt, explained that Jake's end of a possible $200,000 gate would be $45,000.

Douglas Of Barons Keep Point Lead

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (CP)—Although held pointless in three games during last week, Les Douglas of Cleveland Barons maintained his scoring lead in the American Hockey League with 13 points.

Second in total points was Fern Perreault of New Haven Ramblers with 11. Tied for third with nine points each were Jack McGill of Providence Reds, Ab DeMarco of Buffalo Bisons, Jackie Gordon of New Haven and Cliff Simpson of St. Louis Flyers.

Top honors in goals scored were shared among Douglas, Gordie Bruce of Hershey Bears and Pat Lundy of Indianapolis Capitols. Each had six. Five players were tied for most assists with seven each: Douglas, McGill, Perreault, Gordon and Danny Sprout of Cleveland.

Joe Lepine of the new Cincinnati Mohawks was the league "bad man," with 32 penalty minutes, including one 10-minute misconduct.

Terry Sawchuk of Indianapolis continued to show that his winning the rookie award last year was deserved as he led in both goaltender average and shutouts. He had allowed only 10 goals in six games for a 1.67 percentage and had chalked up two shutouts.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Ching Johnson, battle-scarred New York Rangers defenceman, said he was quitting the game 15 years ago today because of a salary slash. Difficulties were ironed out and the 37-year-old Winnipegger went on to help Rangers into the Stanley Cup finals in 1936.

Eddie Zastre Gains TKO Over Herman

TORONTO, Oct. 25 (CP)—Eddie Zastre, 170-pound Winnipeg "disaster boy," came from behind Monday night to gain a technical knockout over Jack Herman, 207, of Montreal at the 1:37 mark of the seventh round of their scheduled 10-round heavyweight fight.

Three looping rights to the head by Zastre sent Herman down for the nine count. He rose, took two more smashing rights, and referee Sammy Luftspring stopped the bout to save the dazed Montrealer from further punishment.

This was the second time the two fighters have met. In their first fight Herman was knocked out by the lighter Zastre.

The judges counted the first two rounds even and gave Herman all the others until the seventh when Zastre drew on a powerful reserve to smash the Montrealer to the canvas.

In the semi-final of the five-bout card, Vern Mitchell, 186, of London, Ont., won a 10-round decision over Ted Lowry, 177, of New Bedford, Mass.

Other fights:

Joe Cardinal, 147, of Oshawa decisioned Bill Zaduk, 148, of Toronto, in six rounds.

Billy Fifield, 161, of Toronto, decisioned Frank Belanger, 156, of Quebec City in six rounds.

Wills Are Not Messengers Of Approaching Death

To have a will is a mark of responsible citizenship, said C. A. Jerry, Trust Officer of the Royal Trust Company, speaking to the Rotary Club Monday on "Wills and Estate Planning."

"A will brings death not a minute closer," he added, "and there should be no superstition about it."

Mr. Jerry told the members that it is difficult, even for an expert, to make his own will. He advised that it is wise to seek outside independent assistance. Mr. Jerry warned that one should never try to execute, destroy, revoke, or alter a will in any way, without consulting a solicitor. The Wills Act, he added, governing most of these things, is strict as to formalities.

Consult Family

In planning a will, Mr. Jerry advised that one should consult his wife and family, adding that they are the ones who will be most affected. Any friction should be avoided, he said.

"Our will speaks from the date of death, and how well our estate will be administered, and our dependents protected will depend upon three things," said Mr. Jerry. "These things are: (1) The amount of shrinkage from death taxes and administration costs; (2) the composition of the assets, and (3) the flexibility of the will itself."

Mr. Jerry suggested that if a person has business interests and a substantial general and insurance estate he should seek a survey service — a test administration. Any weaknesses nearly always become evident, he said. He added that if a will wouldn't work, now is the time to discover it and adjust plans accordingly. A good part of the estate should be liquid, he said, and I have always advocated a good backlog of insurance."

Executors of an estate should be given the powers they need, he explained. Special reference should be made to any trade or business. But, while making a will he advised that three simple words should be the guide, "Keep it flexible."

Review Proposition

"I suggest to you that this matter of wills and estate planning is not something to be put off until we are faced with it. It should be a three to five-year review proposition. Perhaps it would be more appropriately termed "life planning."

The federal and provincial governments recently brought in legislation exempting succession duties (with certain exemptions in Ontario) estates up to $50,000. Many people, he added, are laboring under the misconception that this is a $50,000 exemption which applies to all estates. That is not the case, he said. He explained that under the new legislation an estate of $60,000 the succession duty payable would be roughly $5,300. Under the same law an estate of $50,000 or less there is no succession duties. Mr. Jerry said that he would much rather see a flat exemption of $50,000 applied to all estates.

Living trusts, Mr. Jerry said, appeal to many people because of the complete privacy. Many estate owners, he said, find living trusts offer a sound and practical method of dealing with property before and after death. Mr. Jerry said that it has many fine features, especially to owners of substantial investment holdings, and those who are busy, in ill health, or travel extensively.

Taxes can be conquered, to some extent, by dividing the estate into more portions. He added that he never recommends the distribution of any estate with the sole purpose of defeating taxes. He explained that that was dangerous practice and planning. If taxes can legitimately be minimized in a sound plan, then it is

In closing, Mr. Jerry stressed that the advisability of co-ordinating the various professional services necessary to achieve the best results.

"Don't wait until you are involved or in trouble before you seek counsel and advice from a legal advisor," Mr. Jerry said.

Mr. Jerry was introduced by Charles Cummer and thanked by Hugh Waddell.

Guests of the club for the luncheon meeting were introduced by Burritt Smitheram. Twenty school inspectors from the Peterborough district attended, as well as other guests from other Ontario centres and several from the United States.

Britain's Blitz Ruins Haven For Nation's Homeless Cats

By STUART UNDERHILL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Whatever anyone else thinks of Britain's blitz ruins, they're a haven and a heaven for the country's cats.

Countless felines have settled happily in the yawning cellars and dilapidated rooms which still abound five years after the war. There they raise families, hunt rats, mice and birds, and—when they feel like it—mew appealingly at passersby who give them titbits from their lunches.

"In London alone there are thousands of cats living like this," said a veterinary official who often is asked to eliminate a feline community. "And, believe me, they're rough, tough and nasty.

"People who see pussy sunning herself on the parapet of a bombed building may think she's sweet. But try to trap her and it's a different story.

"These same kind-hearted people do us and the cat a disservice by putting out food for them. They're so well-fed they ignore the bait we set in cages and our work is made more difficult."

Cat Chorus

If you wonder why anyone should want to round up stray cats, just live for a little while near bomb ruins. As soon as darkness falls the yowling begins. All night long the cat chorus shrills and quavers.

Some people who have tried to catch cats themselves have come off second best. Once cornered the animals turn viciously on their pursuer.

Experts go after them with strong cages, stout gloves and leather thongs on the end of long poles.

"I'd as soon handle a panther," said a former soldier.

"They're so smart it's quite a triumph to get one," said another experienced cat-catcher. "They seem to know when you're after them even before you do yourself . . .

"They know man is their enemy. They are not like the nice, lazy domestic pussy cat who expects no one to strike him — until some passing stranger chucks him in a bag.

"What for? Bless you, where do you think all those nice fur gloves and cheap fur coats come from?"

Only Hydro Restriction

TORONTO, Oct. 25 (CP) — Ontario Hydro Chairman Robert Saunders Monday night said the four-hour cut in the use of flat-rate water heaters in Toronto likely will be the only power restriction put into effect this year. The next four or five weeks will be vital in determining whether Ontario will be faced with Hydro blackouts, Mr. Saunders added.

Freed of Conspiracy

SARNIA, Oct. 25 (CP)—Robert G. McMullen, Toronto mining executive, Monday was freed of a charge of conspiracy to defraud arising from deals involving the sale and transfer of stock in Lobanor Mines. Judge J. A. Shawnessy, directed the jury to return a not guilty verdict, ruling there was no evidence to link McMullen with conspiracy.

Put Old Inn Up For Sale Has A Ghost

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

RYE, Sussex, England, Oct. 25 (CP).—For the second time since 1930 the shutters are up at the 500-years-old Mermaid Inn.

Once the hide-out of smugglers and highwaymen, the picturesque Mermaid has passed into the hands of receivers — and a new purchaser is wanted.

Two years ago Vancouver-born L. M. Wilson reopened the hotel as "England's Most Famous Inn." He spent thousands of pounds renovating the Mermaid's old oak beams, linenfold panels, ghost rooms and smugglers' well, and had a well-known London artist paint the rooms with period-style murals.

A year later Wilson sold out to a local innkeepers, Capt. R. Collins, and sailed back to Canada.

But the demand for capital to keep the hotel going proved too much for Collins. The hammer falls this Thursday and a new owner takes over. Meanwhile Collins and his wife are staying on guard in the silent house as caretakers.

Ex-Pirate

The Mermaid is associated with the notorious Dr. Syn, who figured in the novel of that name. Syn is said to have been an ex-pirate who became a Vicar of Rye. He used the money derived from smuggling to carry out charitable work in the neighborhood, and his ghost is still said to haunt one of the rooms.

"In the past many guests at the Mermaid have complained of weird noises in the night," a former employee of the hotel said.

"In the early '30's a woman woke up screaming and rushed out of her room. She said a ghostly light hovered over her bed and there were continued rapping on the wall behind her.

"She left next day."

Home And School Plans Fall Dances

YOUNG'S POINT, Oct. 25 (ENS).—Home and School met in the schoolhouse on Friday. Mrs. Harold Young, president, presided and welcomed the members, parents and friends.

The president announced that commencing the first Friday in November, plain sewing and darning will be taught in the school. A dance will be held in St. Aidan's Parish Hall on Nov. 4, and a Hallowe'en party in the school on October 31.

Miss Joan Townsend played the piano and a sing-song was held with Mrs. Charles Young at the piano.

The guest speaker, Dr. J. J. Craig of Peterborough, was introduced by Miss Mary Spencer and his assistant, Miss Helen Hopkins, showed three films. They were thanked by Mrs. Roy Breaker.

Lunch was served by Mrs. J. Jones and her committee.

U.S. Embassy Worker To Be Tried As Spy

PRAGUE, Oct. 25 (AP)—Samuel Meryn, an American Embassy employee who was arrested last week, will soon be tried as a spy in a Czechoslovakian court, James K. Penfield, United States Charge d'Affairs, disclosed Monday.

Meryn was arrested Friday as one of the leaders of an alleged espionage ring headed by American Embassy employees.

Isaac Patch, political attache at the Embassy who was similarly accused, was expelled by the Communist-led government.

American officials have labelled the charges as "entirely unfounded."

Municipal Board Has No Power To Halt System

TORONTO, Oct. 25 (CP)—The Ontario Municipal Board in a judgment handed down Monday held it had no power to rule illegal a two year rotary system of assessment introduced this year in Timmins.

The Board did rule that the assessments on some 70 parcels of land, made in 1948 for 1949 taxation by G. Lemarche, town assessor, were "discriminatory" and ordered the rolls changed so that the 1947 assessment would apply.

The judgment covered appeals by the M. Gauthier Holdings Ltd., G. T. Gauthier and G. S. Drew, and Peter Bergamis, and concerned vacant unimproved property in the town.

"The Board finds that the assessor in making his assessment was discriminatory against the land of the appelant in comparison with other ratepayers or owners in the town affected by the new by-law," the judgment said. "It seems incredible that the assessor could increase the value of these lands to the extent he did and yet leave built-in-lands at exactly the same figure as appears in the 1948 rolls.

"It can be seen from the evidence, the statements of G. Lemarche, town assessor, are discriminatory as against all lands without buildings thereon in the area re-assessed and that the whole assessment for the town as made by the assessor is inequitable and is not sound in fact," the Board held.

Rail Crossing In Campbellford To Have Signal

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 25 — (ENS)—After years of negotiations for an automatic signal system at the Centre St. railway crossing, where five members of one family lost their lives in August, the Transport Board has decided to erect two flashing lights and a bell.

The Board's engineer, J. A. Sutherland, has completed an estimate of the cost and the plan was today accepted by the council.

A wigwag was also considered as a means of protecting motorists, but this suggestion was dropped and the flashing lights and bell are to be installed.

Estimated cost of installation is $3,200 and 40 per cent of this will be met by the Railway Grade Crossing Fund. Tre remaining 60 per cent and entire cost of maintenance will be shared equally between the town and the railways.

The town's estimated yearly cost for maintenance will be $450.

Bike Race Trophies Presented At Meeting

Trophies won by boys in three bicycle races at the Thanksgiving Day meet sponsored by the Optimist Club were presented at the Monday night meeting.

Leverne Jones, of John St., won the five-mile trophy for boys 16 years and under, presented by Clapper's.

David Birch, of Chester St., took the trophy presented by Millard's for winning the 12-14 year class. Distance was three miles.

The 12-years and under class was won by Wilton Tranter, of London St., in a mile race. The Trent Valley Baking Co. awarded the trophy.

All bicycle races were open events.

Entertainment at the Monday night meeting was provided by talent from Boys' Town. Terry Roberts and Carl Cullen did a pantomime act to the accompaniment of a recording. Barry Wales entertained at the piano and a vocalist was Mike Tunnacliffe.

Red Cross Stays Community Fund

Permission has been granted by the Peterborough Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society to conduct its annual campaign for funds in conjunction with the Community Chest Fund drive Mrs. Charles Ray, president, announced today.

For more than a year the Peterborough Branch has sought to have the Ontario Board change its ruling that all Red Cross appeals must be conducted separately from Community Chest Drives. In granting permission to the local society to continue this year in the Community Chest campaign the officers have been advised that the Red Cross is not changing its rule but where branches have been reaching their quotas while members of the Community Chest they will be allowed to continue.

UE Local Committee Meets With Company

The Joint Conference Board of the UE has wired Labor Minister Charles Daley asking him to accept the responsibility of bringing the CGE Company and the Union together with or without the Conciliation Board. Later, today an Executive Committee headed by President John G. Morton of Local 524 will meet the company to hear charges of "strike action" based on the recent day and a half work stoppage.

C. S. Jackson, Canadian president of the UE, today denied that the onus for delay in the Conciliation Board meetings during October lay with the Union. Judge Reynolds, chairman of the Board, had previously stated he would be unable to sit in this month, Mr. Jackson said. He added the Union takes the stand that nothing prevents the company and the union negotiating directly at any time.

Afternoon Skating Offered Women

Minor hockey league teams are getting nine practice hours at Civic Arena this week. Their time is free. They are scheduled for the early 7:30 to 8:30 a.m. five mornings and they have other time at 4:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Allotment of the hours tonight beginning at 6 o'clock is to CGE; Legion; Post Office; CGE Test Power, and Triple Link.

Walter Smillie, manager, is placing two hours, Wed. 2 to 4, for public skating. This is an experiment to find out whether women and others who have some afternoon time available, which to take advantage of the rink's facilities.

Other teams practicing this week are CGE machine shop, Quaker Oats, De Laval, Brinton Carpet, Legion. There is skating for the public Saturday afternoon, and at night Triple Link Jrs. take on St Michael's Juniors of Toronto in an exhibition game.

Province Lacks 5,000 Teachers Inspectors Told

Enrolment in the Normal Schools of Ontario has increased by 220 over last year, H. E. Elborn, Inspector of Professional Training Schools, told the Trent Valley Group of School Inspectors Monday at their semi-annual conference with the Normal School staff here.

"A shortage of about 5000 trained teachers for the elementary schools beyond the need for current replacements," said Mr. Elborn, "makes it imperative that still larger enrolments be recruited."

During the forenoon session Colonel S. A. Watson, Assistant Superintendent of Elemetnary Education, discussed the curriculum of the elementary school. He saw in the Social and Natural Science fields opportunities for the teachers to train pupils in democratic procedure more effectively than could be accomplished through the institution of a new course in citizenship.

"Geography texts — both old and modern—" he declared("are strong in their emphasis of the limitless, innexhaustible resources of this land. They stress a static, descriptive geography whereas the school should develop favorable attitudes toward such problems as soil erosion, depleted forests, soil exhaustion, and stream pollution—all of them the concern of a good citizen."

Seventeen Inspectors

Seventeen inspectors and staff of the Peterborough Normal School attended the conference. To former inspectors now retired, R. F. Downey of Peterborough, and R. A. Hutchison of Whitby, took part in the deliberations which covered a wide range of topics dealing with the operation of the elementary schools. A. W. McGuire of Tweed and F. B. Smitheram of the local Normal School were in charge of the meeting.

Those who attended were: Inspectors of Public Schools E. C. Anderson of Lindsay, A. Archibald of Whitby, K. O. Birkin of Peterborough, A. F. Brown of Picton, W. H. Carlton of Cobourg, L. A. Kells of Belleville, H. H. Langford of Napanee, C. W. Lees of Lindsay, T. S. McEwen of Oshawa, R. H Macklem of Belleville, A. W. McGuire of Tweed, A. A. Martin of Brighton, D. W. Simpson of Bancroft, A. Stouffer of Minden, K. S. Wightman and P. D. Windrim of Peterborough; Normal School staff, Principal L. W. Copp; F. B. Smitheram, C. E. Potts, Quirt McKinney, G. E. Munro, Mrs. O. Turner, Miss C. E. Wagar; others, W. J. Morrison, Superintendent of the Ontario School for the Deaf, Belleville, R. F. Downey of Peterborough, and R. A. Hutchison of Whitby.

Return True Bill In Auto Fatality

LINDSAY, Oct. 25.— A true bill against Aylmer S. Davies of Toronto, charged with manslaughter, was returned Monday at the opening oft he Supreme Court session under Mr. Justice Gale.

The charge was laid following the death of Elsie Prior, Toronto model, who was a passenger in a car driven by Davies. The auto came into a collision with a passenger train at a level crossing in Manvers Twp.

Davies is being defended by R. I. Moore. He pleaded not guilty. Crown Attorney L. W. Jordan is prosecuting. Thirteen witnesses are expected to testify and the trial may last several days.

Canadian Timber Structures Limited are interested in a factory site on the old Sandstone Brick Company property, north of the C.P.R. and west of High St. It was purchased by the city a few years ago for industrial purposes. The letter from W. A. Davidson was referred to the industrial commission by the committee of the whole council last night.

Mr. Davidson recently retired from Co-Op Services of which he was general manager, and has been giving all his attention to the selling of Timberib, the laminated wood product which has been used as the framework of various buildings in this area.

Timberib has been imported from the Washington area of the Pacific coast, but increasing business has warranted the establishment of a separate company in Canada. Their sales experience has been the basis of conviction that there is a promising opportunity for the company in this country.

They propose to erect a building 40 by 140 feet as the first unit of the plant which they expect ultimately to be needed.

Breaks Record

LONDON, Oct. 25 (Reuters)—The Pan-American Airways clipper Flying Eagle, piloted by Capt. Max C. Weber, today broke the New York-London non-stop record by making the 3,500-mile flight in nine hours, 41 minutes. The former record was nine hours, 46 minutes, set on the first flight of the clipper service April 28.

Northumberland MP Fights For Retaining Car Ferry

OTTAWA, Oct. 25—(CP)—People are travelling more by highway and less by ship and that's a pity—for it may mean the end of the car-ferry service between Cobourg, Ont., and Rochester, N.Y. The car-ferry service is no longer paying its way, Transport Minister Chevrier said Monday night in the Commons during consideration of departmental estimates. He was replying to Dr. F. G. Robertson (L—Northumberland).

"People want to move fast," he said, "they don't use ships as much as they used to. They travel by highway."

The car-ferry service therefore was losing money. Owned jointly by th C.N.R. and the Baltimore and Ohio Railway Company, it was so costly to the Canadian partner that the CNR had to cash $80,000 worth of Canada Savings Bonds last year to pay for the deficit.

Provided Good Service

The ferry was providing an excellent service for the people in that territory, but it had not been paying its way for years.

Mr. Chevrier said he did not know the final disposition. Any action the C.N.R. decided would have to be in conjunction with the Baltimore and Ohio Company.

He said he could probably let Dr. Robertson know within a short time the final disposition.

Dr. Robertson urged that the service be continued because of its importance to central Ontario. He further contended that it was inefficiency of operation that caused the deficit. This would be overcome by proper management.

Dr. Robertson had charged that the ferry was losing money because its management was lacking in "efficiency and imagination."

The traffic manager lived in Montreal and visited Cobourg only once a month. Between $75 and $100 a month was spent on telephone calls between the two cities.

No effort had been made to extend the business of the ferry service.

A large quantity of pulpwood used to be carried on the ferry this cargo fell off last year, however, because of a strike in a New York State plant. It was, Dr. Robertson contended, one of the reasons for the deficit.

Poorly Advertised

The service did not advertise properly and was inefficient in the handling of automobile ferry traffic.

The greater part of C.N.R. coal now was being brought up from the U.S. by railway instead of aboard the ferry. Dr. Robertson said the C.N.R. was discriminating against the service on this business.

He expressed belief that the two parent companies are not doing all they could to make it pay.

He had, he said, been told by an official of the C.N.R. that the service could be made to pay.

Dr. Robertson suggested a young and energetic traffic manager be appointed and stationed right in Cobourg. The town was prepared to offer the local market building for an office.

He also suggested a committee of interested Cobourg and Rochester citizens be formed to drum up business for the line.

Ship All Coal By Ferry

The C.N.R. should undertake to ship the full quota of coal by this route and a conference should be called to discuss rates.

At present the Baltimore and Ohio was charging 55 cents more for coal shipping by the ferry than for coal shipped by regular loading vessels.

Facilities on the Rochester side for passenger-handling should be improved. Passengers now have to climb 100 steps after disembarking, he said. Service for automobiles should be improved.

Dr. Robertson said there has been a discrepancy in the figures of what the company deficit is.

He said that the Board of Transport Commissioners should investigate operation of the business in the event a decision is considered on whether to terminate the service.

City Delegates Phone Brief

The executive of the association of Mayors will be asked by Peterborough to make an appeal on behalf of this city in the matter of the Bell Telephone application for permission to increase their rates.

Mayor Swanston said he understood the association was studying the case prepared by the company "to assure themselves in every way that any increase is justified."

His Worship said the association's position was not yet known. So far there had been no report of the Mayors' decision to oppose the Bell claim.

Young Mother With Two Cents In Purse Held As Vagrant, Given Dinner By Magistrate

LINDSAY, Oct. 25 — Picked up on Highway 7 on the outskirts of Omemee a 20-year-old Brockville woman appeared in magistrate's court Monday on a charge of vagrancy.

According to Provincial Constable Warner of the Lindsay detachment, the girl had no satisfactory explanation for her presence on the highway, had no luggage, and only two cents in cash. She told the officers who picked her up that she was separated from her husband, who was at present in a Brockville jail for drunkenness and insulting a police officer. She also told officers that she had one three-year-old son in Brockville, and was expecting a second baby in April. She claimed that when picked up she was hitchhiking to Sudbury where she had a job in a restaurant, and had travelled by train from Sudbury to Brockville for Thanksgiving. When leaving Brockville, the girl claimed that she had $5.00, but had spent it en route.

The girl was sent on her way, after Magistrate Gee gave the girl money for dinner. She also received directions to find her way out of town.

A backfiring .22 rifle lodged a bit of matter in the left eye of Don Johnson, an Examiner employee, Monday. He was shooting on Chandos Lake when a cartridge cap exploded. His eye was cleared in Peterborough Civic Hospital.

Director Of Recreation Resigns Whole Program Threatened As Council Seeks To Economize

By HARRY THEOBALD

The resignation of Jack Dane as director of recreation was reported to the city council Monday night by Mr. R. J. Bolton, president of Peterborough's Recreation Commission. Mr. Dane has accepted a similar position at Forest Hill, a residential suburban Toronto village. He was offered the job last summer, Mr. Bolton said, but declined it "because he liked his work here and wanted to see it through." "A recent report of a council discussion led him to feel that his services were not too highly appreciated. He asked us tonight to accept his resignation as soon as possible, and he is now recreational director at Forest Hill. Their recreational program is considered one of the best in Ontario. This is further evidence of the ability of Mr. Dane.

"He is highly regarded by the Ontario Department of Education, and has been called in by them to help in the training of other recreation directors. I feel that his resignation is a real loss to Peterborough."

Status of Commission

This announcement by Mr. Bolton was incidental to the discussion of matters pertaining to the status of the Recreation Commission by a group of its representatives and all the members of the council in committee with Ald. Hugh Waddell, chairman.

The joint session resulted from a proposal of conference at the council meeting Oct. 3 which had defeated by Mayor Swanston's deciding vote a motion by Ald. Grant Miller and Ald. Adam Sands requesting the Recreation Commission virtually to suspend its activities.

Ald. Miller had explained that he was actuated by the necessity of economy in the prospect of a further increase in the tax rate next year, possibly to 50 mills. The text of the motion which failed to pass was: "That the Recreation Commission be requested not to renew the expiring contract of the recreational director, Mr. Jack Dane, and that all other remunerated personnel of the Commission be disbanded as of Dec. 31. That the officers of the present Recreation Commission continue in office until some modification or amalgamation is considered early in 1950."

Mr. Bolton was accompanied by Gordon Armstrong, Clare Collins, Quirt McKinney, Wilfred Langan and R. E. McDonald.

As sponsor of the motion in council, Ald. Grant Miller said: "I felt we could trim our costs without seriously affecting our services. There are services such as that of the Police Commission which I did not feel that we could touch. I don't think the Recreation Commission knows all the answers about city finance."

Denies Going 95 mph But Gets $50 Fine

Pleading guilty to his third charge of speeding in little more than a month, Tony Symansky, Lindsay, was fined $50 and costs and has his drivers licence suspended for four months by Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., in police court Tuesday morning.

Symansky was convicted of speeding Oct. 7 in Lindsay and on Oct. 6 in Peterborough.

"What have you, a new car?" the magistrate asked Symansky.

"No, I bought it in March," the accused answered.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw said it was not just a case of Symansky's cruising a few miles faster than the speed limit. He drives from 80 to 95 miles an hour, he said.

"I never went 95 miles an hour in my life," Symansky said.

"If it's correct, (that he travels about 90) you'll kill yourself or someone else," Magistrate Philp observed.

Daylight Saving Death Knell With Toronto

Daylight saving in Peterborough will end Nov. 27, as proposed to council Monday night by the Board of Works. It ends in Toronto on the same date.

This timing follows the Toronto action for the reason that local industry and commercial business are affected by affairs in the larger city. Ald. Sands' motion was seconded by Mayor Swanston.

Another letter from the motor vehicles branch of the Department of Highways furnished the information that the extension of DST into November was a means of reducing traffic accidents at the time of the year when homebound motorists reach a high volume at the sunset hour.

Standard time in southern Ontario brings the onset of darkness around 5 p.m. in the late days of the year, but with DST that afternoon peak of traffic is turned back an hour to the daylight condition at 5 p.m.

November records by the Department for years before the war showed an increase of 69.2 per cent in motor accidents during the hour of 5 to 6 p.m. over the immediately preceding hour. During the war years under DST the corresponding increase was only 26.9 per cent because of the fact that daylight was extended, replacing the twilight of that rush hour of traffic.

Wins Acquittal

JOLIETTE, Que., Oct. 25 (CP)—Adelard Gariepy, 63-year-old town hall watchman at near-by St. Alphonse de Roderiguez, Monday night was acquitted of a manslaughter charge resulting from the death of a Joliette widow last Jan. 14. Earlier, Gariepy was held criminally responsible for the death of Mrs. J. P. Malo, 55, who suffered a fractured skull in a fall at Gariepy's home.

STREAMLINED CENSUS — The 1951 census will be simplified by a new-type pen and special ink. The ink-marks, placed on individual cards by the census-taker, sets off an electronic device in a calculating machine which promptly records and tabulates all the statistics. In the left photo, Elliott Sherman, a supervisor in the federal census division, practises recording vital statistics from Elsie Delkie, a clerk in the division. Lillian Green, right, shows how workers once struggled with a big book. A trial census is now being taken in various areas across Canada to iron out procedure for the actual job in 1951.

Fathers Form New Club At St. Peter's

St. Peter's Athletic Advisory Club—newly formed for the promotion of all forms of sport among the high school boys—met in the school Monday evening with a large group of fathers and sons in attendance.

Officers of the club, sponsored by the men of the parish, are: Honorary president, Rev. J. F. Coughlan; president, Roland Hull; vice-president, Bernard Jones; sec.-treas., James McCormick; chairman of program committee, J. Armstrong.

Promise Support

President Hull and the fathers assured the boys 100 per cent support in all sporting activities during the year and asked that they in turn co-operate to the end that the general plan will prove fruitful.

Coach Fred Allore together with members of the school football team present, received congratulations from the fathers on the spirit they have shown in games played to date. Peter McGillen spoke briefly, stressing the value of confidence and courage as a factor in winning victories, even against great odds.

Several other fathers spoke to the group briefly, including Dr. Fitzpatrick, Messrs. Dennis Fitzgerald, Tom Cavanagh Sr., Bernard Jones and Leo Picard. All stressed the importance of clean play.

"While it is very fine to win, you are judged by the manner in which you play and not necessarily by the result,' Mr. Hull pointed out. "Play hard and clean and if you lose, see to it you do so with your chin up and putting up a good battle."

Invite Fathers

On Thursday, November 3, the club holds its next meeting to which all fathers are invited. Later in the month, the father and son banquet will be held and a good speaker is being selected for this occasion.

Those attending Monday's meeting included: Father Coughlan, Mr. Hull, Dr. Fitzpatrick, Messrs. Fitzgerald (who will donate crests), B. Jones, J. McCormick, J. Armstrong, P. McGillen, P. McTeague, T. Cavanagh, B Hickey, M. Kirkley, L. Hickson, J. O'Neill, L. Picard, F. Allore, F. McCarthy, J. Crough, A. Bacon. Boys present were: J. O'Reilly, J. Hickey, M. Fitzpatrick, C. Crowley, R. Fitzgerald, J. Richardson, H. Brioux, J. Armstrong, C. Hickson, T. Cavanagh Jr., M. Byrne F. McGillen, T. Fitzpatrick, J. Jones, F. Crowley, J. McMurray, J. Crough, H. O'Neill, A. Picard, McTeague, Hull and Kirkley.

Several Monasteries Unite Under One Head

KINGSTON, Oct. 25 (CP) — Several Canadian and United States monasteries of Hotel Dieu sisters have united under one generalate with their mother house at Kingston, it was learned Monday.

The new religious institute will be known as the Religious Hospitallers of St. Joseph, Kingston.

Very Rev. Mother Cecelia Murray of St. Bernard's Monastery, Chicago, becomes the first Mother-General.

Million For Children

OTTAWA, Oct. 25 (CP) — Canada is giving $1,075,000 this year to the International Children's Emergency Fund—a United Nations body dedicated to helping clothe and feed underprivileged and undernourished children in war-ravaged countries. Finance Minister Abbott said this amount is provided in supplementary estimates recently tabled in the Commons.

Record Subscription

TORONTO, Oct. 25 (CP) — Canada Savings Bond organizers Monday reported a first week record total of $20,000,000 subscribed to the purchase of fourth series bonds by employees of 1,500 leading business and industrial establishments in Ontario. The first-week figure represents more than double the $9,625,000 pledged by Ontario payroll workers in the first week of the 1948 campaign.

Welsh Novelist Dies

CARDIFF, Oct. 25 (AP)—Dr. T. Rowland Hughes, 46, Welsh novelist, poet, and playwright, died Monday. In 1937 and again in 1940 Dr. Hughes was given the chair of Bard at the Welsh National Eisteddfod (Annual Congress of Bards, Minstrels, and Literati of Wales.) He had been features program executive of the BBC for Wales since 1935.

Party Starts Season

SPRINGVILLE, Sept. 25 (ENS) —First autumn meeting of the Young Peoples' Union of the United Church, Friday, took the form of a Hallowe'en party with Eleanor Bowles and Hazel McIntosh in charge of recreation. Myrna Seymour made the coffee and Lorraine Paddock and Lila Seymour served the refreshments.

Graydon Gives Board A Pat On The Back

OTTAWA, Oct. 25 (CP)—Gordon Graydon (PC-Peel) Monday night in the Commons said he wanted to give the Board of Transport Commissioners "a pat on the back."

He said the board should be congratulated for suspending sharp increases in railway commuters fares which were to have gone into effect two weeks ago. He spoke during discussion of transport department estimates.

Increased rates would have affected all densely-populated areas in Canada, including the Toronto area where some 500 daily commuters have banded together to lodge protests against increases.

Hebrew College Soil Expert Begins Canada Tour In City

Distinguished agronomist Professor Adolf Reifenberg, of the Hebrew University, Jerusalem, spoke to the Jewish community of Peterborough at an open Sunday meeeting sponsored by B'Nai B'Rith, about his university and present-day conditions in Israel. He is touring Canada on behalf of Hebrew University.

Professor and Madame Reifenberg spent the week-end in the city, and the Examiner had a word with them Monday. The professor spoke with affection of the work of his university, with which he has been connected since 1924—he is presently Associate Professor of Soil Sciences—and of experiment and irrigation to make the desert areas of the new State, especially the Negev in the south, fruitful.

Hebrew University, rapidly becoming a major seat of learning, is unable to occupy its own buildings above Jerusalem because it is surrounded by Arab-held territory, although the buildings are in Jewish hands. There is no communication with the university buildings proper except twice a month when U.N.-supervised convoys take supplies up and relieve the guards. The teaching is now being carried on in temporary buildings in the Jewish section of Jerusalem.

Professor In Arms

The isolation of one part of Jerusalem from the other is virtually complete, Professor Reifenberg stated. Barbed wire and guards cut streets between Arab and Jewish sections, but there is no shooting or disruption of the peace.

This tall greying man of calm voice and smile knows much about shooting and disruptions of the peace, for his life has been far removed from the ordinary routine of a quiet scholar. Of German birth, he was a soldier in the first world war. After the armistice of 1918 he went to Palestine, where he has lived for thirty years. His English has a slight British flavour, testimony to his close connection between the two wars with British officialdom of the Palestine mandate, and to his services with the British Army in the late war.

He served with the Army Service Corps and the Royal Engineers, with the rank of captain, from the early years of El Alamein, to Malta and Cairo, where he was attached to G.H.Q. Like other citizens of Jerusalem and Israel during the recent fighting in Palestine, Professor Reifenberg bore arms and suffered siege. Of the new State and its struggles, Professor Reifenberg spoke feelingly, with the pride of a patriot and the calm reasonableness of a scholar who has weighed issues and assessed experience.

A State which has such folk among its progenitors as Professor and Madame Reifenberg cannot but be a nation of great price in the comity of nations. If the rather sad but animated eyes of these two were the eyes of the world, this globe would be a better habitation.

The talk was of Jerusalem, and how the holy places were being protected by the Israel Government, of the great immigration into the new country (a quarter of a million in the first year, which puts "a very great strain on our resources."

Heavy Immigration

And the immigrants are still coming, at the rate of some 15,000 a month, from DP camps (which Israel has now almost emptied). "Although our standard of living is very much affected, we are nevertheless very glad to receive them, and are doing our best to accommodate them." Even the halt and the diseased are being allowed virtually unlimited entry for the Israel Government feels that Jews physically incapacitated because of suffering under the Nazis have even more right than others to sanctuary in the new homeland.

The talk was of the present status of Jerusalem, the government of Israel. (Of the 121 deputies in the parliament only two are communist, and Professor Reifenberg remarked with a smile that one of them is an Arab from the electoral district of Nazareth.)

Such was the talk, but for this interviewer, it was secondary to the personalities of these two citizens of the new Israel, devoted to the homeland, dedicated to humanity.

Released On Bail

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP) — Five officials of the Soviet trade organization, Amtorg, were released on bail Monday after spending a long week-end behind bars. The five, arrested last Friday on charges of failure to register as foreign agents, were freed on $15,000 cash bail each.

Robt. Edwards' Descendants Go After Phantom Estate

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 25 (CP)— Descendants of Robert Edwards from many parts of Ontario plan to meet here Saturday to discuss new strategy in long-standing claims to a section of New York City worth millions of dollars.

The meeting was called by George S. Cook, East Side used car dealer, and Victor Montrecy of Detroit, Mich.

Cook says his great-grandfather was a brother of Robert Edwards, Welsh sea captain who 200 years ago acquired some 350 acres in what is now metropolitan New York. Montrecy says he is a descendant of Edwards' brother, Thomas.

In the last 25 years there have been two other meetings here of scores of professed heirs to what several authorities have called a "phantom estate."

Old records of the estate are at variance, but some agree that Robert Edwards was a direct descendant of the Welsh king Llewellyn.

One story says he received large tracts of land in the new colony of America in recognition of his royal lineage; another is that he got it in a "trade" with the Indians. Mr. Cook claims that it was a grant from the Crown in 1768.

In any event, the claimants contend he acquired about 350 acres in New York State—160 on the mainland, the remainder on Manhattan Island. Unmarried, Edwards left no immediate heirs. Nor did he make a will.

He did, however, have one sister and several brothers. It is their descendants who have been trying at intervals to claim his estate.

Hope To Instill In Canadians Mature Pride In Country

"Most of the 400,000 immigrants who have come to Canada since the end of the war will become legal Canadian citizens at the end of their five-year residence period. Whether it takes them a longer time to become real Canadians in the full sense of the term depends lagely on the rest of us," H. L. Garner declared today. He is Regional Chairman for the Canadian Citizenship Council's current drive for support for a greater awareness of the rights and obligations of citizenship.

Working under the joint chairmanship of General H. D. G. Crerar and Andre Taschereau, the Council is seeking to instill in all Canadians a mature pride in their own country and a better understanding of the privileges and responsibilities that go with being a good Canadian.

The campaign, first of its kind in Canada, is being carried on in 26 high-population areas from St. John's, Nfld., to Vancouver Island.

Guiding Hand

Of "new Canadians," the Regional Chairman said: "It is not enough to greet them with a glad hand. We must turn the glad hand into a helping or guiding hand.

"The Canadian Citizenship Council recognizes that these 400,000 newcomers to Canada have special problems. If they are to become true citizens, proud and happy in their new life, these problems which are peculiar to them must be solved.

For example, among those who have come to this country to work in various categories of labor are highly capable and well-trained men and women. Canadians must find ways of using the skills of these people not only for the sake of the immigrants themselves, but for the enrichment of Canadian life."

Message From Mackenzie King

The aims and objects of the Council have been crystallized by the man who holds Canadian Citizenship Certificate No. 1 — Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King. In a message to Regional Chairmen, the former Prime Minister recalled that Canada has been described as "A supreme act of faith . . . The vision and courage of men and women who have transformed our country, almost within living memory, from small beginnings to one of the great industrial nations of the world."

Canada's nationhood, Mr. King said, was not based on the superiority of a single race or language. "Into our equal partnership of English-speaking and French-speaking Canadians, we have admitted thousands who were born of other racial stocks, and who speak other tongues . . . Without the ideal of equality among men, without the vision of human brotherhood, the Canadian nation could never have come into being," he said.

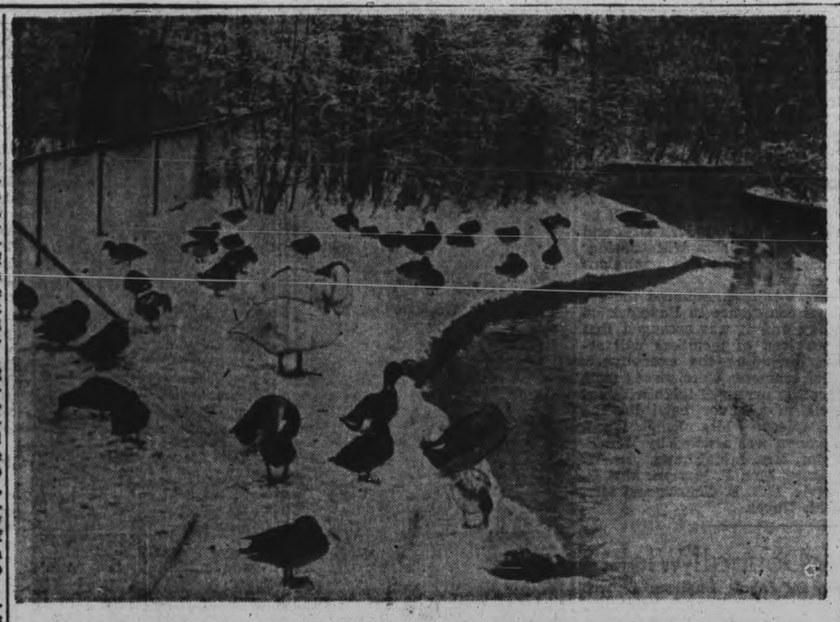
This ideal expressed by Mr. King is the ideal which those 400,000 new Canadians were seeking, the Regional Chairman added. "We can only help them to achieve it by first achieving it ourselves through a new understanding of our rights and obligations as Canadian citizens."

Still Basic Industry

OTTAWA, Oct. 25 (CP)—Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario said Monday night that farming still is Ontario's basic industry despite increasing industrial activity in the province. In a brief address before more than 2,500 people attending the formal opening of the 40th annual Ottawa Winter Fair and Horse Show, Mr. Frost said 180,000 Ontario farmers are directly supporting 500,000 people and producing goods worth $1,000,000,000.

Manslaughter Charge

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 25 (CP) —Camille Airoldi, 26, of Sherbrooke, Que., Monday was charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Wilfrid Lepire, 40, of Limoilou, Que. Lepire, foreman of a timber camp 12 miles south of Geraldton, died shortly after midnight Sunday following a fight, police said.



Cut Our 57 Trains

CLEVELAND, Oct. 25 (AP) — The New York Central Railroad announced Monday it is cutting out 57 more passenger trains, effective 12:01 a.m. EST Wednesday because of dwindling coal supplies caused by the coal strike. A road spokesman said all excursion trains also will be eliminated.

No Depression Danger Ahead

MONTREAL, Oct. 25—(CP)—A picture of prosperous Canada, but one which must face the dangers of changing conditions was given today in the report of the Chamber of Commerce to its annual meeting.

It was given to some 800 delegates from 10 provinces, the largest gathering in the Chamber's 24-year history, as the three-day sessions got underway.

Signed by A. G. Partridge, of Toronto, chairman of the executive, and D. L. Morrell, of Montreal, executive secretary, it had this to say of the national business scene since last October's meeting in Vancouver:

"Business statistics have presented what would normally be a reassuring picture of stable conditions' in this country. In the United States, industrial production dropped about 15 per cent from October and November, to July of this year. During the same period, Canadian industrial production varied only a fraction of one per cent.

Trade Sales Gain

"Retail trade sales have continued to gain. The value of our export shipments held close to record levels, and capital expenditures for 1949 are expected to exceed those of 1948. Wholesale prices have declined only slightly, with the latest figures showing no change in the price of Canadian farm products since last October.

"Canadians have been fortunate indeed.

"It must be realized, however, that the props which have been supporting the boom are not altogether permanent ones. They must be replaced. For example, it is unlikely that consumer spending can be bolstered much longer by the pent-up demands which accumulated during the war and the period of post-war shortages.

"It is improbable that income tax rates can continue to be reduced, nor will refundable taxes and special payments to farmers for previous years' crops have a recurring, stimulating effect on business generally. The disappearance of these influences may be gradual, and the vigorous development of this country will take up much of the slack. Yet a transition phase must be faced. . . "

Wants Coast Guard

OTTAWA, Oct. 25 (CP) — A Newfoundland opposition member Monday in the Commons called for the establishment of an all-Canadian coast guard. G. F. Higgins (PC-St. Johns East) said the service the government now provides scattered among some half-dozen departments, was "stupid, costly and illogical." He said this was not an isolated request, but a demand which should be heard for it came from all parts of Canada. .

Delay Placing Charges

OTTAWA, Oct. 25 (CP) — Justice Minister Garson told the Commons Monday charges have not yet been placed against Western Canada bread companies suspected of operating a price-fixing combine. He was replying to a question asked by John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) who wanted to know the position of investigations into the alleged combine.

Make Stronger Structure

OTTAWA, Oct. 25 (CP)—Trade Minister Howe Monday in an interview said Britain's new economy program, while not affecting Canada "very much" will make for a stronger British economic structure. The program was announced by Prime Minister Attlee in the United Kingdom House of Commons. It included reduced spending in the dollar countries next year by approximately $400,000,000.

Teacher Waits Six Hours To Hear Nehru's Address

OTTAWA, Oct. 25 — (CP) — While Prime Minister Nehru of India was putting Parliament Hill into a flurry Monday with an official address to both Houses of Parliament, an amiable but determined visitor was cutting a swath of her own.

She was Mrs. Lottie M. Clark, a Jacksonville, Fla., schoolteacher. She teaches world history, among other things, and is specially interested in Pandit Nehru and Asia. She was determined to hear him Monday. She did.

Mrs. Clark—a 68-year-old native of Roxborough, Ont.—was on hand at the main entrance to the parliament buildings at 9 a.m. Parliament didn't open until 3 p.m. In the intervening period she won over the Commons' protective staff.

Genial Eddie Sabourin, a member of this staff, got a chair and Mrs. Clark settled down in the main rotunda under the portrait of former prime minister MacKenzie King. She lacked one of the red tickets needed even by ambassadors to obtain a seat. Eddie managed to find one.

Grateful Customer

"She's going to send me a case of oranges," Eddie confided.

Brought up on a farm at Roxborough, an eastern Ontario settlement, Mrs. Clark decided the winters were too cold, and determined at an early age to live somewhere warmer. The subsequent search took her through California and 15 other states before she reached Florida.

She is now on leave from the Robert E. Lee senior high school at Jacksonville. Already during this leave she has toured extensively in Quebec, the Maritimes, Newfoundland and Labrador. She was in Cornwall, Ont., when she heard about Mr. Nehru, and didn't mind the trip or the long wait to hear him speak in the Commons.

"I would have waited 24 hours," she said later in an interview.

At 68 she is a student of sociology, anthropology and almost everything else. She has her B.A. and M.A. degrees and is working on a doctorate at the University of Minnesota.

Conservation Dept.

TORONTO, Oct. 25 (CP)—Conservation should be the sole function of an Ontario Government department, with a senior member of the Cabinet at its head, said a University of Toronto brief presented Monday to the nineman Legislature Committee on Conservation. A third recommendation on the brief was that other departments of the government should organize specialized conservation agencies which will plan and execute projects in their specific fields, as part of a coordinated conservation program.

65% OF A WOMEN'S GROUP PREFERRED HEINZ SOUP IN COMPARATIVE TEST WITH WELL-KNOWN BRAND

A group of average housewives in a typical small Canadian city were served two bowls of heated tomato soup that were identified only by the letters A and B, and asked to write down the brand they preferred. Nearly 65 percent voted Heinz FIRST for flavour. Less than 35 percent voted for another well-known brand, with one lone lady registering no choice.

Try this taste test on your own family. Heat a tin of Heinz Cream of Tomato Soup and a tin of any other brand. Serve half-helpings of each and get your family's verdict. When they have tasted the wonderful difference chances are it will be two to one for Heinz.

If you have been buying some other brand for any reason, try Heinz Cream of Tomato Soup just ONCE. It will be the beginning of a long friendship.

Want Culture Board Established In Canada

VANCOUVER, Oct. 25 (CP)—Establishment of a national "board of cultural affairs" was urged Monday as the Royal Commission on Arts and Sciences began its three-day Vancouver session.

The Federation of Canadian Artists, in the only national brief to be submitted here, suggested its purpose would be co-ordination of activities and developments in the various arts. Its members should include the directors of national agencies or institutions such as the National Art Gallery.

The Vancouver Film Council in another brief expressed appreciation of the work of the CBC, paying tribute to the radio body as "a spokesman for all the arts."

2 Die In Hospital After Car Accidents

NORANDA, Que., Oct. 25 (CP) —Victims of two week-end automobile accidents died in Youville hospital.

Mrs. Joseph Meunier of New Liskeard, Ont., was fatally injured when she fell from a moving car and suffered a skull fracture.

Fernand Tondreau, 20, was struck by a car while walking along highway pavement made wet by rain. Name of the car driver was snot released.

See Huge Comet

FORT WILLIAM, Oct. 25 (CP) —A huge "comet" that streaked through the cloudless afternoon sky from the southwest, was reported Monday by residents at Hymers, 30 miles northwest of this Lake Superior port. Witnesses said the "strange streak of fire" reached a point due west of Hymers performed a loop and then moved south to disappear over the horizon.

Calls U.S. 'Miser'

HALIFAX, Oct. 25 (CP)—Editor B. K. Sandwell of Saturday Night, Toronto weekly newsmagazine said Monday night the United States "is sitting like a miser on the greater part" of the world's gold. In an address before a Halifax service club, he declared the U. S. had an "obligation to use its wealth in buying and consuming the products of the world's poorer nations."

Say Crops Of 71,000 Farmers Damaged By Drought In West

By DOUGLAS GREEN

REGINA, Oct. 25 (CP).—Ol' Debbil Drought has been kicking over the traces again on the Prairies.

R. F. McGregor, Director of the Prairie Farm Assistance Act, estimates that drought destroyed or damaged the crops of some 71,000 Prairie farmers in 1949. That's reminiscent of the dustbowl days of the 1930's.

The vast grain-growing lands of Saskatchewan took the biggest jolt. About 45,000 farmers in the southwestern corner of the province suffered loss. Alberta's figure is put at 25,000 while Manitoba came off best with about 1,000 farmers affected.

These farmers will be able to draw PFAA benefits — "grocery and clothing money" as such payments have been nicknamed. Mr. McGregor said preliminary estimates indicate PFAA will shell out $17,000,000 in benefits this year.

Gardener's Idea

Only in 1947 were payments larger in the life span of PFAA. That year 75,787 farmers collected $17,232,878. The Act was set up in 1939 on the suggestion of Federal Agriculture Minister Gardiner. Farmers contribute one per cent of their cash crop proceeds on all wheat, oats, rye and barley delivered to elevators.

Since 1939 farmers through the Prairies have contributed $39,000,000, while the Federal Treasury footed any deficits. In drought years prior to inception of the Act farmers had to go directly to municipalities for financial aid to tide them over to the next harvest.

PFAA pays on this basis: a farmer with no crop gets $500. In a township — 23,050 acres — in which the average wheat production is four bushels to the acre or less, a farmer receives $2.50 an acre to a maximum of $500. Where the average yields is more than four but less than eight an acre, the payment is $1.50 an acre to a maximum of $300.

The man on the land in the drought areas is not entirely without resources. Raising of beef cattle is one source of income.

MA Club Enjoys Guests From Army

Mrs. H. J. Parnell of the Salvation Army was guest speaker to the MA Club of St. Paul's Church at the fall Thankoffering meeting held Monday evening in the Guild Room. She chose as her subject "A Woman's Life" and outlined the spiritual expenditures of work, patience, sacrifice, responsibility, prayer and love, and the spiritual income of a mother.

Mrs. R. Braund, also from the Salvation Army, contributed two solos, "Down From His Glory," and "The Love of God." Her accompanist was Mrs. G. Routley.

Mrs. H. Hewitt, president, was in charge of the meeting. Devotions were led by Mrs. C. W. Fairbairn.

A vote of thanks to the guests was moved by Mrs. C. Grant. A social time followed with refreshments served by Mrs. F. A. Montgomery and her assistants.

Commend Efforts CCYM Canvassers

Sixth membership meeting of the Peterborough and District CCYM (Co-operative Commonwealth Youth Movement) took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. Yoe, New Romaine St., with Miss Myrtle Monteith presiding.

Mr. Art Burrett, secretary-treasurer, reported a good response had been met by CCYMers among CCF members relative to a canvass for funds in support of H. Hotrum, CCF standard bearer in the Greenwood by-election of Oct. 24. He commended the efforts of Miss Jacqueline Hilderley and Fred Burrett in particular who headed the list with collections.

On a motion by A. Burrett and B. Holmes, it was decided that henceforth, at each meeting, the CCYMers would be assessed ten cents, the money to be devoted to the general needs of the club, with particular emphasis placed on educational requirements.

A Hallowe'en party is to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Yoe. It will be a costume affair and refreshments will be served. The next regular membership meeting will take place Wednesday, Oct. 26, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Holmes, 327 Simcoe St., when final details of the Hallowe'en party will be worked out.

102 YEARS YOUNG—Celebrating her 102nd birthday in Vancouver, Mrs. Ann Swiries said a woman will live to a happy, ripe old age if she has a good nature and "keeps a warm heart for her men." She was born on a farm near Montrose, Ont., on Oct. 19, 1847—10 years before Confederation—and moved to Vancouver as "a young woman of 81" in 1938.

Mrs. Laderach gave a brief outline of the program that has been prepared for this year. Topic for November will be "Laying the foundation for vocational effectiveness," which is to be followed by an exposition of what business men expect of the graduate; a speaker will be heard on the subject. In January the meeting will be based on "Foundation for healthy living," February will be celebration of Founder's Day, and in March members will consider "Modern trends in religious education."

Mrs. Fanjoy announced the regional conference in Havelock on Friday and it was arranged that a bus load of members will attend, including the executive.

Refreshments were served from a prettily arranged table with red salvia in a silver bowl for the centrepiece. Mrs. R. J. Ward, convener, was assisted by Mrs. H. Taylor, Mrs. J. Matthews, Mrs. W. H. Frise, Mrs. F. Martyn, Mrs. G. Carlyle, Mrs. E. Church and Mrs. G. H. Noyes.

Shipwreck Party Given Rushees Of Beta Sigma Phi

The annual "rushing party" of Beta Sigma Phi Scority was held Monday night in the YWCA Green Room. This year it took the form of a Shipwreck Party with the members as well as the nine potential pledges attending in appropriate costume.

Mrs. Rheta Lambert, president charge of group games and con- of Alpha Theta Chapter, was in tests which followed the "shipwreck" theme. Three groups were formed and each chose the best-costumed member for the final contest which was won by Miss Barbara Cook.

Refreshments were served during the evening by Miss Joyce Wyatt, social convener, and assistants.

The candidates for fraternity were invited to attend a model meeting of Alpha Theta Chapter to be held on Monday, November 7, at the YW. A dinner will be held later this month at which those accepted will become pledgees.

PCVS MEETING

"Laying the foundation through fellowship" was the theme of the opening meeting of PCVS Home and School Association Monday evening at which President Mrs. W. T. Fanjoy presided. A short business meeting was followed by games, in which everyone took part, under leadership of Mrs. O. Laderach, with Mrs. J. Fanning at the piano.

Mrs. L. M. Richardson introduced the room mothers of grade nine who were given a warm welcome. They are: Nine A, Mrs. F. Ash; B, Mrs. F. Dobson; C, Mrs. V. Davidson; D, Mrs. L. Robinson; E, Mrs. E. Outram; F, Mrs. G. H. Robinson; G, Mrs. E. Wigg; H, Mrs. C. H. Webb; I, Mrs. A. G. Saunders; J, Mrs. W. H. Frise.

Guests were received at the registration desk which was in charge of Mrs. A. G. Saunders, and Mrs. F. Ash. Membership was in charge of Mrs. W. H. Frise and Mrs. P. Martyn. A gratifying number in attendance was shown by the roll call with a good number of fathers included.

McDougall-Wight

In St. John's Anglican Church at 6.30 o'clock Saturday evening, the wedding took place of Miss Jean Wight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wight, and Mr. Keith McDougall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McDougall, all of Peterborough. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson performed the ceremony. Mr. F. G. Mann was at the organ.

The bride wore a grey gabardine suit, wine velvet hat with ostrich plume and wine accessories. Her corsage was of deep red roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Murcell Wright, who was wearing a navy suit with navy accessories and touches of pink, and she had pink roses at her shoulder.

Mr. John McIsaac attended the groom.

On return from a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. McDougall will live in Peterborough.

Director Resigns

Duty of Aldermen

Ald. Miller said he was impressed with the duty of every alderman to exercise economy in relation to the increasing taxes of the city. "I believe there are hundreds of young people building homes for themselves, many of whom do not realize that we will have the new hospital debt in the tax rate for the first time next year. Our first duty is to the taxpayer. Having a sports director for 12 months is a luxury, and if there is anything the Recreation Commission can do to help us in our gesture to economize, I think they should do it."

"My resolution requested that the Commission should not disband, but that we should try to agree on some way of economy. We may have a 50-mill rate for more years than I care to think of."

Mr. Bolton said: "I don't know that I entirely agree with the idea that the council's first duty was to the ratepayer. He also has a responsibility of service to the municipality he administers."

Dispensing with a recreational director would not save the city anything, because the grant of $3,500 from the government paid his salary. "You would not get that money at all, if we did not have a director."

"If the Recreation Commission is not doing a service to the people of Peterborough, the council has no business spending any money on it at all."

Mayor Swanston said the Optimists Club paid all the expenses of its Boys' Town enterprise, including the director they have engaged. Lions Club had promised to assume the cost of operating the swimming pool at Riverside Park and might extend their work. "I understand that some other service club might be willing to help and that they would appreciate having something to do of that nature. Nicholls Oval does not cost the Recreation Commission anything, neither does Riverside. There might be more of that kind of work, and without any overlapping of cost."

MODERN CENTENARIAN — Oxcart and horse-and-buggy days are over and now 107-year-old Mrs. Jemima Bowie of Stratford is eagerly looking forward to flying. One of the oldest women in Canada and probably the oldest Negro native-born Canadian, Mrs. Bowie marked her 107th birthday recently. Born in Sullivan Township, she lived most of her life in Owen Sound, moving to Stratford three months ago.

Lost A Tennis Court

Mr. Bolton recalled that Kinsmen Club had expressed a willingness to participate in recreational service, and had asked the Commission for a suggestion. "We felt the need of promoting tennis, and suggested the Kinsmen make a hard surface tennis court. They said they could not offer any guarantee about the future maintenance of, it, because service club membership might change over a period of years.

They said they would put in a tennis court, but the council refused to give their consent without assurance of future maintenance by the Kinsmen. They withdrew then, but we might have had a $10,000 tennis court that probably would not have cost the city more than $50 a year. The result was that several clubs felt there was no use offering anything in so far as the council was concerned. I think you made a mistake there."

Mr. Bolton said the council had created the Commission to assume responsibility of recreation. "Why not give us control as defined in the bylaw by which we were appointed."

Discussion reached out to hockey, baseball, lacrosse, Riverside Park, provision of lights, involving costs, receipts and so on. Ald. Waddell remarked that the point of capital outlay and financing seemed to be a problem, especially as to how money was to be raised for specific needs.

Commission Overlooked

Mr. Bolton said that in many of these matters, all within the bounds of recreation, no one mentioned them to the Commission. Neither was anything said about the Civic Arena and its supervision.

"Why shouldn't they come to us on these matters? If we went to you then with a proposition, you could say no, and that would be the end of it."

Ald. Sands said he was not worrying much about the Recreation bylaw, "but about the problem of the coming year. Back in 1947 Ald. Dodds asked for $50,000 for the parks committee, and was told that it had to be cut to $30,000. If the council next year is trying to arrive at a 50-mill budget, and we ask that $15,000 be cut off the Recreation requisition, what would be the answer?"

"There wouldn't be any (Commission)," Mr. Bolton said.

Ald. Sands: 'I can conceive from the minutes of your meeting which were read to us tonight, that you will have to have more money next year. It is right in your minutes. I'm telling you right now that as far as I'm concerned you are not going to get any (more)."

Mr. Bolton explained that the Commission could carry on as they have done this year, but for the recreation service a city like Peterborough should have "we'd need more money."

Ald. Sands: "The Board of Works, Parks Board and probably others may have to take cuts."

Mr. Bolton: "You can reduce us until there is nothing left for us to do."

Ald. Grant Miller suggested that surely the Commission could engage a director for the peak period of next summer. Commissions and council should bend backward next year in trying to keep the tax rate at a reasonable level.

There was no 'definite answer to Ald. J. E. Gillespie's question whether the government made any grant on a part-time man's salary.

Ald. G. Miller: "You received $21,000 from the council last year and $3,500 from the government was additional. If you keep the cost down to around $15,000, there would be a saving, if the Commission catches the spirit of the call that will be made to the committees."

"The Commission is not willing to do any of the work of the director," said Mr. Bolton. "We haven't time for it, any more than members of the council have time to do the work of your paid staff. Supervising playgrounds in the summer is only part of a recreation program. Some of our members could speak with more authority than I about recreation for adults."

What Council Can Do

Mr. Bolton said the members of the Commission had arrived at a choice of what the council could do. "We feel that since you appointed us and authorized us by bylaw you should stand by your Commission and your bylaw. We believe you could place all recreation in the hands of the Commission and back us up. Or, you could allot certain minor matters to us, and reserve certain important matters to your own hands. Or you could give up recreation entirely."

The president of the Commission later said that the consensus of sentiment was strongly in favor of the first proposition.

"We agree that the council should reserve to itself the right of final decision in major matters. As members of the Commission we have no axe to grind. We would be all happier at home."

As the conversation diverged again into particulars of boxing, lacrosse, hockey and so on, the Civic Arena and the ice-making plant were mentioned. Mr. Bolton said it was another recreational project in which the Commission was not consulted.

"The Commission should have been called upon. The council could have referred it to us with the question whether it could be afforded; would it fit into the tax rate; was it the right thing to do? The Commission as the responsible people could have given advice to the council."

Mr. Bolton's general presentation was to the effect that in many instances matters of recreation within the meaning and scope of the bylaw were not referred to the Commission.

On that point Gordon Armstrong said that the first position quoted above, placing all recreational matters at the door of the Commission, "is the only one this Commission is prepared to consider."

Ald. Raine: "We think you ought to bear with the council until we see whether we can work out something."

Mr. Bolton said that in the meantime office matters would have to receive attention, and he emphasized the question as to who was going to do that, with Mr. Dane leaving.

Ald. Waddell said the citizens of Peterborough were all interested in a program of recreation. "We can't say now how it can be worked out, but I think we should look further into the definition of recreation in relation to the council."

The meeting adjourned on the undertaking of the council to take up this question next Monday night, the open night of the month.

Small Twins Attendants Helmes-Duncan Wedding

A charming wedding in Knox United Church Saturday afternoon was that of Miss Margaret Helen Duncan and Mr. Charles Junior Helmes, whose vows were pledged before the Rev. H. G. Douglas. The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Duncan, King St. The groom is son of Mrs. M. Helmes and the late Mr. Helmes of Sydenham.

Crystal baskets filled with purple chrysanthemums were placed at the altar. Before the ceremony Miss Dorothy Mitchell sang "I'll Walk Beside You," and at the signing of the register she sang "Because." Mr. W. R. Potter was at the organ.

Mr. Duncan gave his daughter in marriage. She was wearing a gown of white tissue moire with court train, fashioned with open swathed neckline and short sleeves with long mittens of the same material. Her fingertip veil was caught with flowers, and she carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Miss Mabel Watkins, her maid of honor, and Mrs. Paul Reeds, bridesmaid, wore similarly styled frocks of green an dmauve taffeta with long mittens to match. Their headdresses were of matching tulle, caught with flowers, and they carried old-fashioned nosegays of 'mums and roses.

Five-year-old cousins of the bride, Lorraine and Wayne Harvey, were adorable as flower girl and page boy. The little girl was dressed in dusky rose taffeta with a slight train and a matching bonnet and carried a little basket of pink roses and 'mums. Her brother was wearing a sailor suit.

Attending the groom was the bride's brother, Mr. Ronald Ian Duncan. Ushering were Doug Nicholls and Harold Sills of Kingston.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Duncan chose a gown of olive green moire, a matching hat with ostrich tip and corsage of Talisman roses. The groom's mother was in a black afternoon dress, with black accessories, and wore red roses. The reception of about 90 guests was held in the green room of the YWCA with the bride's aunt, Mrs. Alexander Smith, and the groom's sister, Mrs. Russell Wolsey of Kingston, pouring tea.

Afterward the bride and groom left for Ottawa, the bride wearing a soft brown gabardine suit with winter white accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Helmes will live on O'Carroll Ave.

DOROTHY DIX

Selfish Daughters Refuse To Aid Ailing Mother

DEAR MISS DIX: We are a family of two sons and two daughters, all married. Our financial conditions are all on a par. Recently our mother became seriously ill, necessitating doctors, nurses and the other expenses of sickness. At that time at my sister's suggestion, we all agreed that the four of us should divide the expenses equally so that the burden would not rest on just one's shoulders. Well, the sisters have contributed but a very small part and there remains quite a bit of expense yet to be taken care of and they refuse to pay their share. Say it is the duty of the sons to take care of such an emergency, yet they are quite as well able to pay as we are. Is it the sons' duty to bear the entire burden?

R. C. L.,

Dorothy Dix

ANSWER: Certainly not. Your mother is quite as much the daughters' mother as she is the sons', and it is just as much their duty to help take care of her as it is yours.

I do not know of anything that shows up the innate selfishness of human nature so vividly and so hideously as does the way in which in almost every family some members of it duck their responsibility to their parents and throw the whole burden of it on the shoulders of some brother or sister who has more heart or conscience than the others.

Always Happens

All of us have seen this happen a hundred times. John can't pay anything on mother's doctor's bill because he is buying a new automobile. Tom can't pay for the new dress mother just had to have because his young daughter has to have a new ball gown. Mary can't contribute a cent because she is going to Europe and Sally is so sorry she can't help, but she has promised to send her children to a summer camp and the best ones are SO expensive. So they leave Fanny with the bag to hold, and they would be perfectly outraged if Fanny also refused to bear her share of responsibility for mother and send her to an old ladies' home. They would consider such conduct heartless.

My candidate for the meanest person's medal has always been the son or daughter who passed the buck to some one else when it came to providing for the parents who are just as much his or her parents as they are his sisters' and brothers'. For, if all the children would do their part the burden would fall heavily on no one.

DEAR MISS DIX: Can a woman be a nagger without knowing it? I have been married for ten years to a man who has been very good to me, always gave me his whole pay and let me run the house as I saw fit. And I have been a good wife, and a good housekeeper. But the other day my husband left me because he said he was tired of my nagging and couldn't stand it any more. I have tried in every way to get him to come back but he refuses. I didn't know I nagged. I just kept telling him to wipe his feet before he came in the house, not to spill ashes on the floor, what ties to wear, and so on. Is it possible that a little thing like that can kill love?

GERTRUDE

◆ ◆ ◆

ANSWER: The only thing you can do is just to let your husband go. Give his rasped nerves a chance to heal. Give him time to forget how you irritate him with your tongue and to remember how comfortable you have made him with your hands and the chances are that he will come back of his own accord.

You say you didn't know that you nagged. That is the pity and the tragedy of the nagger. She never does know she nags. She thinks her ceaseless interfering in everything her husband and children do is for their own good, and nine times out of ten her nagging is inspired by love.

The nagger is usualy a good wife and mother, but all of her virtues are naught when weighed against her tongue. They forget what she does for them because of what she does to them. The husband flees from his gadfly to some place where he can be at peace and the children leave home at the earliest possible moment. For nagging is the death of love.

◆ ◆ ◆

DEAR MISS DIX: A brilliant young lawyer is in love with a girl who is pretty enough and of good character, but she is absolutely dumb, cannot carry on an intelligent conversation and has never read a book in her life. Will they be happy if they marry?

A. F.

◆ ◆ ◆

ANSWER: Not a chance, I should say. She will bore him to death and be a handicap to him in his profession.

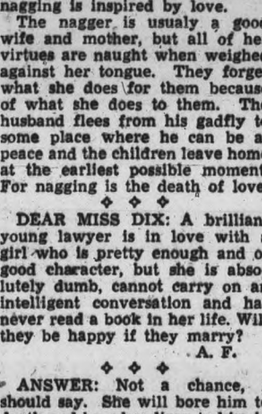
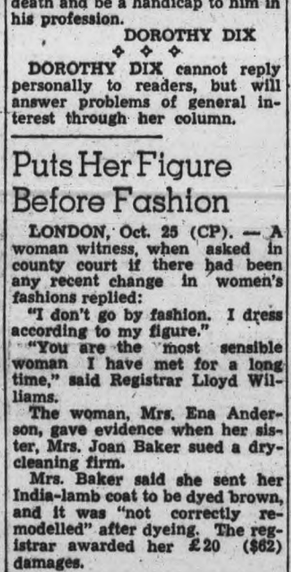
Puts Her Figure Before Fashion



LONDON, Oct. 25 (CP). — A woman witness, when asked in county court if there had been any recent change in women's fashions replied:

"I don't go by fashion. I dress according to my figure."



"You are the most sensible woman I have met for a long time," said Registrar Lloyd Williams.

The woman, Mrs. Ena Anderson, gave evidence when her sister, Mrs. Joan Baker sued a dry-cleaning firm.

Mrs. Baker said she sent her India-lamb coat to be dyed brown, and it was "not correctly remodelled" after dyeing. The registrar awarded her £20 ($62) damages.

Spends 3 Years On Auto Travels

OTTAWA, Oct. 25 (CP). — Forty-two years of automobile travel is a record of sorts for Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hover of Pass a Grille, near St. Petersburgh, Florida.

In Ottawa for a two-day visit, they told of more than 1,000,000 miles covered by auto and of the 50,000 miles ahead of them before they returned home.

Their current journey is a three-year effort but Mr. Hover, an engineer, contractor and real estate man, thinks nothing of it.

"Why, the last trip we took lasted six years," he said.

Travel by automobile is somewhat different today from what it was in 1907 when the travel-loving couple bought their first car—a Maxwell two-cylinder job.

They — Herbert, 81, and his wife Mata, 72, recall a trip they made one year later from Tiajuana, Mexico, to New York. Mr. Hover smilingly recollects that they packed the Maxwell, with 300 feet of rope, double block and tackle, a shovel, crowbar, axe, saw, compass, 20 extra spark plugs, 10 tires, 30 inner tubes, canvas and an emergency supply of gasoline. Emergency equipment in their present 1948 sedan is a car jack in case of a flat tire.

Last Summer they passed through several States, the Maritimes and central Canada. They are continuing across Canada to Alaska, then back through the U.S. to the West Indies, Central and South America.

They are looking forward to "rounding Cape Horn in a car." Their South American schedule calls for a drive down the west and up the east coasts.

He and his wife said they were most impressed by the "rugged beauty" of Canada.

Cripple Can Walk After Ten Years

NEW GLASGOW, N.S., Oct. 25 (CP).—It was a proud night for both Mrs. Harry Martin and her Rebecca sisters of Dorcas Lodge when she walked into their meeting here recently.

For 10 years Mrs. Martin had been crippled, without the use of her arms or legs, and confined to a wheelchair in her home at nearby Coalburn.

But a year ago the Thorburn lodge, helped by lodges in neighboring counties, began collecting money. By last June they had enough — $3,000 — to send Mrs. Martin to a clinic in Boston.

Hospital treatment was effective and now Mrs. Martin can walk and is looking forward to doing her household duties again.

Wants Students To Travel More

VICTORIA, B.C., Oct. 25 (CP). — Wholesale international exchange of university students on a government-sponsored basis is advocated by Mrs. Nancy Y. F. Richards.

The tall, friendly English woman arrived here recently from the Far East. She has been with the International Students' Service, British branch, for three years. In 1948 she was appointed delegate to a world conference of that body in Burma. The conference was cancelled, but she determined to make her own survey, a project that is taking her round the world.

Mrs. Richards spent months with student groups in India, Pakistan, Malaya, Siam and in Europe. In Borneo she visited a head-hunters' village.

She said her survey so far "indicates that students in this day and age have many fine qualities, but they are unsure of themselves and terrible uncertain about the future.

"Asiatic students express enormous anxiety to meet students of other countries. This feeling is repeated strongly in Australia, where students feel cut off from the outside.

"Students should meet one another in their own homes to learn properly the customs and manners of the people. This can't be realized when visiting students are housed in hotels and hostels."

Mrs. Richards' survey will take her through the United States and back to England by Christmas.

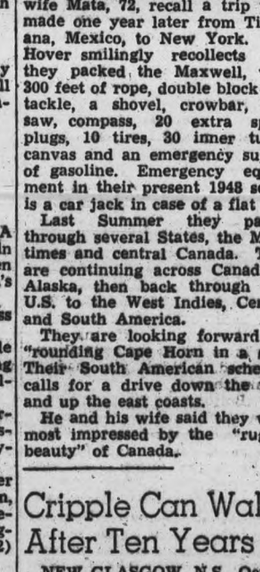
Aussie Housewife Sea Shell Expert

SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 25 (CP).—An Australian housewife, who leads a double life as the Australian Museum's expert on sea-shells, is writing and illustrating a book which will introduce Australians to the colorful undersea life surrounding the continent.



She is Mrs. H. W. Kirkpatrick, known by scientists as a conchologist, and her book, describing more than 3,000 Australian shells, will be the first "popular" book of its kind.

Her 12 color drawings and 500 ink sketches will deal especially with the varied and colorful species in the Great Barrier Reef off the coast of northern Queensland.

She writes under her maiden name of Joyce Allan. She began studying shells while in her teens and gained her specialized knowledge as a cadet scientist at the museum.

A handsome brunette with a charming smile, Mrs. Kirkpatrick finds time to join her husband in a game of golf while writing her book.

"It's fascinating work," she says. "I have never been bored in my life."

"Would you rather sit with your back to, below, or above the engine?"

6—In Memoriams

SUGG— In loving memory of Mrs. Agnes Sugg who passed away October 24th, 1948.
Oh, what would I give to clasp her hand,
Her dear kind face to see.
To hear her voice, to see her smile
That meant so much to me.
Her spirit has fled, her suffering o'er.
At the fireside, she will join us no more.
— Sadly missed by Norman and Grace.

CASEY—In loving memory of our dear father, John Wesley Casey, who passed away October 25th, 1944.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you,
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweet and tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear father
That we do not think of you.
—Ever remembered by his wife Isabelle and daughters and sons.

Obituary

WILLIAM MANN

One of the oldest men in Peterborough County, William Mann, of 162 Park Hill Rd. died Monday in St. Joseph's Hospital in his 91st year. He had been ailing for the past six months.

Mr. Mann was a former engineer with the CPR and had been retired for the past 28 years.

Son of the late William Mann and Martha Ray, he was born and educated in Belmont and later moved to Peterborough. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

He leaves no close relatives. His wife, the former Margaret Brown, predeceased him.

Funeral will be at the Kaye funeral home on Wednesday at 2 p.m., the Rev. H. Kaye officiating. Burial will be in Maple Grove Cemetery, Havelock.

CNR Revenue Down In Sept.

MONTREAL, Oct. 25 (CP) — Canadian National Railways today reported that net operating revenue for the Canadian National system for September was $3,993,000 compared with $4,773,000 in the corresponding month last year.

Operating revenues for the month were $44,742,000 and operating expenses were $40,749,000. Figures for the corresponding month last year were $43,843,000 and $39,070,000.

Aggregate net revenue for the first nine months of this year totalled $5,388,000. Net revenue for the January-September period of 1948 were $7,826,000.

Hard Of Hearing Court Frees Man

On the recommendation of Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw and after observing the accused was hard of hearing, Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, dismissed the charge of carrying a gun without a license against Frank LaBrash, Campbellford, in police court Tuesday morning.

Provincial Constable A. A. Kellogg testified Oct. 2 he had been checking cars for guns for which owners had no licenses. He stopped a car in which Mr. LaBrash was a passenger. He asked for a license for a shotgun in the front of the car, but none was produced. He said there was no license brought forward for another gun, a .22 rifle broken and wrapped up in the trunk of the car. Mr. LaBrash two days later produced a license dated Oct. 1.

Mr. LaBrash said in court he had the license with him, but didn't hear anyone ask for a license. The charge was dismissed.

Local Talent Raises Funds For Brass Band

WARKWORTH, Oct. 25 (ENS) —A community concert sponsored by the Band Committee was held Friday in the newly decorated Town Hall, which was filled to capacity. Each number on the variety program was excellently performed.

A one-act play entitled "The Doctor's Patients" presented by local talent was well rendered and created great amusement. Mrs. Arthur Ward of the surrounding vicinity capably entertained with elocution. Master Edward Thompson proved to be one of the stars of the evening with his clarinet solos, and all who took a part on the program were received with enthusiastic applause.

The Campbellford Band, comprising about 30 members, was in attendance and also the pupils of Warkworth Public School who sang under the guidance of their principal, K. Harnden.

Proceeds from this entertainment are to be used for equipment for the new brass band which is being formed in the village.

Cheese, Produce And Livestock

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, Oct. 25 (CP)—Produce prices quoted on the spot market this morning follow: Churning cream, No. 1, 60 cents fob, 64 delivered.

Butter prints were unquoted.

Trading on the egg market was very quiet this morning. Prices were fractionally lower on all A grades. Country shippers quoted graded eggs, cases free Grade A large, 69; A medium 46-47; A pullet 38-39; grade B 45-46; grade C 35. Wholesale to retail: Grade A large 65; A medium 53; A pullet 43-44; grade B 52; grade C 39-40.

Butter solids were quietly steady. First grades were unchanged at 58¾. Second grades were quoted at 58-57.

TORONTO FRUIT

TORONTO, Oct. 25 (CP) — Wholesale fruit and vegetable prices were unchanged here today.

HOG PRICES.

TORONTO, Oct. 25 — (CP) — Hog prices were not established at Stratford today but were being quoted at $29 for truck hogs.

At Hull, Quebec, dressed Grade A hogs were $28.75 delivered.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Oct. 25 (CP) — Oats and barley prices continued to show a firm tone at today's opening on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Shippers were on the buying side in both grains, while hedging sales, liberal in oats but light in barley, were well taken.

Rye dealings were light, with only the May contract open. Flax trade also was dull.

Prices:

Oats Oct. unchanged at 83⅞; Dec. unchanged to ⅛ higher at 80⅝-½; May ¼-⅜ higher at 80¼-⅛A.

Barley Oct. not open; Dec. ⅛-¼ higher at 1.43⅝-⅝; May ⅛-⅜ higher at 1.41¼-¾B.

Rye: Oct. not open; Dec. not open; May ⅜ higher at 1.38⅛.

Flax: Oct. ⅜ higher 3.80; Dec.-May not open.

Delinquent Boys Leaders In Mental Health

Contrary to the general belief delinquent boys are mentally healthier than their quiet schoolmates, J. W. Eastaugh, superintendent of the Ontario Training School for Boys, Monday night told the Optimist Club.

"There is not a healthier group in the country than delinquent boys," he said.

"Any teacher will tell you — if he is a good teacher—that they are the ones who give us the least trouble. And the ones we have to watch out for are those who are quiet and say nothing."

This mental health was due to the fact the boy has grown inured to the criticism of elders and has thus formed a protective "hard shell."

Picked On By Adults

Looked on from the standpoint of the so-called delinquent, he is constantly being picked on by adults. He joins the Scouts or the YMCA, for example, and when he will not conform socially he is threatened with expulsion at least.

Mr. Eastaugh pointed out it must take a tough mental attitude for a juvenile to continue on his own course in the face of this concentrated adult disapprobation.

"Despite the opposition the delinquent breaks through and does something active in his environment. He retains his mental health though he has lost his good name."

All boys want "recognition," he said.

The supervising adult must allow the juvenile to achieve this recognition in the eyes of his fellows but in doing so the boy must confine himself to socially acceptable activities.

Heads Boys' School

Mr. Eastaugh is not just a theorist. He is superintendent of the Ontario Training School for Boys at Bowmanville for delinquents of from 14-16 years, and the similar school at Galt for boys under 14. Apart from the 300 in these two schools he must keep a check on another 500 who have had institutional care and are now in their homes or foster homes.

He referred to those under his care as "boys who have been chukked out because they didn't know how to behave."

As an experienced supervisor he said he sympathized with the leader of a boys' club confronted with a potential delinquent. When the lad does not confirm the natural tendency is to "stroke him off the list."

"We find plenty of organizations prepared to do a job for boys," he said, "but as soon as they find one ready to cause trouble they want to exclude him."

Is Not Wanted

When this action is repeated it gives the juvenile a feeling of not being wanted. And all want the satisfaction of recognition whether it be "the best thief" or any other achievement in the eyes of the gang.

"Boys only come to the Training Schools when everyone else has given them up," he said. "Adults have given them a terrific sense of inferiority."

He paid high praise to the way the Optimist Club was operating under club member Walter Bent. "A group of men taking a job of boys' work and boys' leadership in a serious way," was the way he he described the Optimist project.

"There is nothing but praise spoken about the work you have done here. Keep up the good work you started in June," he said referring to Boys' Town.

He conselled that there should be "proper and sufficient planning" for projects, and warned that some of them would not be successful. It is impossible to cover all aspects of boy's work.

Poor Substitutes for Home.

There is even a danger of making Boy's Town too attractive, he stated, thus drawing boys away from their home,' said Mr. Eastaugh. "Church interests and work such as this are poor substitutes for home environment."

He commended the Optimists for the crafts clubs, shows, and the Thanksgiving Day races. But he asked them always to make sure they were not using the boys to advertise their club.

"You should realize the work done by other organizations in town doing boys' work. Sit down in committee so there won't be two or three of you doing the same thing at the same time in the same area."

Mr. Eastaugh was intrduced by Walter Bent and thanked by Dick Ouimet. President Leo Edwards was in the chair.

3 Hurt In Blast

MONTREAL, Oct. 25 (CP) — Three men were injured in downtown Montreal Monday night when a flash explosion sent two manhole covers flying into the air as a crew of Hydro workers attempted to repair a power failure in the area. Injured were Hydro employees William Rayner and E. Proulx who suffered first degree burns to the hands and face and taxi-driver Gerard Leduc who escaped with only superficial burns.

MAYOR RETIRING — Mrs. Norah Arnold, mayor of Prince Rupert, B.C., since 1947, has announced her retirement, effective at the end of the year. Mrs. Arnold says she feels it advisable to give way to a younger person.

Boy Swimmers Race

Michael Triggs, nine-year-old swimmer with the YMCA Swimming Club captured the final heat to win the 100-yard free style handicap swim at the YMCA Monday night. Triggs, the youngest member of the club, clipped six seconds off his best time for the 100 yards. Terry Reid held a slim lead over Alec Baptie to take second place while Donald Wood placed fourth. Dennis Hale, Lorne Hale and Harvey McFadyen broke their best times for the 100-yard stretch with McFadyen turning in the best time of one minute and 15 seconds.

Cancel Hunting Licence

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Oct. 25 (CP)—At an inquest Monday night into the death of Raymond J. Hebert, 19, the jury found "a degree of carelessness" by Sheldon Elliott, 18, and recommended that his hunting licence be cancelled for five years. The hunting fatality occurred Saturday at Lepreau when Elliott shot Hebert.

Name F. Pulver To Jewish Council Congress

TORONTO, Oct. 25— (CP). — Scoundrelly old Fagin, the "Oliver Twist" character who ran a crime school for London waifs, has been banned in Quebec.

Max Seigler, Montreal city councillor, announced at Monday's closing session of the Canadian Jewish Congress that Premier Duplessis has forbidden the showing of the British-made movie "Oliver Twist" on grounds that its portrayal of Fagin, a major character in the Charles Dickens story, might provoke racial and religious prejudice.

Alexis Gagnon, Quebec's chief motion picture censor, said later in Montreal that he had not yet heard of the ban.

The Jewish Congress had asked that the film be withheld in Quebec. It was shown several months ago in Toronto without incident, but riots broke out when it was shown in Germany.

Elect Officers

Samuel Bronfman of Montreal, who has served for 10 years as head of the Congress, was re-elected president for a further two-year term, with Michael Garber of Montreal as vice-chairman of the national executive.

Noa Heinish of Halifax, elected honorary vice-president, told the gathering that religious education of Canadian children should be emphasized.

The Dominion Council of the Congress includes: H. Carrel, of Welland; S. D. Granek, Sydney Hoffman, St. Catharines; H. R. Rosberg, Niagara Falls; R. Dwor, Port Colborne; F. Pulver, Peterborough; Sheldon J. Cohen, of Kingston; P. Houser, Lindsay; Allen Diamond, Belleville; J. Smith, Brockville; Harry Hertz, Cornwall; Saul Einhorn, Oshawa; I. Davis, Sault Ste. Marie; Max Kaplan, Kirkland Lake; S. Leve, Sudbury; Hary Wiseman, North Bay; M. Edelstein, Timmins; H. Jackson. St. Thomas; D. Acker, Joseph Brown and B. Joseph, Kitchener; Jack Foster, Guelph; A. M. Lampel, Sarnia; B. Sniderman, Galt; J. Greenberg, Stratford; L. Henkle, Brantford; A. Weinberg, Chatham; Frank Cadesky, Owen Sound.

Peewees Turn Out

The peewees turned out in force at the Ashburnham Hall for the buffet luncheon arranged by R. Brady for East City ball players. A few juveniie and some midget players also were on hand for the sandwiches, soft drinks, etc., donated by several merchants. What was left over went to the House of Providence. The 1944 world series film was shown the boys to wind up the baseball series.

10,000 Grads Likely At Game

TORONTO, Oct. 25—(CP)—Up to 10,000 graduates of the University of Toronto are expected here this week for the all-Varsity homecoming week-end.

Because of the anticipated influx of grads, Varsity Stadium, with a 19,500 capacity, already is sold out for Saturday's football game between Toronto and the University of Western Ontario, London.

Festivities will start Friday night with a pep rally, fireworks and street dance on the campus. A parade of floats honoring the various faculties and colleges is scheduled for Saturday morning.

One feature that night will be a roam-around dance. At the same time, undergraduates will stage a variety show in Convocation Hall.

Five church services will be held Sunday. A tea and reception will be held Sunday afternoon. Most of the principal university buildings will be open to visitors that day.

Nehru Calls For Canadian Aid In Asia's Struggle For Freedom

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA, Oct. 25—(CP)—One of the giants of the east has told Canada she should throw her "growing wealth and power" into the struggle for freedom and plenty in Asia.

The issue, India's Prime Minister told the Canadian Parliament Monday, is no less than peace itself. Give freedom and an end of "dire poverty," Asia will become a powerful factor in stability and peace." Denied them, there can be no lasting peace.

Before a Commons chamber packed with dignitaries and plain people, the leader of 340,000,000 Indians declared "the differences that have existed in our minds about east and west have little substance today and we are all partners in the same great undertaking," the search for peace and freedom.

India, he said, champions freedom and racial equality in Asia and Africa but she desires "no leadership or dominion or authority over any other country."

Asia Basis of Problems

"We are compelled by circumstances to play our part in Asia and the world because we are convinced that unless the basic problems of Asia are solved there can be no world peace. Canada should understand our purpose and our motives and use her growing wealth and power to expand the horizons of freedom, to promote order and liberty, to remove want and thus ensure lasting peace."

In his 3,000-word address, Pandit Nehru spoke both French and English in a voice so low that many people in the Commons could not hear him. But they applauded him with warmth and Prime Minister St. Laurent and the speakers of both chambers greeted him and thanked him formally with the same warmth.

Dozens of people stood in the corridors to welcome the small, slight prime minister, here for two full days as a break in his tour of the U.S.

Guest of St. Laurent

Monday night he was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. St. Laurent at a state dinner. Today he will place a wreath on the national war memorial, will be a guest of either Mr. St. Laurent or External Affairs Minister Pearson at lunch, of former prime minister MacKenzie King at dinner and of the Indian High Commissioner at a reception.

In Parliament and at a press conference Monday, he unfolded his views on a host of subjects without hesitation.

He pictured Asia as a renascent, unsettled area in the twilight of Imperialism and said the remedy for its discontents lay in an accelerated trend towards freedom and the removal of want. Its so-called revolt, he said, "is a striving of the legitimate pride of ancient peoples against the arrogance of certain western nations."

Economic Improvement

India's most urgent mission now was the rapid improvement of economic conditions for the people. The main problem was not over-population but food supply. The government hoped to close the gap in two years.

Externally, she was remaining within the Commonwealth when she becomes a republic in three months' time. The people largely had accepted the step and the bitternesss and suspicion of the days of "British Imperialism" had vanished. India would line up with no power blocs in the cold war but would co-operate in seeking peace because "war and peace and freedom are becoming indivisible."

Rabbi Berger Dies

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—(CP). — Rabbi Mayer Berger, 60, long a leader of orthodox jewry in Toronto, and formerly head of the Toronto Union of Orthodox Rabbis, died Mnday night after a prolonged illness. He is survived by his widow, two daughters and four sons.

NEW BISHOP—Rt. Rev. W. E. Fuller, Peterborough-born first world war veteran, has been enthroned a bishop of the diocese of Saskatoon of the Church of England in Canada. Bishop Fuller, who has served in parishes in the maritimes, is a former governor of the Canadian Broadcastnig Corporation.

Cheaper In England

OTTAWA, Oct. 25 (CP)—Canadian wheat flour sells at a lower price in England than in Canada, Wilfrid Lacroix (L-Quebec Montmorency) was informed by the government Monday in the Commons. An answer tabled in reply to a question from Mr. Lacroix explained that a British consumer subsidy brought down the selling price of both Canadian flour and bread made from it.

Crack At Canada

KETTERING, England, Oct. 25 (CP)—Beverly Baxter told a Conservative party rally Monday night that if the sterling bloc fails, "one Canadian in every four will be unemployed." The Canadian-born Conservative member of parliament for Woodgreen, just back from a tour of Canada, said in such a case Canadians and Americans "would be eating their dollar bills—that would be all they could do with them."

Divine On Mules Charms Hearers At Murray St.

An audience of more than a hundreds heard a witty address on mules in the Sunday school rooms of Murray St. Baptist Church Monday. The speaker, Dr. N. H. Parker, head of the Old Testament Department of McMaster Divinity School was meeting members of the church and visitors from other churches for the last time before returning to Hamilton after spending the week-end in Peterborough.

Dr. Parker was guest speaker at the church on Sunday and on Monday afternoon he addressed the Ministerial Association.

It was in lighter vein that he spoke Monday evening, recounting one amusing story after another about mules in the southern States, where he spent his boyhood.

Entertainment before and after Dr. Parker's address was provided by Harry and Stan Northrop at two pianos, a group of four members of the church who presented themselves as the Hayward Quartet and Adam Hawley, organist and choir master at Park St. Baptist Church, who sang.

The Rev. Ivan Morgan was master of ceremonies and members of the Mission Circle served refreshments.

Fined $10 and Costs

Joseph Bastien, Montreal, was fined $10 and costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in police court Monday after pleading guilty to a charge of having liquor in a place other than his residence.

William M. Smith, 188 Lock St., pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk and was fined $10 and costs.

John Whalen, 29 Edgewater Blvd., pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk and was fined $10 and costs.

FACTS re U.E. - G.E. DISPUTE
IS THE UNION UNREASONABLE?

On Friday, October 14th and again Monday, October 17th, the workers of C.G.E. in Peterborough stopped work in protest of the Company's violation of the Contract. The dispute is of interest and importance to every worker and citizen of Peterborough. It affects their welfare and they are entitled to information regarding it.

Q. What action of the Company are the workers protesting?

A. The workers are protesting the refusal of the Company to implement an Arbitration Award of February, 1949, although the Contract states (page 47) "The decision of the Board will be final and binding upon both parties . . . ."

Q. Why does the Company refuse to implement the Award?

A. When the Award, which directed the Company to restore rates of pay for girls in the Induction Motor Winding Department, was first rendered, the Company did not question its validity or meaning. They stressed the clerical work involved. In April or May, the Company informed the Union they considered the Award required clarification and until that was done they would not implement it. When the workers protested and the Award was clarified beyond all doubt (October 17th), the Company challenged the validity of the award and refused to put it into effect.

Q. Why does the company now consider the award invalid?

A. The Company claims that the Award is inconsistent with the Contract in that it deprives the Company of the right to change prices if methods of manufacture are changed.

Q. Does the Award actually do that?

A. No. Award recognizes that right but rules the evidence of changed methods submitted by the Company as insufficient in this case.

Q. Would girls earn $3.00 or $4.00 an hour if the Award were implemented?

A. The Company has sought to prove they would. The Union does not believe that all girls affected would earn that rate on all prices in dispute if the Award was implemented. The Company has used figures only on individual jobs of limited duration. The Union has records showing girls have been removed from jobs in question because they failed to earn 84c an hour. The Union has suggested and repeats IT WILL DISCUSS ANY PROBLEMS THAT MAY ARISE ONCE THE AWARD IS IMPLEMENTED.

Q. Does the dispute centre around an insistence by the Union that girls should earn $3.00 or $4.00 an hour?

A. No. The rate of pay is not the dispute. The dispute is on a basic principle. The Company must honour its word — the signed contract stipulating "An Arbitration Award is final and binding."

Q. What would happen if the Union conceded this principle?

A. If the Union conceded this principle, then it would be exposing its members to even more flagrant violations of the contract clauses dealing with Vacations, Statutory Holidays, Seniority, etc. The Union would in effect be telling the Company that the observance of a contract was dependent only upon the latter's good will.

Q. Why did the workers take a strike vote?

A. The workers took a strike vote because they realized that the Company's arrogant attitude on the Arbitration Award dispute was typical of their attitutde on the overall contract dispute. The workers realized the necessity of arming their leaders with the means of ensuring a satisfactory settlement on both the award and contract negotiations now in Conciliation.

Ladd Has Beef On Using Chest Shots

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 25 (AP).—Alan Ladd has a beef — about "beefcake," the new Hollywood trend toward exposing the male chest.

Ladd, along with Victor Mature, Richard Conte, Robert Ryan and others, has been shown stripped to the waist in movie ads. "I don't like it," Ladd said. "I wish I could talk them into letting me stay covered up.

"I especially don't like the way they advertise a picture by showing you stripped to the waist. Usually if you do appear that way in the picture, it's only for a few scenes."

"The Great Gatsby," was the film exploited with Ladd's bare bosom. "That's foolish," he commented, "because I was playing a character role, not a pretty-boy personality. And the only time my chest wsas shown was during a swimming scene where I was shot."

Tuesday Tidbits

Peggy Lee appears in her first full-length movie with Bing Crosby in "Mr. Music." The appearance was by request of Mr. Crosby, on whose air show she sings. She'll play a songstress name of Peggy Lee.

Dick Powell returns to hard-bitten roles in "Right Cross." He'll play a tough newspaper man (aren't they always tough in movies?). Ricardo Montalban portrays a prizefighter.

This actually happened: A star proposed closing a recent picture with a simple "I love you" between the romantic couple. The producer disagreed. "That's an old line," he said. "That line is 20 years old."

Capsule Review

"The Heiress" (Par) is a splendid job of recreating a century-old era and three characters thereof. William Wyler has made a fine film, avoiding the pitfalls of costume drama. Olivia De-Havilland etches a true portrait of a sky heiress and Montgomery Clift convinces as the fortune-hunter. Tops is Ralph Richardson as the father. Film and players are Academy fodder.

Leaves Hospital For Trip Home

TORONTO, Oct. 25 — (CP) — Pretty Helen Billson, Toronto model injured last January in a traffic accident in which her fiancee was killed, returned home Sunday from hospital for a 10-day visit.

Twenty-year-old Miss Billson was struck by an automobile in eastern Toronto while walking with her fiance William Miller. Miller was instantly killed and Miss Billson was dragged along the road and suffered multiple fractures.

She has undergone innumerable skin and bone grafting operations since the accident and must return to the hospital in 10 days for more operations

"Gee, it's grand to be home," she said. "I am looking forward to being home for good some day soon. It will be fun learning how to walk all over again.

Believes Canada Can Take More Exports

LONDON, Oct. 25 (CP)—Prime Minister Attlee Monday told the House of Commons there are "great opportunities" for increasing exports of capital goods and engineering products to Canada.

Attlee said the new austerity program, designed to cut government expenditure by £280,000,000 ($868,000,000), is only one side of the action needed to deal with Britain's economic problem.

"The other side is increased production . . . if we are to seize the great opportunities for export us and to keep up the standard of which devaluation has opened to supply in the home market we must increase production . . .

"In Canada there are great opportunities for capital goods and light engineering products. Expert salesmanship will be needed and we must be able to give early delivery."

Thanksgiving Planned For Havelock Church

HAVELOCK, Oct. 25 (ENS)—Mrs. J. C. Gall was hostess at the Thanksgiving meeting of the WMS of Havelock United Church recently.

A Thanksgiving service for Sunday evening, November 6, was planned with the Rev. W. A. Hunniset of the Fred Victor Mission, Toronto, as the guest speaker.

The study period was in charge of Mrs. C. Spencer assisted by Mrs. H. Hoard, Mrs. E. Fennell and Mrs. F. R. Vanderburgh. The president, Mrs. G. W. Chiles, led the worship period.

Lunch was served by the hostess. The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. C. H. Roberts.

GRIEF IN GUATEMALA—Heavy floods in Guatemala caused these cracks in the ground outside Guatemala City. The floods killed 500 persons, according to Red Cross estimates, although the government said 4,000 had died. Damage to crops and property was believed to run around $50,000,000 and officials said many villages were still isolated by the rampaging waters.

Finally Name Quadruplets

SAULT STE. MARIE, Oct. 25 (CP)—The Hargreaves quadruplets have been named. They are Jennifer Ann, Janet Barbara, Joyce Carol and Joan Dianne.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oswald C. Hargreaves, had plenty of help from persons who thought they had the answer to the problem of names for the 12-day-old quads.

Suggestions poured into Sault Ste. Marie by the thousands.

"Some suggested names of the provinces, others names of four of the 48 (United) States," said Mr. Hargreaves. "Others volunteered their own pet names.

"The selection was made by my wife. Each first name starts with the letter J—and to be quite honest, I don't know why. The second names are all in alphabetical order, to denote which baby came first. We could even call them A, B, C, and D if we wanted to."

Mr. Hargreaves, still walking on air, reported the girls are doing fine.

Hear Bell Application Sometime In Spring

OTTAWA, Oct. 25—(CP)—The Board of Transport Commissioners is expected to hear an application by the Bell Telephone Company for higher rates in Ontario and Quebec sometime next spring.

The Board announced it will open hearings in Vancouver Jan. 11 on a similar application from the British Columbia Telephone Company.

The Commissioners said only they will hear Bell's application in Ottawa "at a date following the western hearings of the Board."

"And it's perfect for basement floors!"

Armstrong's Asphalt Tile can be installed anywhere—in basement game rooms, in homes without basements, over subfloors of concrete, wood or metal.

This modern flooring is not harmed by the moisture and alkalis that come up through concrete floors laid in direct contact with the ground.

The cost of Armstrong's Asphalt Tile is surprisingly low—even lower today than it was in 1939. And, because it is installed tile by tile, you can have your own custom-designed floor.

There's a wide range of plain and marbleized colours and special insets to choose from in creating your own attractive, distinctive floor pattern.

Flooring contractors everywhere in Canada are installing modern, durable floors of Armstrong's Asphalt Tile. Ask any Armstrong contractor or dealer in your locality, to show you colours and sample floor designs, or to give you an accurate, free estimate.

Heaviest Gale In 25 Years Rocks Britain

Ships Take Beating In Channel Waters, Rail Line Washed Out

LONDON, Oct. 26 — (CP). — The heaviest October gale in 25 years today battered Britain and the Continent. At least 14 persons were reported dead or missing.

The winds drove small ships aground, smashed fishing craft, and swept eight seamen and two fishermen to their deaths. Three seamen were reported missing. One person was drowned.

An English Channel steamer with 200 aboard was unable to go on to Dover or return to Dunkerque. The storm prevented its docking.

Seaside resorts on Britain's Channel coast estimated their property damage at £200,000 ($620,000).

Planes were grounded, trains were delayed, and torrential rains flooded the highways.

Steamship Adrift

At the peak of the storm the Belgian Channel steamship Konig Albert, breaking adrift from her moorings in Dover Harbor, was involved in a collision with British Railways' newest Channel vessel, Maid of Orleans.

The Konig Albert was anchored four miles out of the harbor this morning. A harbor official said damage was slight.

A British collier, the 147-ton Archglen, was driven ashore near Dover. Lifeboat men brought members of the crew ashore by breeches buoy.

Shipping passing through the Straits of Dover had a terrific buffeting. The Cunard-White Star cargo liner Fort Spokane (7,128 tons) took 4 hours to pass through the Downs roadstead off Deal, a journey usually done in 20 minutes.

Trains on the main London-Penzance line were diverted after foundations of the track had been washed away near Dawlish, in Devonshire.

Householders had to be evacuated from waterside districts in Scotland. Two railroad lines on the border were blocked as a result of the overnight storm, and the main East Coast line from Edinburgh to London was closed for 4½ hours.

Mrs. Pitre Asks Summary Trial

QUEBEC, Oct. 26 — (CP). — An unexpected request by defence counsel for immediate summary trial for Mrs. Arthur Pitre on an attempted suicide charge today brought a sudden adjournment of her preliminary hearing in the case of the key witness in the air disaster murder case.

Shortly after Mrs. Pitre appeared for voluntary statement—a step in the preliminary hearing at which the defence may present its evidence—her counsel, Irenee Simard, asked for immediate trial before a judge instead of allowing the case to proceed to the Court of King's Bench stage before a judge and jury.

Crown counsel Noel Dorion objected that it was too late in the hearing to make such a request, but Judge Alphonse Garon adjourned the hearing until November 8 to study the defence request.

Ontario Planning Central Fire College

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP)—Some 500 fire department officials from 154 Ontario municipalities were told today the provincial government intends to establish a central fire college to expand training in technical and scientific fire-fighting methods.

The officials are taking a fire training course at the University of Toronto.

Attorney-General Porter said he had authorized the formation of a fire college advisory board which would advise Fire Marshal W. J. Scott as to the scope of the new college. The board will be organized tonight.

Snowflurries Arrive

TORONTO, Oct. 26—(CP)—Arrival of a cold wave from the far north today brought scattered snowflurries to northern Ontario, with rain at the leading edge of the wave. The Weather Bureau here estimated the mixed fall of snow and rain at Sault Ste. Marie at 3.3 inches during the last 24 hours. In southern Ontario the forecast was frost in many localities tonight.

CCL Requests Inquiry On Housing Cost

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 —(CP)—A public investigation into home-building costs was asked of Reconstruction Minister Winters today by the Canadian Congress of Labor.

A. R. Mosher, president of the 360,000-member Congress, made the proposal in a letter to Mr. Winters, minister in charge of housing for the Federal Government. He suggested immediate establishment of an investigating royal commission or a parliamentary committee.

Mr. Mosher said $8,000 was practically the minimum price of a house—exclusive of interest rates—and that placed new homes out of the reach of most Canadian workers, who averaged slightly more than $41 a week in wages.

4 Reasons Given

Mr. Mosher said that four reasons generally were given for the high cost of residential construction:

Excessive profits by contractors, high labor costs and the claim that construction workers were not "doing a proper job" on home-building, decentralization of the industry making for high unit costs, and high interest rates.

"One presumes that the operations of real estate interests are a contributing factor to high costs as well," Mr. Mosher said in his letter.

Declaring the high cost of housing is perhaps Canada's outstanding domestic problem, Mr. Mosher added:

"Our Congress believes that the spotlight of public inquiry should be directed into every aspect of the high cost of home construction which makes it impossible for literary tens and hundreds of thousands of Canadians to own their own homes."

Two Boys Prevent Fire Panic In Theatre

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 26 — (CP)—Two unidentified boys set the pace Tuesday night for a calm, orderly exodus from the Capitol Theatre after fire broke out in an ushers' room at one end of the stage.

They got up from their front-row seats, walked quickly to usher Guy Joubert and reported the fire.

The film, featuring Clark Gable, remained on the screen as some 400 persons left the building. Firemen brought the blaze under control quickly.

Opera Mortifies Durante Couldn't Understand Word

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26—(AP)—Jimmy Durante went to the opera last night and was he mortified—he couldn't understand a woid.

The Schnozzola startled first-nighters at the opening of the San Francisco Opera Company's season here by appearing among the minked and ermined crowd. The music-lover, dapper in a tuxedo and specially bought black hat ("cost me 20 smackers") claimed he recognized several barber friends in the lobby.

Perched attentively in his aisle seat, Durante complained in the middle of the first act, "I can't understand a thing they're saying—is the acoustics bad in here!"

It was explained the opera, "Manon Lescaut," was in Italian.

"Might as well be Greek," he shrugged.

He was amazed at the shouts of bravo for an aria by Jussi Bjoerling. "They're shouting bravo and they don't even know what he's saying."

Durante said he rubbed elbows with the Los Angeles social set in the bar during intermission. "I had to rub elbows, nobody would shake hands with me," he added.

He claimed he detected some strains of "Inkadinkadoo" in the score of the second act. "I could sue that guy (Puccini) for plagiarism!" he said excitedly. "But I'll let it go. Live and let live, I say."

He was intrigued with part of the second act. "It's just like a burlesque show," he said. "The were running in and out of closets and waving swords. But where are the dancing girls?"

Summing up his review of the performance, Durante declared: "In the overture all eyes were on the conductor. In the first act all eyes were on the soprano. In the second act all eyes were on me. No wonder—I was asleep."

2 Canadians Get $31,000 In Sweeps

Horse Places Second At Newmarket, Sterope Wins Race

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP)—Two Canadians each won $31,000 today when the horse Good Taste, a 32-to-1 shot, ran second in the Cambridgeshire Handicap at Newmarket.

The lucky men are W. E. Brain, a Toronto rubber worker, and Harold Blackmore of London, Ont., an office clerk.

Both said they have been buying sweepstake tickets for many years.

"I've bought tickets all my life," said Blackmore. "Thousands of them, I guess. This is the first time I have won anything and I guess it probably will be the last."

Brain said this is the first Irish Sweepstakes win in 20 years.

Mr. Brain is an inspector for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. He and Mrs. Brain have three children.

Dorothy, one of the children, said she was so excited she couldn't even listen to reports of the race.

"I just feel like standing on my head or going out and having a big celebration," she said.

As far as was known here no Canadian holds a ticket on Sterope, winner of the handicap, or on Meysey Hampton, who ran third.

Other Canadian ticket holders and the horses for which they were rootng:

Cameron T. Langton, Brantford Ont., Moondust; Ted Kng, 23, Hamilton, Lusinguel; James Wixson, Toronto Laverstroke; Herbert Chubb, 25, Todd Inlet, B. C., Kilbelin; Abe Nashman, Toronto, Silver Gate; Albert Abbott, Preston Ont., Hyperbole.

Wixson's Laverstroke and King's Lusinguel were scratched. But both men get $465 for drawing those horses.

Owner John Townley scored a sensational double when his colt Sterope won the Cambridgeshire for the second year in succession. Sterope was carrying top weight of 130 pounds and was ridden by Charlie Elliot.

The field was narrowed to 39 runners.

Sterope is the first horse to win this race in successive years since Christmas Daisy did it in 1909 and 1910. Time for the mile and a furlong of sticky going was 1:53 1-5, 1 1-5 seconds faster than last year.

The winner earned $9,847.60 for owner J. B. Townley.

Good Taste and Meysey Hampton both were approximately 25 to 1 as they paraded to the post.

Sterope started at the same price as last year and was drawn in the same position—25th.

The race was run in a howling gale and jockeys had hard work to battle against driving rain.

Feel Encouraged

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP)—An industry leader's suggestion that a steel strike compromise is possible encouraged government officials today in their efforts to settle the United States coal-steel crisis.

Speed Recovery—Or Else Hoffman To Tell Europe

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—(AP)—Paul G. Hoffman heads for Europe tomorrow armed with what reliable sources say is an ultimatum to Marshall Plan countries that they speed up their recovery progress—or else. Persons who should know said Hoffman has ready some "get tough" proposals which would tell western Europe, in effect: "Show more self-help among yourselves and more determination to achieve recovery—or else risk loss of sharp cutbacks of multi-billion dollar aid now flowing to Europe under the Marshall Plan."

State Secretary Dean Acheson and Hoffman held a closed-door conference late Tuesday. U.S. officials said they conferred on the recommendations Hoffman will carry to Paris to lay before the 19 Marshal Plan countries when they meet next week.

Hoffman, economic co-operation administrator, is scheduled to address the Canadian Chamber of Commerce tomorrow in Montreal after which he will fly to Europe by way of New York.

Three Proposals

It is understood that the recovery director's program will embody three main proposals:

1. Remove or relax trade barriers between Western European countries to permit a free flow of commerce between the Marshall-Plan countries.

2. Sharply revise monetary laws to provide easier exchange of currency, which will pave the way for an ultimate single currency for all Marshall-Plan countries or at least a single currency for certain groups of countries.

3. Strive for increased exports to dollar areas along with other tangible evidence that the $7,000,000,000 in American funds already committed is not going down the drain.

ECA's most recent report to Congress—made last month—was punctuated with numerous sharp statements detailing a "slackening in the rate of progress" in European recovery.

Going Blind Beatty Suicides

LONDON, Oct. 26 — (AP). — The Honorable Peter Beatty, son of a famed Admiral, and grandson of the Chicago merchant prince, Marshal Field, Sr., plunged to his death today from sixth-floor window in the fashionable Ritz Hotel.

He had just been told he was going totally blind.

The 39-year-old race horse owner fell to the ground at the rear of the Ritz, which is in Piccadilly, in the centre of London.

Beatty, a handsome, wealthy aristocrat, was born with a serious eye affliction. He spent thousands of dollars for operations both here and in the United States.

His sight was so poor that his manservant had to help him wherever he walked. For years he had been unable to see his horses run. He went to the tracks and had his manager describe the races to him.

Beatty had been staying at the Ritz Hotel, in the heart of London, with his brother, the second Earl Beatty. Their father, Earl Beatty, won fame as the admiral commanding the Royal Navy forces at the battle of Jutland in the first world war.

Predicts Coffee Price Will Be Increased

SEIGNORY CLUB, Montebello, Que., Oct. 26 (CP)—Your favorite morning cup of coffee soon may be more expensive—and harder to obtain.

That was the warning given to the Tea and Coffee Association of Canada Tuesday by Dr. Antonia Garcia de Miranda Netto, commercial attache at the Brazilian Embassy in Ottawa. He said a world shortage of coffee soon may exist.

In an address before delegates to the Association's annual convention, Dr. Netto said stockpiles of coffee are almost exhausted. Coffee prices already are high because the world now is drinking more of the beverage than it is producing.

"Up until the present there has been no shortage because of the vast reserves held in Brazil and to a much smaller degree in some of the colonial producing areas," said Dr. Netto. "However, the last of those stocks is slated to disappear by June of next year, and it is not much doubted that from then onward a shortage will develop between production and consumption."

Can't Exist On Charity Cripps Warns Britons

LONDON, Oct. 26—(CP)—Sir Stafford Cripps solemnly warned Britain today it could not exist on the charity of the United States.

Opening a two-day debate in the House of Commons on the Government's new £280,0000,000 ($868,000,000) economy drive, the Chancellor of the Exchequer said:

"At the root of our success or failure lies our own capacity to produce. The only real solution for our difficulties is more and more economical and efficient production."

The cut in dollar imports—such as tobacco, food, cotton and gasoline—and a slash in Government spending are essential, he said, "but cannot of itself bring success."

Union At GM Objects To Speed-up

Protest Dismissal Of Four Workers, Ask Reinstatement

OSHAWA, Oct. 26 — (CP). — Employees of General Motors of Canada Ltd. went on strike today in protest against dismissal of four workers who had objected an an alleged speed-up plan by the company.

Between 2,50 and 3,000 employees, members of the United Automobile Workers (CIO), voted to strike at a mass meeting which followed the third walk-out from the plant in the last five days. The union said the company attempted to speed up production on one line from 40 to 47 units an hour.

The strike vote, passed just before noon, was effective immediately.

It applies to all workers in the General Motors plant here, employing about 5,000.

While a committee was being established to handle the strike for the union, there was no indication of when a further meeting would be held between the union and company.

Union officials placed two motions before the meeting. One to hold a strike vote, and the other to go on strike. Both were carried by a show of hands.

The dispute was over the company's dismissal of four employees Tuesday. The employees were dismissed for refusing to work and for inciting others to sit down.

There was a meeting between company and union officials this morning at which no agreement was reached on the union demand for reinstatement without penalty of the dismissed workers.

The company said in a statement that executives met with the union bargaining committee this morning at the request of the union to discuss the dismissal on Tuesday of four employees, in connection with Tuesday's walk-out in the body plant "and other matters."

Demand Reinstatement

"The chairman of the bargaining committee claimed the discharges were unwarranted and demanded reinstatement of the four men without penalty," said the company statement.

"The company pointed out the seriousness of a situation where employees took the law into their own hands in defiance of supervision and in disregard of grievance procedure. The company felt the dismissals were justified, but expressed willingness to arbitrate the matter according to the terms of grievance procedure.

"The union committee then abruptly terminated the meeting without reference to the other issues they had expressed a desire to discuss.

Defy Supervisors

"The company added that three of the dismissals were cases where men refused to go to work on instruction of supervisors. Their refusal evidently was part of a plan to slow down production below the level for which the assembly line was adequately staffed.

"The fourth dismissal was in in the case of a union committee man who incited employees on

Careless Driving

ORILLIA, Oct. 26—(CP)—Harold Morris, Toronto, driver of the Gray Coach Lines bus which struck an automobile near here last Friday and turned over causing one death and injuries to 25 passengers, was charged today with careless driving. He will appear in court Nov. 25. Robert Kerr, 70, of Detroit, bus passenger, died from injuries.

600 U.S. Trains Cancelled In Coal Strike

CHICAGO, Oct. 26—(AP) — Railroad passenger service in the United States was sharply curtailed today as some 600 coal-burning trains were side-tracked because of the coal strike.

The trains were cancelled, effective last midnight, in compliance with an interstate commerce commission order to conserve coal during the strike. Most of the trains concelled are secondary, short runs between towns or suburban service.

All coal-burning carriers, with less than a 25-day supply, were ordered to reduce passenger service by 25 per cent. Unless rescinded, the order is to be effective for two months.

The coal strike, now in its 37th day, showed no signs of early settlement. However, there was no indication a further reduction in passenger service was planned immediately.

Carriers with complete Diesel service were not affected by the ICC order. About 25 per cent of the country's passenger locomotives burn coal.

The New York Central was hard hit by the coal shortage It announced cancellations of 146 trains. The NCY's long run operations between Chicago and New York, mostly Diesel, are not affected.

The New York Central, as well as other roads, announced no excursions, including those operated for football games or other special events, will be run.

Seize 4,500 Of Bogus Bills

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 (CP)—Less than two months after a wave of bogus $10 bills hit the country, RCMP officials have arrested 13 persons and seized 4,500 of the bills, the Bank of Canada said Tuesday.

Four persons have come to trial and been convicted, the bank said in a review of the flow of counterfeiting that began in early September. Six other cases still are pending.

In addition to the bills seized from arrested persons, about 1,000 bills have been detected and removed from circulation.

Arrests have been made in Vancouver and four Ontario cities—Welland, Niagara Falls, Brockville and Guelph.

Robert McTaggart and Donald Hingston of Toronto were sentenced to two years less a day in Toronto on charges of uttering and being in possession of counterfeit bills. Arrested attempting to pass the bills at a pari-mutuel wicket at Stamford race track in Niagara Falls, James Alexander Fraser was arrested in Niagara Falls trying to pass the bills in a store and was sentenced to four years.

Sunday Day of Worship Only By Tradition—Pastor

TORONTO, Oct. 25 (CP)—Most Rev. Philip Carrington, Anglican Archbishop of Quebec, started discussion among spokesmen of other churches here today by his declaration that Sunday is the day of worship only by tradition.

Nowhere in the Bible is it laid down that worship should be done on Sunday, he said.

What Archbishop Carrington was pointing out was that "The Bible commandment says 'On the seventh day thou shalt rest.'"

"That is Saturday."

He was speaking at a service in Convocation Hall, University of Toronto, commemorating the 400th anniversary of the Church of England Prayer Book.

A spokesman for the Roman Catholic Seminary here said "strictly speaking, the Archbishop is correct."

"There is no spiritual rule for the observance of Sunday. But he doesn't go far enough.

"In the Bible there is evidence that Christ established a church to carry on his work. He gave that church authority to carry out God's work on earth. Because the resurrection occurred on Sunday, and because of the general acceptance today of Sunday as a day of rest, it is fitting now that Sunday should be observed instead of Saturday, as under the old rule."

Rabbi David Monson of Beth Synagogue said the change from Saturday, the seventh day, to Sunday was made because of Emperor Constantine.

Ottawa Gives Cities Cash, Can't Pay Tax

Crown Lands Exempt From Taxation New Plan Will Help

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 (CP) — The government shortly will announce a payments in lieu of taxation scheme to embrace all federal property in municipalities across the country, it was learned Tuesday night. Currently being worked out by various government departments, the payments plan is expected to meet municipalities' demands that the federal government pay taxation on Crown lands.

All Crown lands are exempt from taxation under section 125 of the Canadian constitution. However, in certain cases, such as Ottawa, the federal government has made annual grants in lieu of property taxes. Ottawa receives $300,000 yearly.

The plan, which may be announced in the Commons by Prime Minister St. Laurent, is expected to make it plain that the federal government does not recognize the right of any municipality to tax it.

Goodwill Gesture

Payments will be made as a federal "gesture of goodwill" to the municipalities.

Details of the plan were not disclosed. However, it is understood payments will be made on a percentage basis of the municipality's assessment of the Crown land.

In other words, if a town, city or village assesses Crown property within its boundaries at, say $1,000,000, the government will pay a fixed percentage of that assessment—that is if the federal government agrees with the assessment value.

While the federal government has not recognized the right of towns and cities to tax it, some administrative services already are making payments in lieu of taxation. Others are not.

The Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. makes payments for property used for federal housing. Payments also are made by the CNR and the Bank of Canada.

However, the Post Office rests on its immunity, although it has offices spread across the country.

Find New Body In Noronic Hull

TORONTO, Oct. 26 — (CP).—While the fire-destroyed cruise ship Noronic was being pumped out Tuesday, workmen found another body in the wreckage.

The vessel, which burned at her berth here September 17, is slowly being pumped out so that the hulk may be refloated and removed to Hamilton for scrapping. The upper works have already been removed.

The remains discovered Tuesday may be those of one of the 14 persons still listed as missing. Identified dead total 105, making the total death toll 119. That was the final figure established October 12 on the basis of Red Cross investigation and medical evidence.

The body was that of a middle-aged woman, clad in a man's overcoat over the nightgown.

Explosion Wrecks Apartment Building

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 26 (AP)—An explosion Tuesday night wrecked a four-family apartment building in a housing development, injuring 14 persons.

Police said only 14 persons were in the building when the explosion came. All were accounted for. Only three remained in hospital. Eight of the injured were children.

Leroy Shannon, 28, said the explosion occurred in his apartment. Shannon said he and his wife were in the rear of their apartment at 10:30 p.m. when a terrific blast knocked them down. Shannon said the explosion was accompanied by a blinding sheet of flame.

New Food Buying Cuts Hinted By Strachey When Contract Expires

Howe Not Unduly Alarmed At Statement First Indication Received, Expects Britain To Live Up To Contract

COVENTRY, England, Oct. 26—(CP)—Food Minister John Strachey told a public meeting Tuesday night that when the present long-term Canadian wheat contract expires, the government "may further reduce these and other food purchases from dollar areas." He said the government wants "to go on buying our wheat from them (Canada), but we cannot buy with dollars we haven't got."

Under the Anglo-Canadian wheat contract, signed in 1946, Canada shipped Britain 140,000,000 bushels of wheat at $2 a bushel during the crop year which ended last July 31.

The bilateral wheat agreement, now in its final crop year, calls for Canada to ship another 140,000,000 bushels to Britain at $2 a bushel this year.

Sell 500,000,000 Bushels

At the conclusion of the contract Canada will have sold Britain some 500,000,000 bushels of wheat during the four-year period. A total of 160,000,000 bushels was shipped in the 1946-47 crop year, and a similar amount in the 1947-48 crop year. In both those years the price was $1.55 a bushel.

Strachey said that during his period in office food imports from dollar countries had been cut from 36 to 12 per cent, of which 9 per cent was Canadian wheat.

Howe Unperturbed

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 — (CP) — Trade Minister Howe said Tuesday night that he was not unduly alarmed by the statement that Britain is thinking of reducing wheat purchases in Canada.

Mr. Howe said this was the first indication he had received that the United Kingdom Government might cut Canadian wheat purchases.

However, there had been some indication previously that Britain may slice purchases of Canadian bacon and eggs as a means of conserving expenditures.

Mr. Howe shrugged off the statement by Mr. Strachey that the British Government wants "to go on buying our wheat from them (Canada) but we cannot buy with dollars we haven't got."

"We have a contract with the British this year and we expected to go on selling our wheat when that contract ends," he said.

Hunting Taxi Driver Who Attacked Woman

TORONTO, Oct. 26 — (CP)— Police hunted today for a taxi driver alleged to have thrown a 30-year-old married woman from his moving cab as she fought to resist his advances.

The woman, hysterical and suffering shock and bruises, was taken to hospital after a truck-driver found her at the side of No. 5 Highway just outside Toronto.

She told police later that she had hailed the cab about midnight and asked to be driven home. When the driver made indecent advances, she screamed, and bit him, she said.

The woman said he slapped her face, opened the door of the automobile, and pushed her out.

Urges Research To Produce Oil From Coal

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 — (CP)—A man who wielded a pick and shovel in Nova Scotia coal mines for more than 25 years before entering politics has urged the government to finance research into the production of oil from coal.

Clarie Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton South) said in the Commons Tuesday that the government has done practically nothing to help research on the possibilities of getting oil from coal. It should, he said during continued debate on the 1949-50 budget, undertake such research as a possible insurance against the eventual disappearance of natural oil resources.

He made the statements after saying that the abolition of the eight-per-cent tax on fuel oils should be passed on to the consumer by government order.

Oil is considered the fuel of the "near future," he said. But oil resources in northern America were not inexhaustible and the day might come when supplies would begin to dwindle.

Canada's coal resources "are a great national asset," he aded. But if the present trend continued toward general use of oil as fuel, the coal fields of both Alberta and Cape Breton would lose their places in the economy.

Labor Board Power

The debate was interrupted for an hour at the evening session to permit discussion of a Bill, sponsored by Mr. Gillis, that would give the National Labor Relations Board more power.

Mr. Gillis said his Bill would enable the Board to indicate which party was at fault in any labor dispute. The guilty party then could be dealt with through magistrate courts.

Labor Minister Mitchell, whose speech was interrupted when the hour for private members' Bills was completed, said the government could not accept the proposal. Mr. Gillis was asking for arbitration by compulsion.

At the House opening, External Affairs Minister Pearson said one of the prerequisites of recognition of a Communist government in China is assurance that it is not controlled by a foreign power. Another was assurance that the new country has full control over a defined area.

Meantime in the Senate debate continued on a Bill providing for abolition of appeals to the Judicial Committe of th Privy Council.

Stn. J. W. de B. Farris (L-British Columbia) said he supported the system of appeals to the Privy Council, but would not oppose the legislation abolishing them.

Borrows Taxi For Sick Baby

TORONTO, Oct. 26 — (CP).— A baby suffering from dysentery was sped to Toronto from North Bay Tuesday night in a borrowed taxicab driven by his father.

Three-month-old Dallard Leboeuf was taken to the Hospital for Sick Children for treatment.

The father, D. Leboeuf, averaged 65 miles an hour to make the 225-mile trip in about four hours.

He drove unescorted to Aurora about 20 miles north of here. There a Provincial Police cruiser led the way. The taxi ran out of gasoline a short time later and the child and his mother were transferred to the police car for the rest of the trip.

Cornish Oysters Tops In London Restaurants

PENZANCE, England—(CP)—Cornwall's oyster industry is booming.

Oysters are one of the few gastronomical pleasures remaining under Britain's austere post-war regime. They sell in London restaurants for as much as 16 shillings a ($2.48) a dozen.

Many oyster raisers are moving to Cornwall from the east coast, where a shellfish pest called the slipper limpet is causing huge losses in the old established oyster beds.

Cornwall producers are using the Brittany type of oyster and so far have not been bothered by the slipper limpet.

Moscow Tells Yugoslavia Recall Envoy

MOSCOW, Oct. 26 (AP)—Russia has charged Premier-Marshal Tito's ambassador to Moscow with anti-Soviet spying and declared that he can no longer serve as the Yugoslav envoy here.

A Soviet note delivered Tuesday to the Yugoslav embassy said the Budapest treason trial of Hungary's former foreign minister, the late Laszlo Rajk, had revealed that Yugoslav Ambassador Kario Mrazovic "had for a long time engaged in spying and subversive activities against the Soviet Union."

Mrazovic left Moscow for Yugoslavia in August and has not returned since, though technically he remains ambassador to the Soviet Union. It had been presumed he would return to the Russian capital eventually.

The Kremlin's note said also that Mrazovic "while being Yugoslav ambassador in the U.S.S.R., had come out in the Yugoslav press with slanderous fabrications against the Soviet Union."

Mrazovic came to Moscow last Dec. 16 after serving as Yugoslav Minister to Hungary, the scene of the alleged Rajk treason plot on which the Russians based their espionage charge against the Yugoslav diplomat. Rajk and four co-defendants were executed after being convicted of treason.

Doesn't Mean Break

The Soviet action does not mean a break in diplomatic relations with Yugoslavia, since the Yugoslavs were asked in effect to recall only their ambassador, not their diplomatic mission in Moscow.

Presumably Yugoslavia's acting Charge d'Affaires Lazo Laimovic will continue to serve as head of the mission, a post he has filled since Mrazovic left Moscow.

If normal diplomatic procedure is followed, Yugoslavia now can nominate another person as ambassador to Moscow. The Russians could either accept or reject this nomination.

Russia has only minor diplomatic representation in Yugoslavia. Her last ambassador to Belgrade, Anatole I. Lavrentiev, returned to Moscow in August when he was named deputy minister of foreign affairs.

Big Endowment Offered School

WASHINGTON, Miss., Oct. 26 —(APY—A shcool here, asked by its wealthy benefactor to "teach" . . . the superiority of the Anglo-Saxon and Latin American races," is only a pilot plant in a huge educational plan.

Allen Jack Armstrong, son of the George W. Armstrong who proposes endowing Jefferson Military College with mineral rights and land worth $50,000,000, told a reporter that "Jefferson will be a sort of pilot plant."

"My father told me that if Jefferson is a success, he will spend every cent he owns on similar endowments to other schools."

The elder Armstrong, 84 and one of Mississippi's more colorful characters, has vast holdings in oil lands and has steel and utilities interests.

He proposed making the endowment to the small school (enrolment 47) if changes already agreed to by the trustees in the school's charter would:

1. Ban Negroes, Asiatics, and non-Christians from the student body or faculty.

2. Allow the Judge Armstrong Foundation to name a majority of the trustees.

Jack Armstrong and other trustees denied that under the new charter the 147-year-old prep school would teach white supremacy.

Pakistan Rebukes Nehru For Ottawa Comments

OTTAWA, Oct. 26—(CP)—India's official views on a tense, taut world today were poundered by the Canadian government as Prime Minister Nehru headed away from Ottawa and a potential controversy with Pakistan on Canadian soil. The Indian leader left by plane this morning, for Chicago and a renewal of his United States tour. He reached here Sunday evening. He met Prime Minister St. Laurent and External Affairs Minister Pearson three times Tuesday, at a luncheon, a reception and a dinner, and surveyed with them the broad international scene as his government sees it.

In the midst of the day, Pakistan's High Commissioner, Mohammed Ali, rebuked him for "misstatements" in a statement expressing "surprise and sorrow" about things Pandit Nehru said about Pakistan at a press conference Monday.

There was no retort from Pandit Nehru because, an aide said, he "wouldn't wish to enter into controversy in Canada" over a matter not concerning Canada.

Makes No Distinction

Mohammed Ali quoted Pandit Nehru as saying Pakistan "is developing a theocratic state" where not a single non-Moslem holds high office. Denying this, he said Pakistan "makes no distinction of any kind in its appointments" and named a cabinet minister, officials, judges and the heads of the three forces as non-Moslems holding high positions in his country.

Later a member of Pandit Nehru's staff said in a statement that except for Jogendra Nath Mandal Pakistan law and labor minister, the "non-Moslem incumbents of the high posts in Pakistan which the Pakistan High Commissioner has enumerated are Europeans."

"KITTY" GETS A MANICURE—This is the hard way to trim toenails, but it's the only way to manage "Kitty", the Bengal tigress in Chicago's Lincoln Park Zoo. Dr. Lester Fisher, zoo veterinarian, operated the wire snippers on the cat's claws after zoo attendants got her solidly "anchored."

Britain's Honey Crop Threatened By Spray

LONDON —(CP)—Crop spraying saved fruit and vegetables but was a threat to Britain's domestic honey crop, the British Beekeepers Association was warned.

Delegate L. Illingworth said spraying and dusting was growing quickly and spreading everywhere. Unless something was done it would be almost impossible to keep bees except near large towns.

"We beekeepers want some regulation and control of spraying," Illingworth said.

Robs 50 Houses

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP) — Suave, well-dressed Gordon Montgomery, 28, self-confessed burglar of more than 50 houses, pleaded guilty today to 15 charges of housebreaking in Toronto during the last two years. He was remanded to Oct. 31 for sentence. Police said Montgomery took them on a "Cook's tour" of homes he had robbed. Householders estimated their loss at $12,000.

How much is a MICKLE ?

It really doesn't make any difference whether it's a dime or a dollar, a sou or a farthing. What Bobby Burns meant by "Many a mickle makes a muckle" is this: no matter how little you save, you'll have a lot, in proportion, if you save regularly. Why not get started on your "muckle" today?

Health League To Encourage Good Breakfast

To bring to the attention of the parents what children need for their breakfast the local Health League have a followup program to the survey they made last year, Mrs. William Nash told the Health League at their monthly meting at the conference room of the Quaker Oats Company Tuesday afternoon.

Permission will be obtained by the Board of Education to circulate cards throughout the public and separate schools of the city. On the cards will be printed the five necessary ingredients for a child's breakfast, fruit juices, whole grain cereal, bread, meat, eggs or fish, and milk. Opposite each food named is space for two weeks' check-marks. Parents will check off their children's breakfast foods. At the end of the two weeks the charts will be returned to the school by the children.

Mrs. Nash suggested that a prize be given to one child from each school for having a perfect card. Some members felt that an alternative plan should be worked out. George Barns, chairman of the local Health League, suggested a class prize, such as a free movie, as an incentive for the children to have the cards filled out.

Cod Liver Oil

The survey last year was held in Grade 3, 4, 5, and 6 of the Public and Separate schools. Mrs. Nash said that these grades might be used when the followup program is commenced shortly after Christmas.

At the bottom of each card will be the item Vitamin D for each parent to check off. This will be part of a survey at the request of the Toronto Health League to see how many children receive their cod liver oil throughout the winter.

George Barns presided over the meeting which was attended by: Miss Alma Dobbin, William Swanger, Miss Mary Ross, Roy Girven, Mrs. V. R. Henry, Mrs. J. V. Gallivan, Mrs. William Nash and Donald MacTavish.

CHILDBIRTH: "Have you a good diet or exercises for me, a young mother? I have put on far too much weight since my second baby was born. How soon after the birth of the baby can reducing exercises be started?"

Both exercises and diet have gone forward to you. If you're nursing your baby check the diet with your doctor before starting on it. Gynaecologists claim that stomach reducing exercises should be started within a month after the birth of a baby. Easiest and most effective exercise is this: Sit on the floor with the back braced against a wall. Lean forward to touch the toes and as far beyond as possible, holding legs in a straight line and with knees touching.

REST HOMES: "My mother has become almost a mental case. Her memory is gone entirely and she feels we are all against her. When we talked of putting her in a rest home she thought we were putting her in an institution. She carries on at a terrific rate. Where can we get a list of good rest homes where patients like my mother may be taken in?"

Check with the Department of Public Health both at the Parliament Buildings and at City Hall. Mental Health Clinics are maintained by the Provincial authorities. Doctors in charge have an adequate list of rest homes and similar organizations.

SALAD FORKS: "At an informal dinner is the salad fork placed to the left or the right of the regular fork? I have seen it done both ways and would like to be correct. Is it used for eation pie?"

Salad forks, say etiquette experts, go to the right of the regular fork. Frequently however it is not placed with the regular table service but brought in with the salad. Dessert sized fork is used for pie.

Council And Recreation Commission

The dispute which has arisen between the City Council and the Recreation Commission, and which has resulted in the resignation of Mr. Jack Dane, presents a complicated problem, with a good deal to be said on both sides. The Council's desire for economy is admirable, but we sympathize with the Commission when it objects to being a scapegoat. The Commission is a spending body, and recreation is a field in which it is always possible to detect extravagance. But from the beginning the Commission has shown a praiseworthy willingness to tackle problems with which the Council did not want to be bothered, and the Council has been only too willing to shift such problems to the Commission. The Council has always known that the Commission has only two sources of income—its grant from the City and its grant from the Province. If the Commission is spending too much money the Council must share the responsibility for its extravagance.

• • •

The Council has not defined the Commission's sphere of influence. It has asked the Commission to deal with some recreation matters, but has not asked it to have a hand in others which seemed to be just as much connected with recreation. In these circumstances it is inevitable that there should be dissatisfaction, and the Council's criticism of the Commission on grounds of extravagance has brought matters to a head, and has lost the City the services of its recreation director. The work which Mr. Dane has been doing is not of a kind which any willing citizen can take over, for it involves too much detail. Nor does it seem likely that a part-time director, hired for the summer, would be of much use.

• • •

A decision must be made as to whether the City wants a Recreation Commission or not. If the answer is yes, the Commission ought to be told how far its power goes, and what its responsibilities and privileges are. If the answer is no many of the jobs which the Commission has been doing will have to be done by other hands, and as the money for Peterborough recreation comes from the citizens anyway, it is not likely that the eventual cost to the city will be any less.

• • •

Let us repeat that we sympathize with the Council's desire to keep the tax-rate down during a period of heavy municipal spending. We think that the Commission would have responded well to a tactful discussion on economy. We think that the Council might have been impressed if it had been told how much the Commission has been able to do in Peterborough without spending any money at all. And although the present situation is a difficult one, we do not think that it has gone beyond all hope of an amicable settlement.

• • •

Peterborough got along without a Recreation Commission until three years ago, and could no doubt get along without one again. But the point is that recreation has been better handled by the Commission than it was before, and we doubt if the eventual cost to the citizens of the city's many recreation schemes would be much less if the Commission's managing hand were removed.

No Victory, No Defeat

The eight by-elections held Monday resulted in no surprises. Four Liberals held Liberal seats; three other Liberal seats went to independent Liberals who did not have the official local Liberal backing. If it is said that these three seats were lost to the Government, it may also be said that the Opposition did not gain them. As a matter of fact, the three independents will support Government measures in the House. We are glad that J. M. Macdonnell, Conservative financial critic in the last House has retained the Toronto Greenwood riding for the Opposition, and secured for himself a seat in the House, where the Conservative Opposition sorely needs him

Britain's Defence Burden

The United States is now thought to have shouldered the white man's burden, but Britain seems charitably disposed to keep some of it from Uncle Sam's shoulders even now. Britain is still spending on her defence forces at home and at far-flung points abroad more than the United States, reckoning on a population basis. It seems illogical that Britain should attempt to maintain such extensive forces when she has barely enough bread to feed her folk at home. She has commitments like the North Atlantic defence union and also colonial possessions which need to be policed. But present economic facts show that she should no longer consider it her destiny to show anybody that she has the guns, the ships and the men. She has not the dollars. The United States has. Let the flag follow the dollar if need be. There seems to be that need.

Sharp Jolt To Our Trade

Britain is now facing an economic crisis, but one looms for Canada which may be both painful and difficult. The Canadian crisis is a direct result of the British jam, and her efforts to extricate herself have brought to a head the Canadian trading difficulties. Last week Britain coolly told Canada that in the next year she would reduce her spending in this country by $100,000,000. That kind of wedge out of Canada's total trade could affect every Canadian's pay envelope, and seriously reduce farm income. A hundred million dollar bite would cut our exports to Britain by a seventh of last year's total. The Government has sent two deputy-ministers post-haste to London to discuss the situation.

The realities of the situation are apparent. Britain is in the sterling area; Canada is a dollar country. British purchases in Canada must therefore be paid for in kind or in dollars. Since British exports to Canada come nowhere near balancing her imports and she does not have enough dollars to spread around, she is cutting down on her Canadian buying. But there are undercurrents beneath the realities. Britain is boss of the sterling area and seems intent to make the most of it. If Canada will not come into the sterling Mother-country fold, then the wayward child, now adult, can be cast off.

This point of view has wide currency in England, it seems. Richard Crossman, influential Labour M.P., restated it the other day: "Though Canada is a member of the Commonwealth, she now belongs to the dollar area. So we must pay in American dollars for all the wheat we buy from Canada. There is one obvious way to solve the problem. We could bluntly tell the Canadians that they must either accept sterling or we shall be forced to buy elsewhere. But so far we have preferred to carry the burden ourselves."

Such people as Mr. Crossman should be reminded quite firmly that Canadian farmers sold Britain their wheat crops for two and three years after the war at prices far below the world wheat prices in order to secure a guarantee of the British market; that Britain is now buying Canadian wheat with Marshall Plan dollars; that Canadian producers strained their sinews to produce food for Britain during the war and that once bitten, twice shy; that although the two billion dollar outright cash gifts made to Britain were for the economic health of Canada as well as Britain, nevertheless they were two billion dollars of the Canadian taxpayers' money.

Britain seems to be adept at playing the sweet mother-daughter theme when it suits her special interests; when the old lady wants to take another tack, she veers without regard to sentiment, and chews over her Argentine or Russian wheat quite untroubled by maternal instinct.

NOTE AND COMMENT

France has had seven premiers in 33 months. It used to be the U.S.A. where every boy grew up with the certainty that one day he would be President.

Some British charwomen are receiving instruction in how to deal with radioactive particles. And that does not mean sweeping them under the carpet.

The Calgary Herald says that some girls cry at weddings "because the bride got their boy friend." Ah well, let them look again after ten years and perhaps they will get a good laugh.

Dr. H. L. Keenleyside, Canada's deputy minister of Mines and Resources recently won a mince-pie baking contest in Ottawa. Just the fellow to be given a place in the Kitchen Cabinet.

A delegate to a chiropodists' convention in Chicago said that fortunes are to be made in that work. On this the Hamilton Spectator comments, "He knows his bunions". The Spectator probable thinks that remark is arch, but we think it is corny. Are we too callous?

From The Critic's Notebook

LEAD, KINDLY LIGHT by Vincent Sheean (Random House of Canada).

This is an embarrassing book and more remarkable for the insight it gives to the mind and character of Vincent Sheean the author than to the mind and personality of the subject, who is Gandhi. The New York Times Book Review's "best-seller" table steadily lists "Lead, Kindly Light" in sixth place. This does not surprise me, for the book is almost a confession of faith (in something or other which is not quite clear), and religious books by popular authors rate high in the United States.

After the atomic bomb era exploded, Vincent Sheean, world traveller, reporter-at-large, and political commentator of large North American renown, seems to have begun an intensive quest for the meaning of things. He turned to Gandhi. Even in so turning, his aptitude for being in the right spot at the most newsy time did not fail him. He was an attendant at the prayer meeting at Birla House, outside Delhi, at which an assassin's bullet killed Mahatma Gandhi. (Friday, January 30, 1948.) Sheean had had his first meeting (and interview) with Gandhi on the preceding Tuesday, at which they talked metaphysics and ontology.

On the spot he became the Indian's 'chela' —pupil and disciple. "Hardest of all for me to believe was that so great a saint could take so great a sinner for his 'chela' ".

His conversations with Gandhi were interrupted when he went with Prime Minister Nehru by plane on a Prime Ministerial ceremonious visit. (Mr. Sheean consorts with the great as easily as a less exalted person consorts with the men who run hamburger joints.) At the time of Gandhi's death the author was on the periphery of the prayer-meeting crowd. Immediately after the shots were fired, as Mr. Sheean writes: "I looked at my fingers. On the third and fourth fingers of my right hand blisters had appeared. They were facing each other, on the sides of those fingers which touch. The blister on the third finger was rather large and was already filled with water. The blister on the fourth or little finger was smaller. They had not been there before I heard the shots. The storm returned inside my head, but briefly, very briefly. I sat on the edge of the wall and looked at my fingers and then put them back into my mouth: they burned far worse than is usual with blisters. What was this?"

Had the travelled, literate and articulate Sheean received a revelation akin to St. Paul's on the road to Damascus? Sheean himself does not draw the parallel. However, after several days of almost complete seclusion in his hotel, days of "chaos and misery alternating, it is true, with hours of unprecedented clarity in which I understood more than I had ever understood in my life, I knew what I had to do: adopt some modified version of Gandhi's rules". He went to a millionaire Indian, an acquaintance and a disciple of Gandhi, and announced his conversion: "I have rejected historic materialism once and for all. I believe in God". As the book ends it is not clear to what he has been converted.

It is a most interesting personal account, and sincere—the sincerest thing Vincent Sheean has written. It is also embarrassing. Perhaps because of its frankness it seems maudlin. Faced by such personal professions the reader may wonder if all of Vincent Sheean that has gone before—his "Personal History", for instance—is merely toffy-pulling and ducking for apples.

As an exposition of Indian mysticism, the novelists Kipling and Maugham do an easier job. They are not philosophers, but neither is Sheean, despite the last hundred pages of this book, labelled modestly, "For those who wish to go a little farther".

"Lead, Kindly Light", the title of the book, is the beginning of Gandhi's favourite Christian hymn. T.J.A.

NO IDLE WORDS by Ivor Brown (Clarke, Irwin).

This small book, which must have been mislaid when it came to this reviewer's desk nearly a year ago, cannot be overlooked; it is much too good. The fifth of Ivor Brown's collections of uncommon, neglected or dialect words, it is as good as its forerunners—that is to say, very good indeed if you have a taste for words. And who is there who is utterly without some taste in words? Who is there who really cares nothing about the words he uses, so long as they convey some approximate notion of what he has in mind? Such lost souls exist, perhaps, but fortunately I do not meet them.

Here in this book you may discover that the correct name for the disease which overcame Nebuchadnezzar was "boanthropy"; that "comity" means courtesy; that the racket birds make in the morning is "fritinancy"; that a neighbour who permits his eaves to drip upon your land is guilty of 'stillicide"; that when you walk for recreation or amusement you are taking a "tamasha". This is a rare and rich little book, of which you will not quickly tire. R. D

FAITH OF A SCIENTIST by H. B. Speakman (Clarke, Irwin),

Dr. Speakman has been director of the Ontario Research Foundation since 1928, when the Foundation was established. He is a Briton who came to Canada in 1916 to serve under the Imperial Munitions Board as Chief of the Bacteriological Department of a British firm. He is a scientist, but also a humanist. He is also a Christian. His little illuminating book explains and expounds his position—his creed—in the three guises. Like Plato, he is concerned with the meaning of the word "good". In fact, he ends his monography with a reference to the Platonic trilogy of truth, beauty and goodness. He hopes that an amalgamation is achieved, and that "The unity becomes something apart from intellectual discussion; we 'know', and go forward with confidence and peace of mind". That requires faith. The cynic may say that Dr. Speakman is a scientist who happens to be a believer, or a believer who happens to be a scientist.

It is good that such books by Canadians are coming off Canadian presses. Canada has too long been inarticulate. T. J. A.

IT IS LATER THAN YOU THINK

A Genuine Pacific Pact

(CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR)

CANTON falls to the Communists. Nehru declares against a Pacific pact at this time. Washington turns major attention to the question of Far Eastern policy. All these items of news are closely interrelated.

The fall of Canton marks the failure of Chiang Kai-shek to support his own generals with the gold and arms he has hoarded on Taiwan (Formosa). It emphasizes also the futility of America's backing an inept leader, discredited among his own people, merely because he hates Communism.

Nehru's attitude likewise bespeaks the futility of appealing to dynamic Asian leadership merely on a basis of negative anticommunism. It is the task of American policy to convince Asia that the benefits of close co-operation with the West can far outweigh anything Russia has to offer.

For this reason there is more than passing significance in the announcement by the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization of an international meeting on rural co-operatives to be held next week in Lucknow, India. No one who has followed the co-operative movements in India, China, Japan and elsewhere in the East can fail to recognize in them one of the most potent weapons against the poverty and hunger which are Communism's greatest allies in Asia.

Lord Boyd Orr, who only last week received the Nobel Peace Prize, suggests that governments really begin to make such instruments of world co-operation as FAO do the job for which they were created. He declares:

If the great majority decide to co-operate in a world plan of development beginning with food, and to contribute each in proportion to its wealth and resources, it would be difficult for Russia to keep any of its allied nations out of the world food and prosperity pact.

Here is a Pacific—and pacific—pact which might well be considered. Mr. Nehru would not be likely to dismiss this as "premature." It would serve the United States — and humanity—far better than the atom bomb on a continent of dispersed peasant millions.

Tom Wintringham

(EDMONTON JOURNAL)

TOM WINTRINGHAM'S death in England the other day will recall to many people the anxious times of the Battle of Britain, and the activities of the British Home Guard, of which he was perhaps the most famous member.

Wintringham was an extraordinary figure, one of the last of the great British soldiers of fortune. At one time a Communist sympathizer, he commanded a British volunteer battalion in the Spanish Civil War. Later he broke with the Reds, but his experiences in Spain made him an expert on guerrilla warfare. In the dark days after Dunkirk, when a German invasion seemed imminent, and civilians were being hastily organized into Home Guard units, his knowledge proved invaluable to the new force. His book New Ways of War was the bible of the Home Guard, and in addition he ran a sort of staff college where thousands of unit commanders were given short training courses in methods of irregular warfare. It was his theory that while half-armed civilians could not hope to stand up to a powerful mechanized army like Hitler's in the open field, they could harass and delay it effectively by ambushes and hit-and-run tactics, not unlike those of the Indians.

He worked out a number of special techniques for this purpose. Two of the most publicized were the throwing of bottles of gasoline into tanks when they were "unbuttoned", and the use of a "sticky bomb" which would adhere to the treads of a tank and shatter it when it exploded.

The invasion never came, of course, and Wintringham's instructions were never put to the acid test. But there can be no doubt that they helped immensely in building up the morale not only of the Home Guard but of the British people as a whole. They checked that feeling of helplessness which always develops in a threatened civilian population in time of war, and which had already led to panic in France and the Low Countries; the British people were steadier because they had been given a plan to follow if the enemy came. And later on in the war, some of these unconventional methods of fighting, though scorned at first by the regular army found application on battlefields.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Woe unto them that seek deep to hide their counsel from the Lord, and their works are in the dark, and they say, Who seeth us? and who knoweth us? (Isa. 29: 15.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Now go, write it before them in a table, and note it in a book, that it may be for the time to come for ever and ever: that this is a rebellious people, lying children, children that will not hear the law of the Lord: which say to the seers, See not; and to the prophets, Prophesy not unto us right things, speak unto us smooth things, prophesy deceits. . . .

Wherefore thus saith the Holy One of Israel, Because ye despise this word, and trust in oppression and perverseness, and stay thereon: therefore this iniquity shall be to you as a breach ready to fall, swelling out in a high wall, whose breaking cometh suddenly at an instant. And he shall break it as the breaking of a potters' vessel that is broken in pieces; he shall not spare: so that there shall not be found in the bursting of it a sherd to take fire from the hearth, or to take water withal out of the pit.

For thus saith the Lord God, the Holy One of Israel; In returning and rest shall ye be saved; in quietness and in confidence shall be your strength: and ye would not. (Isa. 30: 8-10, 12-15.)

✧ ✧ ✧

He that covereth his sins shall not prosper: but whoso confesseth and forsaketh them shall have mercy. (Prov. 28: 13.)

Not Doing Our Share

It cannot be said that the people of the United States—much less the people of Canada—yet realize the burdens they must assume if defence planning is to keep abreast of these latest events. They must be ready now to pay out much larger sums for defence and to continue paying them for an indefinite period. That is the stern necessity forced on us by the first atomic explosion in Russia but in North America we have hardly begun to face it.

Certainly we have not begun to face it in Canada. Our expenditures on defence in relation to our resources are far below those of the United States or even of Britain and Western Europe. We are not by any means pulling our weight in the operations of the North Atlantic Treaty, as Mr. Truman noted politely not long ago.—Winnipeg Free Press.

The Bicycle Era

Our contemporary (The Ottawa Journal) makes one omission in referring to the earlier days. That about the bicycle. Looking back, that was an era entirely its own. It sort of bridged the gap between the horse and buggy days and the motor car of today. The bicycle remains, a great invention for young and old. At one time it led fashion.

NEHRU ARRIVES—Ottawa officialdom turned out en masse to give elaborate, formal welcome to India's Prime Minister Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru. The welcome, including a 19-gun salute, was the most glittering accorded a visitor to Canada since President Truman visited the Dominion two years ago. Premier Nehru addressed a joint session of the Commons and the Senate during his three-day visit to the capital. Shown at Ottawa's Rockcliffe airport as the distinguished visitor arrived, left to right, are: Pandit Nehru, Prime Minister St. Laurent and former Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Poultry Breeders Concentrating On Best Grades For Royal Winter Fair On Nov. 15

TORONTO, (CP)—Light-grade birds are tops in the poultry world today. This is the conclusion drawn by officials of the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair and Federal Department of Agriculture, who are working jointly in an effort to improve Canada's already high poultry standard.

When the Royal opens Nov. 15 poultry raisers and consumers are expected to flock to the dressed poultry exhibits and the subsequent public auction where prize birds are sold. Classes which will face the judges are young turkeys, geese, ducks, chickens and capons.

Aristocrat of poultrydom is the lightest grade, special milk-fed chicken, officials agree. Next is the A milk fed. If Canadian raisers "went in"-for more A's, there would be a corresponding increase in "specials" wh'ch command high prices but are in limited supply. The Royal's prize list this year is aimed at the top grades and breeders from coast to coast are reported concentrating on them.

Everyone Wants Them

"Thirty years ago broilers were found only in hotels and on dining cars," federal experts say. "Today everybody wants them. In those days they were turned loose to fend for themselves until killed. Today, they are given perhaps one foot of floor space, with f[illegible] at every turn, and hence are[illegible] hardened by exercise. It used to take an hour or an hour and a half to cook one. Now they may be cooked in 20 to 30 minutes or even less in a pressure cooker."

Housewives can buy half a chicken or parts of a chicken now but in almost every case it has to be a small quantity. They are not interested, in these days of small families, in the very large birds. Broilers today runu around 2½ to three pounds as a maximum and it seems are in constant short supply yet they command the highest prices.

Market Developing

So far as turkeys are concerned a market is developing for the oversize birds even though they won't fit in the average oven. The 32-pound Tom which doesn't end up in a big hotel buffet luncheon is liable to wind up as a turkey-burger, with the development of machines to grind up the flesh for frying. At the Royal there will be exhibits showing just how it is done and also demonstrating the process of cleaning and preparing poultry for oven, frying pan or outdoor grill.

Freak birds aren't interesting Royal or federal folks at all They just grin when questioned as to possible classes or exhibits of (a) neckless chickens for boarder' plates; (b) four-drumstick chickens; and (c) wingless chickens.

A buyer for one of Canada's leading packing plants also snorted when asked regarding such possible developments. "Our aim is to raise the poultry standards and interest the consumer, and we're not offering any premium prices for sideshow exhibits. I never saw a four-legged chicken. If such a thing did exist, we'd class it as an animal and the Royal has lots of classes for animals."

No Signs Of Depression In Canada

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor.

Canadians may be thankful that they are so busy among themselves.

That they are building houses, chasing that stove, refrigerator, bathtub; that by and large the productive forces of their country have hardly yet caught up with the things they can afford to buy.

They might even be glad over the cause, if not the fact, that they have to wait six months or more before that new apartment or house, which was promised them last June, is ready.

When you have to wait like that, you don't need to worry yet about another depression '30s.

And, oh yes, Canadians might say thanks that an oil well was found at Deluc, Alta., 2½ years ago, and that ever since oil companies have been shooting some $100,000,000 a year into their spending money.

All Connected

Neither the $100 or so for a stove, nor the $100,000,000 for oil development, is the whole story. Each is but a stone thrown which sends a continuing ripple; and what a ripple $100,000,000 sends.

This, what we call high domestic activity, is the reason that so far we have been able to roll with whatever blows the international trade situation may bring.

Not that the blows so far have been so hard; because our international trade still is running around record highs.

If you want to think of them, there are scores of reasons why many things that are keeping us going, should run down.

But if you ask anyone when they are going to run down, they are as cautious in answering, as they would have been confident in 1947 in saying that they must run down 1½ years before now.

So you are riding on velvet and there is a fair chance that you will keep on riding that way. But if you relax you will find there are a lot of pins in it.

Two New Members For St. Thomas' WA

MILLBROOK, Oct. 25 (ENS)—Two new members, Mrs. Marston and Miss Dogue joined St. Thomas Anglican W.A. Monday evening. The meeting was at the home of Mrs. Westmacott and Mrs. Reginald Fallis, the president, led devotions.

It was decided to hold a special offering at the church service on St. Andrew's Day, Nov. 30.

Mrs. Fallis, the president thanked the members for thir wedding gift of a blanket.

The secretary Miss McNamara, was asked to write a note of thanks to St. Andrew's Church for the use of its schoolroom for serving lunch on the day of the Deanery meeting held the last Thursday of September. It was felt this contributed to the success of the day.

Mrs. Fallis gave a review of the introductory chapter of the new Study Book. Mrs. C. M. MacLean agreed to take the next chapter at the November meeting before her departure for Niagara Falls, N.Y., in which city her husband has accepted a call to preach.

Refreshments were served by the supper hostesses, Mrs. Elsie Brooks and Mrs. Theobald.

Canada Health Week Opens January 29

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP)—Canada's sixth annual National Health Week will be observed Jan. 29 to Feb. 4, it was announced today by Dr. J. Z. Gillies, chairman of the Health Week Committee of the Health League of Canada.

"Canada's health record is improving year by year," he said in a statement, "but there is still much room for improvement.

"National Health Week is designed to make Canadians aware of the facts surrounding health and disease—to make Canadians aware of what is being done by medical science in the attempt to conquer such feared killers as cancer and heart disease, and what has been done to provide means for the control of such once-feared killers as diphtheria, smallpox and typhoid.

"However, medical science cannot do everything alone — everyone must help. In many diseases the best prevention is early diagnosis. Canadians must cooperate by consulting their medical advisers regularly even if they consider themselves in good health and by making use of the many proven disease preventives.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Just as the Saskatchewan Roughrider team is closing in on the league leading Calgary Stampeders in the Western Interprovincial Football Union standings, Rider players are converging on Stamps' Vern Graham leader in the individual scoring race.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press at Winnipeg show Graham has totalled 54 points, but Riders' Sammy Pierce and Del Wardien each picked up seven points in the last week on the Calgary flying wing. They now are only nine points off his pace. Two other Riders—Ken Charlton and Pat Santucci—follow.

Pierce and Wardien each garnered 10 points during the Saturday-Monday games while Graham was collecting only three.

Two Toronto Negroes scored decisive victories in heavyweight bouts at Earl's Court Stadium in London Tuesday night. Earl Walls flattened Austria's Kurt Schiegl in 2:07 of the first round and Vern Escoe scored a one-sided points victory over George Rogiers of Belgium in a 10-round affair.

Immediately following the contest, manager Harry Levine, on behalf of Walls, offered a challenge at £1,000 ($3,100) a side to Bruce Woodcock, British Empire heavyweight champion.

Walls scored a clean victory over the giant Austrian Tuesday night. In the first 30 seconds he had Schiegl bleeding heavily from a cut over the left eye.

Schiegl then scored one good left to the head but Walls stalked his man measured with his left and landed a whiplash right that sent Schiegl to the floor with a crash that shook the 4,000 fans.

Walls, at 188¼, had given 16¼ pounds to Schiegl.

Escoe scored points almost at will against his inexperienced opponent, but never could muster enough power to flatten the pudgy, blonde Belgian, who outweighed him by 12 pounds. Escoe scaled 181½.

Jack Kramer defeated Richard (Pancho) Gonzales 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2 at New York's Madison Square Garden Tuesday night in a tennis match that launched the professional career of the Californian-born Mexican who succeeded Kramer as national amateur champ.

Gonzales was clearly the favorite with the crowd of 13,357 but the 21-year-old husky from the public courts of Los Angeles lacked the all-around game to cope with the court-wise Kramer — at least in their initial meeting.

In the preliminary two out of three match, Francisco (Pancho) Segura, the transplanted Ecuadorian, spoiled the professional debut of Frankie Parker of Los Angeles 6-3, 6-4.

Neither Al Lenard nor Ross McKelvey will see action when Queen's University meets McGill here next Saturday in an intercollegiate senior grid battle, it was announced at Kingston on Tuesday.

Lenard, nursing a back injury, was missed in last Saturday's game when the Redmen trampled Queen's 17-1. McKelvey suffered a cracked arm bone during the game.

In his first move since getting a vote of confidence for 1950, manager Jack Onslow of Chicago White Sox Tuesday released coach Edmund (Bing) Miller, 55, who was with the club since 1942.

Miller, former star outfielder with Philadelphia Athletics, joined the Sox as a coach under Jimmy Dykes, who preceded Ted Lyons and Onslow at the pale house helm.

Trenton Humbles Albert College

TRENTON, Oct. 26—Trenton High School seniors gained revenge for a previous setback suffered in Belleville last week when they handed Albert College an 11-2 setback in a Bay of Quinte District COSSA football game here.

Albert College took a 2-0 lead in the first quarter on two kicks to the deadline by Don Slater.

Trenton went into the lead in the second quarter after Jim Lonergan blocked an Albert College field goal attempt. Bob Campney picked up the loose ball and evaded Albert tacklers on a brilliant 80-yard touchdown run. Pete Brown converted from placement to make it 6-2.

Trenton moved further ahead in the third quarter when Paul Mueller plunged over from seven yards out after two passes had moved deep play into Albert territory. The convert failed.

There was no further scoring, although Albert threatened late in the final quarter when a poor Trenton kick gave them the ball on the Trenton 15. However, the Trenton front wall stiffened and held. Albert short of the necessary yards.

Hundreds Line Up For Football Tickets

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 26 —(CP) — Western students burned the midnight oil Monday night, but it wasn't a quest for knowledge. It was a vigil for football tickets.

Hundreds of students lined the long path in front of the arts building at the University of Western Ontario, in the chill grey light of dawn. Some of them waited there for upwards of four hours to get their pasteboard ducats for Varsity-Western game at Toronto on Saturday.

Two enterprising young males hid overnight in the halls of the arts building and were not discovered until 7 a.m. Janitors who turned them out said "they left good-naturedly, but without any tickets."

Doors of Convocation Hall opened at 7:50 a.m. and 642 tickets were dispersed in less than half an hour.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press

There was no change in the top National Hockey League scoring positions as a result of Tuesday night's New York-Chicago clash, the only scheduled game. But Metro Prystai, of Chicago Black Hawks, stepped up a notch from a seven-way tie for third place to a three-way split for the runner-up honors. His first-period goal gave him five points, along with Toronto's Sid Smith and Boston's John Peirson. Ted Lindsay, Detroit, and Paul Ronty, Boston, continue to lead the scoring parade, each with three goals and three assists for a six-point total.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC PERDUE, Sports Editor.

Deer hunting season is rapidly approaching as the last month of autumn knocks with frosty knuckles. Doc White and his party will be in the bush around Paudash again, but the Rev. James Merton won't make the trip this time. We might explain that the reverend gent is from Flint, Mich., and he came over a few falls ago as Doc's hunting guest. Only American in the party and a right fine fellow. Not an expert hunter of deer, perhaps, and not up too much on Canuck customs, but good company. A resolute type who fitted in well. For instance, 'twas found porcupines had pretty well ripped apart the cottage out-house, so the preacher promptly went to work with saw and hammer and built an out-house it was a pleasure to visit.

* * * * * *

Now, sad to relate, some hunting parties feel the provisions are incomplete without a supply of grog, snake-bite medicine, or what do you call it? Something to sip ere retiring after a hard day on a wind-swept runway. The Rev. Merton was not a little perturbed on arrival at the camp to learn that Doc's party believed in medicine for snake-bite. And feared the reptiles a full case worth. A total abstainer, he was not too happy—though, of course, he did not wish to be a spoil sport as a guest. His unhappiness increased in large measure when Doc (a practical joker of a man) said: 'Reverend, I hope the law doesn't learn of this cache, or we'll all go to jail!"

* * * * * *

And Doc Strung A Line

Rev. Merton said: "Come, come, you surely jest. Do you mean to say it is illegal for us to have such stuff here—and that we're all equally guilty?" Doc replied: "That I do, and even a game warden has authority to arrest hunters having the stuff in cottages. But fear not, we will keep it out of sight." The rest enjoyed the little joke that first evening, and they even helped get rid of some of the stuff after getting everything set up for the next day. It had been agreed that the preacher might stick close to camp the first day, gather wood, prepare supper and finish the unpacking — he would go out next day.

* * * * * *

The November sun slumbered on beneath a heavy hazy blanket when the hunters splashed icy water onto bewhiskered faces at an unearthly hour next a.m. and prepared for the day's outing. Rifles were checked again, mackinaw pockets sagged with ammunition and sandwiches, bright caps with badges were donned, the dogs let out, and soon the gray bush swallowed up dim figures. The Rev. Merton threw on another chunk of hardwood and returned to sleep. For quite some time. Later he arose leisurely and breakfasted. After straightening the place, he went out to greet a cold sunny day. There was wood to be gathered, a bit of target shooting with the .22 and all day to loiter and enjoy the zestful air. A grand feeling. And maybe venison come evening.

* * * * * *

Cold, Tired And Hungry

Meantime, the party delpoyed according to plan. They hunted all day, taking time out only for a cold bite—and even heavy clothes failed to keep the afternoon chill out. The dogs ran a few and twice someone got a shot. But they hit nothing. They were tired and cold and rather discouraged when the shadows lengthened and it came time to hike back, empty-handed. But, as Doc pointed out, there were other days, and deer tracks were fairly plentiful. "A couple of good smashes all around will warm us up before supper around a blazing fire," he said, "and we'll get our count before the week is up. Hope the reverend has plenty of grub ready."

* * * * * *

They were met a short piece from camp by a distressed preacher. He said: "Just about noon, a game warden called in on me. I saw him coming quite a piece away and I was nearly frantic. I knew you had that case of illegal stuff and I was sure we'd all be disgraced." Doc started to laugh, and he said: "Ah, now, reverend, you shouldn't have worried. He couldn't do anything about ", but Rev. Merton interrupted: "Don't worry, Doc, maybe I shouldn't have done it—and my conscience isn't quite clear on that score—but for all our sakes I had to do something." Well, as mentioned before, he was a resolute man, and (to get to the point) he hurried into the cottage, toted the case out behind and smashed every bottle of evidence against a rock before the warden arrived! Better we should draw a veil over the ensuing scene. Suffice to say, the Rev. Merton will not be going back to Paudash this fall not with Doc's party.

Teepees Down Barrie 5-2; Oshawa Clipped

By The Canadian Press

Barrie Flyers, last year's Ontario Hockey Association Junior A champions, lost a chance to get out in front of the rest of the OHA pack when they were defeated last night by St. Catharines Teepees. Flyers still share the top slot with Toronto Marlboros, idle last night.

Teepees meanwhile, used Tuesday night's game to climb into third place in the loop. They have eight points, one point behind the Barrie and Toronto clubs.

In other OHA games Galt Black Hawks, in a home game, defeated Oshawa Generals 5-3; Toronto Senior Marlboros, at Hamilton, defeated the Tigers 6-3 and in the second senior tilt Owen Sound Mercurys pleased home fans by winning over the Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen 3-1.

Close and even-checking in the St. Catharines game forced a scoreless first period and Teepees went ahead on two fast second-period goals. Barrie cut the lead with a late-period goal, but Teepees sailed in from the opening of the third frame to outscore the flyers 3-1.

Scores Twice

Obie O'Brien scored twice for Teepees with Norm Corcoran. Red Sullivan and Jack McIntyre each adding a goal. Red McCarthy scored both Barrie goals.

In the other junior A tilt, Galt Black Hawks defeated Oshawa Generals to gain their third successive win after dropping their first four starts. The Generals opened the scoring, but lost out 2-1 by the end of the first frame, the Motor City squad split a pair of goals in the second period but were outscored again 2-1 in the final session.

Jack Green scored twice for the Hawks while Kenny Green, George Ford and Jack Lumley each scored once. For the Generals, Ted OConnor, Don Hal and Doug Chapman chalked up one goal apiece.

Lengthen Lead

Toronto Senior Marlboros, on their trip to Hamilton, lengthened their lead in the circuit.

Art Childs, in the Bengal nets, lacked defensive support and was nicked for three goals in the first frame while his team-mates sank two. Dukes controlled second-period play to bang home two unanswered goals and split a pair of tallies in the third frame.

Scotty Mair was the Duke's strong man with two goals and Bob Hassard, Chuck Blair, Al Buchanan and Bill Johnson each scored once. Clare Shillington, Murray Comfort and Paul Micinovich were the Hamilton marksmen.

Owen Sounders saw the Mercs clinch second place in the senior loop at the expense of the Kitchener-Waterloo squad.

Bev. Bentley, in the Dutchmen nets was a strong factor to keep the Mercs scoreless in the first frame, but the Owen Sounders broke down his barricade early in the second frame and pressed their attack to sink another two tallies before the end of the period. The third period featured close-checking hockey and the only goal of the session, by Mickey Roth, robbed Bobby Gillson, Merc goalie, of a shutout.

Pat McCreavy, Bill Allum and Doug Gillespie scored for Owen Sound.

Remember When—

By the Canadian Press

A case of stomach ulcers, self-appraised at a market value of $500, put Frank McCool of Toronto Maple Leafs out of professional hockey four years ago today when he refused to accept less than $5,000 for the 1945-46 season. McCool was ousted by Conn Smythe who stated that the young goalkeeper had already agreed to accept $4,500 for the year. McCool is now a sports writer for the Calgary Albertan.

Taylor Gets Real Test With Aussie Champ

Frank Taylor, the handsome Hollywood athlete, who impressed local mat fans last week by his effective ring work, will be the main bout opponent of Fred Atkins, the surly, burly Australian powerhouse, at the Brock Arena on Thursday night. Be-Pat Flanagan sides the terrific interest attracted by the feature event, considerable appeal is connected with the semi-final, in which the mystery grappler, the Red Devil, will clash with Seelie Samara, the topnotch colored grappler.

Guesses as to the identity of the Red Devil are plentiful, with the name of John Katan recurring most frequently.

Rousing action is expected of the opener, in which Pat Flanagan will test blustering Angelo Cistoldi.

Rangers Edge Chicago 2-1 Vacate Cellar Position

By VIC MORRIS, Jr.
Canadian Press Staff Writer

New York Rangers came up off the floor to nudge themselves out of the National Hockey League cellar for the first time this season on the strength of a one-goal victory over their former last-place partners, Chicago Black Hawks.

The fiery blue shirts were forced to come from behind a first period one-goal deficit to eke out a 2-1 triumph over Black Hawks in the only scheduled league fixture Tuesday night. The New Yorkers with four points made up of one victory and two stalemates in five starts are now in a fourth-place tie with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Montreal Canadiens continue to hold a slim one-point lead atop the six-rung ladder, but the race is tightening for the first four positions which are separated only by one point each.

Boston Bruins, in the runner-up spot, get a chance to overtake the Montrealers tonight when they clash with Rangers at New York in the only scheduled league game.

Dull Game

Tuesday night's Ranger-Black Hawk game was a dull affair before 15,618 fans who turned out to see the 1949-50 edition of the Hawks make their local debut.

Edgar Laprade settled the outcome of the contest at 10:39 of the third period.

Hawks had taken the lead at 7:19 of the opening session when Metro Prystai sank a goal on a pass from Bep Guidolin while New York was short handed due to a high-sticking penalty on Dunc Fisher. They never again were in real contention as Alex Kaleta tied it up for New York at 6:56 of the second period. He carried the puck into Chicago ice and Gus Kyle set him up on a brilliant passing play seconds later.

Toronto Maple Leafs will be strengthened for their Thursday night game against Montreal with the return of Harry Watson and Gus Mortson. Their only player shelved is Bob Dawes, who will be sidelined possibly for another week with a knee injury.

Montreal Canadiens received the good news Tuesday night that rugged Kenny Reardon "will likely be back in harness" in time for Thursday night. The star defenceman suffered a severe Charley horse at Boston last Sunday night and, at first, was reported to be out for 10 days.

Offered Lift To Man Held In Slaying

TORONTO, Oct. 26 — On the the night he was slain, Leslie Hern offered a lift to a man now accused of his murder, a friend of the victim testified Monday at the trial of Harvey Southerby, 20-year-old Windsor man.

Joseph John Osborne, 47, related before a Supreme Court jury and Mr. Justice Schroeder that on the night of July 26 he was sitting with Hern in a Bay St. hotel tavern when Hern made the offer to Southerby, seated at a nearby table.

Southerby accepted, the witness said. He told the court Hern and Southerby left the hotel shortly after and drove off in Hern's car.

Early next morning Hern's body was found stuffed beneath the boardwalk at Kew Beach. Two days later the dark-haired, boyish-looking Southerby, known as Louis Martinello, was picked up in another Bay St. tavern.

Sitting In Tavern

At the time of his arrest, Southerby was sitting in the tavern with Osborne, Det. Sgt. Edmund Tong later testified. After Mr. Justice Schroeder ruled on the question, Defense Counsel C. L. Dubin was permitted to ask Osborne: "Did Hern have a reputation for picking up young men and taking them home?"

Answered the witness: "I had heard that he had that reputation."

Osborne said he had refused a ride with Hern. "I'm getting old —I don't stay out so late any more," he explained.

Five police witnesses told of finding the body, of picking up Southerby and placing him in a police lineup for possible identification by the three persons who were believed to have seen the slayer shortly after Hern was killed.

Det. Bernard Simmonds, who was present when Marion and Herbert Nelson and Ralph Cragg were brought before the lineup, said he did not think Miss Nelson had identified the accused.

Earlier Det. Sgt. Tong had testified she did.

The jurors were excluded during most of the day as Mr. Dubin and Crown Counsel W. O. Gibson argued the admissibility of certain evidence. Late in the afternoon they were recalled, but no further evidence was heard.

Inspector's Testimony Contradicts 5 Cops

TIMMINS, Oct. 26—(CP)—An odd situation developed in magistrate's court Tuesday when a police inspector testified at variance with five members of his department.

Inspector George Archambault told Magistrate S. Atkinson that insurance agent Lucien Leroux was "certainly not drunk" 30 minutes before he was arrested Oct. 17 for drunk driving.

Four constables and a sergeant testified Leroux was drunk when arrested.

Magistrate Atkinson found Leroux guilty and sentenced him to 10 days in jail.

The magistrate decided that Inspector Archambault and former Mayor Emile Brunette, who also testified on Leroux's behalf, had not seen him soon enough before his arrest. Both said they saw him sober at 1.10 a.m. He was arrested at 1.40.

Operations Televised

TORONTO, Oct. 26 — (CP) — Nearly 400 doctors and members of the Ambulatory Fracture Association Inc. watched by televisions as surgeons Tuesday performed two operations in Sunnybrook Hospital here. Six television screens were used.

COZY KITTENS—Snug as can be in their home in a hollow tree are these three little kittens at Effingham, Ill. The kittens have another home in a boiler room at the county jail, and their Mom makes regular trips carrying them back and forth. They spend the night in the jail, then Mom carries them out, climbs the tree with a kitten in her mouth and one by one deposits them in their tree "sun room".

Prohibited Goods Find Way Into Canada Report Reveals

By HAROLD MORRISON.

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 (CP)—Canada, despite rigid import controls, can't seem to prohibit all the goods she would like to.

The doors were opened last year to permit entry of $82,000,000 worth of prohibited U. S. goods to quell complaints of Canadian manufacturers, consumers and exporters that they couldn't get along without the commodities.

The amounut was disclosed in an emergency-exchange conservation report tabled in the Commons.

Most of the goods were allowed in to help Canada's import and export trade. Some were to help the housing program others to meet housewife demands for fresh fruits and vegetables.

Lacquers were prohibited under the dollar-saving program announced in November, 1947, but the paint industry said it couldn't produce paints without lacquers.

The fish industry, said a government spokesman, complained that the government was banning specially prepared waxed papers, needed in the shipment of fish, The paper was let in.

Import controls hit the lumber industry, too. With the door shut on American veneers, they found themselves using good birch for table tops that could have been made cheaper with the American product. The door was reopened.

The government banned the import of raw furs before it realized that would include seal skins which it caught as partners of the U. S. in the Alaska area. The skins were taken to St. Louis, Mo., for treatment, and thus became an American import. But the product belonged to Canada and the government just couldn't keep it out.

It let in $300,000 worth of bath tubs to meet a demand by Canadians building homes.

But in the main the prohibition program did what the spokesman considered a good job. It kept out a little more than half of the total $200,000,000 worth of goods imported in 1947.

Goods under quota were reduced from $220,000,000 to $93,000,000 and goods under permit from $570,000,000 to $515,000,000.

It also gave Canadian manufacturers a helping hand to produce more goods to fill the import gap and offered sterling area countries a chance to increase imports to Canada and thus earn more dollars.

Canada cut imports of American truck parts in 1948 by 16 per cent—but production of completed trucks in Canada increased 6 per cent. In other words, Canadans produced a greater proportion of truck parts.

To a lessed extent the same held true for passenger cars Normally, the U.S. produces many of the items that go into production of the car. Without those items, production would be held up.

Yet, although Canada reduced imports of American automotive parts by 6 per cent the net reduction in Canadian car production fell by only 1 per cent.

The change in textile imports provided an example of how the sterling countries benefited by the controls.

In 1947 Canada imported $138,000,000 worth of cottons, woollens, silks and other textiles from the dollar countries. Last year this was reduced to $55,000,000.

At the same time, where imports from the sterling countries had amounted to $66,000,000 in 1947, they jumped to $105,000,000 in 1948.

25,000 Jews Left

PARIS, Oct. 26 (AP) — Only about 25,000 Jews will be left in Germany by the end of next year, Harry Greenstein, United States adviser on Jewish affairs in Germany, predicted Tuesday. He said the problem of Jewish displaced persons in Germany is "practically concluded." Most have made arrangements to emigrate to Israel or the United States.

Sort Of Coney Island Culture Developing McNeill Tells Queen's University Students

KINGSTON, Oct. 26.—(CP).—Dr. W. E. McNeill, vice-principal emeritus of Queen's University, said Tuesday night "a sort of Coney Island culture" is developing these days.

It "not only cares nothing for artistic standards but defiantly flouts them," he said at the 57th annual conference of the Queen's Theological Association. His was the second of four lectures on "The King's English."

Dr. McNeill blamed the sensationalism of some newspapers, the "levelling-down of taste" in radio programs and the "mentally tarnishing effect" of poor motion pictures.

These were "new voices whose power to destroy great speech is greater than their power to preserve."

Dr. McNeill also criticized modern poetry. Its tendency toward vagueness and "dehumanizing" is "repelling," he said.

Recover Man's Body From Midland Dock

MIDLAND, Oct. 26.—The body of Campbell Jordan, 36, of Midland, was recovered from Midland elevator dock last night, three hours after he slipped from the dock edge and plunged into 24 feet of water. He was a non-swimmer.

With him at the time was his brother-in-law, Patrick Sibbald, Midland, also a non-swimmer. Badly unnerved and suffering from shock, Sibbald told police that Jordan's metal-shod shoes had slipped on steel edge of the pier as they were taking a short cut home from across the bay.

Addresses Scots In Gaelic Tongue

INVERNESS, Scotland—(CP)—Two thousand Scots from most parts of the world assembled here to sing and talk in Gaelic at the Mod—an annual festival held to keep alive the Gaelic tongue.

One of the delegates was 58-year-old Mackenzie Macaulay, of the Gaelic College, Cape Breton, N.S., wearing a Canadain-made kilt, jacket and glengarry.

Macaulay addressed the gathering in Gaelic and presented gold and silver medals to be competed for annually.

This is the first time that the 10-year-old Cape Breton body has been represented at the Mod, and Macaulay said he hoped it would "forge a closer link between Scotland and people of Scots descent in Canada."

Although he was born in Nova Scotia, Macaulay speaks Gaelic as flunently as a Highlander. He had never been to Scotland before.

He was accompanied by his wife, a descendant of the Macleods of Swye. Because her kilt from Canada had not arrived, a Macaulay of Stornoway came to the rescue and lent her a completee outfit.

Donald MacDonald, Eriksay schoolmaster, was selected as bard of the Mod for his folklore poem, adjudged the best of 21 entered.

Reported Accident To Wrong Constable

Charged with failing to report an accident, Levi Laton, Havelock, was found not guilty and the case was dismissed by Magistrate W. R. Philp KC in police court Tuesday.

The charge was laid by provincial police after Laton had run his car into a ditch and hit a bridge on Highway 7 about two miles west of Havelock about 11 p.m. Oct. 5.

Provincial Constable A. A. Kellogg, testified the car had driven 250 yards along the shoulder of the highway before it went into the ditch and struck the bridge. The body of the 22-year-old car was torn loose from the chassis.

Constable Kellogg said the first he heard about the accident was the following morning about 10 a.m. He sought out Laton and questioned him about the accident and why he had not reported it the night before.

Laton told the court he had had to walk into Havelock with a friend who had been a passenger in the car. They did not arrive in Havelock before midnight. He had gone to Constable Bell's office, but it was deserted. He went home and reported it to the Havelock constable about nine o'clock the next morning.

Laton said he could buy a 1930 sedan body to replace the damaged one for $5 and have it installed for $12.

Crown Attorney John A Bradshaw said it was becoming a habit for people to run into a ditch. Stagger home drunk and report the accident the next morning. Defence counsel J. C. N. Currelly said there was also "the possibility a man can stagger home sober."

Magistrate Philp said although the accident happened outside the village, it could be understood why Laton, and other village people, would report it to local constable instead of to the provincial police as they should.

Canada Seeking To Introduce Own Trade Mark

By HAROLD MORRISON:

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 — (CP). — Future buyers around the world may spell out "Canada Standard" in a variety of tongues to signify top-flight quality in Canadian goods.

The two words from the heart and body of government legislation introduced in the Senate this week in a move to swing Canadian production to new quality heights.

The legislation is known as the National Trade Mark and True Labelling Act. It was introduced in the Upper Chamber during the last session but was not approved before Parliament dissolved for a general election.

If Parliament adopts the Bill this session, it may spark changes in the shopping habits of Canadians.

Changes Gradual

The changes, of course, may be gradual, for not all business firms are expected to use the mark at once, nor reach the quality standards the mark implies.

Those businesses and industries which feel the mark will be valuable in their domestic and foreign trade will get together with the government and work out the quality standards. Once those standards are worked out, the manufacturers will have to stick to them as long as they use "Canada Standard" on their labels.

Sharp penalties are involved if manufacturers decide to use the mark and don't conform with quality and size standards. Corporations can be fined as much as $5,000; individuals $1,000. In addition, a six-months jail term is provided in the Act.

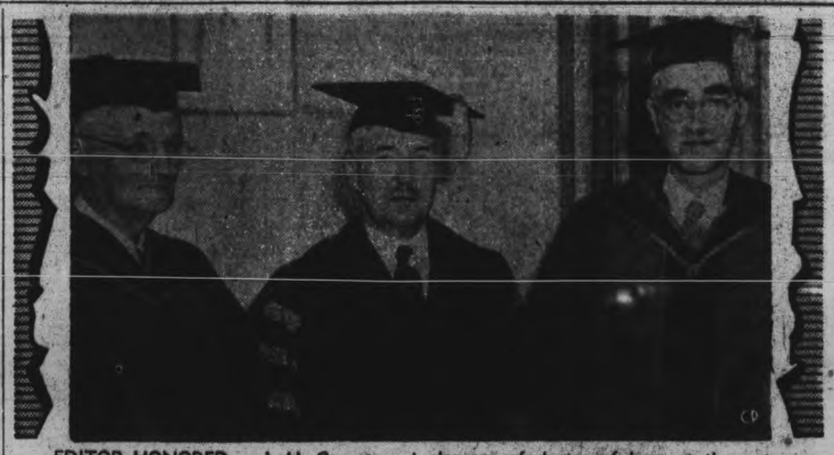
The idea behind the mark is to set useful commodity standards for the consumer in domestic and foreign markets. For example, a mother, troubled by the lack of uniform sizes when buying children's clothes, may have her future shopping days made easier—all children's clothes labelled "Canada Standard" will be patterned along uniform-size regulations.

Delay Strike Threat

DETROIT, Oct. 26 — (AP). — The United Auto Workers (CIO) and Chrysler Corporation agreed Tuesday to put aside the threat of strike action while they negotiate on pensions the union has demanded. A 30-day strike vote certification made by the State Labor Mediation Board would expire at midnight tonight. But the two sides agreed to extend it, giving the union the right to terminate the extension upon seven days' written notice to Chrysler.

U.S. Company Raises Price Of Tires, Tubes

BOSTON, Oct. 26 (AP)—A 3½ per cent increase in the price of tires and tubes was announced Tuesday by E. J. Thomas, president of the Goodyear Rubber Company.



Thomas made the announcement while speaking to the American Trucking Association. He said there had been a five per cent decrease in the price of tires and tubes last summer.

Thomas said he was optimistic about the future of the rubber industry, adding new fields were opening up in use of rubber for flooring, walls, wrapping material for foods and in the elimination of vibration in automobiles.

Raymond C. Firestone, a director of the Firestone Rubber Company, predicted a five per cent increase in the price of tires and tubes by the first of the year when he addressed the convention Monday night. He said mounting cost of production would be responsible.

NAMED CHAIRMAN — Mrs. Isabel Dingman, former western Canada and Windsor newspaper woman, has been named chairman of the Memorial Award Committee of the Canadian Women's Press Club. Mrs. Dingman, a lecturer in journalism at the University of Western Ontario, heads the committee which selects the outstanding work each year by a Canadian newspaper woman.

EDITOR HONORED — J. H. Cranston, left, veteran Canadian newspaper writer and editor of Midland, and Dr. John Walton, right, of the department of botany at Glasgow University were given honorary degrees of doctor of laws at the autumn convocation of McMaster University at Hamilton. Dr. G. P. Gilmour, chancellor and president of McMaster, centre, conferred the degrees.

Suggest Exodus Of 15,000,000 To Aid Britain

WASHINGTON, Oct. 00 (CP) —Migration of 15,000,000 Britons to Canada, Australia, Africa and other parts of the Commonwealth is suggested by the Population Reference Bureau here to improve living standards in the United Kingdom and strengthen the Commonwealth.

The bureau, a non-profit organization formed by a group of scientists to maintain a continuing study of population problems, said in its October bulletin the 15,000,000 persons represent a surplus population which Britain cannot support on her resources.

Their migration, it added, would be a valuable asset to world peace.

It suggested such a mve would better the living standard of the emigrants, help make the U.K. self-supporting, strength the Commonwealth generally and help build up friendly nations on at least three sides of the United States "in case of war."

It pointed to Britain's population—now 49,000,000—and added:

Densely Populated

"Britain contains 547 persons per square mile compared to four persons per square mile in Canada and three in Australia. Of course, much of the area of Canada and Australia is frozen or wasteland, but even when allowance is made for uninhabitable land, Britain is 60 times as densely populated as Canada and 120 times more crowded than Australia.

"Although the inhabitable parts of Australia and Canada are not nearly as productive as the British Isles, such an overwhelmingly uneven distribution of population among these important areas of the British Commonwealth argues strongly for a mass migration of Britons from the homeland to the overseas countries."

The bureau said it believes Canada, Australia and other Commonwealth areas easily could accommodate highly-skilled immigrants of the same language, heritage and culture.

It suggested the United States might help Britain out with the emigration problem by supplying passenger ships "as we supplied destroyers in time of war."

Fear Big Profits Go To Canada

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (CP)—A protest that Canadian newsprint manufacturers will be able to reap "huge profits" as a result of Canada's dollar devaluation has been registered by a congressman.

It came from Representative Paul W. Shafer (Rep. Mich), who told the House of Representatives that the Canadian industry, which sells the bulk of its product in the United States, will be able to gain $7 a ton in addition to the present base price of $100 a ton.

A member of the special newsprint committee in the last Congress, he said publishers and printers throughout the United States are "disturbed and resentful of the fact that Canadian newsprint manufacturers have been able to keep the base price of $100 a ton on newsprint in spite of the devaluation."

Grand weather
...for making aluminum!
RAIN! It may sound strange, but it's a fact: Everything you see made of aluminum was made with raindrops—even the bus for which you scurry to escape the rain!
It's like this: Rain falls on high land in our north country. It runs down as rivulets and creeks. It becomes tumbling rivers. By trapping it behind dams, and guiding it through powerhouses, Alcan develops electricity—and uses it to make aluminum.
Smelting aluminum eats up vast quantities of electricity. Enough goes into making a single ton to light your house for fifteen years!
Today Alcan is prospecting for still more waterpower because Canada needs more aluminum for use at home and to sell abroad.
RAIN MEANS DOLLARS FOR CANADIANS:
• Alcan jobs for 15,000 Canadians
• Alcan pay envelopes holding $35,000,000 a year
• Alcan aluminum for more than 1,000 independent Canadian manufacturers — some 50,000 more jobs.

MP's To Visit Atomic Plant At Chalk River

OTTAWA, Oct. 2 (CP) — For the first time, members of parliament and reporters will see Canada's Chalk River atomic project within the next few weeks, government sources said Tuesday. It has been ringed with a thick security wall for the last seven years.

A resolution for establishment of a House committee on atomic energy will be moved in the Commons today by Trade Minister Howe, and it is expected to hold sittings in the hush-hush plant 125 miles west of Ottawa.

The committee, consisting of 14 members, is expected to get down to work almost at once, and both government and opposition members say it will conduct hearings on a non-political plane.

Members include four lawyers, three business men, two party leaders—M. J. Coldwell of the CCF, Solon Low of Social Credit—a civil engineer, a farmer, a lumberman a fisherman and a doctor. Eight are Liberals, three Progressive Conservatives and one an Independent, plus Mr. Coldwell and Mr. Low.

The chairman is expected to be George McIlraith, parliamentary assistant to Trade Minister Howe and Liberal member for Ottawa West.

The government hopes, officials said, to be able to build up for the committee, and thus for the people, a broad, step-by-step and comprehensive picture of what Canada is doing in the atomic field. This, it is felt, has never been done adequately.

Committee members are: Mr. McIlraith, an Ottawa lawyer; Mr. Coldwell, Mr. Low, Louis Breithaupt (L., Waterloo North), A. J. Brooks (PC, Royal), Maurice Bourget (L., Levis), J. L. Gibson, (Ind., Commox-Alberni), Howard Green (PC, Vancouver-Quadra), T. A. M. Kirk, (L., Digby-Yarmouth), Dr. E. A. McCusker (L., Regina), J. W. Murphy, A. Camlachie, business man; Roch Pinard (L., Chambly Rouville), A. Wesley Stuart (L., Charlotte), (fisherman); Howard Winkler (L. Lisgar).

SIR ALBERT WALSH, Lieutenant-Governor of Newfoundland, accompanied by Lady Walsh, are seen here as they arrived at Montreal Airport. Sir Albert is on his first visit to Canada since Confederation discussions last fall and will be visiting friends in Montreal for two days. Sir Albert and Lady Walsh will fly to Toronto, where Sir Albert will address the Certified Public Accountants Association of Canada, on Friday. He will also speak to the Canadian Club in Toronto.

Could Have Stopped Reds But For Hitler—Manstein

HAMBURG, Germany, Oct. 26 (AP)—Field Marshal Eric von Manstein told a British court on Tuesday he could have stopped the Russians from getting into Germany—if Hitler had not interfered.

"If my plan had been adopted the war in the East would have ended in a stalemate," the veteran German officer said. "The Russians would have exhausted their powers of assault before they reached the German frontier."

Von Manstein was testifying in his own defence against 17 charges of war crimes in Poland and Russia.

"On my armies alone, outnumbered eight to one, the main Russian attack fell for a whole year," he declared. "I had responsibilities greater than any other commander in history."

But besides the Russians there was Hitler, the supreme commander, who was a political fanatic, von Manstein said.

Von Manstein said he had wished to withdraw German forces from the Donets Basin with the idea of annihilating the Russian attack which would follow. But he added, Hitler refused to give up the valuable Donets Basin industrial area.

He said he had wanted to engineer a breakout for the 20 German divisions surrounded by 60 Russian divisions at Stalingrad, but Hitler insisted that they fight to the last.

Von Manstein finished his direct testimony after three days in the witness box. The chief prosecutor, Sir Arthur Comyns-Carr, will cross-examine him today.

To Watch Church

PRAGUE, Oct. 26 (AP)—President Klement Gottwald Tuesday named his son-in-law, Alexei Cepicka, who is Communist minister of justice, to head the new cabinet office supervising all church affairs in Czechoslovakia. Cepicka, 37, led the government's fight to control the Roman Catholic church here and steered the recently enacted control law through the national parliament.

Owe U.S. 4 Billion

LONDON, Oct. 26 (AP) — Britain owes the United States $4,779,000,000, the government made known Tuesday. Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the exchequer, gave the break-down in a written answer to a question in the House of Commons.

Pays 10-Day Visit

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 (CP)—Philip Noel-Baker, United Kingdom secretary of state for commonwealth relations, arrives in Toronto today on the start of a 10-day informal visit to Ontario and Quebec. He will leave Toronto for Kingston Friday where he is scheduled to receive an honorary degree from Queen's University Saturday.

Liberal Senator, F. W. Farris Favors Appeal, But Backs Bill

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 (CP)—Senator J. W. de B. Farris (L-British Columbia), in the Senate Tuesday supported the system of appeals to the judicial committee of the privy council but said he would not oppose a government bill to abolish them.

The bill in question already has passed the Commons and is in second-reading stage in the Upper Chamber. It would make the Supreme Court of Canada the final appeal court.

The British Columbia lawyer defended the history of Canadian justice and stressed its basis in the system of appeals to the privy council.

He would not oppose the bill, which he expected would become law in a few days, but he objected to a speech made earlier in the debate by Senator A. K. Hugessen (L-Quebec).

Senator Hugessen had claimed that the judicial committee of the privy council had "perverted" the British North America Act to the detriment of the federal government and the benefit of the provinces; that it had introduced new rlues of interpretation, discredited the Supreme Court of Canada and that the system of appeals was "inherently bad."

Criticizing this attitude, Senator Farris said he would regret it if the public in Canada and the United Kingdom took Senator Hugessen's speech as the "unanimous" opinion of the Senate.

Senator Hugessen had made serious allegations, he said. This was unfortunate because there had been great judges in the privy council body who had served Canada greatly both in legal and in constitutional matters.

Decisions made by the privy council would still stand as a precedent in future judgments of the Canadian Supreme Court, he added. There was no reason for worry that the Canadian court would not be as good as that in England However, it was not good enough to say that Canada had as good judges as Britain. It would take determination to carry out this statement.

Pointing to some of the pitfalls which might handicap the Canadian court, he urged there be sufficient inducements to obtain the best Canadian legal talent. He was glad to note that the government intended to introduce a bill to raise the salaries of supreme court judges from $15,000 to $20,000.

Another difficulty in obtaining the best judges in Canada was the geographical situation. A good judge in Vancouver, for example, would not be anxious to move his office to Ottawa.

Abolition of appeals need not be dangerous, he concluded. The real fountainhead of justice lay in the final anlysis, the "survival of our civilization will depend on our administration of justice."

Seeking Government

PARIS, Oct. 26 (CP)—Premier-designate George Bidault Tuesday went through another long series of conferences in an effort to line up support for the new government he is seeking to form. Bidault, asked Sunday by President Vincent Auriol to try to form a government, had hoped to go before the national assembly to ask for confirmation. He said Tuesday night, however, that he has postponed his appeal till Thursday, although he has not yet given up hope.

11 Die In Wreck

AVIGNON, France, Oct. 26 (AP)—Eleven persons were killed and 46 were injured in a train wreck Tuesday. A broken axle was blamed. The Spanish border express was a self-propelled "auto rail." It left the tracks and smashed into a freight platform at Barbentane, just outside Avignon.

Sell Diamond Ring

DETROIT, Oct. 26 (CP) — A four-carat diamond ring, seized by United States customs officials here 11 months ago from a Windsor man, was sold Tuesday at public auction for $2,900. The ring, valued at $4,000 by jewellers, contains one large diamond, flanked by three smaller stones and set in a platinum band.

MISSING — A four-state search is under way for Mrs. Dorothy Forstein, 40, of Philadelphia. The woman's 9-year-old daughter saw Mrs. Forstein carried away by a man. Police are investigating the possibility she was abducted by someone seeking revenge against her husband, a city magistrate.

High Accident Death Toll Shocks Winnipeg

By NORMAN MICHIE

WINNIPEG, Oct. 26—(CP)—A shocked citizenry is calling for drastic measures to stop the rise of Winnipeg's traffic death toll.

Twenty persons have died from street accidents this year, only six less than the all-time fatality record of 1944. In a black five-day period two weeks ago, three elderly persons and a boy of three were killed. Last year 22 died and 1,188 were injured.

Police, pedestrians, motorists and newspapers are asking an accounting. They are aroused by a situation that gave Winnipeg a greater fatality rate per 10,000 vehicles than any of 47 United States centres of the same size.

Chief constable Charles Maciver has re-examined his traffic division and found it wanting. An increase of 15 in his 36-man force, he said, would provide a "partial answer." He also advocated traffic control officers with walkie-talkie sets to handle football and other crowds.

Tighten Restrictions

Other civic officials have said a tightening of licence restrictions, including a yearly test to both driver and vehicle, would help.

But ordinary citizen and official alike agree that the cure for one main cause of accidents must come from the people themselves.

The city's wide streets make for poor pedestrian manners. On Portage Avenue, 132 feet wide, the green light often changes in the middle of a crossing, leaving walkers stranded on street-car tracks.

Trevor Davies, Provincial Government Director of Safety, said loose or non-existent laws are mainly to blame. A pedestrian, he told the city council when asked for advice, may walk against the light, across in the middle of a block, or walk diagonally across the street without breaking the law.

Driver Fined After Clipping Car

Convicted of careless driving, William Arthur Rowe, Dummer township, was fined $10 and $30.15 court and witness fee costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp KC in police court Tuesday.

The charge arose from a report by Clifton Byers, R. R. 1, Lakefield, in Smith township, that his car had been clipped by another car while he was driving from Peterborough to Lakefield Sept. 20 about 11.20 p.m.

Byers told the court he had been rounding a curve when a car passed him and swerved back too quickly hitting his front left fender. He said the car zig-zagged after hitting him then speeded and disappeared over a hill.

He said the dent in his fender would cost about $20 to have fixed.

Evidence fixed the point of collision about three quarters of the way around a curve near McCaw's service station.

Gerald Pearson, Lakefield, was a passenger in Byers' car. Provincial Constable R. A. Feeley said after he had learned of the accident and the license number of the clipping car, from Byers, he found the car belonged to Rowe. He said he went to Rowe's home where Rowe admitted having driven along the highway about that time of night, but said he could not recall hitting any car although he passed several.

Lakefield's Chief Garnet Samis said he found a smear of light blue paint on the right rear fender of Rowe's car similar to the paint on the Byers car.

James Lillico, defending Rowe, said Rowe had a clear vision when he passed and there was no reason why he shouldn't have passed when he did.

Crown Attorney John Bradshaw, said although the alleged slight collision occurred three-quarters of the way around the curve, Rowe must have started to pass back farther on the curve where his vision would be obscured by bushes on the west side of the highway.

The magistrate said he thought the recollections of Byers and Pearson were more to be relied upon than Rowe's.

Carmelite Friars Returning To Aylesford After 400 Years

By WILLIAM BOSS

AYLESFORD, Kent, England, Oct. 26 —(CP)— The Carmelite Friars return to Aylesford Nov. 1 after an absence of more than 400 years.

For the first time since the dissolution of the monasteries, at the time of the reformation, a dispossessed Roman Catholic order is to return to its original home, a 700-year-old monastery.

"The Friars," as the monastery is known, was founded here in 1241 by Richard Grey, Lord of Codnor. The Carmelites had their beginnings on Mount Carmel in the Holy Land. Later They wandered throughout Europe and finally settled in Aylesford, where their first general council was held.

Called the "White Friars," because of white mantles worn over their dark brown robes, they are well known in England, which historically always has been one of their strongest provinces. At "The Friars" they will instal a new prior, successor to St. Simeon Stock, an Englishman who 700 years ago was elected first prior-general to govern the order in Europe.

Under Order of Silence

Origin of the white Friars has long been in dispute. Since 1698 they have been under a papal order of silence on the matter pending a vatican ruling—which 250 years later still has to come.

One faction held that the order was founded on Mount Carmel by the prophet Elias, that it originally was a Jewish Carmelite order. The other side claimed the community to have been founded 1,100 years later by Berthold.

Despite the toll of time, the original buildings of "The Friars" remain largely habitable, one of their gems being the 100-foot-long stone refectory.

Purchase price of the buildings and estate has been subscribed by the more than 2,000 Carmelite Friars and several thousand more nuns throughout the world.

Noting the return of the order, the Times observed:

"The animosites, political and ecclesiastical, which sent them into exile in 1538 have long since been allayed; and many of their countrymen who are not of their faith will rejoice to welcome the white Friars home."

Wind Damages 1949 Apple Crop

TORONTO, Oct. 26 — (CP) — Windfall damage in the Peel, York, Niagara and Burlington districts has caused a reduction in Western Ontario apple crop estimates this year, but the drop is slight, says the monthly fruit and vegetable report of Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Slight cooling moth damage was another factor which caused experts to arrive at a lower figure. The total yield now is expected to be 642,740 barrels, an increase of 30 per cent over the 1948 yield.

The Eastern Ontario apple estimate now is 405,500 barrels, which would be a 42 per cent increase over the 1948 crop.

Pear estimates for the western section of the province call for a 73 per cent increase from 1948, plums nine per cent, peaches 16 per cent, cherries a slight increase and grapes a decrease of slightly more than 43 per cent. In Eastern Ontario pears show 75 per cent increase and plums 35 per cent.

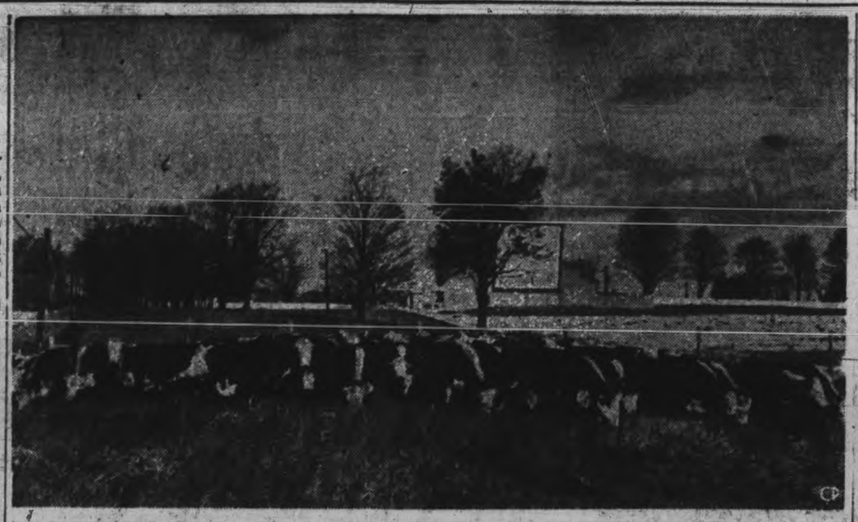
End Bad Cough Quickly, at One-Fourth The Cost



Thousands of housewives have found that, by mixing their own cough syrup, they get a dependable, effective medicine. They use a recipe at only one-fourth the usual cost of cough medicine, but which really breaks up distressing coughs in a hurry.

From any druggist get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 ounce bottle and fill up with granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. The syrup is easily made with 2 cups sugar and 1 cup water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. (Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.) It's no trouble at all, and makes a splendid medicine. Keeps perfectly, tastes fine.

Its quick action in loosening the phlegm, helping to clear the air passages and soothing away irritation, has caused it to be used universally throughout Canada.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for its soothing effect on throat irritations. Money refunded if it does not please you in every way.

Pinex Is Swift Acting!

IN NEW SETTING — Photos of cattle grazing in the west usually have either the wide open prairie or the Rockies as a background. Not so in the east. This photo taken on the 1,000-acre farm of former Ontario Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn, south of St. Thomas, shows cattle grazing with an open-air theatre in the background and a busy highway along side of the range. Mr. Hepburn brought these cattle from the west in an attempt to establish a cattle ranch on his farm, previously noted for its onion production.

Liquor Decision Far-Reaching

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 (CP) — A decision that may have a far-reaching effect on prosecutions under the Ontario Liquor Act will be handed down in county court here within a few days.

Judge A. Gordon McDougal on Tuesday reserved decision on the appeal of Aldis M. Fleming, owner of the Belmont Hotel in Ottawa, against conviction on a charge of permitting a person under the age of 21 years to be on licensed premises.

The case hinges on the question of whether a hotel owner is responsible for the actions of his employees under the meaning of the section under which the charge was laid.

Counsel for Mr. Fleming argued that if the Statute was rigidly enforced, every hotel owner or licensee would have to stand at the door of his beverage room and be constantly on the lookout for youthful-looking, would - be - drinkers.

EASTERN RANCHER — Mitchell F. Hepburn, former Ontario premier, has achieved fame as an onion producer but he's seeking greener fields now. In an attempt to turn his 1,000-acre farm into an eastern ranch, Mr. Hepburn brought cattle east for winter grazing. Here he is shown with his youngest daughter, Helen, inspecting the new cattle range.

New Contract Not Accepted

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP) — Steve Anco, president of Local 439 United Automobile Workers (CIO), involving employees of the Massey-Harris plant at Toronto, said Tuesday his local has net yet finally accepted a new contract with the Massey Harris company.

He was commenting on a Brantford report that the Brantford local has signed a new contract reducing the work week from 45 to 40 hours, and providing wage increases of 10 cents an hour for hourly-rated employees, and seven cents for piece-workers.

A meeting of the Toronto local membership accepted "in principle" the monetary proposals subject to satisfactory conclusion of the collective bargaining agreement, Anco declared, but there are a number of technical points in the agreement with which the Toronto union is not in accord.

Officials of the Toronto local will meet the company again later this week.

Pipe Explodes

VIKING, Alta., Oct. 26 (CP).— An explosion which rocked this Central Alberta district Tuesday, sent one man to hospital and caused a blaze resulting in thousands of dollars damage to a camp in the North-western Utilities Ltd., gas field near here. Viking is 75 miles south-east of Edmonton. The explosion was believed caused by a defective pipe in one of the main lines from the field.

Plan Book Exhibition

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 — (CP). — The Canadian Women's Press Club will make a junior reporting award of $100 to a girl under 25 with one year's experience or less in active newspaper work. Mrs. Reta Myers of Vancouver, president of the club, told the Ottawa branch the terms of the competition have not yet been fully worked out.

Criticism Of British Labor Party Appears Going Into Reverse

By ALAN HARVEY.

LONDON, Oct. 26 (CP)—Independent criticism of Britain's Labor government seems to be shifting its gears and going into reverse.

Since the advent of the Socialist State, a frequent complaint from non-party sources, otherwise sympathetic to Socialist aims, has been that Labor administrators tried to do too much, too quickly.

Now, it seems, these same sources contend the government is doing too little, too slowly.

Their argument in effect is that Prime Minister Attlee's new plan to save the Exchequer £280,000,000 ($868,000,000) is really little more than a holding operation. They say the economies are too small and that they will not take effect soon enough to kill off that old enemy—inflation.

Advocates of quick and ruthless saving include university economists and many independent British publications among them the influential weekly economist and Sunday Observer.

The aim of Attlee's program is to check internal spending and thus prevent export goods from being deflected into the home market.

Objective Not Reached

But, critics say, the government plan falls short of this objective. In the first place, it is noted that the government merely "intends" to save £280,000,000; in the second place many of the savings will not come into effect until next year.

Another and older criticism is that the government is still doing nothing about incentive. It is still pleading with the people to work harder and longer instead of relating reward to effort.

Professor Lionel Robbins of London University expressed a common view when he wrote recently that there is a "certain mediocrity" in current British production, probably due to high taxation.

Not Doing Best

Attlee admitted in a broadcast Monday that workers are not going "flat out."

One of the most trenchant comments on the economy program came Tuesday from the Liberal Manchester Guardian. It said editorially:

"Sober men watching Britain and the sterling area running straight and fast to bankruptcy still cannot think that the crash . . . will come. But it is a belief which gets harder to hold as each opportunity for changing the course is passed. . ."

"In all the painful history of the last 2½ years no opportunity has been missed more thoroughly than was yesterday's."

No Foreign Control

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 — (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson said Tuesday one of the prerequisites of a Communist government in China is assurance that it is not controlled by a foreign power. That, he told Howard Green (PC, Vancouver-Quadra) in the Commons, is one of basic requirements before a new government is recognized in any country. Another is assurance that the new country has full control over a defined area.

Burritt Mann President Junior Farmers

Burritt Mann was announced new president of Peterborough Junior Farmers Tuesday at the annual banquet at the Kawartha Club. John Edmison was named first vice-president and Miss Mayme Cathcart, second vice-president.

Ronald Frankish, retiring president, said that a new constitution was being drawn up and would be ready to be presented at the annual meeting which would be held in a month's time.

After dinner guest speaker was George Atkins, a Bronte farmer and prominent Ontario Junior Farmer who had introduced the citizenship program throughout the province. He was introduced by Don Milburn.

Self help and community betterment was the theme of Mr. Atkins' address. He stressed the importance of dependability, illustrated the advantages to be gained by doing any type of task well, advocated taking every opportunity before it was too late and recommended that every member of the Association do his part in the community.

Accompanied by his wife, Mr. Atkins was one of a number of junior farmers from counties outside Peterborough. Introduced by Frank Paterson, Agricultural Representative in Peterborough were Mr. and Mrs. Alec Imrie, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Trabel, Victoria County; Mr. and Mrs Wesley Down, Wooler, Northumberland County; Jean Nobel, home economist for four counties Mr. Down is a past president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

Mr. Paterson paid tribute to Mr. Frankish's work as president during the past year. Although the Junior Farmers had not yet achieved all that was possible, progress had been made and he thought this would continue.

Ernest Braund, representing Rotary, and Mrs. Braund were introduced by Mr. Paterson and also Robert Bell, assistant Agricultural Representative.

Singing after dinner was led by John Lewis. Miss Mayme Cathcart offered a vote of thanks to Mr. Atkins and dancing followed the speeches.

The slate of officers presented by Mary Morrison on behalf of the nominating committee included:

President, Burritt Mann; 1st vice-pres., John Edmison, 2nd vice-pres., Mayme Cathcart; secretary, Elaine Savigny; treasurer, Jack Matchett; directors, Blanche Quinn, Alberta Anderson, Evelyn Franks; Dorothy Jackson, Mary Morrison, Ron Frankish, Don Milburn, Allan Drummond, Gerald Finnie, John Stewart, Deb Coward, Keith McIntyre, Don Chambers, Kevin Hurly, John Lewis and Reg. Ferguson.

88 APPEALS

Court of Revision has a file of 88 appeals against the 1949 assessments for their first meeting tonight in the revision of the assessment roll on which the 1950 tax rate will be based. This is the first roll of Peterborough's taxable values prepared under the direction of Norman A. Wilkes since he became Assessment Commissioner.

Wm. Paterson Was Link With Past

Born in Peterborough 80 years ago, William Paterson, 159 Aylmer St., died this morning at St. Joseph's Hospital after a lingering illness. He was a son of Robert and Catherine Paterson, and had lived in Toronto until five years ago. His wife, the former Emma Jane Bidgood, preceded him in death by six years.

Mr. Paterson leaves one son, William of Cleveland; his brother Alex Paterson and two sisters, Mrs. A. J. Throop and Mrs Kent Throop, all of Peterborough and a granddaughter, Mrs. Norman Stubbings, of Victoria, B. C. He was a member of the United Church and of Peterborough Lodge, IOOF.

Early City Business

Mr. Paterson's family was engaged in business in Peterborough many years ago. His father, Robert, conducted a retail shoe store at the corner of Water and Simcoe Streets on the present site of the Bank of Montreal. The grandfather was Walter Paterson who owned and operated a tannery on the east side of Aylmer St., north of Hunter St. It was built on that property for the advantage of the water supply and power obtained from the creek.

That business was carried on probably a century ago and later, and is remembered only by elders of the community still living here. The family was prominent and highly esteemed in Peterborough.

The late William Paterson had lived in Toronto for 25 or 30 years until the death of his wife there about six years ago. The body is resting at the Comstock Funeral Home until Friday at 2 p.m. when the funeral service will be conducted by Rev. E. W. Rowland. Burial will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

Sanitary Inspector Hurt On Way To Job

Appointed temporary sanitary inspector while Ronald McPherson, permanent inspector is attending a public health course at the University of Toronto, Bert Tyler, Toronto, was unable to start his duties Monday.

While driving from Toronto to Peterborough Monday morning to take up the appointment, Mr. Tyler was injured in a motor accident near Newtonville and is now in hospital at Port Hope.

Mr. Tyler, who had two head injuries was expected to be in hospital for at least a week. He was a back seat passenger in a car which sideswiped with another car. Four people were taken to hospital and he and another passenger were detained.

Union Considers Issuing Writ

A writ against the CGE for its alleged failure to implement the Arbitration Board Award is likely the next step to be taken by Local 524 union officials said today.

They would not concede that any final decision had been reached, and no announcement of this measure will be made until after the next membership meeting, probably next week.

Meanwhile the union is pushing its publicity campaign among the citizens of Peterborough. Today a letter over the signature of Alex Seppala, chairman of the Merchants' Committee is being mailed to all Peterborough merchants.

It puts forward the Union view and states that wage increases to the 3,200 CGE workers within the past three years have added $9,000,000 to ther spending power in Peterborough."

Three Installed Quarter Century Club Members

Members of the Public Utilities Commission Quarter Century Club, their wives and guests, numbering 63 persons in all attended the second annual banquet on Tuesday evening.

Highlight of the gathering was the installation of three new members, Miss R. G. Cumming, H. J. Spargo and F. C. Leach who were each presented with a cheque for $25 and a gold service pin by Commission Chairman Gordon S. Matthews.

Head table officers of the club were President H. G. Beatty and Mrs. Beatty, vice president E. F. Reid and Mrs. Reid and secretary Howard Clegg and Mrs. Clegg. Members of the Commission and their wives present were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Matthews, Mr. and Mrs George A. Macdonald and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hills.

Following musical entertainment the election of club officers for the new year took place. A. Spencley moved, and Duncan McKinnon seconded, that the following officers be elected: Immediate past-president, H. G Beatty; president, E. F. Reid; vice-president, Howard Clegg and secretary, S. B. Cummings.

ALC Censures Aldermen Wants Recreation Director

High praise for Jack Dane, Peterborough Recreation Director, and unqualified criticism of City Councillors whose recent motion would have virtually suspended the activities of the Recreation Commission, were voiced at the Tuesday night meeting of the Allied Labor Council.

A resolution to this effect passed unanimously.

(R. J. Bolton, president of Peterborough's Recreation Commission reported to City Council Monday night that Mr. Dane had offered his resignation to take a similar position at Forest Hill. A few weeks ago a motion by Alderman Grant Miller and Adam Sands not to renew Mr. Dane's contract and to disband remunerated personnel of the Recreation Commission was only defeated when Mayor Swanston cast the deciding vote. Reasons given by the movers was to effect civic economies and thus prevent a further increase in next year's tax rate. The matter is still being considered by a committee.)

The subject was introduced by President Alfred Barber who said the particular interest of the ALC was that the Recreation Commission had worked with it for the past several years in preparing a children's program on Labor Day.

Besides being interested in civic affairs, a large number of the ALC members are both fathers and ratepayers, he said.

Director Praised

"I think we should find out why they want to cut down on the Recreation Commission. Mr. Dane came to Peterborough and built it up from scratch. He has done a good job and I'm sorry to see him go. Any time we asked Mr. Dane to help us on our Labor Day program he was always willing."

Sam Miceli, Local 210, UPWA, remarked, "They've done all the damage they can do. Jack Dane has resigned and probably won't be back."

Phil Knibbs, UE district representative, cited many activities of the Recreation Commission and said they were for the benefit of the majority of the city's children.

"It is very essential to the health of this city that children be looked after," he stated. "Peterborough has something to be proud of in the Recreation Commission's achievements, although it is only a start."

Piece-Meal Affair

"It looks as though the recreation program is going to be a piece-meal affair from now on, with different service clubs carrying on the work," said William Triggs, Local 293 UPWA.

"It would appear that somebody is jealous of Mr. Dane's job."

A committee of four, including President Barber was drawn up to interview City Clerk E. A. Outram on the attitude of the City Council toward the Recreation Commission. On the committee are William Gunn, president of Local 293 UPWA, and William Triggs and Lorne Bebee, both of Local 293.

Resolution

Following is the resolution that passed unanimously:

"This ALC strongly condemns the actions taken by certain members of the City Council which forced the resignation of Recreation Director Jack Dane, and we call upon these Councillors to immediately reconsider their attitude. The services of Mr. Dane as Recreation Director have been an asset to the City of Peterborough which we can ill afford to lose."

"We are in favor of a greater extension of these services and are opposed to any move to reduce those already built up by Mr. Dane and his supervisors for our children in this community. We call upon the City Council to immediately take steps to repair the damage done to our recreational program and begin at once to locate another man of Mr. Dane's capabilities to succeed him."

Erect Stop Sign At Reid-Stewart Sts.

In an effort to cut the record number of accidents at the Chemong road at the junction of Reid and Stewart streets, the city engineer's department has had a stop sign installed on Reid St.

Northbound traffic on Reid St. is required to stop for the new sign before turning into the Chemong road. There has been a stop sign on Stewart St. for some years to halt northbound traffic before it went north out the highway. Only cars travelling south into town can now proceed without stopping.

One traffic expert said the new sign was too small. He added that another large stop sign should be installed on the Chemong road requiring traffic travelling south to stop before turning into Reid St. or continuing along Stewart St.

Name Fenwick To Mediate Lock Co.-Union Dispute

A Conciliation Officer has been appointed to help mediate the present contract dispute between Local 527 UE-CIO and the Peterborough Lock Mfg. Co. He is George L. Fenwick of Toronto.

This is the next stage of negotiations between the two parties deadlocked on possible amendments to the continuing contract since September. The anniversary date of the contract was September 30 but it has been extended by mutual agreement.

Mr. Fenwick will meet with Company and Union officials Thursday.

Local 527 is asking for a 40-hour week with no decrease in take-home pay; a 16-cents-an-hour wage increase, as well as other specific demands. At present the basic rate for women is 82 cents an hour, and for men, 93 cents.

About 180 employees in Peterborough Lock are affected.

The Conciliation Officer may recommend the setting up of a Conciliation Board should his efforts to bring about an agreement fail.

Will Become Playground For The Public

"A playground for everyone" in the City of Peterborough and throughout the villages and farms of the whole county was crystalized on Tuesday at Queen's Park. Delegates from the Chamber of Commerce, service clubs, recreational and conservation groups and the Canadian Legion sat down in the office of the Minister of Lands and Forests Harold R. Scott to determine where they stood in the proposed Cedar Lake recreational area.

This worthy project, which has been a brain child of Fred Marshall and other members of the Kawartha Conservation Association, has been a dream on paper for the past several months.

An area of 640 acres around Cedar Lake, west of Highway 28 and about four miles north of Burleigh Falls, in the minds of men with far-reaching ideas, will be made into one of the finest public playgrounds in the Province. It has caught the enthusiasm of Queen's Park, and the Hon. Mr. Scott in particular, who told the delegates that he hoped it would be a pattern for all other communities to follow.

Deputy Provincial Secretary R. J. Cuddy outlined the various plans which may be followed in the incorporating and administering projects of this nature. Peterborough delegates were in favor of the one which would permit the lease of the land at a nominal fee to an incorporated body representing the citizens of the city and county. Under this type of management a charter will be granted under which full power is given to develop, manage and control the enterprize.

A Board of Directors will be set up, representative of the city and county which will act in an advisory capacity, and appoint an active working management.

The Tuesday delegation was made up of Alderman A. B. Burrows, representing His Worship Max Swanston, Reeve Norman Wilson of Burleigh-Anstruther, Reeve Melville Johnston of North Monaghan, and representing the County Council, Harold Rehill for the Chamber of Commerce, William Hamilton of the united service clubs, Clare G. Collins, member of the Recreation Commission, Harold Yelland of the Canadian Legion and Milton Clysdale, president, and Fred C. Marshall, both of the Kawartha Conservation Association.

Dane Quits Recreation At End Of November

Jack Dane, who resigned Monday as Peterborough's recreation director, will take up his new duties as recreation director of the residential section of Toronto, Forest Hill, December 1.

Mr. Dane will continue his work with the Peterborough Recreation Commission to the end of November, when his resignation becomes effective. R. J. Bolton, chairman of the Commission, when asked today what plans there were to bridge the gap when the Commission becomes directorless said dryly: "We just haven't any plans".

Mr. Dane remarked that Forest Hill has already a firm recreational program in the area under the community council. All committees which attend to the public duties of Forest Hill are responsible to the community council, Mr. Dane explained. The recreation committee is responsible to this group as the Recreation Commission is to the City Council in Peterborough.

Centre of the recreational program in Forest Hill is Central School, Mr. Dane said. In the school are rooms for the recreation director and his assistants. Recreational programs are held in the school each night in the week with the exception of Sunday.

Dominion Gov't Properties in Peterborough Assessed At $526,330

By HARRY THEOBALD

Local properties owned by the Dominion government and exempt from municipal taxation are listed in the assessment roll at an estimated value of $526,330. They assume some interest from the intimations from Ottawa of the intention of the federal government to make cash payments to municipalities in lieu of taxes on local federal properties. The fact of exemption may have diverted attention of the assessment department with more concern for the valuation of taxable properties.

That appears to be the explanation of the Peterborough armouries at $150,000; Customs House at $50,350; Post Office at $44,000; Peterborough lock and dam, south of No. 7 Highway, $199,200; Crescent St. wharf $10,000; George St. wharf $16,500.

Those are the larger items of value, but it is obvious that $150,000 for the armouries is more or less a nominal figure. Others are such lots as the Charlotte St. site for a postal-customs building, now used for parking, $13,585; Central Mortgage and Housing properties at $12,250 plus $2,400; Maria St. sheds for the canal department $12,300; and two Hunter St. residences $5,700.

On the basis of a 45 mill rate, the Peterborough taxes on its federal properties would be $23,684.85.

Assessment Ignored

Because Crown property has not been taxable, not even for garbage disposal costs and education, its assessment has rarely been noted by the city council. It was completely exempt and had always been so down through the years of assessing and there was no expectation or receiving any tax monies from it.

Canadian Press says the government is not making any acknowledgments of taxability by municipalities, but from the inception of the building of Wartime Houses the directors of that Crown Company which has become Central Housing and Mortgage Corporation agreed to make sunstantive payments to municipal treasuries for the use of local services.

That was the experience of Peterborough and other cities where the wartime houses were rushed into construction. Fire and police protection, education, lights, water, sewers and so on were placed in the use of the government's houses and their tenants. For that service, grants "in lieu of taxes" were made to the municipalities. That plan of payment continued until recently when the government began selling its houses to their occupants and others who wished to buy them. As they were transferred to private owners, the houses became taxable for the full levy by the municipality.

Out To Repair Light In Collision With Car

A car driven by Reynold E. Doughty, 101 Rubidge St., was struck by a Utilities Commission truck as Doughty was turning into his garage off Park St. late Monday night.

Driver of the Utilities truck, Lawrence Courneyea, 506 Bolivar St., said he was driving behind Doughty looking for a street light which had been reported out. He told Traffic Officer Claire J. McGillen he did not see Doughty's car until it was too late.

The right rear fender was crumpled and the bumper broken on the Doughty car. The truck had a crumpled front fender and bent bumper.

Chief Cautions Driver-Care In Half-Light

As days get shorter the chances of pedestrians being injured in motor accidents get greater. Peterborough car drivers will have to give pedestrians more than an even break if the number of injuries and deaths are to be kept at a minimum, states Chief Constable John Thompson.

The average 150 pound person on foot has little chance of upsetting a ton and a half gasoline driven monster, he pointed out.

At this time of year there are more people hurrying home in the half light when it is becoming most difficult to see. Chief Thompson continues to urge Peterborough drivers to be particularly on the watch for children playing near homes in the late afternoons.

No driver is in such a hurry that he has to knock over a person on foot to get there, the chief observed.

Pedestrians have no right to step into the road in front of a car, he adds, but in matters of life and death, a driver's technical right of way is not nearly so important as his duty to drive with care and attention.

Fishing Tackle Lifted

Theft of a gasoline lantern and fishing tackle—total value unisclosed—was reported Tuesday night to Provincial Police by Clarence McIlmoyle, a guide at McCracken's Landing.

The lantern and tackle were stolen from McIlmoyle's tent while he was absent some time during the last two or three days. Provincial Police are investigating.

Former School Teacher Now Magistrate Recalls Good Deed As Boy, Acquits Man

TORONTO, Oct., 26.—Because he once saved the life of a small girl, 23-year-old Wilfred Fountain of East York was yesterday freed of a charge of attempted theft of gasoline.

After Crown Prosecutor Harold Sanders had completed his case against Fountain, Magistrate Martin made it clear to him there would be a conviction.

Then Fountain decided he had better tell of his actions on the night of the theft try. His story lasted 10 minutes.

"I will have to stretch my imagination to believe your story," said the magistrate. "However, once when you were a good little boy of 12 you saved a little girl's life and received a medal," he continued. "Is that right?"

That was right, replied Fountain.

Eleven years ago Magistrate Martin was the principal of Danforth Park Public School. One of his pupils was Wilfred Fountain.

Vigilante Action

PRINCETON, B.C., Oct. 26 — (CP)—Vigilante action against any "menace to the women" of this British Columbia coal mining town was threatened today as police investigated the rape-slaying of Mrs. Mona Mathewson, attractive 24-year-old nurse found dead in bed Sunday. A letter published in the newspaper Similkameen Star, and signed by "five young men," said they would take action "to protect our women at home as overseas."

U.S. Steel Strike Hits All Homes

NEW YORK, Oct. 26—(AP) — Effects of the four-week steel strike are now reaching every American home, office and factory, Iron Age says today.

The strike is "even threatening the success of America's cold war with the Soviet," the National Metalworking Weekly says.

Asserting that the strike already has cost the country 5,600,000 tons of steel, the Iron Age says the many steel using plants throughout the country that have shut down will not be able to start up as soon as the strike ends. Reopening will hinge on replacing items in short supply.

"If the strike ends today," it added, "auto plants would still have to shut down at some future date to build their steel inventories up to a proper operating level."

Canton Returning To Normalcy

Reds Shabby, But Pay For Everything

(Editor's Note: A number of American missionaries and social workers remained in Canton when the Communists marched in October 1. One of them, Edward H. Lockwood, secretary of the Canton YMCA, gives this first eye-witness account of Canton under Red occupation. His dispatch was relayed from Hong Kong.)

By EDWARD H. LOCKWOOD

CANTON, Oct. 26 — (AP). — Canton each day goes a step further toward normalcy, but it is still far from that condition.

More shops are opening. Restaurants and motion picture theatres are open, but there is martial law after dark. It is both difficult and dangerous to be on the streets at night.

Some Communist soldiers are stationed in Shameen, the old foreign concession.

The British Consulate is functioning in repaired buildings. The American Charge d'Affaires left for Hong Kong before the Communists took over the city.

The British Vice-Consul called on the office of the general in charge of Communist forces to report the loss of one jeep belonging to the US Consulate and two jeeps belonging to the British Consulate. The vehicles were taken from a garage near Shameen by men representing themserves as Communist soldiers. Communist military authorities promised to trace them.

Pay For Everything

The Red soldiers are poorly dressed. Most are northerners from Manchuria. Bananas, which are in season here, are a treat for them. The soldiers pay for everything they get.

I asked a pedicab driver how he liked the Communist soldiers.

"They are better than the Japanese," he said. "Even if you offer to let them ride free, they insist on paying."

The Chamber of Commerce is supplying food and fuel for the Communist troops on credit, with the understanding it will be repaid as soon as the currency rate is established.

More Communist flags are appearing, but there are still not many. There is a surprising lack of joyous demonstration over the taking of the city by the Reds. However, the people seem to regard the arrival of the Communists as liberation.

Action of departing Nationalists in blowing up the Pearl River bridge without apparent reason caused universal condemnation.

Two movie houses are showing Russian films. Others continue to exhibit American films, but no longer use English in their advertisements.

A political worker who called on a foreign school yesterday told the principal it would be wiser to give up the English course and teach Russian. This was not an order but only the idea of a Communist in a minor position.

Jailed 23 Months

WINNIPEG, Oct. 26—(CP) — Mr. Justice J. J. Kelly Tuesday night sentenced Edward Seenie, 36-year-old Rosseau Reserve Indian, to 23 months in jail on a charge of secretly burying the body of his infant son to prevent investigation into the child's death. Edna Thon, Seenie's common-law wife and the child's mother, testified the child died after Seenie struck it and threw it to the floor.

Pensioner Dies At 107

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 26 (AP) —Howard Degood, an old-age pensioner believed to be 107 years old, was found dead in a rooming house here Tuesday by police. Mrs. Jennie Mahon, operator of the rooming house, said Degood's favorite pastime was sitting in the back yard counting a "huge roll of paper money." When police inspected his room yesterday they found the nest egg. All but $40 of the roll was play money.

Barter Agreement

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—(AP) —State Department officials said Tuesday night preliminary talks have been held to discuss the possibility of working out a barter arrangement between the United States and India. They said any such agreement would be designed to effect the exchange of U.S. wheat for strategic raw materials from India.

Corner Grocer Gets Lashing At Conference

By FORBES RHUDE

MONTREAL, Oct. 26 —(CP)— The corner grocer got a going over today at the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce—and so, indeed, did the Chamber of Commerce.

And if the corner grocer is afraid of the chain stores; well, he had better listen.

The going over was from D. H. Collister of New Westminster, B.C., who spoke on the subject, "Merchants in the Chamber."

He said:

"Too often, the small merchant is inclined to blame others for his own deficiencies.

"He points to the growth of chain stores, department stores and wholesale houses as the reasons for his lack of business expansion.

Fewer Chain Stores

"Actually, there has been a decrease in the number of chain stores in recent years, with no increase in volume."

Mr. Collister concluded:

"These facts point up the need for an added effort to train staffs and management, if business of smaller stores is to be developed."

However, before he took the smaller store to task, he gave the larger business organizations a paddling. He said:

"Boards of trade have always been interested in industrial promotion and civic development. On the prairies, boards have made wonderful progress with agricultural programs, but little is being done for the business which employs one in every seven employed persons in Canada. The retail merchant seems to be the forgotten man....

"There are so many things which can be done to provide a service to the merchant. His business needs protection and it can be developed through co-operative effort. It is surprising that our boards have not done more in this regard."

Find $5,400 Arsenal

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26—(AP) —Police Tuesday recovered a $5,400 arsenal, including pistols, shotguns and ammunition, from a church steeple and arrested three youths on suspicion of burglary. One of the youths is the son of the pastor of the church.

NORTHLAND NURSE — Career girls might take a leaf from the notebook of Jean Whitney, a pert Saskatoon miss who follows the "go north, young woman" technique. The charming, red-haired nurse says the north offers a "wonderful opportunity to anyone interested in life and people. She has spent her last three summers nursing in Canada's northland and now is starting her third year in medicine at Queen's University, Kingston, Ont. This photo shows her giving an Indian youngster a ride while working in the James Bay area last summer.

Pastor Carves To Beautify Church Interior

MONTREAL, Oct. 26 —(CP)— A minister who mixes business with pleasure to further the glory of God is Rev. Dr. George L. Hurst, retired pastor of a suburban United Church.

When Dr. Hurst substituted the pulpit for a woodcarver's bench he started turning out a dozen plaques to be placed on the walls of a suburban Westmount United Church.

Using the experience gained in a life-long hobby, Dr. Hurst has already turned out eight plaques, on each of which is carved an the various aspects of the faith of the United Church of Canada.

He started the work last July and each plaque has taken about a week to complete. It will be another month yet before the set of 12 is completed. They will be displayed to the congregation, painted and screwed to panels along the right wall of the chancel.

Skill Versatile

Dr. Hurst has turned out a continuous stream of chairs, tables, panels, clocks and other carved articles to beautify his home but this is the first time he has produced anything for use in a church.

It was "providence" which started Dr. Hurst on the work, according to Rev. Dr. Harvey B. Campbell, of Westmount Park-Emanuel, the church for which the plaques are being made.

Dr. Campbell needed someone to make the plaques. After a fruitless search he met Dr. Hurst, who offered to take on the task. Dr. Campbell had not known previously of Dr. Hurst's interest in woodcarving.

Dr. Hurst has been carving all his life. He is a known expert in the field and is the author of the booklet on woodcarving in the McGill University handicraft series.

Says By-Law Valid

TORONTO, Oct. 26 — (CP) — Mayor Hiram McCallum said Tuesday he is satisfied that Hamilton's early-closing by-law for gasoline stations is valid. Toronto has a similar by-law and the mayor asked city solicitor Wallace B. Angus to study a Hamilton magistrate's ruling that the Hamilton by-law is illegal. Mr. Angus said the Hamilton by-law was before the Ontario Appellate Court in 1947 and was upheld.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out about 2 pints of bile juice into your digestive tract every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the digestive tract. Then gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those mild, gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills, 35¢ at any druggist.

Police Escort Lad On Ambulance Trip

LONDON, Oct. 26 (CP) —With police as escorts a 15-year-old youth from Jeddo, Mich., was rushed by ambulance from Sarnia to Victoria Public Hospital here Tuesday night. Victim of bulbar poliomyelitis, he was placed in an iron lung immediately. His condition is serious.

The youth whose name was not given was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital, Sarnia, on Monday.

A 70-mile run by the ambulance and police cruisers Tuesday night was made from Sarnia to London in one hour and three minutes.

Canadian Scientists Develop New Jet Aircraft Alloy

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 (CP)—After five years of research Canadian scientists have developed an alloy that may give new impetus to Canadian production of jet aircraft engines.

The alloy, developed by Harold V. Kinsey, a federal mines bureau metallurgist, is tough enough to withstand the searing heat of a jet engine that distorts most other metals, mines bureau officials said today.

The alloy—called Kinsalloy — is of nickel, molybdenum and aluminum. Within a year it will be tested in actual engines.

When the United Kingdom developed the jet engine in 1944, Canada's National Research Council gave the mines bureau's metallurgical laboratories the job of finding a suitable metal. Mr Kinsey, who came to Ottawa from Niagara Falls in 1941, was appointed to supervise the project.

Kinsalloy, 10 per cent lighter than other alloys of its type, was patented this month.

Use Special Furnace

Dr. J. Convey, chief mines bureau metallurgist, said the alloy was tested in a special furnace, capable of temperatures up to 2,100 degrees while heavy loads were applied to the metal, and was passed only after samples had endured the tests for 1,000 hours.

All defects which could hamper industrial production of Kinsalloy have been ironed out in the laboratories, officials said.

Canadian authorities said they believe Kinsalloy is better than similar alloys developed in the United Kingdom and the United States, and officials of those two countries have shown considerable interest in it.

Its uses aren't restricted to jet engines. The metal may be of value in any type of high-temperature engineering or turbine engines, scientists said.

Triplets Born

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 26—(CP) —Triplets born here Monday to Mrs. Henry Stenlund, of Red Rock, were delivered by a Caesarian operation. The babies, two girls and a boy, were born about three weeks prematurely. The girls weighed just more than four pounds each, and the boy six pounds, 15 ounces.

Christmas Trees Worth Million

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP)—The Canadian Society of Forest Engineers, meeting here for their annual convention, figured out Tuesday that Ontario's Christmas tree industry is worth $1,489,200 a year.

Here is how the backwoods mathematicians add it up:

The Ontario government says [illegible] trees are cut each year.

The grower gets 60 cents a tree $408,000.

Eighty per cent of the trees are exported to the United States and the government gets five cents on each of these—$27,200.

The man who cuts the trees also gets a nickel—$34,000.

The trees retail at an average price of $1.50—$102,000.

Total: $1,489,200.

Lights Dedicated At Evening Service

APSLEY, Oct. 26 (ENS)—Electric lights recently installed in Grace United church were dedicated Sunday evening.

The full choir sang an anthem. Joan Wagner sang "Bless this House" and with Marie Tucker, sang a duet. A group of four of the youngest members Anna Lee Parkin, Ruth Graham, Shirley Reynolds and Arnold Brown sang "Jesus wants me for a sunbeam."

GETTING UP STEAM — In St. Louis, Mo., workers of the Missouri Pacific railway work on locomotives as strike ended. The workers are getting idle steam locomotives ready for operation after the nation's longest railway walkout came to an end.

Two Women, Coffee Shop Come To Gold Rush Town

By JACK DAUM
Fairbanks Newsminer

FISHWHEEL, Alaska, Oct. 26—(AP)—Two women and a coffee shop have come to Alaska's latest gold-happy community.

This booming tent town, extending for nine miles along both sides of the Yukon River, blinked today at the arrival of the women.

A week ago the town was non-existent. Then came the gold rush. Now Fishwheel covers more territory than Fairbanks, the metropolis of North Central Alaska.

One of the women is Evelyn Grinnell, the wife of a Fort Yukon trapper. She set up a coffee shop in her tent—equipped only with a Yukon stove, a coffeepot, a box of cups, doughnuts and some sandwiches.

Evelyn is doing a thriving business.

Coffee—25 cents a cup. Coffee with doughnuts or sandwiches—50 cents.

The other woman is the wife of a Fort Yukon native.

The first showing of gold was made 12 days ago by Clifton Carroll, who spotted pea-size nuggets in the muck of his Fishwheel axle.

Colors have been found consistently along a two-mile stretch of river shore adjoining Carroll's claim. A few nuggets also have been found.

Colors are minute specks of flake gold, commercially worthless but often indicative of more gold somewhere nearby.

The temperature rose sharply the last two days and now touches five degrees above zero. But we know it will drop to 15 or 20 below tonight.

Cavan News

Mr. and Mrs. M. Carr, Peterborough, were guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Mellville Carr.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Sutton, Peterborough, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gott, Toronto, were recent visiters of Mrs. R. Vance and Mrs. L. J. Hutchinson.

A number of people from Cavan attended the anniversary services in St. Andrew's United Church, Millbrook, on Sunday.

Cavan United Church will observe its Anniversary on Nov. 6, when services will be held both morning and evening. The pastor, the Rev. Garnett Husser, will have charge of both services.

To Our Many Customers & Friends:

We are retiring from business after serving our customers and friends, of Peterborough and surrounding district, for over 31 years. Illness has prompted us to make this decision. It has been a pleasure and a privilege serving you for these past many years. During this time, we have had our ups and downs like all of us do, at one time or another; however we have always had one purpose in mind, and that was to please you to the best of our ability, and in so doing, we feel that we built up a fine reputation for fair dealing, and thereby established one of the best ladies ready-to-wear businesses in the city; however what is more important, we made many friends. We hope that these friendships will continue as long as we reside in Peterborough. Mrs. Rogow and I wish to again thank you and yours, for the pleasure we had in serving you.

Teacher Wins IODE Award

Provincial Chapter of Ontario, IODE, has announced the winner of the short story contest is Mr. Fred Sloman, teacher odf School Car No. 1, CNR, Capreol. He received an award of $100 for his story entitled "Silver Fish" and honourable mention on another story, "Cum Laude." Presentation of the award was made by Mrs. L. L. Skuce, educational secretary of the Chapter, at the semi-annual meeting in Kirkland Lake. Among the 85 stories submitted to the IODE, coming from all parts of the province, was one by Mr. Sloman's daughter 'Lizbeth, a student in medicine at the University of Western Ontario.

Brand-O'Toole

In the Church of the Immaculate Conception the marriage was solemnized by the Rev. J. J. Killen on Saturday of Loretta Anne, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen O'Toole, and Ronald Ernest Brand, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Brand, all of Peterborough.

Music for the wedding was played by Mr. J. Armstrong and Mrs. E. Collis sang "Ave Maria" at the signing of the register. Yellow and white chrysanthemums decorated the altar table.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a gown of ivory satin trimmed with Chantilly lace and a circular train of satin. Her Queen Anne style veil of nylon net was caught with seed pearls and she was carrying a bouquet of red and white roses. She was attended by her only sister Miss Mary O'Toole, frocked in orchid taffeta, and a dainty flower girl, Margaret O'Rourke, wearing nile green taffeta. They had hats of matching material and carried bouquets of yellow roses and baby 'mums.

The groom was attended by Mr. Joseph McWilliams. Brothers of the bride and groom, Frank O'Toole and Robert Brand, ushered.

The reception following the ceremony was at Club Aragon. The bride's mother receiving was wearing a gown of Gainsborough blue with black felt hat and a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother who also received chose wine crepe and a matching felt hat and wore yellow roses.

On a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Buffalo the bride travelled in a two piece dress of beige wool jersey and wore wine accessories and a beige topcoat.

The couple will live at 440 Driscoll Terrace.

Goselin-Cass Rites

The wedding took place in St. Peter's Cathedral Saturday morning of Veronica Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Coss, and Francis Joseph Goselin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Goselin, all of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Weis.

Yellow and white 'mums and ferns were at the alter. Wedding music was played by Mrs. R. G. Aman and Mr. Anthony DeNoble sang "Ave Maria" during the signing of the register.

The bride's gown with long train was of white broacaded satin with inserts of French lace across the front and the skirt was slightly hooped. Her halo veil of tulle illusion was caught to a headband and her flowers were white chrysanthemums. She was given in marriage by her father and attended by the groom's sister, Miss Teresa Goselin who was frocked in blue flowered moire with matching elbow-length gloves and wearing a veil head-dress. She carried yellow 'mums.

Mr. Joseph Coss was groomsman and the ushers were Edward Coss and Kenneth Goselin.

The reception was held in the Empress Hotel with the bride's mother receiving in a flowered blue crepe dress, blue felt hat and corsage of yellow roses, assisted by the groom's mother in grey printed crepe, black felt hat and corsage of yellow roses.

For going-away the bride chose a plum colour gabardine suit, navy accessories and brown squirrel neckpiece. On return from Toronto and Hamilton the couple will live at 172½ Hunter Street W.

Rev. B. Norwood Speaks to WMS On Frontier Work

Mark St. Church WMS met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. E. Alton presiding for the opening. The Rev. B. Morwood was the speaker, taking as his topic "A need and what may be done about it." He based his remarks on the work in northern Saskatchewan and stressed the need for more missionaries, also more money to carry on the work. He told of some of the hardships endured in the frontier towns by missionaries and of the satisfaction they gain in good work after a time.

Mrs. E. Dinner gave the Hospital Auxiliary report, Mrs. Norman Hewitt reported for Mission Band. Mrs. A. J. Macklin reported for Christian Stewardship, leading in prayer for the missionaries. It was decided to make cot quilts for Miss Bamforth to use in her work in India. Mrs. F. Stevenson spoke briefly on temperance and Mrs. Alton led in the temperance prayer.

The Bible lesson was taken in three sections with nine ladies taking part. Hymns were sung between sections. Mrs. E. DeNure sang a solo. A poem, "Don't for church-goers," was read by Mrs. Alton.

Must Reach Quota To Remain In Community Fund

The Red Cross Society, Peterborough Branch, met Tuesday afternoon in the Red Cross rooms, Mrs. C. J. Ray, president in the chair.

Permission to continue indefinitely in the Community Chest, provided their quota was obtained, was granted the local branch in a letter from president of the Ontario Division Mr. W. B. Hanna. The letter assured local officers that this quota would be reasonable. This permission, long sought, was greeted with enthusiasm.

Mrs. F. H. Hooper gave an interesting talk on the regional conference held recently in Toronto. Of particular interest was her report of the disaster relief given by Toronto branch at the time of the Noronic fire. The local committee on disaster relief was urged to keep organized so that they could summon all their resources at a moment's notice to meet an emergency.

Home nursing classes commenced Monday evening with a good attendance, Mrs. J. Sharp convening. It was reported that Mrs. Ward is checking supplies of wool and will give it out to those willing to knit for Red Cross. Mrs W. A. Hinds reported that first aid classes began last week and that the local branch had been fortunate in securing the services of Dr. D. Whyte as lecturer. She further reported that more than 200 swimming and water safety awards had been given out during the summer and will continue to be granted during the winter.

Reports on Junior Red Cross, disaster relief, blood donor service, loan cupboard, civilian relief, visting and packing were given by conveners.

Crough-Anderson

A quiet wedding took place in St. Peter's Cathedral on Saturday of Muriel Maude, youngest daughter of Mrs. Maude Anderson of Peterborough, and Mark Quinton Crough, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Crough, also of Peterborough. The Rev. R. Garvey officiated at the ceremony.

The bride wore an original gown of sapphire blue crepe roma which featured a wide insert extending down the front to below the waist and continuing in a floating panel to just below the mid-calf length skirt. Her hat of black velour was trimmed with coq feathers and she wore a corsage of American Beauty roses. Her bridesmaid, Miss Teresa Crough, sister of the groom, wore a dress of Mayfair rose satin with grey accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

A wedding breakfast for the immediate family was served at the bride's home. During the afternoon many friends called to extend good wishes to the couple. The bride's mother receiving was gowned in taupe with steel cut bead trim and wore a black hat with grey and pink feathers and a corsage of pink carnations. Tea was poured by the groom's mother, who wore wine crepe, a black hat with pale pink plume and pink carnations. Mrs. Mabel Smith and Miss Ella Crough served.

The bride and groom will make their home in Lindsay.

Sale and Euchre To Raise Funds For Welfare Work

Monthly meeting of Elizabeth Smellie Branch No. 452 of the Canadian Legion was held in the Armouries on Monday evening, with Comrade Pat Vaisey, vice-president, in charge.

Comrade Alice Morin requested the co-operation of all ex-service girls in helping with a baking sale to be held in the Market Hall, Saturday, October 29. Plans are well under way for a progressive euchre party to be held November 14. Funds received from the above undertakings are to be used for the Christmas welfare projects. Considerable work is involved in this project, and the girls on the committee—Comrades Pat Vaisey, Edna Rule, Bunny Cole, and Esther Might—are busy making Christmas stockings and packing overseas parcels. They will meet at the latter's home on Homewood Avenue Friday evening. Anyone with toys to donate may leave them with any of the above members.

Comrade Babs Waters requested all ex-service women to be out to tag on Poppy Day and to be on church parade Sunday, November 5 and also on November 11.

Three films on music appreciation from the Film Council were shown by Mrs. Leghorne. Lunch wass erved by the entertainment committee, Comrades Irene Vivash, Helen MacFarlane, and Molly Curtis.

Miss Marie Hicks New President

Miss Marie Hicks of the PCVS teaching staff was handed the president's gavel at close of the annual regional conference Saturday of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation. More than 100 high school teachers attended the meeting held in Norwood, where the president, Mr. S. S. Breckon is high school principal.

Miss Eileen M'Conigle of Toronto, president of the Ontario Federation of Teachers, spoke on ideals and ethics of the teaching profession following noon-day dinner. Reeve Rork Ferguson welcomed the visitors to the village, representatives of the school board and Rev. E. E. Pugsley spoke briefly. Dinner was served in the United church parlors and catered to by the Women's Association.

Closed discussions of matters concerning teachers were held during the morning and afternoon.

Old Country Club Holds Masquerade

A Hallowe'en costume party provided a great deal of enjoyment for the members of the Old Country Club at their meeting in the YWCA Tuesday evening. Weird and amusing figures were noted as they filed by in a grand march and judges endeavoured to choose prize winners. First prize was awarded Mrs. J. Williams who was dressed as a pretty French dancer and Mrs. E. Westall won second prize in a pirate's costume. Prizes were also given to Mrs. D. Thomas, Mrs. E. Cook, Mrs. A. Callahan, Mrs. A. Howden, Mrs. A. Wilson and Mrs. D. Lavoie, and to small Marion Weir who accompanied her aunt to the party, dressed as a sunbeam. Membership in this club continued to grow with four new names added this week, Mrs. G. Parker, Mrs. M. Brown, Mrs. A. Stone and Mrs. Annie Black. Dancing was enjoyed before the service of lunch by Mesdames Taylor, Rose, Bills and Isles.

THIS ELEGANT worsted wool suit is a Canadian design. It's trimmed with velvet bands and the jacket is completely lined with moire. The plumb-line straight skirt emphasizes shirred fullness of jacket.

Rare Tree Planted To Honor Botanist

MONTREAL, Oct. 26 (CP) — A simple monument of grey granite and a rare Chinese tree today mark the grave of Dr. Ernest H. (Chinese) Wilson—a man whose discoveries are to be found cultivated in almost every garden.

The monument carries a quotation from the Botanical Magazine, which says: "Whose ardor as an explorer and judgment as a collector added to our gardens many eastern Asiatic plants." The quotation was selected by the Royal Horticultural Society.

Dr. Wilson died in an automobile accident when returning to Harvard University with his wife from a visit to Montreal. He was keeper of the Arnold Arboretum there.

His ashes were brought here and buried in a plot at the entrance to Lilac Knoll, which he, with his lifelong friend, W. Ormiston Roy, landscape architect of Mount Royal Cemetery helped to design.

Feature of the recent ceremony was the planting by his daughter, Muriel Wilson Slate and his granddaughter, Miss Barbara Muriel Slate, of a seedling of a Chinese "Dawn Tree" near the monument.

A bronze plaque states that it was erected by 11 horticultural societies.

DOROTHY DIX

Family Jealousy Cause Of Many Wrecked Homes

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a bride very much in love with my husband. A few weeks ago his sister came to visit us. She is crazy about him, as he is her only brother, and he is devoted to her. He tells her things that he doesn't even mention to me and while I am doing the housework they are in another room talking. Now she has decided that she will stay with us all winter and go to business school, my husband paying for everything, although she has a good home and her father is able to support her. This hurts me very much, as I had hoped to get a good start in married life and have been trying very hard to save something. What is your suggestion?

JEALOUS WIFE

◆ ◆ ◆

ANSWER: No other one thing has wrecked so many marriages and broken up so many homes as family jealousy. In especial there is no other jealousy so devastating as that which a woman can feel for her son's wife or which a wife can feel for her husband's mother and sisters.

It is a strange thing that we do not more fully recognize what a power for evil family jealousy is and take more precautions to guard against it. The young wife might, for instance, as in this case, try to realize that when a man marries he does not automatically break off all his old ties. The relationship between a brother and sister who are congenial and fond of each other, is very close. They have grown up together. They have a thousands memories in common, and is natural when they come together that they should have endless things to talk about and enjoy each other's society.

No Danger

But if the wife will only look at this situation with clear eyes she will see that this does not endanger her own position. It doesn't show that her husband prefers his sisters to her or loves her better or respects her opinion more. It is just that the man and his sister are in the habit of talking things over and if the wife will listen-in she will discover that they are not discussing her faults, as she imagines, but chatting about some perfectly innocuous thing.

◆ ◆ ◆

DEAR MISS DIX I am a widower of 38, with two small boys. When my wife died a widow friend of ours took charge of my home and children and she has been wonderful, companionable, devoted to my children who love her dearly. She is 40. I did care for her and told her so and I believed she returned my affections, but now I have fallen in love with a girl of 23. She is lovely, but would she be a real mother to my children?

ANXIOUS WIDOWER

◆ ◆ ◆

ANSWER: Undoubtedly, the widow will make the better mother for your boys. She has age and experience, and she will know how to manage them, whereas the girl of 23 will be totally unfitted for the task, for being a stepmother isn't the easiest job in the world and it requires more tact and judgment self-control than youth possesses.

But an older woman, especially a childless widow, would, as a rule, have an unsatisfied mother love that she would lavish upon the children. They would take the place of the children that she never had and which she would never have. And life would have taught her a patience and forbearance so that she would deal wisely with childish pranks

But, after all, you have yourself to consider. For it does not take children long to grow up and go about their own affairs So it is more important for you to have a wife that you love and who suits you than it is for the children to have a good mother

◆ ◆ ◆

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a fair education and have always had a desire to be cultured and have intelligent people for my friends. I am engaged to a young man of 20 who has hand only grammar-school education and to whom Rembrandt, Shakespeare and Beethoven are only names. I want him to go to night school to meet people, to absorb other ideas, to broaden himself. I do not want to always feel superior to him as I do now. What can I do?

GIRL

◆ ◆ ◆

ANSWER: Leave him alone in peace. Marry some man whom you consider educated. No woman is happy who is married to a man she looks down upon, and every man is miserable who a superior wife always correcting his grammar and his pronunciation and his manners. Being lifted up to a higher plane is a painful process.

CHILD'S SULKY SPELLS WORRIED HER UNTIL...
If your child has moody, cross, irritable spells for what seems to be no reason, watch for "hidden" constipation. Oftentimes, youngsters' bowels, altho moving regularly, do not move completely. As a result, harmful wastes remain in the intestines, making the child restless, peevish and not feeling like eating. What may be needed is Children's Own Tablets. They help give the thorough evacuation that quickly helps make most children feel like their usual happy selves. Pleasant tasting, small, easy to swallow, Children's Own Tablets are especially prepared for kids from 2 to 15. Only 25¢ at your druggist. Get a box today.

160 Mine Workers Out On Streets In B.C.

HEDLEY, B.C., Oct. 26.—(CP)—One hundred and sixty members of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers went on strike Tuesday at Hedley nickle plate mine, second largest producer in British Columbia.

The strike, approved in a government-supervised vote, was 100 per cent effective at the mine.

Miners struck in support of demands for a 22-per-cent wage increase, reduction from 44 to 40 hours, sick leave and pension plan concessions. Skilled miners currently receive $1.01 an hour, first class tradesmen $1.07 and laborers 87 cents.

The strike followed five months of negotiations. The miners have rejected a company proposal to increase basic wages by 34 cents a day.

Asks For Winter's Lodging In Jail

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (CP) — A destitute 73-year-old unemployed laborer was given six months in jail today at his own request, so he "could live out the winter."

He told the court he had been sleeping in lanes and eating scraps that he found at the rear of restaurants for the last couple of weeks.

He was fined $5 or six months on a charge of vagrancy.

Nylons Win Opener

KINGSTON, Oct. 26 — Nylons won the Kingston Hockey League senior opener Monday night when they vanquished the Vics, 7-2. In the junior contest Napanee and Portsmouth battled to a 1 to 1 deadlock.

More Than 100 At Celebration Of Wedding Day

BETHANY, Oct. 26 (ENS). — Mr. and Mrs. Weatherilt, RR 2, Bethany, celebrated their golden wedding October 18, amid their children, grandchildren and more than 100 friends and neighbors.

Mrs. Weatherilt was the former Gertrude Wilson. The couple now live on the old Wilson homestead and received their guests in the same room of the house in which the marriage ceremony took place 50 years ago. A telegram of congratulations was received from the Governor-General.

Mr. Weatherilt is 77 years of age and his wife is two years his junior.

Arrest D. McNaughton On Niagara Warrant

On a charge of false pretences Donald McNaughton, 35, of Young's Point has been arrested by Provincial Police on the warrant of Niagara Falls police.

He was taken into custody Tuesday by Provincial Constable D. W. Coffey at his home in Young's Point and offered no resistance. At the moment he is in the County Court House jail awaiting a police escort from Niagara Falls to take him back where he will stand trial.

Details of the charge have not been revealed.

Obituary

ROBERT FLYNN

Robert Flynn, 70, died in Peterborough today following an illness of six months. He was born in Mounutain Grove, Ont., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Flynn, and before coming here seven years ago, lived in Smiths Falls for 25 years. His wife, the former Cora Hunter, predeceased him in 1945.

He leaves one daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Moffatt (Theodon) of Apsley and two sons Glenard of this city, and Jack of Timmins. A sister, Mrs. S. Green, resides in North Bay and tthere are two brothers, Edward Flynn of Moose Jaw, and William of Smiths Falls.

Mr. Flynn retired from the CPR seven years ago after serving as conductor for more than 35 years. He was a member of George St. United Church and of the Masonic Order, Havelock Lodge.

Funeral service will be held on Friday at the Kaye Funeral Home at 2 p.m. and the Rev. Dr. James Semple will officiate. Burial will be at Ray's Cemetery, Lakefield.

THOMAS ARTHUR PAYNE

A well known resident of Lakefield for the past 32 years, Thomas Athur Payne, 67, died at his residence on Tuesday following a very lengthy illness. He was born in Dummer Township, son of the late Paul Payne and Mary Ann Russell, and before coming to the village lived in Dummer.

He leaves his wife, the former Catherine Davies and two daughters Mrs. S. J. Hislop (Marion) of Innerkip, Ont., and Mrs. Carson Webster (Willene) of Lakefield. There are two sons in the village, Frank and Percy, as well as Paul of Tillsonburg. There is one sister, Mrs. Garfield Crowe (Mary) of Dummer and five brothers, Cephus Payne and Edwin of Peterborough, Roland, Luther and John of Warsaw. Mr. Payne was a member of Lakefield United Church.

Funeral service will be held at the Hendren Funeral Home on Friday at 2:30 p.m. The Rev. W. R. Archer will officiate and burial will be at Lakefield Cemetery.

Having Liquor In Car Charge Dismissed

A charge against Raymond McIlmoyle, Apsley, of having liquor in a car was dismissed by Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., in police court today.

Constable John F. Morrow testified he had seen McIlmoyle walking away from a car parked on Sheridan St. near Brock St.

In the car was a case of beer with 17 empty bottles and seven full bottles. He said there was only McIlmoyle's girl friend in the neighborhood.

The magistrate said there was not sufficient evidence to show McIlmoyle was the driver of the car and dismissed the charge without hearing any defence.

Cattle Rustlers Are Active In Mono

MONO MILLS, Ont., Oct. 26 (CP)—Cattle rustling has broken out again in this area, with the theft of eight head of registered Hereford cattle from the farm of Gordon McCandless near here.

The missing cattle are valued at $2,000.

Cattle thefts have been reported before from farms in Simcoe, Dufferin and Peel counties. In some cases, the thieves are bold enough to slaughter the cattle on the spot and carry the carcasses off in a truck

A BETHANY COUPLE Mr. and Mrs. Weatherilt, observed their golden wedding anniversary recently with more than 100 friends and neighbors. The pair are in their late seventies.

Better Farming Techniques Improve Eire's Food Export

By PATRICK QUINN.

DUBLIN, Sept. 16 (Reuters)—Eire is making good progress towards doing all she promised under the long-term recovery program approved by the European Co-operation Administration in Washington in 1948.

Her main purpose was to produce food for export, the vast bulk of which goes to Britain.

Food exports were valued at £27,500,000 ($110,000,000) in the ECA year of 1947. The long-term plan, with its goal in 1952-53, was that they should reach a value of £65,000,000 ($260,000,000) if prices remain relatively unchanged.

Figures for the first six months of this year show that agricultural exports have risen to £23,467,063 ($95,068,252) as calculated by the ECA formula, as compared with £11,963,799 in the same period in 1947.

As the exports for the second half of the year are always greater, because of the increased numbers of cattle shipped at this time, it seems safe to assume that by the end of thi year, Eire will have sent out agricultural produce worth over £50,000,000 or within £15,000,000 of the target set for 1952-53.

This would be regarded as a great achievement and a big tribute to the success of the campaign which the minister of agriculture, James Dillon, has been conducting during the past 18 months.

A large slice of credit must also go to Joseph Carrigan, the ECA administrator in Dublin, who has been assiduous in his efforts to boost production from the land.

U. S. Farm Training

Carrigan, a popular man here, has been able to arrange training in the United States for Irish soil experts, of whom Thomas Walsh, of the department of agriculture has been the leader. The knowledge thus gained is now being widely applied on Irish farms.

Carrigan is also arranging to bring to Eire land drainage experts from the United States to advise the Irish government in the best methods of tackling ambitious projects now in hand.

Marshall aid is said to be achieving highly important results in Eire and by 1952-53, if present plans mature as expected, something will have been accomplished for which the Irish people have been patiently waiting since 1880, when Irish farmers gained a greater measure of ownership of their land.

Total exports for the first half if this year were £27,572,914. which suggests that a total export for the year or about £60,000,000 can be relied on. Total exports for 1947 were £39,000,000

Further evidence of progress is the growing interest in technical education for farmers. Ten years ago the number receiving technical instruction was about 1,000 In July the number had risen to over 5,000, or half the annual intake of young men into the agricultural industry. Plans are now under way to raise the numbers to 7,500 and to provide more and better courses.

Rule Milk Deliveries Continue In New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP) — Stoppage of milk deliveries to 11,000,000 consumers in the metropolitan New York area was averted early by tentative settlement of a threatened strike of 15,000 milk drivers and handlers.

The settlement requires ratification by five locals of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL). It provides a pension and welfare plan financed by employer contributions of 10 cents an hour a man. This had been demanded by the union.

Canadian Talent Lost Or Strayed Say Briefs

VANCOUVER, Oct. 26—(CP)—Canadian talent—lost, strayed or near-extinct—was the concern of briefs submitted yesterday to the Royal Commission on arts and sciences on the second day of its three-day Vancouver sittings.

From the 17 briefs submitted to the five-man commission, headed by Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, a plea was raised frequently that Federal aid be extended to develop Canadian artistic talent.

The 25,000-member British Columbia Parent-Teachers Association through representative Dr. W. G. Black said: "How often have the wonders of musical festivals vanished from sight—likely through no flagging in their zeal?"

The loss of Canadian anthropological treasures, collections of antiques and other museum invaluables, to American buyers was deplored by the British Columbia Historical Society and the Vancouver Art Historical and Scientific Association.

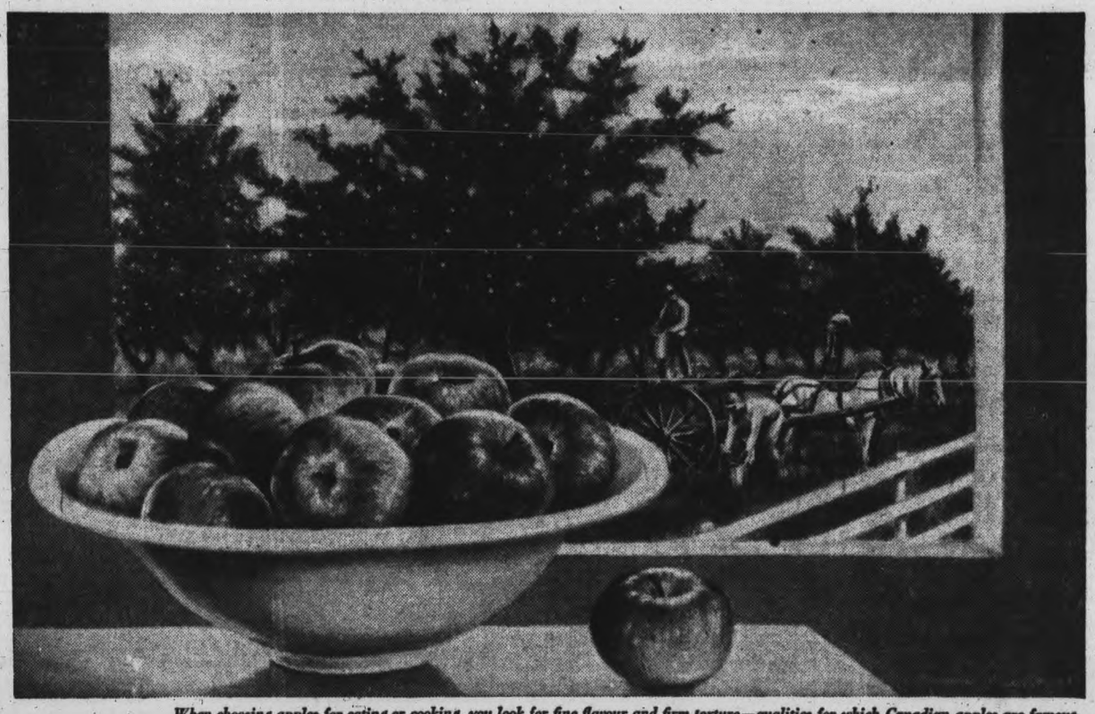
Private Plane Crashes, 4 Die

PORT DEPOSIT, Md., Oct. 26. (AP).A private plane plummeted out of an overcast sky and crashed into the side of a hill Tuesday night, killing four persons, including H. L. Straus, a wealthy horseman.

The plane was owned by the American Totalizator Company, of which Straus was president.

Others aboard were identified as A. J. Johnson of Baltimore, general manager of the company; Wally Mayer of Palm Beach, Fla., the pilot, and Delton R. Osbourne of Palm Beach, co-pilot.

Straus was president of Tropical Park race track in Florida. He also developed the American totalizator, used at tracks throughout the country in computing track odds and prices.



WEST MEETS EAST—Over a stone which marks the Chinese-British border in the village of Shataukok near Hong Kong, British policeman R. M. Oliver, left, shakes hands with Li Koon-kee, young Chinese Communist soldier. Li is the leader of an advance contingent of Red troops which took over the village before the arrival of main Communist forces. The border zone is under the control of Hong Kong police.

Charged With Theft Of 2 Window Frames

Charged with stealing two window frames and sashes, Bazel Reid, 87 Leahy's Lane, pleaded not guilty and his trial was set over until Nov. 3 by Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., in police court today.

It is alleged in the charge that Reid stole the frames from J. Arnold Steele on Oct. 7. He elected summary trial by a magistrate.

CANADA PRODUCES SOME OF THE WORLD'S FINEST APPLES

When choosing apples for eating or cooking, you look for fine flavour and firm texture—qualities for which Canadian apples are famous. Canada's invigorating climate and fertile soil produce many varieties of apples for the world's enjoyment.

Why Seagram's sells Canada first

This is an adaptation of one of a series of advertisements designed by The House of Seagram to promote the prestige of Canada and help sell Canadian products to the markets of the world.

The campaign is appearing in magazines and newspapers published in various languages and circulated throughout the world. The peoples of many lands are told about the quality of Canadian products and see Canadian scenes illustrating these products.

The advertisements are in keeping with the belief of The House of Seagram that the future of each business enterprise in Canada is inextricably bound up in the future of Canada itself; and that it is in the interest of every Canadian manufacturer to help the sale of all Canadian products in foreign markets.

◆ ◆ ◆

A campaign such as this not only helps Canadian industries but also puts money in the pocket of every Canadian citizen. One dollar of every three we earn comes to us as a result of foreign trade. The more we can sell abroad the more prosperous we will be at home. It is with this objective that these advertisements are being produced and published throughout the world.

Hollywood Stars No Help To Hat Makers

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD Oct. 26 (AP)—British hat makers can expect little help from Hollywood stars in a campaign to make men more hat-conscious.

A recent dispatch from London reported that lidless teen-agers are alarming the hat manufacturers. The Britons asked film stars, as arbiters of fashion, to help popularize the wearing of hats.

The AP Hollywood forum selected a cross-section of Hollywood men to answer the question: "How do you feel about wearing hats?"

Burt Lancaster—"I never wear 'em, but Im not prejudiced against men who do."

Dick Powell—"I'm not a hat man. I think you'll find that men in California, in Florida or Hawaii seldom wear hats because the climate doesn't call for them."

Robert Cummings—"I own 15 hats, but they are primarily to wear in pictures. I never put one on outside the studio. I will use one when I'm in New York, but I generally lose it."

Lee Brown—"I wear a hat all the time. I got in the habit when living in the east. I think a man looks smarter in a hat then bareheaded."

Never Use Them

Humphrey Bogart—"I've got a houseful of hats that I never use. I always buy one in New York, then bring it home and forget about it."

Charles Coburn—"Certainly I wear a hat, at least in the winter. I like to see people dressed up. Men used to wear hats to match their outfits, the same as women do. It is sad to see the people becoming so informal in their dress."

Melvyn Douglas—"I just use a hat for disguise. And only when I'm in New York. I pull it far down over my face and think I'm getting by undetected."

Edgar Bergen—"I'm in favor of hats, although I deplore the trend toward crushed hats with snap brims; they make a person look like a racetrack tout. What has become of the derby, the top hat and the homburg? They add class to a man. Of course, in my case it's well to wear a hat; otherwise I might be arrested for indecent exposure."

Must Pay $31,410

WINNIPEG, Oct. 26 (CP). — The Manitoba Court of Appeal ruled unanimously Tuesday that John S. Sinnott, Liberal member of Parliament for Springfield, be assessed damages of $31,410 for a hunting accident in which a young man was blinded. Lloyd Demko, now 19, was struck in the face by a blast from a shotgun while hunting geese October 27, 1947, with Mr. Sinnott and another man. At the trial, Mr. Sinnott said he had fired at what he thought was a bear after noticing movement in reeds.

Heads Farm Brokers

MONTREAL, Oct. 26 (CP). — C. R. Purcell of Toronto Tuesday was elected president of the Farm Brokers Division of the Ontario Association of Real Estate Brokers at its convention here. Other officers elected included: P. J. Harvey, Brantford, vice-president; C. C. Patterson, St. Catharines, secretary; E. C. Brisco, Chatham, Fred Wright, Acton, Arthur Gale, Almonte, and Frank Barry, Trenton, directors.

MEMBERSHIP SWELLS—The Canadian Junior Chamber of Commerce had its membership increased by 8,000 with a stroke of a pen Monday when John Sheppard of Hamilton, national president of the Jaycees, and Jean Paul Gregoire of Montreal, president of the Quebec Federation of Junior Chambers of Commerce, signed a pact of unification. Here Sheppard, left, head of the 30,000-member English-speaking group, hands over the pen to the leader of the French-speaking organization during a meeting of the national Jaycee executive in Toronto.

London Letter

Crime In London Declines Scotland Yard Reports

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

LONDON, Oct. 26 (CP)—Crime is on the decline in London — and that's straight from Scotland Yard. The Metropolitan Police Force's headquarters say there's less wrongdoing now in the big city than at any time since the war.

Police statistics for the first months of the year show a marked decrease in nearly every class of crime—except smash-and-grab raids on jewelry stores.

"But there is no longer evidence of a master mind," a yard detective said. "Most raids are planned without skill and many of the culprits have been caught within a few minutes."

There has been a 70-per-cent drop in cases of robbery with violence or assault with intent to rob—in 1948 there were 373. Under the same headings are classified street hold-ups, pay-envelope snatching and handbag grabbing.

Instances of shop-breaking — 11,752 in 1948—have fallen by 25 per cent and house-breakings by 20 per cent.

A yard official said "the drop in serious crime is the more surprising since London's police force is still 5,000 men short." He gave five main reasons for the drop:

1. Many well-known receivers of stolen property and hundreds of expert thieves are in jail.

2. The public is not buying expensive jewelry, and the receiver is not so willing to buy stolen jewelry, for he may have to keep it a long time. Both receivers and thieves would rather, for quick sale, have half a dozen rings worth £10 ($30.80) each than one worth £60.

3. The black market is falling off because goods are more plentiful while money is short.

4. More use is being made of police boxes from which the public can telephone information to a Police Station. Often within 90 seconds of a call being received the information is broadcast to patrolling radio cars.

5. Under the new Criminal Justice Act, a criminal who might formerly have been sentenced to three month's hard labor in police court now is sent to high court sessions where he may get a year's imprisonment followed by two years' corrective training.

Some police officers attribute the decrease in crime in the London suburbs to better street lighting. After most street lights have been switched off for the night, a regular police car patrol of the suburbs is maintained.

Frost Prepared Get Things Done

GANANOQUE, Oct. 26 (CP) — Premier Frost said Tuesday night the Ontario government will not allow division of authority between the province and the Dominion to "stand in the way of getting things done."

Mr. Frost, speaking on behalf of Hugh A. Reynolds, Progressive Conservative candidate in next Monday's Ontario Provincial by-election in Leeds constituency, said Ontario will do everything in its power to co-operate with the Dominion and other provinces.

"Where jurisdiction is divided between ourselves and the dominion, we shall endeavour to find ways and means so that a division of authority shall not stand in the way of getting things done," he said.

"We have adopted the view that every resource we have should be devoted to giving all of our citizens the opportunity of owning their own homes. Because there is a division of authority under our constitution, we shall not let this division stand in the way."

British Army Doctor Will Visit Canada

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 (CP)—Lt. Gen. Sir Neil Cantlie, director-general of the British army medical services and honorary physician to the King, will visit Canada next month, the defence department announced Tuesday.

He will arrive in Montreal from Washington Nov. 1 and reach Ottawa Nov. 3. The following day he will go to Kingston and to the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps school at Camp Borden.

He returns to U.S.A. Nov. 7.

Pipe Smoking Urged In Woods

TORONTO, Oct. 2 (CP) — Bush workers should be allowed to smoke only pipes or hand-rolled cigarets while in the woods and should light them with a lighter and not matches, an official of the Canadian Forestry Association of Ontario said Tuesday.

William S. MacDonnell, CFAO secretary-manager, told the annual convention of the Canadian Society of Forest Engineers that careless timber company employees and tourists are responsible for many of the fires that last year destroyed 1,017,389 acres of Ontario timber.

"Tourist camp operators in forest areas should be required to bear a responsibility equal to that of other forest industries," he said. "And their guides should be licensed only if they adhere strictly to the fire laws."

Say Exports To U.S. Down By 16 Million

Sales To Great Britain Up $11,000,000 During September

OTTAWA, Oct. 27 — (CP). — Export of Canada's rich rangeland and forest products slumped sharply last month, interrupting the Dominion's drive to sell more on the dollar-rich United States market.

Led by an almost 50 per cent drop in cattle and meat exports over September last year, cumulative exports to the United States for the first nine months of the year of $1,024,300,000 now are $16,000,000 lower than in the same period of 1948, the Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday.

Cattle and meat products accounted for $28,000,000 of the $54,600,000 September decline in exports over the same month in 1948. A lumber and newsprint drop of $26,320,000 accounted for most of the remainder.

Exports of gold were not included in the Bureau's report. Import figures were not given.

Total export trade fell nine per cent during the month to $228,400,000 from $251,700,000 in August and was 29 per cent below the unusually high total for September 1948, when exports were boosted by removal of an export ban on cattle.

Big cuts in exports of cattle meat, lumber and newsprint pulled down the export total.

Sales in the U. S. were $113,700,000, a drop from $115,400,000 in August.

Total Exports Down

Canada's total exports for the first nine months of 1949 have been $2,146,000,000, about $12,000,000 lower than in the same period last year.

Sales to the United Kingdom were about $11,000,000 higher during September. They totalled $58,200,000 and for the first nine months of the year have been $538,600,000, compared with $523,800,000 for the same period last year.

SOMBRE FACES PREDOMINATED and a smile was the exception this week as these Britons stood outside 10 Downing Street, London, home of Prime Minister Clement Attlee. They were awaiting Attlee's departure for Parliament and the Labor Government's announcement of a plan to cut spending for imports by 25 per cent and to cut government budget outlay for the year by eight per cent.

5 Union Men To Confer With Daley

Requested Meeting Before Strike But Got No Answer

OSHAWA, Oct. 27 — (CP) — Five members of the negotiating committee of Local 222, United Automobile Workers (CIO) will meet Labor Minister Daley today to discuss the strike at the General Motors plant here.

Malcolm Smith, chairman of the committee, said the union requested the meeting last Thursday but received no acknowledgment from the minister until after the strike started.

Some 5,200 workers are involved in the strike, called Wednesday to protest dismissal of four men—three union stewards and one committee man.

They were dismissed, the union said, when they objected to an alleged company plan to increase the output of car and truck units on one assembly line from 40 to 47 an hour.

The company said it discharged the men because they refused to resume work on the instructions of the supervision staff. The committee-man was dismissed, the company said, because he incited employees on the chassis assembly line to support the body men by refusing to continue their work.

Earlier the company and the union committee had a short meeting, called to discuss the dismissals and other issues. A company statement said the bargaining committee abruptly terminated the meeting. The strike followed.

The union contends that 40 units an hour is the capacity of the production line.

This is denied by the company, which says the works standards are fair and within the reasonable working capacity of normal operators.

If the strike lasts more than a week, subsidiary firms supplying parts to the motor company may have to lay off some of their workers. Already Duplate Canada, Ltd., Oshawa, windshield manufacturers, has laid off 40 employees.

Malcolm Smith, chairman of the union's negotiating committee, said an extended strike might force a shutdown of 80-85 per cent of Oshawa's major industries.

Graham Coulter, assistant general manager of Coulter Manufacturing Company, said his firm might have to close if the strike lasts more than a week.

Other company officials said they would not be seriously affected since GM was not their only customer. Officials of Duplate of Canada Ltd., Ontario Steel Products, and Skinner Company Ltd. said they had other markets for the automobile accessories they manufacture.

Worked With Dennis

MONTREAL, Oct. 27 (CP) —Police said today that a 27-year-old convict soon will be brought into court to face charges of working with Gerard G. Dennis, the society burglar, as one of the "hooded bandits" who robbed Montreal homes five years ago. Dennis, a native of St. Catharines, was recently sentenced at White Plains, N.Y., to 18 years for burglaries in the United States. Police declined to disclose the name of the convict who now is serving a term for theft.

Eight Convicts Loot Arsenal, Escape Prison

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 27—(AP)—a widespread manhunt was on today for eight convicts who escaped from the New Castle County Prison with guns and ammunition taken from the jail arsenal.

The eight—led by an 18-year-old life term prisoner—made a daring break through the prison's front gate Wednesday night after locking up guard captain Harry Harrington and using another guard as a shield.

A burst of machine gun fire from a prison tower failed to stop them.

Harrington's version of the escape gave these details:

Shortly before 8 p.m., the prisoners were taken back to their cell blocks from the exercise yard.

Danny Horris, 18-year-old life termer convicted of slaying Wilmington detective Thomas Conaty on Christmas, 1947, asked Harrington for a headache pill. The convicts then jumped Harrington and guard Harry Beck.

Locked in Cell

The two guards were marched to a cell and locked in.

Leaving his companions hidden behind a staircase, Norris went to the door leading to the main portion of the prison building. He asked guard Charles Lynch to let him through to get some papers from the printing shop where Norris worked.

As Lynch opened the door, he was seized and marched past the office of Warden Elwood H. Wilson to the prison arsenal. There, the convicts used Lynch's keys to open the arsenal door and took a quantity of guns and ammunition.

Handcuffing Lynch, the men marched in single file — prison fashion—toward the gate house with Lynch at the head of the line, a pistol in his back.

One of the convicts pressed the button controlling the electrically operated gate and the parade moved out into the open.

Tower guard Raymond Pritchard spotted the men but withheld fire until the convicts shoved Lynch aside and ran. Then he fired a burst of bullets but apparently none struck the fleeing men.

7 Provinces Trying To Block CPR Attempt To Take Rates To Supreme Court

Declare Transport Board Not Failed In Duty By Deferring Judgment On Part Of Application For Hoist As Railways Charge

OTTAWA, Oct. 27—(CP)—Seven provincial governments today sought to block an attempt of the Canadian Pacific Railway to carry its fight for higher freight rates to the Supreme Court of Canada. The provinces—all except Ontario, Quebec and Newfoundland—argued before the Board of Transport Commissioners against a CPR challenge of the Board's Sept. 20 board decision awarding the railways a general eight-per-cent increase.

In the opening hearing, the provinces united in declaring the Board had not failed in its duty—as the C.P.R. claimed—by deferring judgment on part of the railway application for a 20-per-cent hoist.

The railway, which claims the increase was too small, applied to the Board for permission to appeal to the highest court.

It wants to ask the court for a ruling on whether the board failed in its duty by not making a final determination of the rate increase case pending further board studies and the report of the Royal Commission on transportation.

Lets Appeal Go By

In their original application, the railways had asked for a general 20 per cent rate boost. The Canadian National Railways joined with the CPR in that application but is not taking part in the appeal.

The Supreme Court cannot increase the 8 per cent award given by the Board or order the Board to increase it, but can give a decision on whether or not the commissioners carried out their duty.

Today, CPR Counsel C. F. H. Carson declared there might be an "interminable delay" — possibly years—in the completion of the Board's studies and the Royal Commission inquiry.

He said the Royal Commission was developing into "mountainous" proportions. No one could say when its work would be finished and how much longer its report would have to be studied by the government before implementation.

In the meantime, Mr. Carson said, it was the duty of the Board to make freight rates that were fair to the railways and the public, using the existing statutes.

Working Out Details Of British Buying

LONDON, Oct. 27—(CP)—Details of Britain's reduced purchasing program in Canada for 1950 are being worked out in London this week.

The Canadian representatives, J. G. Taggart, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, and Max MacKenzie, Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce, are trying to keep open markets on a substantial scale for such food stuffs as bacon, cheese and salmon as well as timber and non-ferrous metals.

Britain is expected to reduce her over-all purchases by about 25 per cent in an effort to bring her trade with Canada nearer to a pay-as-you-go basis next year.

There has been no indication from Canadian or British sources as to how the talks are going. But it is understood that Britain, as a buyer, is being extremely cagey and loath to commit herself at this point.

Food Minister John Strachey's speech at Coventry Tuesday, in which he said Britain might reduce dollar-wheat purchases after the Canadian contract expires, is interpreted in most circles here as part of this bargaining.

The official British stand is that the United Kingdom cannot buy from North America if it has no dollars. The Canadian attitude is that trade should not be allowed to stagnate. Britain should maintain purchases and press her dollar sales to pay for them.

Job Direction In Britain Probable—Cripps

LONDON, Oct. 27 (CP)—British workers were warned Wednesday they may be required to change jobs at the government's bidding.

In the strongest statement the government has made so far on the control of labor, Sir Stafford Cripps told the House of Commons that the country's financial plight might make transfer of employment necessary in some cases.

"No individual," the Chancellor of the Exchequer said, "can be guaranteed continuance in his particular job or even in his particular trade.

"To insist upon rigid maintenance of the present pattern of employment would be to destroy all hope of full employment."

Earlier this month Sir Stafford told a press conference the government saw no reason for taking any further action regarding labor direction.

Under the Control of Engagements Order passed two years ago, the government has the power to direct workers compulsorily. So far only 29 persons have been directed to work under its provisions.

A change in policy was indicated last week when Labor Minister George Isaacs told the Commons he intended to make a statement soon on the government's plan regarding labor controls. It was understood the Labor Ministry was developing special machinery to speed steering of unemployed workers into export industries.

One of the proudest boasts of the Labor Government has been its insistence on full employment. In mid-September the total of unemployed was little more than 250,000 among a population of 48,000,000.

But the reductions in government expenditures announced Monday by Prime Minister Attlee are sure to throw some workers out of their jobs.

Blue Flame In Night Sky Mystifies Buffalo Folk

BUFFALO, N.Y., Oct. 27—(CP)—A mysterious "something," which gave off a bright light, shot through the sky Wednesday night, numerous observers reported. Descriptions varied widely. Deputy Sheriff Charles Triodl of Buffalo said he saw "a big spot of blue." "It turned white like the sun," he said. "It lasted long enough for me to have a good look. It was so big it lit up a whole park and the street I was on was bright as day."

David E. Lewis, an amateur sky gazer, said he saw "a green ball of fire shooting through the sky and trailing sparks. It was in the southern sky, he said, and travelling from east to west.

"It was all over in three or four seconds, but it lasted long enough to afford plenty of time for observation," Lewis said. "I don't believe it was a meteor, because it had none of a meteor's characteristics."

Like Blue Flame

Two guards at the Bell Aircraft Corporation plant near Niagara Falls, Leo V. Moynihan and Charles W. Hoagland, said they sighted what appeared to them to be a blue flame "falling out of the sky."

A Bell spokesman said one of the firm's engineers reported seeing what looked like "a blue tip of an airplane, but that it was travelling too fast through the sky to have been attached to an airplane".

The Buffalo Courier-Express quoted a Bell official as saying "some tests" were under way a the plant Wednesday night.

George Davis, Buffalo science museum astronomer, said "it" might have been meteors.

At Toronto, officials at Dunlap Observatory said the mysterious light which flashed across the western Ontario sky Wednesday night was not visible here because of overcast skies. From descriptions given it was their opinion the light was a meteor.

Reports from Oshawa, London, Galt and Brantford in Ontario and Buffalo, N.Y., told of seeing a "strange streak of fire" which gave off a bright light at about 10 p.m. Wednesday night.

Observatory officials said that meteors are visible almost any night the sky is clear but that it would have to be a "very bright meteor to have been seen by so many people in different parts."

London Shivers In Cold Wave

LONDON, Oct. 27—(AP)—London's temperature dropped to 33 today—the coldest weather since early last spring. Cooking, heating and lighting in many areas were hampered by the first power cuts of the season.

Such cuts in the power supply have been an almost daily wintertime occurrence of Britain's recent austerity winters. With colder weather, Britons use more electricity for cooking and heating.

With 10 per cent less electricity available for three morning hours, lights were dimmer. It took millions of housewives longer to cook breakfast on electric stoves.

The initial cuts were made only in areas where there isn't much industry so manufacturing plants would not be affected.

The Queen Elizabeth arrived at Cherbourg 24 hours late after a trans-Atlantic voyage which one of the crew described as "the roughest crossing in 41 years at sea."

Most of the 400 passengers who disembarked said they had been violently seasick. Nobody was injured, but several objects were smashed in the fierce Atlantic gales.

Ford Pension Plan Accepted By Workers

DETROIT, Oct. 27 — (AP) — The United States automobile industry today marked another milestone in its labor relations history.

Ford's $100-a-month pension plan, first in the industry, was approved. Applying to Ford's 115,000 production workers, the plan was accepted in a vote by the Ford rank-and-file membership of the United Automobile Workers Union (CIO).

Unofficially estimated to cost $30,000,000 a year, the plan will be paid for entirely by the company. It is the major part of a 10-cent-an-hour package and in general follows the recommendations of President Truman's fact-finding commission in the steel dispute.

Pensions have been the UAW-CIO's No. 1 objective in its 1949 bargaining drive. Late last night the union announced 'overwhelming' approval from the rank and file.

Nehru Criticizes Soviet System

CHICAGO, Oct. 27 — (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru of India said Wednesday night he believes "individual freedom ceases to exist" under what he called "the Soviet system."

It was the first time since he started his goodwill tour of the United States and Canada two weeks ago that he has criticized Russian methods.

But he tempered his words with a renewed statement that India wants no entanglements in the cold war, and will not be pushed into any.

His country, he said, wants peace and will work for it, and he called on the United States to work for peace, too.

"We may have to have a war," Nehru told a banquet crowd of 1,100 persons, gathered in his honour. "We may be forced into it.

The white countries of the world, while prospering and advancing, have created conditions that "tend to centralize" many of their ways of life, Nehru said.

"An extreme example of this is in the Soviet system," he said. And under it, "individual freedom ceases to exist, whatever other virtues there may be."

It is a system that he considers is "characterized by regimentation."

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 27—(Reuters)—The Nobel Prize for physiology and medicine was awarded tonight jointly to Dr. Walter Rudolf Hess, of Zurich University Institute of Physiology, and Professor Emeritus Antonio Egas Moniz, of Lisbon University.

2 Londoners May Bid For Liberal Leadership

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 27—(CP)—Two Londoners may bid for the leadership of the Ontario Liberal party, now headed by Farquhar Oliver, at the next convention.

Campbell Calder, MPP London, announced some time ago that he would seek the post and Wednesday Ernest S. Livermore said he was "seriously considering" doing the same thing. Both are well known lawyers and Mr. Livermore is a former county judge of Norfolk.

Orillia Students Hurt In Crash

MIDLAND, Oct. 27—(CP)—One Orillia Collegiate Institute football player is in hospital, another nearly lost an ear and four more escaped with only a shaking up when the car in which they were travelling to Penetanguishene for a football game skidded on wet pavement and landed on its roof in a ditch.

The players were about a half-mile west of Midland when the driver, reported to be Gerry Taylor, lost control of the car after rounding a curve. Ernie Thompson, 16, was pinned underneath and suffered severe cuts to the face and head.

Bill Bull, 15, had 10 stitches put in his left ear, but was able to watch the game later from the sidelines.

Also in the car were Frank Nettleton, Ron Chapman, Bob Wilkie and Tom McEwen. All four took part in the game won by Orillia 23-11.

Confidence Vote Withheld By TUC

LONDON, Oct. 27 (Reuters)—The Trades Union Congress Wednesday night withheld the vote of confidence in the government's economic program which it must give on behalf of Britain's 8,000,000 organized workers if the program is to succeed.

It avoided a detailed discussion of the government's new economy cuts and so smothered leaders who went to the meeting prepared to stage a revolt.

Instead, it told its special committee of economic experts to speed the investigation it began when devaluation of the pound was announced six weeks ago; November 9 was fixed as a deadline. On that date the final settlement of TUC policy is expected.

The general impression among observers here is that it will give qualified backing to the government.

Built-in Video Set Doesn't Bother Cow

PULLMAN, Wash., Oct. 27 — (AP)—Don't talk about goldfish to Peephole Bossie, a cow with built-in video. Compared with her fish in a bowl live a life of seclusion.

For two years people have been snooping through a hole in Bossie's stomach to see what goes on inside.

The only time she gets any privacy is in the winter. Then she wears a rubber plug in her side to keep the drafts out.

Dr. Ernest C. Stone, chairman of the Department of Veterinary Physiology and Pharmacology at Washington State College, cut the eight by three-inch peephole in the cow's rumen (stomach No. 1) two years ago so his students could get a first-hand view of a cow's inner life.

Despite her public interior, Bossie, age eight, is a normal, contented cow, Dr. Stone said.

Pilot Starts Stampede Showing Off Gold Nuggets

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Oct. 27 —(AP)—Several would-be prospectors returned today, convinced that Fishwheel, the booming tent town up on the Yukon Flats near Arctic Circle, is not gold country.

"Amateurs and professionals are pretty well convinced, but they're afraid to leave for fear they'll miss something" Bill Lund, Alaska Airlines pilot, said on his return from Fishwheel.

Lund, with Robert Stevenson, went to the Yukon area during the week-end and came up with two of the few nuggets he said had been found at the river.

He said the pilots showed the nuggets to a prospector.

"Lord, he shouted the news to everyone in sight. They grabbed all their tools and lit out in every direction. Even the old-timers got excited."

Asked about the value of the gold he panned, Lund shrugged.

"It's worth about 60 cents, I guess. It is surface gold, but I can't imagine where it came from.

"Everyone is getting colors (small flakes of gold) such as you might find anywhere. But I didn't see any nuggets besides my own and Carroll's."

Clifton Carroll started the stampede when he found nuggets "the siez of peas" stuck to the muck on the axle of his fish-wheel, after which the boomtown has been named. That was tow weeks ago.

Harewoods Live In Palace Share It With 30 Others

LONDON, Oct. 27—(CP)—The Earl of Harewood and his countess, the former Marion Stein, will live at St. James's Palace after their honeymoon—but they will have to share it with 30 other families.

Most of the palace is divided into suites and apartments and the Harewoods will occupy a large apartment on the second floor.

Some of their neighbours will be private secretaries, comptrollers and other employees of the royal family and who who have their living quarters in St. James's.

Others are accommodated there in return for long and loyal service in royal households; many are pensioners of the King who have held high positions.

Tenants at St. James's are fortunate in having one of the loveliest parks in London at their front door. They also live in an atmosphere of historical romance far exceeding that of Buckingham Palace.

St. James's was started as home for girl lepers. Until well into the 16th century it was a grim, isolated hospital surrounded by dreary marshland.

But Henry VIII changed all that. Down came the building, out went thelepers and up sprang stately St. James's Palace. From that day it has been the court to which all foreign ministers and ambassadors are accredited.

On the first and second floors are magnificent state and banqueting rooms containing valuable antique furniture, priceless silver and pewterware and oil paintings bigger than the side of a house.

Police Post Guard Around UAW Leader

DETROIT, Oct. 27 (AP)—Police, mindful of the attacks on the lives of Walter and Victor Reuther, guarded the home of a third C.I.O. United Auto Workers leader today.

A guard was posted at the residence of Kenneth Bannon, national Ford director for the union, after a prowler was reported seen at his house Wednesday night.

Within the last 18 months attempts have been made on the lives of Walter Reuther, U.A.W. president, and his brother Victor.

Both the Reuthers were shot at their homes by an assailant who fired a shotgun through a window. Victor was blinded in the right eye. Walter almost lost the use of his left arm. The shootings have never been solved.

Fail To Get Agreement On A-Control

Find Basic Difference With Russia, Deadlock Unbroken

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Oct. 27 (CP)—The big five powers and Canada reported today they have been unable to agree on a basis for international control of atomic energy.

The six powers indicted in a summary record of 10 secret meetings held during the last three months they will continuing the talks attempting to break the east-west atomic deadlock.

Britain, United States, France, China and Canada said in a separate analysis of the talks there is a fundamental difference between themselves and Russia concerning methods and aims.

"All of the sponsoring powers other than the U.S.S.R. put world security first," the five western powers said in the 26-page analysis issued simultaneously with the six-power report.

The western powers said they are ready to accept changes in "traditional concepts of international co-operation, national sovereignty, and economic organization where these are necessary for security."

Russia, they added "puts its sovereignty first and is unwilling to accept measures which may impinge upon or interfere with its rigid exercise of unimpeded state sovereignty."

Fundamental Difference

"If this fundamental difference could be overcome, other differences which have hitherto appeared unsurmountable could be seen in true perspective, and reasonable ground might be found for their adjustment," the five western powers said.

The six-power report goes to the 59-member General Assembly where a full-dress debate on the problem of international control of atomic energy and prohibition of atomic weapons is slated to start this week. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton represented Canada in the secret discussions.

The Western powers, in their statements during the talks and in their analysis, expressed continued support of the control plan approved last year by the U.N. Assembly.

International Agency

The majority plan calls for setting up an international agency to operate and manage all atomic facilities in the world from the mines to the finished products. The agency would hold atomic materials in trust for member countries. There would be an international agreement to outlaw the national production and use of atomic weapons.

Russia rejected the majority plan on the grounds that it would give the United States world domination in atomic energy, it leaves the disposal of American atomic weapons until sometime in the indefinite future and it would infringe on Russia's national sovereignty.

The Western powers denied that these grounds exist.

Adams Family Holding Reunion

A happy family re-union of four brothers and a sister is being held today at the home of Reginald Adams, Payne Ave. The five have not been together in the past five years.

Today is the 21st birthday of Paul Adams of Saskatoon, youngest of seven in the Adams family. Paul, a railway worker, is the only one of the quintet still unmarried and he made a special trip to Peterborough to be with his brothers and sister.

Three of them are Peterborough residents. Reginald, the eldest, is a welder in the Structural Steel Department of CGE. Bert of Arndon Ave., is an assembler and fitter in CGE Industrial Control. Karol, a painter now employed painting the Liftlock, is a resident here, after living for some time in Saskatoon.

The one sister is Mrs. John G. Simard of Quebec City who arrived with her husband for the one-day celebration early Wednesday evening. All three Peterborough members of the family are seeing Paul and Mrs. Simard for the first time in five years.

On Tuesday night they held a party at the Kawartha Club, and tonight there will be a special supper at Reginald's home.

A brother Frank of Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, and a sister Mrs. Anne Basaraba of Two Hills, Alberta, were unable to attend.

Cupoli Funeral

Pall-bearers at the funeral of Miss Aileen Cupoli of Elm Street, who died Sunday, were Bert Hynes, Casey Pepe, Jim Tobin, Jack Cupoli, Donald Vitarelli, and Edward Roach. Requiem mass was celebrated by the Rev. R. Garvey at St. ePter's Cathedral Wednesday morning. The graveside service was conducted by Father Weise. Burial was in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Fenders Frayed

The left front fenders of two cars were slightly damaged in an accident about 9:356 this morning at the corner of Reid and McDonnel Streets. Mrs. V. Ward 401 Bellview Avenue, was driving south on Reid Street. As she turned left into McDonnel, she hit a car stopped on McDonnel, being driven by Venson Doris, 296 Edinburgh Street.

REDWATER OIL PRODUCTION

Oil shipment from the Redwater sector of the Edmonton oilfield are moving at the new peak rate of more than 21,000 barrels a day.

Opposition Seeks Closer Look At Expenditures

OTTAWA, Oct. 27 (CP)—The Opposition wants to get a closer look at government expenditures.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative Leader, suggested in the Commons Wednesday that sessions could be shortened considerably if a special committee was established to consider the estimates of expenditures of various departments.

The committee plan, said Mr. Drew, would allow members to scrutinize government expenditures item-by-item and at the same time keep sessions reasonably short. He warned that unless sessions of parliament—now averaging five and six months a year—were shortened, it would be difficult to obtain candidates for public office.

Finance Minister Abbott said the government would study the suggestion and probably report its opinion at the next session of parliament. He was sure that with the co-operation of all members a suitable solution would be found for dealing with estimates.

The lengthy committee debate developed when the government asked for, and received, a vote of $114,560,000 to cover its expenditures for the next month. The amount represented one-twelfth of the 1949-50 estimates.

Gets First Reading

At House opening, the Commons gave first reading to a private member's bill that would transfer Quebec and Newfoundland divorce bills from parliament to the Exchequer Court. The bill obtained first reading over a chorus of vocal objections.

In the Senate, debate continued on a Commons-approved bill to abolish appeals to the judicial committee of the Privy Council. The Senate also gave third reading to an act to incorporate prairie transmission lines limited, a company which proposes to pipe natural gas from Alberta to the Vancouver area and points in northwestern United States.

John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) touched off the involved discussion of the system of examining proposed government expenditures.

He suggested that the public accounts committee of the Commons have an opposition member as chairman in its job of scrutinizing every government expenditure. This would follow the method used in the United Kingdom parliament.

Mr. Diefenbaker also asked that Opposition members have at least part of the expert assistance and information which now is available to cabinet ministers on financial matters.

Use Opportunities

Mr. Abbott suggested that members take advantage of the opportunities now offered to them to check government expenditures.

Government expenditures were presented annually in the blue book which gave details and reasons for each expenditure.

If any member wished to question the details of the expenditures, departmental officials would be available to answer their questions.

When the debate ended, Speaker Ross MacDonald ruled out of order a motion by Mr. Diefenbaker calling for a Canadian bill of rights.

Mr. MacDonald said that the bill, calling for a Supreme Court of Canada ruling on the division of freedom powers between the Dominion and the provinces, would involve the expenditure of public funds.

He reminded members that only members of the cabinet could sponsor bills requiring public expenditures.

Tito Promises Fight Against Red Power

BELGRADE, Oct. 27—(AP)—Premier-Marshal Tito Wednesday night promised to "fight enduringly" against Russian attempts to dominate Yugoslavia.

"We know," said Tito, "that in this struggle we are fighting for a great, just cause that will have tremendous historical significance for the future and that this is the true, correct relationship among the Socialist states."

Tito sounded this serious note after a day in which a Moscow newspaper accused him of lavishing diamonds on an "American spy," named as the Yugoslav-born Metropolitan Opera soprano, Zinka Kunc Milanov.

Tito pledged continued opposition to the Kremlin's present policy in a speech to a visiting group of Italians who had fought alongside his partisans during the last war.

GRAZING IN WHEAT

Fall wheat is still growing, and experienced farmers are turning in their cattle to thin out the verdure, it was reported today. Frank C. Patterson, agricultural representative, said that fall wheat top can occasionally put on too much top growth that might suffocate the root system before spring.

Say Exports

Total sales to Commonwealth countries during the month were $77,700,000, compared with $75,800,000 in September last year. For the nine-months of 1949 they were $769,500,000 as against $747,400,000 in 1948.

Exports to Europe fell sharply to $17,800,000 from $27,600,000 in September, 1948 and the cumulative total fell from $222,500,000 in 1948 to $172,100,000 in 1949.

Other Drops

Latin America bought $8,708,000 worth of Canadian products, a drop from the $10,946,000 of September last year and the cumulative totals were $92,364,000 in 1949 and $88,086,000 in 1948.

As a result of lower exports of cattle and meat, the value of animal and animal products shipments dropped sharply from $57,300,000 to $29,300,000 while smaller shipments of planks, boards, wood pulp and newsprint cut exports of wood and wood products from $94,546,000 to $68,226,000.

Exports of farm produce rose from $45,900,000 to $53,100,000, largely as a result of an increase in wheat exports from $15,061,000 to $28,910,000. During the nine months, wheat exports rose from $148,488,000 to $312,273,000. Total farm exports for the nine-month period were $540,500,000 compared with $405,100,000.

Newsprint shipments declined to $32,681,000 from $36,939,000 but the nine months total was up to $310,180,000 from $277,953,000.

Three Enrolled By Norwood WI

NORWOOD, Oct. 27 (ENS) — Three women were enrolled at the October meeting of the Women's Institute held in the library. They were Mesdames J. Chevers, A. Spring and F. Tedree.

Mrs. Fred Gardner, president, was in the chair. It was decided that receipts be issued for membership fees, and in the future all Institute members of the Blue Cross Hospital Plan will be notified by mail two weeks before premiums are due. Cards of thanks were read and a donation also was received from one of the recipients. Mrs. Roy Baker reported on the banner meeting held during Dental Health Week in Peterborough.

Mrs. A. Gill donated a hot plate for use by the Institute. Mrs. Fred Gardner gave a reading.

Tea was served by Mrs. O. M. Bannan, Mrs. Hubert Carbrey, Mrs. Charles Davey, Mrs. Davidson and Mrs. A. Duckworth.

The next meeting will be held in the Library on Nov. 4.

Presbyterial Head At Mount Pleasant

MOUNT PLEASANT, Oct. 27 (ENS)—Mrs. A. M. Ward, president of Peterborough Presbytery of the W. A. was a guest at the October meeting of Mount Pleasant W. A. Mrs. H. H. Lowes, local president, was in the chair.

Mrs. M. Jones was in charge of the devotional period.

The president reported a box had been sent overseas. There were four letters of thanks from the sick who had been sent cards.

Mrs. Ward explained the privileges of being affiliated to the Peterborough Presbytery.

Mrs. H. Bland organized a Hallowe'en contest and Mr. H. Jamieson, a biblical contest.

Lunch was served by the hostess who was assisted by Mrs. Lawson Sr., and Mrs. Downer.

Granted Asylum

LONDON, Oct. 27—(Reuters)—The British Government today granted asylum to Mihaly Gerencser 55-year-old passport clerk at the Hungarian Embassy here. Gerencser resigned his post four days ago after the foreign office had demanded his recall as a reprisal for the alleged kidnapping by Hungarian police of a former engineer at the British Legation in Budapest.

No Commission On House Costs Gov't Decides

OTTAWA, Oct. 27—(CP)—Reconstruction Minister Winters said today the Federal government does not intend to establish a Royal Commission "at this time" to investigate home-building costs.

He made the statement in a letter to A. R. Mosher, President of the Canadian Congress of Labor. The minister was replying to a letter made public by Mr. Mosher Wednesday in which the head of the 360,000-member Congress asked the government to set up immediately an investigating Royal Commission or a parliamentary committee.

"We quite agree that this phase (costs) of housing activity require the close attention which it now is receiving from agencies of government," Mr. Winters said in the letter. "Others concerned in the housing field are also seeking and finding ways and means to reduce housing costs.

Discussed In House

The government, however, does not feel that consideration of residential costs by a Royal Commission is needed at this time," Mr. Winters added. "Within the next few weeks there will be several opportunities for full discussion of housing in the House of Commons."

The Minister added:

"The present position is that new houses cost about twice what they did 10 years ago. The increase in price has been somewhat greater for existing houses than for new construction . . .

"The increase in the sales price of new smaller houses corresponds closely to the increase which has taken place in the price of building materials, and wage rates in the construction industry."

Mr. Winters pointed out that the government was continuing a policy that increased loans to home owners will only be made available if the home owner purchases his home at a fair and reasonable price.

"It is to be remembered that presently the home owner is on the average buying a better house than he did 10 or 15 years ago," The Minister added. "Mechanical equipment, as well as construction methods and material have improved to the extent that at least some of the present extra cost is represented by this difference in quality."

Car Crash Fatal To Sudbury Man

SUDBURY, Oct. 27 (CP)—William Parker, 24, one of two men seriously injured in a traffic accident Wednesday night, died in St. Joseph's Hospital today. He was the son of Mr. E. J. Parker and the late Mrs. Parker of Sudbury and grandson of Mrs. T. J. Parker and the late T. J. Parker of Lakefield.

Parker, a passenger in a car driven by Walter Radicioni, 23, was thrown from the car and pinned underneath when the car rolled over rounding a curve. The car swerved to the side of the road and landed on its left side, twisting the left door practically off and breaking off the left rear wheel.

Parker suffered head and internal injuries. Radicioni, who suffered internal injuries, today was described as in "fair condition" by hospital authorities.

Russ Ambitions Dangerous Hoffman Warns

MONTREAL, Oct. 27—(CP)—The world can compress more progress into the next quarter century than was achieved in the last half century, Paul G. Hoffman declared today in an address to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Hoffman, who is administrator of the United States Economic Co-operation Administration, and therefore the chief figure in carrying out the European Recovery Program, made it clear that this progress will depend upon the restoration of Europe.

On that, advances are being made: "The European people have regained confidence in their future; in their ability to hold on to their freedom."

Mr. Hoffman warned against the ambitions of Russia, but expressed the belief that she cannot succeed on her present line.

"We of the free world insist that peace must be a peace of justice.

Wilful Group of Men

"The great block to that kind of peace is the ambition of a small and wilful group of men in the Kremlin for world conquest. It may be difficult for you, in peaceful Canada, to wrap your mind around the fact that the Red Fascists are planning to take over this country of yours in due course. But nothing less than this is in their minds. Of course, Western Europe was first on their timetable; then Asia; then Africa, and finally North America.

Lovers Part In Tears Ordered To Wait Two Years

COBOURG, Oct. 27 (ENS)—A story of a thwarted love affair that ended in a charge of theft, was told in court Wednesday during the trial of three Toronto teen-agers, Albert Pink, 19; Joan Todd, age 17, and Robert Pink, 17. They were charged with theft of a diamond ring, a bracelet and some pillow slips and socks, stolen from Mrs. Clarence Coyte of Hope Township on Oct. 5. The three had stayed there for two days earlier this month, Mrs. Coyte being an aunt of Joan Todd. Magistrate R. B. Baxter remanded Robert Pink to the custody of his father and the girl to the custody of her mother. Albert Pink is to be released on Monday and will be turned over to his father to be looked after.

Joan Todd, who is a former resident of Peterborough, told the court that she met Albert Pink about a year and a half ago. Her mother was opposed to Pink and her thinking seriously of one another and the final outcome was their decision to run away. They went to Collingwood where they took out a marriage license in June, but her mother learned of their intentions and notified the police that she was getting out a warrant alleging delinquency on the part of her daughter and the wedding did not come off.

They then went to the west coast. They were still travelling, after returning east, when they went to her aunt's place in Hope Township. The girl related that her mother restricted her activities too much; that she would not let her stay out after 11 at night.

Mrs. Todd was quite voluble in her comments of the love affair of her daughter and the fair-haired Albert Pink. Pink and Joan sat together on the prisoners' bench. Robert Pink sat next to his brother and the father of the two youths sat a few yards away. Mrs. Todd left no doubt in the court's mind that she didn't want her daughter and Albert Pink going together.

"He didn't mind helping her to get a job but didn't try hard to land one for himsef. He told lies to her. I swore out the warrant for delinquency to get her away from Bert Pink. I thought I would give her another chance but I am so disgusted with the way she has acted that perhaps I will go ahead with the warrant and let it come up in the family court," Mrs. Todd said.

From Pillar to Post

The father of the two youths explained to the court that he had served overseas. He was divorced from his first wife. The boys had been "kicked from pillar to post." "I'd like to see this affair between the girl and Albert broken up. I'd like to take the boys home," he said.

"It doesn't appear that Joan wants to go home very badly and I don't know if it would be the best thing if she did go home. Her mother is using that delinquency warrant as a bludgeon. Albert has the makings of a good man but Robert is not so bad," observed Crown Attorney Hector Deyman.

"I haven't a record," said Albert Pink emphatically. "I didn't do anything to get her away from home. As a matter of fact I took her back to her home once. All I ask for is an even break. If given a chance I am going to get a job and marry her if she wants me. It is not true that I got her a job and didn't try to get one myself. I was going to go to work at Loblaw's in Collingwood."

"I was helping him fix up a couple of rooms for them. He was going to work for Loblaw's," Robert Pink said.

"We were going to get married in Collingwood but her mother had the police in. All I want is for her to get a break," pleaded Albert.

"I think the best thing both of you could do is to give up the idea of marriage for two years. Get a job, Albert Pink. Maybe you'll both know better and see things more clearly later on. I am going to remand Robert Pink to the custody of his father for two years. As for you, Joan Todd, your mother probably is fed up. Provincial Constable Nichol is pretty level-headed and he doesn't appear to think that Albert is all that he should be.

Mr. Duplessis Puts In His Oar

Premier Duplessis of Quebec is indignant because the Federal Government is not consulting him about the proposed amendments to the Canadian constitution. During the last decade we have been treated to too many of these displays of provincial pomposity and small-pot pretentiousness by both Ontario and Quebec leaders not to be weary of them. A premier of a province is supposed to attend to the affairs of his province; he is neither required nor expected to put his finger into the Federal pot. If Mr. Duplessis wants to have a political voice at Ottawa, then let him get himself elected to Ottawa and named a Cabinet Minister.

* * *

Premier St. Laurent has made it perfectly clear in Parliament and through letters to Mr. Duplessis that the legislative action which Parliament is now taking is designed to give the Federal Government power to amend Canada's constitution in Federal matters. The kernel of the Address to His Majesty which is now being considered has to do with Section 91 of the British North America Act and is as follows:

"The amendment from time to time of the constitution of Canada, except as regards matters coming within the classes of subjects by this Act assigned exclusively to the legislatures of the provinces, or as regards rights or privileges by this or any other constitutional act granted or secured to the legislature or the government of a province, or to any class of persons with respect to schools or as regards the use of the English or the French language."

* * *

Mr. St. Laurent has had to tell Premier Duplessis quite sharply that the Federal Government has the right to seek power to transfer constitutional authority over the Canadian Constitution from London to Ottawa, in matters of Federal interest, and that "as in the past we do not ask your consent nor any acquiescence." Mr. Duplessis says that he and his colleagues are "surprised at the particularly unfortunate tone" of this letter.

* * *

Since Mr. Duplessis has been butting in where he has no business to be, he has merited rebuke. At no time in Canada's history have the provinces been consulted about amendments limited to Federal matters. Mr. Stanley Knowles, CCF member, supported the Prime Minister and at the same time gave a sufficient reason for Prime Ministerial firmness with the Quebec Premier when he said: "It is highly important at this pivotal stage in our constitutional history that we make it clear that we are acting as a nation and not as a group of ten separate units. . . We should do what this resolution calls for, so far as clearly and exclusively federal matters are concerned, without consulting the provinces, so that we may avoid the pitfall of having the provinces say the Federal Government derives its powers to do so from the provinces. That position would bedevil us from this time forward."

* * *

The Canadian constitution has been emended eleven times. In only three cases were the provinces consulted, and then because they were directly concerned. There is no precedent for seeking and obtaining the provinces' consent to the present resolution.

Peterborough Flower Shows

The Peterborough Horticulture Society has for years held its own exhibition of flowers and garden produce, and these have given much pleasure to people who viewed them, and stimulated interest. Flowers are quiet things, and flower shows never have a mass appeal, so the members of the Society have sometimes become faint-hearted about their annual shows. This year, for instance, the suggestion was made within the society and after the display that next and subsequent years the flower show be merged with the Peterborough Fair, and limited to a display there.

If any words of ours will encourage the Horticulture Society to continue with its annual exhibitions we shall not withold them. The culture of gardens is part of the culture of the community. It is a hobby, a skill and an art which should be fostered and find increasing favour in a growing city of homes. Instead of limiting its efforts, we suggest to the Horticulture Society that now is the time to expand them. We can believe that the Society's best years lie ahead and that there is more latent enthusiasm for gardening in Peterborough now than at any other time in this century. The city and district's nineteenth century homes and spacious gardens of the gentry have disappeared, but there are more homes and gardens (even if they be smaller) than ever before, and more people have more time to give to them than ever before.

Next year Peterborough will observe its centenary as an incorporated town. It would be an excellent year to hold a really splendid horticultural exhibition and to show ourselves as well as other communities what Peterborough gardens and gardeners do at their best.

The Horticultural Society has other activities than holding a flower show, of course, and results of them and the encouragement the Society gives are evident in the parks, the factory sites, the lawns and the schools. It is one of the quietest and most effective organizations in the district.

Chemong Turn Stop Sign

The hazardous turn in the Chemong Road as it enters Reid Steet is now fortified by a stop sign. We have a notion that despite the sign accidents at that corner will not be reduced, for the reason that it is placed at the Reid Street end, and halts only north-bound traffic. The chief menace is south-bound traffic whizzing down the highway hill and blind to the cautionary flickers of the yellow light hanging over the intersection. Two really conspicuous highway signs 300 and 600 yards north of the intersection calling drivers' attention to the dangerous turn and to the yellow blinker would be more useful than the stop sign, we think. A rash of stop signs may be an indication of good intentions but it is not necessarily a remedy for bad traffic conditions. There can be too many stop signs, and a stop sign which is just a nuisance can be a menace.

Leave Toronto Alone

There is some confusion and misinformation abroad about the plebiscite which is to be taken in Toronto at the municipal elections. The question which will be put to the people will read: "Are you in favour of the city of Toronto seeking legislation to make amateur, professional and other forms of commercial sport legal on Sundays?" It will be seen that the question deals with a limited field. There is no suggestion that cocktail bars, movies, theatres and other entertainments should change their hours, as some people seem to think. The question is one of sports and deals, we presume, almost entirely with professional sport.

The problem is one which Toronto must settle for itself, and it is Toronto's business alone. It is useless for people living in smaller centres to express alarm at what they consider the growing godlessness of Toronto. The capital of Ontario is a very big city, and it is growing bigger. It cannot be expected forever to retain the manners and morals of Pumpkin Centre; big cities are very different in their nature, their needs and the composition of their population from small places. If Toronto wants commercial sport on Sundays, it will have it. As this is a free country, those who do not like commercial sport on Sundays will be under no compulsion to support it.

We feel that it is unwise for smaller Ontario municipalities to try to force their opinions on Toronto. But the pioneer habit of minding other people's business dies hard in Canada, and on the inter-municipal level it is still very strong.

Ontario Tobacco

The news that the tobacco growers of Southern Ontario have been paid $48,000,000 for their crop this year asks for more than a passing glance. That is a very large sum, $6,000,000 more than was paid for the 1948 crop. And tobacco is still not a crop which we associate readily with Ontario.

Yet our tobacco is of good quality, popular both in the American and British markets. Canadian cigar leaf, we are told, is esteemed next to the choicest Havana leaf by cigar makers in the U.S.A.; both cigar leaf and finished cigars of fine quality are exported from Canada.

This excellent Ontario tobacco is grown on some very unpromising soil which has, by proper management, been made suitable for this crop. Whether some of Peterborough county's poorer land could be used in this way or not we do not know; certainly the matter is worth investigating. For tobacco is a crop for which there is a growing demand, and it is becoming a big factor in Ontario agriculture.

A Danish scientist says that seaweed contains more growth-promoting vitamins than butter. Isn't it high time the dairymen got a law against seaweed?

Fifty Years Of Scottish Painting

By IAN FINLAY

THERE are critics in Britain who deny there is any such thing as a Scottish School of Painting. They are probably right. "School" is too precise a term. But anyone who has made a careful study of Scottish painters knows they have qualities in common which at once mark them out for what they are. Those qualities have never shown themselves so clearly or consistently as in the past fifty years.

◆ ◆ ◆

FIFTY years ago the group known as the Glasgow School had passed its prime, and the landscapist William McTaggart (1835-1910) had reached his zenith. The Glasgow men were well known on the Continent of Europe. They took by storm Vienna, Dresden, Buda-Pesth, Venice, Brussels, St. Petersburg. Their pictures were bought by such galleries as the Pinakothek in Munich, and a national stamp on their work was at once conceded by European critics. A happy sense of colour and pattern was their chief virtue; but their staunchest admirers today would not claim a great master among them. McTaggart, on the other hand, unknown abroad, attained to far greater heights, and his is the significant name at the opening of the century.

◆ ◆ ◆

IT is difficult to explain McTaggart to those who are not Scots, impossible to "translate" him. He yields himself up to his emotions, tries to paint the unpaintable, whether it be spray, or wind, or the screams of seagulls, or the blinding white light of summer on his western beaches. He was a born impressionist, discovered his own sort of impressionism years before Monet discovered in Turner "la sensation d'une eblouissante confirmation de ce qu'il cherchait". This divine madness is no doubt a quality common to all great artists, but the Celt perhaps more than others gives himself up to its urge at the cost of structure.

◆ ◆ ◆

THIS weakness was fully realized by the man who, following McTaggart, became the leading Scots painter of his generation—Samuel John Peploe (1871-1935). Peploe had McTaggart's sensibility but it was kept in check by an intellect for ever unsatisfied by results. Periods in France developed this side of him. The first influence to affect him was Manet, and he found a fluent style which excited the dealers and promised him easy conquest of success. However, it is typical of Peploe that he distrusted this. He returned to a Paris in the grip of Futurism and Cubism, and the simplification and symbolism of the Cubists showed him the way to a code of discipline which changed his manner of painting, to the dismay of many. The paintings which most people associate with his name date from this time. They are still-lifes and landscapes in which the colour is bold and vibrant, and the design often emphasized by heavy black outlines which draw it together and give the picture something of an abstract character. Technically, this is perhaps his ablest work. It is rich and arresting, with lovely passages of colour, but the painter seems obsessed with aesthetic problems. It is impossible not to regret sometimes the strength of the French influence, and one cannot help wondering if future critics will not see in this series of paintings (each bearing a similarity to the other often carried to the point of monotony), the seduction by alien ideals which betrayed so much English and Scottish painting two centuries ago, when Rome was the Mecca.

◆ ◆ ◆

THE contemporary scene is difficult to assess. The spontaneity and excitements of McTaggart live again in William G. Gillies, who is, however, far more versatile. He must be one of the most versatile painters living today. His moods change as quickly as the moods of nature do in the North, and each mood seems to evoke a new treatment. Sometimes sheer delight in colour is all that matters to him; at another time preoccupation with line is as complete as it is with a Chinese. In line-work, his brush shows an almost barometric sensitivity to atmosphere, and with Oriental economy of statement he records the dry deadness of grass in winter or the spring resurgence of sap into a twig. He is a Romantic in the profoundest sense, and a happy painter whose happiness pervades the whole of his prolific output. He is essentially a countryman, living in another and much healthier world than the "ism"-ridden studios of cities. Equally a countryman, and devoted to his garden, is John Maxwell, but in most things he is the antithesis of Gillies. He paints little, and with effort. At times his mind seems to dwell in a world near to the worlds of Klee or Max Ernst. At other times he wanders near the verge of naturalism. But always he is concerned with psychic images and situations, sensitively apprehended and set down with deep poetic sense.

◆ ◆ ◆

SCOTLAND is a small country, but it has more constituent elements than most large ones. This is clearly illustrated in contemporary painting. There is a rugged, uncompromising strength in the work of D. M. Sutherland, suggesting the granite and the chill east winds of Aberdeen, where he lived for long. There is something which seems to link up with Scandinavia in the strong, stark, elemental colour of William McTaggart, grandson of the great landscapist, who has painted a good deal in Norway. There is something gothic in the "ghostly" romanticism of William Geissler. Many of the younger men have followed conventionally in the footsteps of Picasso. Too many by so doing have got lost in the desert sands of cosmopolitanism; but one or two, William Crosbie among them, have shown an increasing northern bent which should save them from that fate.

◆ ◆ ◆

COSMOPOLITANISM of course threatens the arts everywhere today. Too-easy intercourse has made it one of the two biggest problems facing the artist. A small country such as Scotland, with no very strong tradition in the visual arts, is in particular danger of losing its identity. The virtues of a well-rooted culture have long been recognized by Scottish poets and writers, and among them there is a healthy reaction towards vernacuiar and Gaelic literature — Gaelic, a Celtic tongue, being the native speech of the far north and west. Artists, unfortunately, are less articulate. A conscious effort to cultivate the native virtues in the arts is far more difficult; but many eyes are on the folk movements of Scandinavia, and there is a feeling in some quarters that an attempt to revive crafts which once flourished in Scotland may be the soundest basis on which to build up the strength of native art.

Princess Elizabeth and Divorce

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

WE respect and admire Princess Elizabeth. We have said so on more than one occasion. She has been a model of everything people expect in the members of the Royal Family—lovely, gracious, and a conscientious worker in the exacting tasks of Royalty. That she has been accorded the respect and affection of millions is a tribute to both her character and her behaviour.

We question, however, the propriety of her pronouncement on so controversial a subject as divorce. Publicly, the Royal Family remains traditionally aloof from controversial matters. Members of it do not publicly express political preference, and they seek in many other ways to preserve outward impartiality. That they have preferences and opinions is not for a moment doubted, but for obvious reasons these are seldom, if ever, expressed when doing so means taking one side or the other in a controversy.

That the subject of divorce is controversial is generally acknowledged. Further proof of this fact was quickly furnished, following Princess Elizabeth's statement, by Mr. R. S. W. Pollard, chairman of a committee of sociologists and lawyers who want divorce made easier. Mr. Pollard publicly rebuked the Princess, and flatly contradicted her, declaring that "divorce and separation are not themselves responsible for the evils she refers to".

Divorce is legal in the nations of the British Commonwealth—and many others. It is recognized by millions of people, by the state, and by some religions as a necessary and desirable institution. On the other hand, it is strongly condemned by at least one great religious denomination and by many individuals. It is fitting, then, that the woman who will one day rule in England should take a side when such utterly opposed opinions exist among her people and the peoples of the Commonwealth?

We think not. We think it is unfair to the majority of divorced persons in Britain to imply that they are, because divorced, at least partly responsible for "some of the darkest evils in our society today". The fact that we consider the statement at least grossly exaggerated has no bearing on the criticism we have expressed in this article. The same criticism would apply had Princess Elizabeth taken the other extreme in the controversy and accused those who reject or forbid divorce of contributing to human misery.

World's Tallest Tree?

Australia has long disputed with California and British Columbia the honour of having the world's tallest trees. When the matter was raised recently in the Australian geographical magazine, Walkabout, A. G. Campbell quoted a letter written on January 18, 1869, by David Boyle of Forest Hill, 25 miles from Melbourne, Victoria.

Mr. Boyle states that he and Mr. N. J. Caire had just measured a eucalyptus tree in the ranges nearby and had found it to be 466 feet high. It was 114 feet in circumference at the base and 81 feet at four feet from the ground.

Cost of Strikes

It is estimated that strikes in the United States since the end of the war have cost over $6,000,000,000.

That is the dollar cost; the toll in morale, industrial tensions and misery in the homes is beyond any human measurement.

According to U.S. News and World Report the wages lost by strikes in the bituminous transportation equipment $412,000,000 and in other industries some $1,500,000,000.

Footnote On Treason

(Montreal Star)

The other day we commented on a piece by the London Economist in which a British writer found evidence of treasonable intent in those who exhibit "a systematic and unreserved devotion to the cause of a foreign state." A judge in Australia has added a footnote to this.

Laurence Sharkey, general secretary of the Australian Communist party, said early last year that Australian workers would welcome Soviet forces entering Australia in pursuit of aggressors. Recently he was found guilty of seditious utterance and sentenced to three years' imprisonment. In sentencing him Judge Francis Dwyer said:

"Sedition is a crime against society allied to that of treason and it frequently precedes treason by a short interval."

Of course no man can be prosecuted for treason before he has committed the offence, but seditious utterance tells us where to look for treason when the opportunity to exercise it comes.

The Old Cider Press

In earlier days, there would be several cider presses in each rural community. Our pioneers were not wasteful people. They used all wind-falls, or other apples which would not keep, either for making dried apples or cider. And if anything was nicer than a good dried apple pie, it would be a drink of nice cool cider from the cellar.

We don't know why the practice died out. We can't image that folks just suddenly lost their taste for this delicious liquid. But there are few cider mills in Ontario now. And because of it, in orchards throughout the province apples are allowed to rot on the ground—not just a few apples but literally barrels of them.

GLASSWARE FROM THE FIRST CENTURY, AD, of great rarity and beauty, was presented to McGill University by Sydney S. Sperber, of Montreal. The objects were placed on display in the Museum of Biblical Antiquity, Divinity Hall, where the above photo was taken. The fiery irridescence of the large plate, some 20 centuries old, was the result of the glass being buried for hundreds of years in the earth, before the plate was dug up by archaeologists. More than two dozen other glass objects of great rarity have been given to McGill by Mr. Sperber.

Says Rebuilding Of Cities Job For Future

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor.

Some glimpses of things that should keep people busy are given at the current annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

Ralph Bradford, executive vice-president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, predicts the virtual tearing down and rebuilding of cities.

Said Mr. Bradford:

"Aside from the matter of slums and blighted areas, even the best of our cities are anachronisms in their essential arrangement. They are crowded in upon congested centres which. . . have heaved themselves up into vertical masses.

"Without widening our streets we have piled normal city upon normal city, and have crowded into them a work-day population that is out of all proportion. . .

Must Be Reorganized

"Some day these cities will all have to be reorganized and in some cases wrecked and rebuilt with their proud masses de-emphasized, their commercial processes decentralized and their horizontal planes broadened to accommodate the amazing transport of jet and gyro and flying wing."

And a few hours later, the Eastern Ontario town of Alexandria suggested something along the same line.

D. A. MacDonald, speaking for the Alexandria Chamber, asked the national executive to make a study in the coming year of the possibilities for decentralization of industry.

George M. Murray, of Dawson Creek B. C., presented another possibility for industry. He said there is a vast market for manufactured goods in agricultural areas of western Canada if industry goes after it properly. Twenty-five thousand homes in western Canada, he stated, are without facilities for running water.

NAVY MATTERS—After conferring with President Truman in Washington, Defense Secretary Louis Johnson (right) and Navy Secretary Francis Matthews talk to reporters. Johnson wouldn't comment on reports of a shake-up in the Navy high command, but admitted that he and Matthews conferred with the President about the inter-service unification battle.

EYE TOPICS

THE MARVELOUS GATEWAY

The wonders of the world pour into your brain through your eyes — eyes that are so small that either could be covered with a postage-stamp. It is estimated that 83% of the facts you have acquired about the world, the stars, and all nature have come through your eyes. In a compact space within your head are a whole chemical laboratory and a complete photographic system.

When a picture is taken by a camera, an image must be formed on a sensitive film developed by a suitable chemical, and fixed by another. This produces a negative. Then a positive must be made, developed and fixed. And if it is a motion picture, a screen, projector and elaborate lighting system must be provided.

In the case of the eye, however, picture-taking, chemical work, and recording are done quickly and without effort. The eye photographs its picture on the retina, develops them chemically and transmits them immediately to the brain by means of a complex set of nerves. The seeing centres which lie in the back of the brain instantly interpret these pictures as impressions from the outer world. Thus the human photographic system functions. It does a very efficient job. The normal eye handles color and size faithfully. Everything is registered in correct perspective.

However, there are fewer normal eyes than most people think. Only about thirty per cent of the Canadian people see efficiently. Ophthalmic science is ready to come to the rescue of the others.

Urges Clearing House For Surplus Foods

WINNIPEG, Oct. 27 (CP) — Norris Dodd, Director-General of the United Nations food and agriculture organization, said Wednesday that establishment of an international commodity clearing house would permit surplus food products to flow from areas of plenty to areas of want.

Such a body would "bridge" the currency gap until long-term solutions of convertible currencies and multilateral trade agreements could be worked out, Dodd told the annual meeting of the Manitoba Pool Elevators in a prepared address.

Dodd said the proposal was put forward by a group of independent experts who worked with the FAO staff. It will be put before the annual conference of the 58 member countries of the FAO.

Soviet Has New First Stalin Invented U.N.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27—(AP)—Russia has laid claim to a new "first": the idea for the United Nations came from Prime Minister Stalin.

The Soviet radio, which often credits Russians with pioneering in many fields, said in domestic broadcast recorded Wednesday:

"The idea of forming an international organization for the support of peace and security came from the Soviet Union, from Comrade Stalin. Already in 1944 Comrade Stalin voiced the idea of the necessity of forming an organization for the defence of peace and the safeguarding of security from among the representatives of peace-loving nations."

That, of course, is not the way American officials understand it. Cordell Hull was called "the father of the the U.N." by the late President Roosevelt when Hull retired as secretary of state in November, 1944.

Blames Labor Gov't

LONDON, Oct. 27—(Reuters)—Winston Churchill Wednesday blamed the Labor Government's "cramping and disastrous rule" for Britain's present difficulties. The Conservative leader told a meeting of more than 1,000 people in his parliamentary constituency of Woodford, near London, that in the current debate in the House of Commons on economy cuts they are witnessing "the funeral preparations of the socialist government."

Judgement Reserved

COBOURG, Oct. 27 (ENS) — Judgment was reserved in county court by Judge M. A. Miller in connection with the damage action brought by Earl Whaley of Colborne against Delmar Ferguson of Trenton. The claim was for $300 damages arising out of a collision between two motor vehicles owned by the litigants.

VANISHES AT SEA—Stuart Benson, 72, noted sculptor, mysteriously disappeared at sea while returning from France on the Polish liner Sobieski. Benson, whose statues are exhibited at top American museums and art galleries, was on his way home to Westport, Conn.

Co-ordinating Officer For New Youth Group

MILLBROOK, Oct. 27 (ENS) — The recently formed interdenominational young peoples group appointed additional officers at their meeting Monday in the Sunday schoolroom of St. Andrew's church.

Jean Smith was appointed coordinator to help all new officers who required assistance with their duties and to supply for any who might be absent, Edith Elson as sing song convener; Beverley Patton as pianist and Christina Bland, asssitant. The Rev. T. G. Husser inducted these officers.

Bennett Hanley, Jessie Dawson and Betty Forsythe were appointed as bowling committee.

It was decided that the next meeting on Oct. 31 would take the form of a Hallowe'en party and that the Omemee young peoples group should be invited. It will be held in St. Andrew's Sunday schoolrooms.

Don Spicer, the president, was in the chair. Anne Dawson, fellowship convener, conducted the devotional period which had as its theme "God of the Hills." The Rev. T. G. Husser showed films to illustrate this theme, and also films of Guatemala, with his new lantern projector.

2 Hockey Teams Will Play Extra Period

TORONTO, Oct. 27—(CP)—An unfinished Ontario Hockey Association junior A game, played between St. Catharines Teepees and Toronto Marlboros at St. Catharines, Oct. 21, will be finished with one 20-minute period when the teams next meet at St. Catharines in the regular schedule, the OHA executive announced Wednesday night.

The period will be run off ahead of the regular game with a 20-minute intermission.

The Oct. 21 contest was called after the second period when fog conditions on the ice made play hazardous. Teepees were leading 6-3 at the time.

With regard to games governed by straight time, the executive approved a suggestion by secretary George Panter that the last minute in the final period be played with time out.

Markham and Stoufville will be recognized as Senior B clubs, the executive ruled, and will be allowed to draw players to the boundaries of Toronto, Peterborough, Lindsay and Whitby. The six-player residence rule will be waived, but a cider says the clubs may not use players from any municipality which has a club for which players are eligible.

Curling News

ONE NICHOLLS LEFT—Several seasons ago there were four Nicholls of Bobcaygeon with the Legion hockey club here, Ross, Act, Percy and Ernie. Now, only Ross remains with the team, and he is starring in goal once again as the senior "B" champions play exhibitions in preparation for their OHA schedule.

PCVS Juniors End Schedule With Win Over St. Peter's

PCVS juniors footballers humbled a desperate St. Peter's High School grid team Wednesday afternoon at Nicholls Oval 37-0. An aerial attack by St Peter's which proved to be successful for the first three-quarters of the game was their undoing in the fourth as passes were intercepted allowing PCVS to roll up 18 points.

End runs and some timely punting by Young shoved the PCI'ers head 13-0 in the first but the St. Peter's boys fought back and managed to ward off the PCVS squad in the second and hold them scoreless. For the first few minutes of the second half the St. Peter's continued to hold their own but PCVS began to tear through the line on plunges and runs skirting the ends. A major score by the Collegians ended the quarter. St. Peter's line continued to play sloppy ball in the fourth and with their passes being intercepted, PCVS scored three majors, converting two and having a kick to the deadline.

Armstrong and Picard flipped short 5-yard passes during the first half, most of which were completed. They attempted longer passes the last half. The tall boys, particularly Stewart for PCVS, outstretched the St. Pete's boys for interceptions. Young's passing was unsuccessful throughout the game with only one being completed in the last quarter when McIlraith reached high up for the catch. He fell to the ground and was smeared, being hurt on the play.

Neat Plunging

Langhorne, Craw and Fowler went nice for the PCI'ers on the plunging plays. Several times they managed to break through for 15 yards. Stewart played a wide-awake game intercepting passes and did some good broken-field running.

Brioux for the St. Pete's boys was the standout with his booting and plunges. His runbacks (he took the ball most of the time averaged 15 yards throughout the game as he managed to elude the PCVS tacklers with ease. Armstrong was their strongest on the attack with his good passing to Tom Cavanagh.

Facendi played an outstanding game with his blocking and tackling for the PCVS squad.

Craw started the ball rolling in the first when he carried the ball around end at the PCVS 32 and went down the side to the SPHS' 34. St. Peter's recovered a PCVS fumble on the next play and Brioux booted to Langhorne at the PCVS 40 lateralling to Stewart who carried to the 8-yard line. Fowler went through centre for the touch with Young converting for the extra. Later Young booted from SPHS 35 for a point to make the score 7-0. Near the end Fowler went for six yards from the SPHS 46. Stewart carried on the next play to the eight. On the last play of the quarter Stewart went around the end for a touch, Young again converting to make it 13-0.

Held Scoreless

St. Peter's tried hard in the second and at the start of the third to score but only held the PCVS' boys scoreless. Fowler intercepted a pass at St. Pete's 47 near the end of the quarter Stewart, Langhorne and Fowler carried to the one-yard line where Young went over on a quarter sneak. He again converted for the point to end the third quarter.

Stewart intercepted McCormick's pass early in the fourth at the PCVS 30 and went the length of the field for a touch. Young booted his fourth straight convert. Several minutes later Laverne Jones booted to Young at the PCVS 25. Young lateralled to Langhorne who in turn lateralled to Stewart at the PCVS 35. Stewart again ran the length of the field for a touch. Young's kick was bad. Young called a pass play two minutes later on the SPHS 43 and threw to Langhorne at the SPHS 25 who was in the clear and went over for the third major of the quarter Young made this kick good. On the last play of the game Young booted to the deadline for the final point.

This was the final game of the C Division of the Lakeshore Junior grouping. PCVS had four straight wins while St. Peter's had one win and three losses as did the Lindsay Collegiate juniors.

British Writer Dies

SOUTHEND, Essex, England, Oct. 27—(Reuters)—George Kernahan Bettany, 58, British writer of westerns and other thrillers who gathered "atmosphere" for them during several years' stay in Canada, died here Wednesday. His latest book, "Man Hunt," is to appear shortly.

Confeds At Top At Finish Of Soccer Loop

Two smart school soccer teams —Confederation and Prince of Wales—divided the league points in a 1-all tie Wednesday afternoon at King Edward Park. This puts Confederation in the lead and Prince of Wales along with Central and King George for second place.

Cautious tactics prevailed, in the early stages, with Prince of Wales being more aggressive, aided with the wind. There was no scoring in the first half. On resuming, Confederation took the initiative through combination that brought out the superb defence of Bowes and Whitney, full backs; and Pagett, at centre-half. Faiers broke away on the left wing to find the custodian after him but he shot the ball into the empty goal where Downer completed. Confederation gained that one back through Dunstan on an individual effort.

Prince of Wales—D. Colt, goal; H. Bowes and C. Whitney, full backs; B. Spiers, G. Pagett and J. Heron, half backs; W. Downer, B. Faiers, P. Evans, L. Barrie and K. Lowell, forwards. Subs: H Pullybank, L. Stone, B. Chamberlain, J. Banner.

Confederation—M. Bryan, goal; M. Parry and R. Brooks, full backs; B. Bryan, E. Dunstan and T. Post, half backs; B. Davis, R. Holland, G. Corner, S. Pearton, and C. Simmons, forwards. Subs: A. Rogers, G. McIntosh and P. Chesher.

Referee—Mr. Druery.

Get Into Play-offs

Central battled their way back into the play-offs by defeating King George 3-1 Wednesday at King George school grounds.

Right from the kick-off, Central were back on the defensive to hold King George eleven to a one goal lead at the interval. Central, aided with the high wind, registered twice through Delahey in the second half. Just in the last minute, Brooks made it 3-1 on a flag-kick taken by Mongraw.

King George—P. McIlmoyle, goal; D. Barclay and D. Feli, half backs; L. McKenzie, R. Fuller and R. McKenzie, half backs; G. Barker, B. Simpson, R. Withers, B. Fairs and D. Crowder, forwards. Subs: O. Thompson, C. Butcher, F. Johnston and D. Roote.

Central—R. Grey, goal; R. Rowe and J. Murrie, full backs; S. Brooks, D. Noble and J. Heffernan, half backs; B. Delahey, D. Patterson, B. Gardner, L. Mongraw, and J. Rowley, forwards. Subs: C. Craymer and D. Bye.

Referee—Mr. Currie.

King Edward were defeated 2-1 by Queen Alexandra soccer team Wednesday in the final league game of the season.

Queen Alexandra set the ball in motion to get the only counter in the first half through Nicholls. On resuming Frizelle got the equalizer for King Edward. In the last minute, McLennan got the winning counter.

King Edward—J. Hoggart, goal; R. Tarkington, and C. Clayton, full backs; J. Hobart, E. Robbins half backs; P. Detlor, G. Frizzelle, A. Phillips R. Hobart and J. Sutherland, forwards.

Queen Alexandra—J. Pierson, goal; R. Lang and R. Harrison, full backs; R. McKinney, W. Kemp, and D. Ham, half backs; R. Marklin, G. McLellan, M. Weir, P. Johnston and B. Nicholls, forwards. Subs: H. Alton, K. Brown, R. Turnbull, D. Stewart.

Referee—Mr. McNeil.

2 Boxing Officials Lose Their Licences

DETROIT, Oct. 27 (AP)—The Michigan Boxing Commission on Wednesday revoked the licences of two officials who handled the controversial Lester Felton-Kid Gavilan fight.

Commission secretary Leo Souriall said both referee Morrie Sherman and Judge Sam Pearlstein were "lax in their duties as defined by the Commission" in supervising and judging the fight at Olympia Stadium last Friday night.

Sherman and Pearlstein gave the decision to Felton while the third judge, Joe Lenahan, voted for Gavilan.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC PERDUE, Sports Editor.

It is unfortunate that the recreation program will be curtailed here next year as an economy measure, and it's too bad Peterborough loses its recreation director, Jack Dane. He appeared to be doing a good job in the large recreational structure. The program will assuredly deteriorate. Sports was but one phase of this program and major athletics in the community never did come under control of the commission. Minor sports the past few years have been getting help from the commission, as set up by the city council, and it is likely that much of this work will revert in time back to the council. Or so it seems now. Well, we can but wait and see what may be done.

* * * * * *

Comes an off-season baseball blurb from the Quinte scribe: "Belleville next year will have a team on a par with the best not only in Central Ontario but the effete western part of the province as well. And the machinery has already started to click. There can be brought here from as far away as Texas six outstanding ball players, including a battery, an infield and an outfielder. Surely to heaven that should be a fair nucleus. All this is not a dream on our part. We know that a meeting has been held in this city recently regarding the importation of players. The meeting consisted of fine sportsminded men willing to back the idea not only with their moral sponsorship but in other ways as well." All this, he says, depending on the council fencing in and fixing up their lighted field.

Junior IOOF-ers Set

Coach Bun Kingdon and the Oddfellows' puck executive are streamlining the junior "B" squad now ere it swings into action here this week-end. An exhibition tilt Saturday night in Civic Arena, the local hopefuls tackling a junior "B" bunch from St. Mike's of Toronto. Some 60 or 65 hustling young prospects turned out in early fall workouts with the IOOFers, and the whittling process has been going on for weeks. Some of last year's good team are still with the club but there are a lot of new faces from the city and other spots in the present lineup. We may have the list any day now, but we'll see the team plying its puck trade the end of the week, in any case.

* * * * * *

Doug Free won't line up with Legion this semester. He decided to stick with his job in Campbellford and will go with the TVL-ers there. Legion lost Bob Greenlaw and Ned Vitarelli of last season's senior "B" champs, but they have signed Keith Montgomery and Freddy Mortimer, and are still in the market for one more defenceman. They will be strong again, and the Ellis outfit has two exhibitions here next week, Midland coming Nov. 2 and Stouffville two nights later—that'll be Wednesday and Friday. The squad is in pretty fair shape already, and will drill at nine this p.m. in the arena.

* * * * * *

Comes a copy of the Post-Record from Sydney where Bob Greenlaw is performing for the Millionaires. It concerns a 5-5 game with Glace Bay (where Jake Wade played last winter) and Bob scored three goals. The item refers to rapid Robert as "the speedy right-winger" and adds: "Greenlaw was adjudged the shirt winner for his standout performance all night." The game was fast and rough in Glace Bay and drew a paid crowd of 3,113, pretty much an average there. Someone mentioned recently to us that Bob wasn't too fussy about the Sydney setup nor the financial arrangements, but that might be only idle rumor. We know Legion would welcome their leading sniper back, if he cared to transfer.

PCVS finished their junior grid group undefeated yester aft at the Oval, taking St. Peter's into camp handily. Stewart played a bangup game for Alex Londry's huskies, with Langhorne, Craw and Fowler among others catching the eye in this tussle. Brioux was good for the Saints, and Armstrong and Cavanagh got in effective work in spots. The PCI-ers dominated group play throughout the short season, and they will keep in trim with an exhibition against Grove School at the Oval on Saturday afternoon. Cobourg and Oshawa are playing off in the other section now, the winner to meet PCVS for lakeshore honors and the right to proceed into COSSA playdowns. The senior PCVS pack ends its schedule Saturday in the Motor City.

His suits were filed in connection with a metallic lubricant and with claims that Mae West and others infringed on his rights to use the name "Diamond Lil."

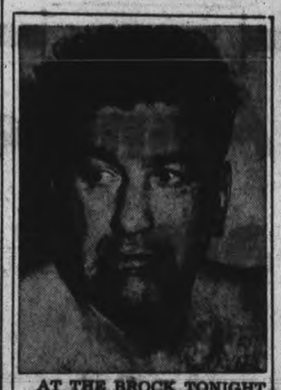
Bisons Down Mohawks 2-1

By The Canadian Press

Buffalo Bisons and New Haven Ramblers today share top spot in the Eastern Division of the American Hockey League. The Bisons moved into first place Wednesday night with a 2-1 victory over Cincinnati Mohawks while the Ramblers lost a 6-5 decision to Providence Reds.

Meanwhile, in the league's Western Section, St. Louis Flyers climbed into second place tie with Indianapolis Capitals by blasting Hershey Bears 7-4. The Caps were idle.

The league-leading Cleveland Barons lost an opportunity to pull further away from their rivals when they were defeated 4-1 by Pittsburgh Hornets. The Barons now lead St. Louis and Indianapolis by only a single point.



The Bisons drew first blood at Cincinnati when Ab Demarco netted his own rebound with slightly less than three minutes of play in the first period.

Murdo McKay scored what proved to be the winning counter after only 43 seconds of the middle frame when he out-skated the entire Cincinnati team and slid the puck under Gerry McNeil in the Mohawk nets.

Cincinnati's only goal came at the eight-minute mark of that period with Jimmy Moore the marksman.

Napanee Takes Game

NAPANEE, Oct. 27 — (CP). — A towering three-base smash by Vic Burtt in the sixth drove in both runs to give Napanee Athletics a 2-1 win Wednesday over Wallaceburg in the first game of the Intermediate B Ontario Baseball Association finals. The teams will play in Wallaceburg Saturday.

AT THE BROCK TONIGHT—Angelo Cistoldi, above, who takes on Pat Flanagan in the opening bout of tonight's mat card at the Brock. In the main event Fred Atkins ties into Frank Taylor, in what shapes up as a red-hot match. Seelie Samara, sensational colored star will attempt to unmask the Red Devil in the semi-final affair. It looks like an action-packed evening for the fans.

D. Martin Leads With 320 As Bowlers Go

Don Penrose rolled high with 787 in the Mercantile Bowling League, including a neat single of 296. Jack Gimblett hit 287. Verna Hopkins was best for the lasses with 242 as Ruby Pearse had high three of 629. Mae Willshaw of Utilities had a 238 effort. Utilities led the way in singles with 971 as A & P grossed 2,680. Liftlock took four points from Prudential while Braund's No. 2, New Centre, City Hall and A & P each took three respectively from Bond's, Loblaw's, Braund's No. 1, and Utilities. Points to date: Liftlock 14, A & P 11, Braund's No. 1 11, New Centre 11, City Hall 10, Utilities 7, Loblaw's 6, Bond Clothes 5, Braund's No. 2 3, Prudential 2.

In the Thursday Night League, Rangers rolled 2,469 in gaining three points from Maple Leafs, as Black Hawks took three from Americans, Canadiens three from Maroons, and Red Wings four over Bruins. High threesome went to P. Cummings of the Leafs with a 649 roll, while G. Gatfield of the Rangers led the way in singletons with a 252 effort. These competitions were run off a week ago in this loop.

Aces, Lucky Strikes, Tigers and Glengarrys each took two points respectively this week over Corvettes, Bombers, Commandos and Hurricanes in the YM senior lasses' loop. Dot Martin hung up the season's high triple and single with 786 and a fine 320, while Maizie Cunningham hit 731 with a 310 single. Gladys Pinch had 682, including 304, Beryl Csumrik hit 680, Shirley Heckman 666 and Janet Morrow 641. Other good singles were Ollie Searles 287, D. Martin 269, S. Heckman 284 and Z. Bell 255. The Aces rolled high of 3,062 and best game with a 1,078 effort.

Rangers Whip Bruins 5-2 Tied For Second Place

By JIM BASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

The awakened New York Rangers may finally be living up to coach Frank Boucher's pre-season promise.

The Rangers defeated Boston 5-2 in New York on Wednesday night and moved into a second-place tie with the Bruins in the National Hockey League. It may be that these Blueshirts will live up to Boucher's training-camp prediction that this Ranger team will be up there with the rest of them.

The victory— Rangers' second in a row—marked the first time since 1942 that New York has won a home NHL opener.

It was the only game Wednesday night and gave the Rangers a total of two victories, two ties and two losses for a total of six points— one behind the leading Montreal Canadiens. They got their first victory by defeating Chicago Black Hawks 2-1 Tuesday.

Tonight four teams move into action. The fifth-place Toronto Maple Leafs travel to Montreal to meet the Canadiens and the fourth-place Detroit Red Wings clash with the last-place Black Hawks at Chicago.

Starts It Off

Pentti Lund, Finnish-born winger who was presented with the Calder Memorial award by League President Clarence Campbell before the game for being voted the outstanding rookie in 1948-1949, sent the Rangers into the lead at 14:35 of the first period. Then Tony Leswick and Bing Juckes followed up with a goal each before the period ended.

The Rangers made it 4-0 at 4:03 of the second period when centre Edgar Laprade slipped a pass to rookie Gus Kyle, who shoved the puck past rookie netminder Jack Gelineau.

The Bruins first goal came when Zellio Toppazzini tallied at 13:47 unassisted while the Rangers were shorthanded. Then Ed Slowinski boosted the Rangers' margin to 5-1 at 15:48 as he converted Don Raleigh's pass.

The Bruins made it 5-2 with less than two minutes of the third period remaining, Pete Horeck ramming one past Chuck Rayner at 18:36.

Southworth Gets Series' Money

VERSAILLES, Ky., Oct. 27 (AP) —There's one assist baseball statisticians won't record this season. It came from Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

The boost was a financial one for manager Billy Southworth of Boston Braves.

The Commissioner announced here Wednesday he had directed that Southworth receive a full share of the World Series money earned by the fourth-finishing National League Boston club. Southworth, the Commissioner said was voted only a half share by the Boston players. A full share was worth $331.66 for the Braves.

"Rarely do we find an injustice," said Chandler, "but if we do we correct." He explained there had been other such cases previously.

Southworth apparently was not disturbed about the money split.

"Whatever the team decided to do—if they voted me a half share —that's all right with me," he said at his home at Sunbury, Ohio. "After all I was not with the team the full season and whatever they decided I am heartily in accord with."

Sarnia Swamps Windsor 9-1, Tigers Triumph

By The Canadian Press

The Eastern Canada grid play-off picture cleared partly Wednesday night with Hamilton Tigers and Sarnia Imperials clinching berths in the championship round of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

A league winner is still in doubt but Sarnia took the second play-off spot at home when the Imps defeated Windsor Rockets, 9-1, and dashed the Rockets' chances of catching a berth.

The front-running Hamilton Tigers, two points ahead of Sarnia with eight victories in 10 games, had little trouble blanking the last place Toronto Balmy Beaches, 14-0, in the other game Wednesdy night, played under floodlights at Toronto.

Playoff berths in the Western Interprovincial Football League have already been won by Calgary Stampeders and Regina's Saskatchewan Roughriders. That leaves the Interprovincial Union as the only senior league yet to decide its playoff spots and a potential Grey Cup entry.

Toronto Argonauts, who face Ottawa Rough Riders in the big four this week-end, can force a playoff with Montreal Alouettes for second place, and a playoff position, by winning this game and the schedule's windup contest in Montreal. Ottawa has already clinched first place.

A Slow Start

It took Tigers a full quarter to get rolling Wednesday night but when the Roaring Bengals hit their stride, they stunned the hapless Beaches with a touchdown, two field goals, a convert, a single and a touch-in-goal. Kicking specialist Doug Smith, called in as a running back to replace injured playing-coach Merle Hapes, ripped off several large gains for the winners who dominated play throughout.

Beaches' Bob Dunlop was rouged on a kick by Smith for the first Hamilton point with Smith picking up a second point with a touch-in goal a few minutes later. Joe Capriotti ended the second quarter scoring with a placement from close in.

Jim Caine picked up a major on an end around from the one-yard line, catching the Beach wingline by surprise, with Capriotti making the convert from placement. A fourth quarter placement by Capriotti ended the scoring.

Scheiers Stars

At Sarnia it was veteran Gus Scheiers who paced Imperials to their one-sided victory over the Rockets. Jack Bell was credited with the first Sarnia point, on a kick to the deadline, with Scheiers putting the game on ice in the second quarter when he boomed for a touchdown in the early minutes. Lloyd (Dutch) Davey converted.

Scheiers was rouged on Jack Brown's kick for Windsor's lone tally in the third session with Bill Weiss kicking two singles for the Imps in the last quarter.

On the Intercollegiate football front, it was learned that star halfback Bruce Cummings of the University of Toronto will be out of the lineup Saturday when Varsity meets first-place University of Western Ontario Mustangs at Toronto. Cummings suffered a knee injury at London last week against the Mustangs.

Top Police Marksman

TORONTO, Oct. 27 (CP)—Constable Ken Singleton of London, Ont., Wednesday won the crown as Ontario's top police marksman in a pistol-shooting meet on the 20-yard Fort York range. The defending champion, Det.-Sgt. W. Koopman of Toronto, placed second. In the grand aggregate Singleton scored 230 points out of a possible 240. Koopman's tally was .226.

E. Green, W. Watson Take Titles At Queen Mary Meet

Elizabeth Green was declared senior girls champion and Bill Watson senior boy titleholder at the annual field day of Queen Mary School held at the Bonnerworth Field. The meet was completed yesterday afternoon and was organized by Mr. L. McNeil, with the principal, O. M. Steer, master of ceremonies. Other officials were: D. Loomis, the Misses McIntosh, Chalk, Deyell, Stenton and Doughty, and Messrs. Scrutton, Weir and Lawless.

The senior girl winner had 18 points with Carol Wood (14) the runner-up. Bill Watson had 23 with Ronald Dunn next for boys with 18. Doris Gordon took intermediate girls' honors with 11, one better than Margaret Burnside, as Raymond Brady got 24 to lead intermediate boys, Bob Merrett compiling 17. Jean Ann Green with 20 led junior girls, Judy Briggs next with 12. Brendon Lincoln topped junior boys with 19 and Robert Hutton got 13. For teams, the Reds had 277 points the Greens 269 and the Golds 241. They were boys and girls of Grades 5-8. The results:

Marlboros Edge Tigers 4-3 St. Mike's Humble Spits

By The Canadian Press.

The general pattern is beginning to take shape in the Ontario Hockey Association. Some teams have shown themselves to be consistent winners in the comparatively new season. Others consistently lose.

Wednesday night, Toronto Marlboros took a two-point hop ahead of the other Ontario Senior Hockey Association teams when they defeated the last-place Hamilton Tigers 4-3 at Toronto. In the Junior Loop, Toronto St. Michael's Majors defeated the cellarite Windsor Spitfires 6-3 and Stratford Kroehlers scored a 4-1 victory over Guelph who share the cellar with Windsor.

Tigers fought gamely in the last frame to outscore the Duke's two-goal lead. The Bengals cut the lead by one goal near the halfway mark and yanked goalie Bruce Dale in favor of six forwards in that frame while Dukes were a man short, but failed to get the equalizer.

Johnny McLellan sank two for Marlboros and Al Buchanan and John McCormack each scored once. Clare Shillington, Murray Comfort and Frank Liscombé were the Hamilton marksmen.

St. Michael's took a one-goal lead in the first frame at Windsor but roared ahead in the second period to outscore the Spits 3-1. The Windsorites came back strongly in the final frame and play was evenly divided. Spits matched two Irish goals in that frame, but couldn't overcome the collegians' lead.

Do Scoring

Willie Marshall paced St. Michael's with three goals while Jack Ingoldsby, Jerry Labine, and Con Bonhomme each counted once.

The three Spitfire goals were by Eddie Stankiewicz, John Bailey and Glenn Skov.

Three fast goals in the last three minutes of play at Stratford gave the Kroehlers the game against Guelph Biltmores. Sloppy work around the goals and good goaltending by both goalies kept the first two periods scoreless. Stratford went head at the three minute mark of the third frame and Guelph tied it up less than three minutes later, but lost out when Kroehlers belted in three goals in less than 2½ minutes in the dying minutes of the game.

Denny Draper, Lorne Pernfuss, Roy Leckie and Steve Brklacich were the Stratford goal getters while Gerry Theberge sank the only Hatter goal.

Friday, three games are scheduled in the junior loop. St. Michael's play at St. Catharines in the Garden City. Oshawa travels to Guelph and Galt plays at Barrie.

In the Senior League, Toronto Marlboros play host to Owen Sound.

India Skips Games

NEW DELHI, Oct. 27 (Reuters)—India will not be represented at the Empire Games in New Zealand next February. This decision was taken by the Indian Olympic Association. The decision was dictated by financial considerations as well as lack of sufficient time for the selection of athletes, a spokesman of the association said

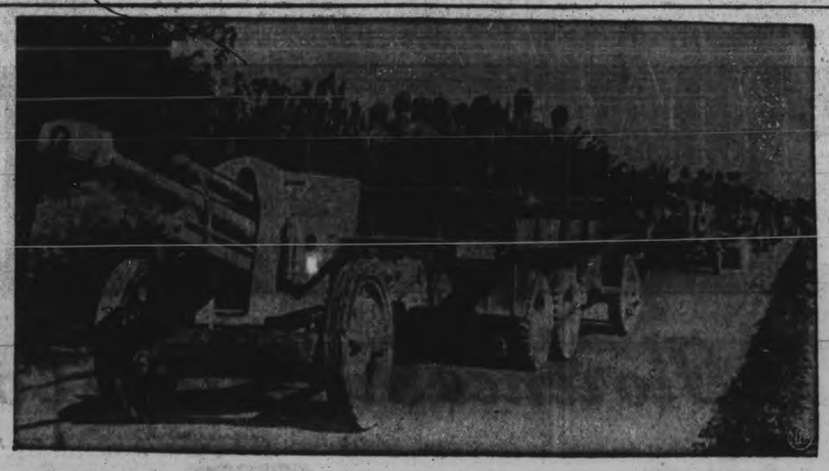
Lakefield Fair Pays Way; $12.82 Surplus

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 27 (ENS)—Surplus of receipts over expenditure at Lakefield fair is $12.82, Howard Beavis, secretary-treasurer, reported to the Agricultural Society Monday in the Memorial Hall. Total receipts were $3,073.05 and expenditures amounted to $3,060.23.

Mr. Beavis explained that some money was due from the rain insurance, but because many other fairs had been rained out, it would probably not be a large sum.



The rental of space to the local chapter of the IODE at the fair was discussed at length. Eventually it was unanimously voted that the $1 a foot rental be charged as originally agreed.

President Clarence Coons, J. L. Browne and Ralph Beavis were named to arrange for a dance to be held by the society in the near future.

Campbellford Plans On Good TVL Entry

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 27—(ENS). — Officials of the local hockey association can be depended on to provide the town with a real TVL hockey team this season. The question uppermost in the minds of fans has been, "Who will coach the local club?" This query cannot be answered at present, but public opinion seems to point to Toey Ibey who piloted the local TVL juvenine baseball team to victory, Toey being an old hockey player of note, knows all the tricks of the trade. Another strong point in his favor is his ability to get along with people.

The association reports that a fairly powerful aggregation will be iced this year. It is expected a number of junior puckists will have a chance to try out for a place on the team. Tennyson's brook can go on for ever, but not a hockey team.

YUGOSLAV "WAR GAMES" are played in earnest. With the the end of the Greek Civil War and rumors that Communist guerrillas are infiltrating Yugoslavia from Greece, this year's Yugoslav "war games" got even more serious attention than usual. Here a detachment of mechanized artillery, apparently of World War II vintage, rolls along a road under watchful eyes of Yugoslav officers, at left.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press

Buddy O'Connor and Don Raleigh, of New York Rangers, moved into a nine-way split for third place in the National Hockey League scoring race Wednesday night when they each chalked up two assists. Boston's Woody Dumart also climbed to the same rung of the scoring ladder with one assist. Ted Lindsay, Detroit, and Paul Ronty, Boston, continue to lead the pack with six points, one ahead of Metro Prystai, Chicago, Sid Smith, Toronto, and John Peirson, Boston.

The leaders:

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Attention all football points: "the toe" is sharp as a tack these days.

"That is putting it mildly since old man Ches McCance, one-time Winnipeg Blue Bomber ace and now with Montreal Alouettes, is top dog in the Big Four Football League scoring column.

A year ago football fans would have said it couldn't happen, certainly not to a nicer guy and not to a man who claims to be about 33 and is probably older than Jack Benny.

Not so this year. His educated toe has been booting converts one after another until at this writing he leads the league with 57 points in 10 games composed of three touchdowns, three field goals, three singles and 30 points in converts.

Manuel Ortiz, world bantamweight champion, floored Scotsman Jackie Paterson four times at Glasgow, Wednesday to win a 10-round, non-title decision over the former flyweight titleholder. Each weighed 124 pounds.

The outdoor bout was fought before 15,000 chilled fans at Hampden Park football grounds.

Bill Veeck, Cleveland Indians president, Wednesday confirmed reports he will remarry as soon as he receives a final divorce papers.

Speaking by telephone from Chicago, he told Cleveland reporters he will be married to Mary Frances Ackerman. Miss Ackerman, a former model, has been public relations representative for the "Ice Capades" for the last six years. She now is in Toronto.

"It all depends upon how soon my divorce goes through," Veeck said, "but we hope to be married within the next six weeks, probably here in Chicago."

Mexico came back with a bang Wednesday to outlast Chile in a spectacular jumping relay event at the Pennsylvania National Horse Show at Harrisburg, Pa.

The team victory for the Mexican contingent took some of the sting out of surprise defeat at the hands of Maj. Pelayo Izurieta of Chile for the individual military championship Tuesday night.

Led by Col. Humberto Mariles, the 1948 Olympic champion Mexican quartet relayed the baton over an eight-obstacle course in three minutes and 19½ seconds, with only three jumping errors.

The Canadian team comprised Lieut. Thomas Gayford on Chambarro; Lieut. R. W. Ballard on Skip Across; Maj. Gordon Gayford on Gamain; and Maj. Charles Baker on Dragoon. All are from Toronto. Two Canadian horses placed in the top 10 of the $2,000 working hunter stakes. Times Square, owned by Cardy Farms, Val David, Que., was third and East Yellowknife, owned by Yellowknife stables, Unionville, Ont., was seventh.

Joe Kuhel, recently released as Washington Senators' manager after a two-year term, signed at New York Wednesday to manage Kansas City Blues, New York Yankee farm of the American Association. Kuhel, a veteran major league first baseman from 1930 to 1947, replaces Bill Skiff who bossed the Blues last summer.

Sidney Smith, United Kingdom's billiards champion, Wednesday defeated George Chenier of Toronto 27-10 in their 37-frame heat of the News of the World £1,500 ($4,650) snooker handicap tournament at London. Chenier, Canadian snooker champion, dropped his first match in the round-robin tournament to Peter Mans of South Africa.

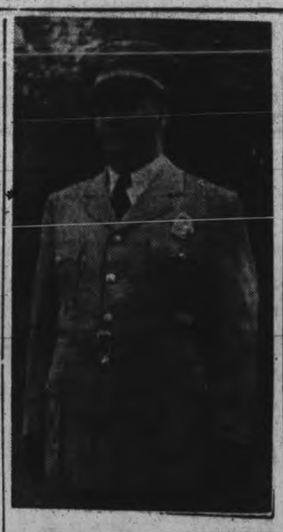
Balfour Charges Toronto Church Centre For Reds

TORONTO, Oct. 27 — (CP).—Controller David Balfour Wednesday described Bathurst Street United Church as "a centre of Communism" in this city, an accusation that was immediately denied by the church's pastor, Rev. Gordon Domm.

Mr. Balfour told the Board of Control that he based his charge on an incident during a forum debate in which he opposed Communist Stewart Smith, former Controller. Mr. Balfour said he was booed while Mr. Smith was applauded.

Referring to the forum, the Controller said the atmosphere of the church, "from the gallery to the floor," was Communist. He charged that the church had been a Communist centre for years

Replied Mr. Domm in a statement:



"I categorically and unequivocally deny Controller Balfour's unwarranted attack as having no foundation in fact. The record of Bathurst Street United Church is open for inspection by any and all men...."

The discussion arose when the Board of Control by a 2-1 vote rejected a request for a $5,000 grant for the Beanery Gang, a youth group now known as the Bathurst Community Club. The question of a grant goes to City Council next Monday.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Jimmy McLarnin, Belfast-born battler who migrated to Vancouver, became a naturalized United States citizen 15 years ago today. One of the hardest-hitting welterweights, McLarnin became champion in 1934. Charlie (Pop) Foster, born in Leeds, England, and manager of McLarnin, also became a U.S. citizen.

POLICE CHIEF Alderic Noel of Dorval, Que., was credited with saving the life of a 35-year-old Montreal Airport employee this week when he kept calling through the smoke in a burning house in case there was someone inside. The man who was saved was Walter Arnold, and was found asleep during the blaze.

Course For Firemen

TORONTO, Oct. 27—(CP)—A three-day training course for fire department officials opened here Wednesday at the University of Toronto. The course, sponsored by the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs and the Ontario Fire Marshal's office, featured studies of fire hazards for the first day.

Ship Burning

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27—(AP)—A Chinese passenger ship is burning between Formosa and the Chinese mainland, Globe Wireless reported today. An SOS was intercepted from the Kiangyuan. The captain of the ship messaged. "We have no fresh water. Can't get going. Burning. Want to get passengers off."

CITY CARPETBALL

Results of the first week's play are as follows:

Big Bens clashed with that veteran skip A. Sims and split the points, Big Bens 12-3 St. George's 9-14.

Our new entry, Quaker Oats, fell before the attack of the wily SOE team by scores of 17-8, 17-9. Legion No. 5 jumped ahead of Legion No. 6 by taking both games 13-8, 18-4.

King Billie and his Orange Squeezers were almost squashed dry by the Old Soldiers 9-9 and 13-12 both close games. Glens put up a strong front but were outflanked in the last end to lose both games 17-5 and 13-8 to the Treasurers.

QUEEN'S HONORS WAR DEAD—This large recreation hall, replacing a smaller structure which was destroyed by fire two years ago, will be opened by Governor-General Alexander next Sunday to honor Queen's University students who died in two world wars. More than 350 of the 4,500 Queen's students and alumni who served in the two wars were killed in action.

Samaritan Relic Sheds Light On Ancient Seat

By ERIC GOTTGETREU

JERUSALEM, — (AP) — The archaeological remains of the oldest-known Samaritan synagogue in the Holy Land have just been excavated by Prof. Eliezer Sukenik of the Jerusalem Hebrew University. The find was made near the village of Salbit between the Judean mountains and the Mediterranean coast.

On the newly-drawn political map of Palestine, Salbit is situated near the borderline of Israel and Arab-held territory, just as the last Samaritans in Palestine today constitute a sort of racial and religious borderline.

The tiny synagogue, built in the fourth century A. D., contains a mosaic floor with Biblical quotations in Samaritan Hebrew script and in Greek, Prof. Sukenik said.

Inlaid in the floor also is a seven-branched Jewish candlestick flanking a mountain—probably Mount Gerizim on the top of which the Samaritans are supposed to have built their holy temple 2,500 years ago.

The Salbit synagogue, orientated toward Mount Gerizim, is now regarded as the oldest-known archaeological proof for the great historic past of this ancient sect, not of Israelite origin but of a very orthodox Hebrew faith.

Soldiers Find Hints

The first pointers which led to the important discovery in the Salbit area near Latrun (the Biblical valley of Aijalon) came from Israeli soldiers who fought one of the bigger battles of the Arab-Jewish war there.

Although the war is not officially over and Arab legion troops of King Abdullah's Hashemite Jordan are facing Jewish guards near the historic site, the present armistice, honored by all concerned, has allowed digging to be carried out.

Under Prof. Sukenik's direction, these were undertaken on behalf of the Museum of Jewish Antiquities of the Hebrew University and financed by a donation from Louis M. Rabinowitz of New York for the research of ancient synagogues in the Middle East.

Deciphers Scrolls

Prof. Sukenik, now helping to decipher the more than 2,000 year-old Bible scrolls found two years ago by Bedouins in a cave near the Dead Sea, believes some important conclusions can be drawn from the Salbit excavations.

Originally, it is thought, the Samaritans were Assyrian colonizers who came to Palestine about 2,600 years ago. That they are descendants of one of the 10 lost tribes of Israel is one of the many legends surrounding the Exodus. The Samaritans accepted the Israel-Jewish faith but they based their rites on a version of the Pentateuch, which they say was written down only 13 years after Moses' death.

Rejecting mixed marriages of any kind and not always successful politically, their numbers have dwindled in the course of centuries. Up to a few decades ago, the Samaritans always remained in Sichem-Nablus, the town of Jacob's well. The last 200 Samaritans stayed in Nablus even during the Arab-Jewish war.

They speak Arabic and, as a matter of fact, a number of Samaritan traditions have been accepted by Islam, the religion of most Arabs, since its inception over 1,300 years ago.

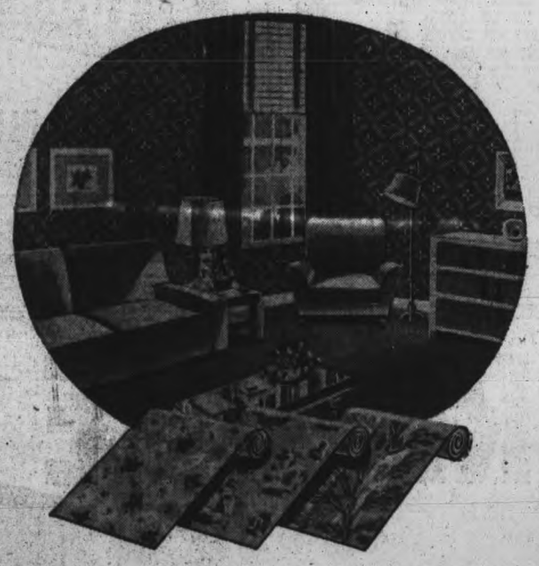
Runs Into Car

PEMBROKE, Oct. 27 (CP) — Murray Lapierre, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Lapierre, was killed Wednesday when he darted from behind a bus into the path of an automobile. Eye-witnesses said the youngster stepped off an eastbound bus on Highway 17 in Pembroke's lower town district. They said the boy ran around the rear of the bus and directly into the path of a west-bound auto driven by Lawrence Edmunds, 43, of Cobden, Ont.

MAKE THIS TASTE TEST AT HOME

COMPARE ANY SOUP WITH HEINZ AND DISCOVER THE FLAVOUR DIFFERENCE

If you have been relying on any other brand of soup for the utmost in flavour and nourishment, you are likely to be surprised and delighted when you have made a comparison with Heinz.



Dietitians, who are supposed to know most about the good qualities of soup, lately registered a higher preference for Heinz than did a group of housewives. A taste-test in your own home may result in the same verdict. Simply heat a tin of Heinz Cream of Tomato Soup and a tin of any other brand. Serve half-helpings of each. Then take a vote. When your family has tasted the wonderful difference it will probably be two to one for Heinz.

Buy a few tins of Heinz Condensed Soups next time you shop. Compare them at the same meal with any other brand.
